PREFACE.

THE COMPILER, in this volume of the "MANUAL," can confidently say, that in the interest of its matter and illustrations, it is at least equally meritorious with any of its predecessors. The fact that during so many successive years, there have been presented to the study and inspection of the community new illustrations of the scenes and events of the past in our city, which but for the MANUAL would have quietly slept in the portfolios of private citizens, is one of the proofs of the general interest taken in historical subjects, where a proper medium for their publication and dissemination is afforded. The Compiler, indeed, thinks it not too much to say that the history of our city in its domestic and local details has been, through this source, made an invaluable inheritance to the historical student, as well as to those who may feel the natural interest in the subject arising from local attachment.

The statistical matter of this volume is somewhat more full than usual, and particular attention has been paid to its accuracy.

D. T. VALENTINE,

CHARTER OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

GEORGE, the Second, by the grace of God, of Great Britain, France, and Ireland, king, defender of the faith, &c. To all whom these present letters shall come, greeting :

Whereas, on the twenty-second day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred eighty and six, Thomas Dongan, then lieutenant-governor and vice-admiral of New York and its dependencies, under our predecessor, James (the second), then king of England, &c., did make and execute a certain grant, or instrument in writing, under the seal of the province of New York, in these words following :

1. Thomas Dongan, lieutenant-governor and vice-admiral of New York and its dependencies, under his majesty James (the second), by the grace of God, of England, Scotland, France, and Ireland, king, defender of the faith, supreme lord and proprietor of the colony and province of New York, and its dependencies in America, &c. To all to whom this shall come sendeth greeting :—Whereas, the city of New York is an ancient city within the said province, and the citizens of the said city have anciently been a body politic and corporate ; and the citizens of the said city have held, used, and enjoyed, as well within the same as elsewhere in the said province, divers and sundry rights, liberties, privileges, franchises, free customs, pre-eminences, advantages, jurisdictions, emoluments, and immunities, as well by prescription as by charter, letters patent, grants, and confirmations, not only of divers governors and commanders-in-chief, in the said province, but also of several governors, directors, generals, and commanders-in-chief, of the Nether Dutch Nation, whilst the same was, or has been under their power and subjection. And whereas, divers lands, tenements, and hereditaments, jurisdictions, liberties, immunities and privileges have heretofore been given and granted, or mentioned to be given and granted, to the citizens and inhabitants of the said city, sometimes by the name of schout, burgomasters, and schepens of the city of New Amsterdam; and sometimes by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York; sometimes by the name of the mayor, aldermen, and sheriff of the city of New York; sometimes by the name of the mayor and aldermen of the city of New York: and by divers other names, as by their several letters patent, charters, grants, writings, records, and muniments, amongst other things, may fully appear. And whereas the citizens and inhabitants of the said city have erected, built, and appropriated, at their own proper costs and charges, several public buildings, accommodations, and conveniences for the said city, That is to say, the city hall, or stat-house, with the ground thereunto belonging, two market-houses, the bridge into the dock, the wharves or docks, with their appurtenances, and the new burial-place without the gate of the city, and have established and settled one ferry from the said city of New York to Long Island, for the accommodation and convenience of passengers, the said citizens and travelers.

And whereas, several of the inhabitants of the said city, and of Manhattan's Island, do hold from and under his most sacred majesty respectively, as well by several and respective letters patent, grants, charters, and conveyances, made and granted by the late lieutenants, governors, or commanders-in-chief of the said province, as otherwise several and respective messuages, lands, tenements, and hereditaments upon Manhattan's Island, and in the city of New York, aforesaid, and as well as the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the said city, and their successors, as also the inhabitants of the said Manhattan's Island, and the city of New York, aforesaid, and their heirs and assigns respectively, may hold, exercise, and enjoy, not only such and the same liberties, privileges, and franchises, rights, royalties, free-customs, jurisdictions, and immunities, as they have anciently had, used, held, and enjoyed; but also such public buildings, accommodations, conveniences, messuages, tenements, lands, and hereditaments, in the said city of New York, and upon Manhattan's Island aforesaid, which, as aforesaid, have been by the citizens and inhabitants erected and built, or which have, as aforesaid, been held, enjoyed, granted, and conveyed unto them, or any of them, respectively.

2. Know ye therefore, That I, the said Thomas Dongan, by virtue of the commission and authority unto me given, and power in me residing, at the humble petition of the now mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York, and for divers other good causes and considerations, me thereunto moving, have given, granted, ratified, and confirmed, and by these presents, for and on the behalf of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs, successors, and assigns, do give, grant, ratify, and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the said city, all and every such and the same liberties, privileges, franchises, rights, royalties, free customs, jurisdictions, and immunities, which they by the name of the mayor and commonalty, or otherwise, have anciently had, held, used, or enjoyed: Provided always, That none of the said liberties, privileges, franchises, rights, free-customs, jurisdictions, or immunities be inconsistent with, or repugnant to the laws of his majesty's kingdom of England, or any other of the laws of the General Assembly of this province; and the aforesaid public buildings, accommodations, and conveniences in the said city, That is to say, The aforesaid city-hall, or stat-house, with the ground thereunto belonging, two market-houses, the bridge into the dock, the wharves or dock, the said new burial-place, and the aforementioned ferry, with their and every of their rights, members, and appurtenances, together with all the profits, benefits and advantages which shall or may accrue and arise at all times hereafter, for dockage or wharfage, within the said dock, with all and singular the rents, issues, profits, gains, and advantages, which shall or may arise, grow, or accrue by the said city hall or stat-house, and ground thereunto belonging, market-houses, bridge, dock, burying-place, ferry, and other the above-mentioned premises, or any of them; and also, all and every the streets, lanes, highways and alleys within the said city of New York and Manhattan's Island aforesaid, for the public use and service of the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, and of the inhabitants of Manhattan's Island aforesaid, and travelers there; together with full power, license and authority to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty, and their successors forever, to establish, appoint, order, and direct the establishing, making, laying out, ordering, amending and repairing of all streets, lanes; alleys, highways, water-courses, ferry and bridges, in and throughout the said city of New York and Manhattan's Island, aforesaid, necessary, needful and convenient for the inhabitants of the said city, and Manhattan's Island aforesaid, and for all travelers and passengers there; Provided always, That this said license so as above granted, for the establishing, making, laying out of streets, lanes, alleys, highways, ferries, and bridges, be not extended, or be construed to extend to the taking away of any person or persons' right of property, without his, her, or their consent, or by some known law of the said province. And for the considerations aforesaid, I do likewise give, grant, ratify, and confirm unto all and every the respective inhabitants of the said city of New York, and of Manhattan's Island aforesaid, and their several and respective heirs, and assigns, all and every the several and respective messuages, tenements, lands, and hereditaments, situate, lying, and being in the said city, and Manhattan's Island aforesaid, to them severally and respectively granted, conveyed and confirmed, by any of the late governors, lieutenants, or commanders-in-chief, of the said province, or by any of the former mayors and aldermen of the said city of New York, by deed, grant, conveyance, or otherwise howsoever; To hold to their several and respective heirs and assigns forever.

3. And I do, by these presents, give and grant unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York, all the waste, vacant, unpatented and unappropriated lands, lying and being within the said city of New York and on Manhattan's Island aforesaid, extending and reaching to the low-water mark, in, by and through all parts of the said city of New York, and Manhattan's Island aforesaid, together with all rivers, rivulets, coves, creeks, ponds, waters, and water-courses in the said city and island, or either of them, not heretofore given or granted, by any of the former governors, lieutenants, or commanders-in-chief, under their or some of their hands and seals, or seal of the province, or by any of the former mayors or deputy mayors and aldermen of the said city of New York, to some respective person or persons, late inhabitants of the said city of New York, or Manhattan's Island, or of other parts of the said province.

And I do, by these presents, give, grant, and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York, and their successors forever, the royalties of fishing, fowling, hunting, hawking, minerals and other royalties and privileges, belonging or appertaining to the city of New York, and Manhattan's Island aforesaid (gold and silver mines only excepted), to have, hold, and enjoy all and singular the premises, to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York, and their successors, forever, rendering and paying therefor, unto his most sacred majesty, his heirs, successors or assigns, or to such officer or officers, as shall be appointed to receive the same yearly forever hereafter, the annual quit-rent or acknowledgment of one beaver skin, or the value thereof, in current money of this province, in the said city of New York, on the five-and-twentieth day of March, yearly forever.

4. And, moreover, I will, and by these presents do grant, appoint, and declare that the said city of New York, and the compass, precincts, and limits thereof, and the jurisdiction of the same, shall from henceforth extend and reach itself, and may and shall be able to reach forth and extend itself, as well in length and in breadth as in circuit, to the farthest extent of, and in, and throughout all the said Island Manhattan's, and in and upon all the rivers, rivulets, coves, creeks, waters and water-courses, belonging to the same island, as far as low-water mark. And I do also, for and on behalf of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, firmly enjoin and command, that the aforesaid mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city aforesaid, and their successors, shall and may freely and quietly have, hold, use, and enjoy, the aforesaid liberties, authorities, jurisdictions, franchises, rights, royalties, privileges, exemptions, lands, tenements, hereditaments and premises aforesaid, in manner and form aforesaid, according to the tenor and effect of the aforesaid grants, patents, customs, and letters patent of grant and confirmations, without the let, hindrance or impediment of me, or any of my successors, governors, lieutenants, or other officers whatsoever.

5. And also, I do, for and on the behalf of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, grant to the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York, and their successors, by these presents, that for the better government of the said city, liberties and precincts thereof, there shall be forever hereafter within the said city, a mayor and recorder, town clerk, and six aldermen, and six assistants, to be appointed, nominated, elected, chosen and sworn, as hereinafter is particularly and respectively mentioned, who shall be forever hereafter called, the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York; and that there shall be forever one chamberlain, or treasurer, one sheriff, one coroner, one clerk of the market, one high constable, seven sub-constables, and one marshal or sergeant-at-mace, to be appointed, chosen, and sworn, in manner hereinafter mentioned.

6. And I do, by these presents, for and on the behalf of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs, successors, and assigns, declare, constitute, grant and appoint, that the mayor, recorder, aldermen and assistants of the said city of New York, for the time being, and they which hereafter shall be the mayor, recorder, and aldermen, and assistants of the said city of New York, for the time being, and their successors, forever hereafter be, and shall be, by force of these presents, one body corporate and politic, in deed, fact and name, by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York; and them by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, one body corporate and politic, in deed, fact and name, I do really and fully create, ordain, make, constitute, and confirm by these presents; and that, by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, they may have perpetual succession; and that they, and their successors, forever, by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, be, and shall be, forever hereafter, persons able, and in law capable, to have, get, receive, and possess lands, tenements, rents, liberties, jurisdictions, franchises and hereditaments to them and their successors, in fee-simple, or for term of life, lives, or years, or otherwise; and also goods and chattels; and also other things, of what nature, kind, or quality soever; and also to give, grant, let, set, and assign the same lands, tenements, hereditaments, goods and chattels; and to do and execute all other things about the same, by the name aforesaid. And also that they be, and forever shall be hereafter, persons able in law, capable to plead and be impleaded, answer and be answered unto, defend and be defended, in all or any of the courts of his said majesty, and other places whatsoever, and before any judges, justices, and other person or persons whatsoever, in all and all manner of actions, suits, complaints, demands, pleas, causes, and matters, whatsoever, of what nature, kind, or quality soever, in the same, and in the like manner and form as other people o the said province, being persons able, and in law capable, may plead and be impleaded, answer and be answered unto, defend and be defended by any lawful ways and means whatsoever ; and that the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the said city of New York, and their successors, shall and may, forever hereafter, have one common seal to serve for the sealing of all and singular their affairs, and businesses touching or concerning the said corporation. And it shall and may be lawful to and for the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the said city of New York, and their successors, as they shall see cause, to break, change, alter, and new-make their said common seal, when, and as often as to them it shall be convenient.

7. And further, know ye, That I have assigned, named, ordained, and constituted, and, by these presents, do assign, name, ordain, and constitute, Nicholas Bayard, now mayor of the said city of New York, to be present mayor of the said city ; and that the said Nicholas Bayard shall remain and continue in the office of mayor there, until another fit person shall be appointed and sworn in the said office, according to the usage and custom of the said city ; and as in and by these presents is hereafter mentioned and directed. And I have assigned, named, ordained, and constituted, and by these presents do assign, name, ordain, and constitute, create and declare James Graham, Esq., to be the present recorder of the said city ; to do and execute all things which unto the said office of recorder of the said city doth, or may in anywise appertain or belong. And I have assigned, named, ordained, and constituted, and by these presents, do assign, name, ordain, constitute, create, and declare John West, Esq., town clerk of the said city ; to do and execute all things which unto the office of town clerk may anywise appertain or belong. And I have named, assigned, constituted, and made, and by these presents do assign, name, constitute, and make Andrew Brown, John Robinson, William Beekman, John Delaval, Abraham De Peyster, and Johannes Kip, citizens and inhabitants of the said city of New York, to be the present aldermen of the said city. And, also, I have made, assigned, named, and constituted, and by these presents do assign, name, constitute, and make Nicholas De Meyer, Johannes Van Brugh, John De Brown, Teunis De Key, Abraham Corbit, and Wolfert Webber, citizens and inhabitants of the said city, to be the present assistants of the said city. And, also, I have assigned, chosen, named, and constituted, and by these presents do assign, choose, name, and constitute Peter De Lanoy, citizen and inhabitant of the said city, to be the present chamberlain or treasurer of the city aforesaid. And I have assigned, named, constituted, and appointed, and by these presents do assign, name, constitute, and appoint John Knight, Esq., one other of the said citizens there, to be present sheriff of the said city, and have assigned, named, constituted, and appointed, and by these presents do assign, name, constitute, and appoint Jarvis Marshal, one other of the said citizens there, to be the present marshal of the said city. And I do, by these presents, grant to the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the said city of New York, and their successors, that the mayor, recorder, aldermen, and assistants of the said city for the time being, or the mayor, recorder, and any three or more of the aldermen, and any three or more of the assistants, for the time being, be and shall be called the common council of the said city, and that they, or the greater part of them, shall or may have full power and authority, by virtue of these presents, from time to time, to call and hold common council, within the common council house, or city hall of the said city; and there, as occasion shall be, to make laws, orders, ordinances, and constitutions, in writing; and to add, alter, diminish, or reform them, from time to time, as to them shall seem necessary and convenient (not repugnant to the prerogative of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, or to any of the laws of the kingdom of England, or other the laws of the general Assembly of the province of New York), for the good rule, oversight, correction, and government of the said city and liberties of the same, and of all the officers thereof, and for the several tradesmen, victuallers, artificers, and of all other the people and inhabitants of the said city, liberties, and precincts aforesaid, and for the better preservation of government, and disposal of all the lands, tenements, and hereditaments, goods and chattels of the said corporation; which laws, orders, ordinances, and constitutions shall be binding to all the inhabitants of the said city, liberties, and precincts aforesaid; and which laws, orders, ordinances, and constitutions, so by them made, as aforesaid, shall be and remain in force for the space of three months, and no longer, unless they shall be allowed of, and confirmed by the governor and council for the time being. And I do further, on the behalf of his sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, appoint and grant, that the said common council of the said city, for the time being, as often as they make, ordain, and establish such laws, orders, ordinances, and constitutions, as aforesaid, shall or may make, ordain, limit, provide, set, impose, and tax reasonable fines and amerciaments, against and upon all persons offending against such laws, orders, ordinances, and constitutions, as aforesaid, or any of them, to be made, ordained, and established as aforesaid, and the same fines and amerciaments shall and may require, demand, levy, take, and receive by warrants under the common seal, to and for the use and behoof of the mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the said city, and their successors, either by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender therein, if such goods and chattels may be found within the said city, liberties and precincts thereof, rendering to such offender and offenders the overplus, or by any other lawful ways or means whatsoever.

8. And I do, by these presents, appoint and ordain the assigning, naming and appointment of the mayor and sheriff of the said city, that it shall be as followeth (viz.), upon the feast day of St. Michael the Archangel, yearly, the lieutenant-governor or commander-in-chief, for the time being, by and with the advice of his council, shall nominate and appoint such person as he shall think fit to be mayor of the said city, for the year next ensuing; and one other person of sufficient ability and estate, and of good capacity in understanding, to be sheriff of the said city of New York for the year next ensuing; and that such person as shall be named, assigned, and appointed mayor, and such person as shall be named, assigned, and appointed sheriff of the said city, as aforesaid, shall, on the fourteenth day of October then next following, take their several and respective corporal oaths, before the governor and council, for the time being, for the due execution of their respective offices, as aforesaid; and that the said mayor and sheriff, so to be nominated, assigned, and appointed, as aforesaid, shall remain and continue in their said respective offices until another fit person shall be nominated, appointed, and sworn in the place of mayor; and one other person shall be nominated and appointed in the place of sheriff of the said city, in manner aforesaid. And further, That according to the now usage and custom of the said city, the recorder, town clerk, and clerk of the market of the said city, shall be persons of good capacity and understanding, and such persons as his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, shall, in the said respective offices of recorder, town clerk, and clerk of the market, appoint and commissionate; and for defect of such appointments and commissionating, by his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, to be such persons as the lieutenant-governor and commander-in-chief of the said province, for the time being, shall appoint and commissionate; which persons so commissioned to the said offices of recorder, town clerk, and clerk of the market, shall have, hold, and enjoy the said offices, according to the tenor and effect of their said commissions, and not otherwise. And further, That the recorder, town clerk, clerk of the market, aldermen, assistants, chamberlain, high constable, petty constables, and all other officers of the said city, before they, or any of them, shall be admitted to enter upon and execute their respective offices, shall be sworn faithfully to execute the same, before the mayor, or any three or more of the aldermen for the time being. And I do, by these presents, for and on behalf of his most sacred majesty, his heirs and successors, grant and give power and authority to the mayor and recorder of the said city, for the time being, to administer the same respective oaths to them accordingly. And further, I do, by these presents, grant, for and on behalf of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, that the mayor and recorder of the said city, for the time being, and three or more of the aldermen of the said city, not exceeding five, shall be justices and keepers of the peace of his most sacred majesty, his heirs and successors, and justices to hear and determine matters and causes within the said city and liberties, and precincts thereof; and that they, or any three or more of them, whereof the mayor and recorder, or one of them, for the time being, to be there, shall and may forever hereafter have power and authority, by virtue of these presents, to hear and determine all and all manner of petty larcenies, riots, routs, oppressions and extortions, and other trespasses and offences whatsoever, within the said city of New York, and the liberties and precincts aforesaid, from time to time arising and happening, and which arise or happen and any ways belonging to the offices of justices of the peace, and the correction and punishment of the offences aforesaid, and every of them, according to the laws of England, and the laws of the said province; and to do and execute all other things in the said city, liberties and precincts aforesaid, so fully and in ample manner, as to the commissioners assigned, and to be assigned for the keeping of the peace in the said county of New York, doth or may belong.

9. And, moreover, I do by these presents, for and on the behalf of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, appoint, that the aldermen, assistants, high constable, and petty constables, within the said city, be yearly chosen on the feast day of St. Michael the Archangel, forever (viz.), one alderman, one assistant, and one constable, for each respective ward, and one constable for each division of the out ward, in such public place in the said respective wards as the aldermen, for the time being, for each ward, shall direct and appoint; and that the aldermen, assistants, and petty constables, be chosen by majority of voices of the inhabitants of each ward; and that the high constable be appointed by the mayor of the said city for the time being; and that the chamberlain shall be yearly chosen, on the said feast day, in the said city hall of the said city, by the mayor and aldermen and assistants, or by the mayor, or three or more of the aldermen, and three or more of the assistants of the said city, for the time being. And I do, by these presents, constitute and appoint the said John West to be the present town clerk, clerk of the peace, and clerk of the court of pleas, to be holden before the mayor, recorder, and aldermen, within the said city and the liberties and precincts thereof. And further, I do by these presents, for and on behalf of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, require and strictly charge and command, that the sheriff, town clerk, clerk of the peace, high constable, petty constables, and all other subordinate officers in the said city, for the time being, and every of them respectively, jointly and severally, as cause shall require, shall attend upon the said mayor, recorder, and aldermen of the said city, for the time being, and every or any of them, according to the duty of their respective places, in and about the executing of such the commands, precepts, warrants and processes of them and every of them, as belongeth or appertaineth to be done or executed; and that the aforesaid mayor, recorder and aldermen, and every of them, as justices of the peace for the time being, by their or any of their warrants, all and every person and persons, for high treason or petty treason, or for suspicion thereof, or for other felonies whatsoever, and all malefactors, and disturbers of the peace, and other offenders for other misdemeanors, who shall be apprehended within the said city, or liberties thereof, shall and may send and commit, or cause to be sent and committed, to the common gaol of the said city, there to remain and be kept in safe custody, by the keeper of the said gaol, or his deputy, for the time being, until such offender and offenders shall be lawfully delivered thence. And I do, by these presents, for and on behalf of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, charge and require the keeper and keepers of the said gaol, for the time being, and his and their deputy and deputies, to receive, take, and in safe custody to keep, all and singular such person and persons so apprehended, or to be apprehended, sent and committed to the said gaol, by warrant of the said justices, or any of them, as aforesaid, until he and they so sent and committed to the said gaol, shall from thence be delivered by due course of law.

10. And further, I do grant and confirm, for and on the behalf of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, that the said mayor of the said city, for the time being, and no other (according to the usage and custom practised in the said city of New York, in the times of my predecessors, the several lieutenants, governors, and commanders-in-chief, of this province), shall have power and authority, to give and grant licenses annually, under the public seal of the said city, to all tavern-keepers, inn-keepers, ordinary-keepers, victuallers, and all public sellers of wine, strong waters, cider, beer, or any other sort of liquors, by retail within the city aforesaid, Manhattan's Island, or their liberties and precincts thereof; and it shall and may be lawful to and for the said mayor of the said city, for the time being, to ask, demand, and receive, for such license, by him to be given and granted as aforesaid, such sum or sums of money as he and the person to whom such license shall be given or granted, as shall agree for, not exceeding the sum of thirty shillings for each license. All which money, as by the said mayor shall be so received, shall be used and applied to the public use of the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York, and their successors, without any account thereof to be rendered, made or done to any of the lieutenants or governors of this province, for the time being, or any of their deputies.

11. And know ye, That for the better government of the said city, and for the welfare of the said citizens, tradesmen, and inhabitants thereof, I do by these presents, for and on the behalf of his most sacred majesty, his heirs and successors, give and grant to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, and their successors, that the mayor, recorder and aldermen, or the mayor and any three or more of the aldermen, for the time being, shall, from time to time, and at all times hereafter, have full power and authority, under the common seal, to make free citizens, of the said city and liberties thereof; and no person or persons whatsoever, other than such free citizens, shall hereafter use any art, trade, mystery, or manual occupation, within the said city, liberties and precincts thereof, saving in the times of fairs there to be kept, and during the continuance of such fairs only. And in case any person or persons whatsoever, not being free citizens of the said city, as aforesaid, shall at any time hereafter, use or exercise any art, trade, mystery or manual occupation, or shall, by himself, themselves, or others, sell or expose to sale, any manner of merchandise, or wares whatsoever, by retail, in any house, shop, or place, or standing within the said city, or the liberties or precincts thereof: no fair being then kept in the said city, and shall persist therein, after warning to him or them given, or left by the appointment of the mayor of the said city, for the time being, at the place or places where such person or persons shall so use or exercise any art, trade, mystery or manual occupation; or shall sell or expose to sale any wares or merchandises, as aforesaid, by retail; then it shall be lawful for the mayor of the said city, for the time being, to cause such shop-windows to be shut up, and also to impose such reasonable fine for such offence, not exceeding five pounds for every respective offence; and the same fine and fines so imposed, to levy and take by warrant, under the common seal of the said city, for the time being, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the person or persons so offending in the premises, found within the liberties or precincts of the said city, rendering to the party or parties the overplus; or by any other lawful ways or means whatsoever, to the only use of the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York, and their successors, without any account to be rendered, made or done, to the lieutenants, governors, or commanders-in-chief of this province for the same: Provided, That no person or persons shall be made free as aforesaid, but such as are his majesty's natural born subjects, or such as shall first be naturalized by act of general assembly; or shall have obtained letters of denization under the hand of the lieutenant-governor or commander-in-chief, for the time being, and the seal of the province: and that all persons to be made free as aforesaid, shall and do pay for the public use of the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, such sum and sums of money as heretofore hath been used and accustomed to be paid and received on their being admitted freemen as aforesaid: Provided, It is not exceeding the sum of five pounds.

12. And further, I do by these presents, for and on behalf of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, grant to the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, that they and their successors be forever persons able and capable, and shall have power to purchase, have, take, and possess, in fee-simple, lands, tenements, rents and other possessions, within or without the same city; to them and their successors forever, so as the same exceed not the yearly value of one thousand pounds per annum, the statute of Mortmain or any other law to the contrary notwithstanding: and the same lands, tenements, hereditaments and premises, or any part thereof, to demise, grant, lease, set over, assign and dispose, at their own will and pleasure; and to make, seal and accomplish, any deed or deeds, lease or leases, evidences or writings, for or concerning the same, or any part thereof, which shall happen to be made and granted by the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, for the time being.

13. And further, I do by these presents, for and on behalf of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, grant to the said mayor aldermen and commonalty, that they and their successors shall, and may forever hereafter, hold and keep within the said city, in every week of the year, three market days, the one upon Tuesday, the other upon Thursday, and the other upon Saturday, weekly forever.

14. And also, I do by these presents, for and on the behalf of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, grant, to the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, that they and their successors and assigns, shall and may at any time or times hereafter, when it to them shall seem fit and convenient, take in, fill and make up, and lay out, all and singular the lands and grounds in and about the said city, and Island Manhattan's, and the same to build upon, or make use of, in any other manner or way, as to them shall seem fit, as far into the rivers thereof, and that encompass the same, at low-water mark aforesaid.

15. And I do, by these presents, for and on the behalf of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, give and grant unto the aforesaid mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York, and their successors, that they and their successors shall and may have, hold and keep, within the said city and liberties, and precincts thereof, in every week in every year forever, upon Tuesday, one court of common pleas, for all actions of debts, trespass, trespass upon the case, detinue, ejectment, and other personal actions; and the same to be held before the mayor, recorder, and aldermen, or any three of them, whereof the mayor or recorder to be one, who shall have power to hear and determine the same pleas and actions, according to the rules of the common law, and acts of the general assembly of the said province.

16. And I do, by these presents, for and on behalf of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs and successors, grant to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York, and their successors, that the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, and their successors, shall have and enjoy all the privileges, franchises, and powers that they have and use, or that any of their predecessors, at any time within the space of twenty years last past, had, took, or enjoyed, or ought have had, by reason, or under any pretence of any former charter, grant, prescription, or any other right, custom or usage, although the same have been forfeited, lost, or have been ill-used, or not used, or abused, or discontinued, albeit they be not particularly mentioned; and that no officer shall disturb them therein under any pretence whatsoever, not only for their future, but their present enjoyment thereof; provided always that the said privileges, franchises and powers be not inconsistent with or repugnant to the laws of his majesty's kingdom of England, or other the laws of the general assembly of this province, as aforesaid. And saving to his most sacred majesty aforesaid, his heirs, successors and assigns, and the lieutenants, governors, and commanders-in-chief, and other officers under him, and them in Fort James, in or by the city of New York, and in all the liberties, boundaries, extents, privileges thereof, for the maintenance of the said fort or garrison there, all the right, use, title and authority which they or any of them have had, used or exercised there; and also, one messuage or tenement next the city hall, and one messuage by the fort, now in the possession of Thomas Coker, gent. The piece of ground by the gate, called the governor's garden, and the land without the gate, called the king's farm, with the swamp next to the same land by the fresh water; and saving the several rents and quit-rents reserved, due and payable from several persons inhabiting within the said city and Island Manhattan's, by virtue of former grants to them made and given, and saving to all other persons, bodies politic and corporate, their heirs, successors and assigns, all such right, title and claim, possessions, rents, services, commons, emoluments, interest in and to anything which is their's (save only the franchises aforesaid), in as ample manner as if this charter had not been made.

17. And further, I do appoint and declare, that the incorporation to be founded by this charter, shall not at any time hereafter do or suffer to be done anything by means whereof the lands, tenements or hereditaments, stock, goods or chattels thereof, or in the hands, custody, possession of any of the citizens of the said city, such as have been set, let, given, granted or collected, to and for pious and charitable uses, shall be wasted or misemployed contrary to the trust or intent of the founder or giver thereof, and that such and no other construction shall be made thereof, than that which may tend most to advantage religion, justice, and the public good; and to suppress all acts and contrivances to be invented, or put in use contrary thereto. In witness whereof, I have caused these presents to be entered in the secretary's office, and the seal of the said province to be hereunto affixed, this seven-and-twentieth day of April, in the second year of the reign of his most sacred majesty aforesaid, and in the year of our Lord God, one thousand six hundred and eighty-six.

THOMAS DONGAN.

By virtue, or under pretext whereof, the said citizens and inhabitants from the date thereof, hitherto have held or claim to hold and still do hold, or claim to hold and enjoy, all and singular the rights, privileges, franchises, pre-eminences, advantages, jurisdictions, courts, powers, profits, immunities, lands, tenements, hereditaments and other the premises therein particularly mentioned, and thereby intended to be granted. And whereas, the citizens and inhabitants of the said city of New York, besides the several public buildings, accommodations, conveniences and other things in the before recited grant or writing mentioned to have been by them erected, built and appropriated have, since the making thereof, built and appropriated at their own proper costs and charges, several public buildings, accommodations and conveniences for the said city, that is to say, the present city hall and gaols, rooms and places for the sitting of courts of justice and chambers adjoining, with the ground and appurtenances thereunto belonging, five market-houses, the present crane and bridge, with the common sewer leading through the great dock, and a magazine or powder-house near the fresh water, and several other public buildings and conveniences in the said city; and have built the new ferry-houses on the island of Nassau for the reception of travelers, with a barn, stables and pen, or pound for cattle. And whereas, our late royal predecessor, Queen Anne, by her letters patent, under the broad seal of the province of New York made, bearing date the nineteenth day of April, in the seventh year of her reign, did grant, ratify, and confirm unto the then mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, and to their successors and assigns, in these words following, to wit, Anne, by the grace of God, of England, Scotland, France, and Ireland, queen, defender of the faith, &c.: To all whom these presents may in any wise concern, sendeth greeting: Whereas, the mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, by their petition to our right trusty and well beloved cousin Edward Viscount Cornbury, our captain-general and governor-in-chief, in and over our province of New York and territories depending thereon in America, and vice-admiral of the same, &c., preferred in council; therein setting forth, that they have a right and interest, under divers ancient charters and grants by divers former governors and commanders-in-chief of our said province of New York, under our noble progenitors, in a certain ferry from the said city of New York, over the East river to Nassau Island (alias Long Island), and from the said island to the said city again, and have possessed the same, and received all the profits, benefits and advantages thereof, for the space of fifty years and upwards; and perceiving the profits, advantages, and benefits usually issuing out of the same to diminish, decrease and fall short of what might be reasonably made of the same, for the want of the bounds and limits to be extended and enlarged on the said island side, whereby to prevent divers persons from transporting themselves and goods to and from the said island Nassau (alias Long Island) over the said river, without coming or landing at the usual and accustomed places. where the ferry-boats are usually kept and appointed, to the great loss and damage of the said city of New York; have humbly prayed our grant and confirmation, under the great seal of our said province of New York, of the said ferry, called the Old ferry, on both sides of the East river, for the transporting of passengers, goods, horses and cattle to and from the said city, as the same is now held and enjoyed by the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the said city of New York, or their under-tenant or under-tenants; and also, of all the vacant and unappropriated land, from high-water mark to low-water mark, on the said Nassau Island (alias Long Island) lying contiguous and fronting the said city of New York, from a certain place called the Wall-about unto the Red Hook, over against Nutton Island, for the better improvement and accommodation of the said ferry; with full power, leave, and license to set up, establish, maintain, and keep one or more ferry or ferries, for the ease and accommodation of all passengers and travelers, for the transportation of themselves, goods, horses, and cattle over the said river, within the bounds aforesaid, as they shall see meet and convenient and occasion require; and to establish, ordain, and make by-laws, orders, and ordinances, for the due and orderly regulation of the same: The which petition we being minded to grant. Know ye, that of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion we have given, granted, ratified, and confirmed, and in and by these presents, for us, our heirs and successors, we do give, grant, ratify and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, and to their successors and assigns, all that the said ferry, called the Old ferry, on both sides of the said East river, for the transportation of passengers, goods, horses and cattle over the said river, to and from the said city and island, as the same is now used, held and enjoyed by the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, or their under-tenant or under-tenants, with all and singular the usual and accustomed ferriage fees, perquisites, rents, issues, profits and other benefits and advantages whatsoever, to the said Old ferry belonging, or therewith used, or thereout arising; and also, all that the aforesaid vacant and unappropriated ground lying and being on the said Nassau Island (alias Long Island) from high-water mark to low-water mark aforesaid, contiguous and fronting the said city of New York, from the aforesaid place called the Wall-about to Red Hook aforesaid; That is to say, from the east side of the Wall-about, opposite the now dwelling-house of James Bobine, to the west side of the Red Hook, commonly called the fishing place, with all and singular the appurtenances and hereditaments to the same, or any part or parcel thereof, belonging or in any wise of right appertaining; together with all and singular the rents, issues, profits, ways, waters, easements and all other benefits, profits, advantages, and appurtenances, which heretofore have, now are, and which hereafter shall belong, to the said ferry, vacant land and premises hereinbefore granted and confirmed, or to any or either of them in any wise appertaining, or which heretofore have been, now are, and which hereafter shall belong, be used, held, received and enjoyed; and all our estate, right, title and interest, benefit and advantage, claim and demand, of, in or to the said ferry, vacant land and premises, or any part or parcel thereof, and the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders, together with the yearly and other rents, revenues and profits of the premises, and of every part and parcel thereof; except and always reserved out of this our present grant and confirmation, free liberty, leave and license, to and for all and every person or persons, inhabiting or having plantations near the said river, by the water-side, within the limits and bounds above mentioned, to transport themselves, goods, horses, and cattle over the said river to and from the said city of New York and Nassau Island (alias Long Island) to and from their respective dwellings or plantations, without any ferriage or other account to the said ferry, hereby granted and confirmed to be paid or given; so always as the said person or persons do transport themselves only, and their own goods and in their own boats only, and not any stranger or their goods, horses or cattle, or in any other boat: To have and to hold, all and singular the said ferry, vacant land and premises hereinbefore granted and confirmed, or meant, mentioned or intended to be hereby granted and confirmed (except as is hereinbefore excepted), and all and singular the rents, issues, profits, rights, members and appurtenances to the same belonging or in any wise of right appertaining unto the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors and assigns forever; to the only proper use and behoof of the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors and assigns forever; to be holden of us, our heirs and successors in free and common socage, as of our manor of East Greenwich, in the county of Kent, within our kingdom of England; yielding, rendering and paying unto us, our heirs and successors for the same, yearly at our custom-house of New York, to our collector and receiver-general there, for the time being, at or upon the feast of the nativity of St. John the Baptist, the yearly rent or sum of five shillings, current money of New York.

And we do further, of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion, for us, our heirs and successors, give and grant unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty and their successors, full and free leave and license to set up, establish, keep and maintain one or more ferry or ferries, as they shall from time to time think fit and convenient, within the limits and bounds aforesaid, for the ease and accommodation of transporting of passengers, goods, horses and cattle, between the said city of New York and the said island (except as is hereinbefore excepted) under such reasonable rates and payments as have been usually paid and received for the same; or which at any time hereafter shall be by them established, by and with the consent and approbation of our governor and council of our said province for the time being. And we do further, of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion, give and grant unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York and their successors, full and absolute power and authority, to make, ordain, establish, constitute and confirm all manner of by-laws, orders, rules, ordinances and directions for the more orderly keeping and regularly maintaining the aforesaid ferry that is now kept, or any ferry or ferries which shall at any time or times hereafter be set up, established or kept within the bounds aforesaid, by virtue hereof, or of, for, touching or concerning the same (so always as the same be not contrary to our laws of England, and of our province of New York), and the same at all times hereafter to be put in execution, or abrogate, revoke or change as they in their good discretion shall think fit and most convenient for the due and orderly keeping, regulating and governing the said ferry or ferries hereinbefore mentioned.

And lastly, our will and pleasure is, and we do hereby declare and grant that these our letters patent or the record thereof, in the secretary's office of our said province of New York shall be good and effectual in the law to all intents and purposes whatsoever, notwithstanding the not true and well reciting or mentioning of the premises or any part thereof, or the limits and bounds thereof, or of any former or other letters patent, or other grants whatsoever, made or granted; or of any part thereof, by us or any of our progenitors, unto any person or persons whatsoever, bodies politic or corporate, or any law or other restraint, incertainty or imperfection whatsoever, to the contrary or in any wise notwithstanding, and although express mention of the true yearly value or certainty of the premises or any of them, or of any other gifts or grants by us or by any of our progenitors heretofore made to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of New York, in these presents, is not made, or any other matter, cause or thing whatsoever to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding. In testimony whereof, we have caused these our letters to be made patent, and the seal of our said province of New York to our said letters patent to be affixed, and the same to be recorded in the secretary's office of our said province. Witness our right trusty and well beloved cousin Edward Viscount Cornbury, captain-general and governor-in-chief in and over our province of New York aforesaid, and territories thereon depending in America, and vice-admiral of the same, &c., in council at our fort in New York, the nineteenth day of April, in the seventh year of our reign, Annoq. Domini one thousand seven hundred and eight.

By virtue, or under pretext whereof, the said inhabitants and citizens of the city of New York have held and enjoyed, or have claimed to hold and enjoy, and still do hold or claim to hold, the ferry, vacant land, perquisites, profits, privileges, powers and other premises in the before recited letters patent mentioned and intended to be thereby granted. And whereas, besides all the aforesaid particulars in the said grant or instrument made in the aforesaid year of our Lord one thousand six hundred eighty and six, and in the before recited letters patent of Queen Anne, mentioned or intended to be thereby granted, the citizens and inhabitants of the said city of New York have anciently held or claimed to hold, use and enjoy divers and sundry other rights, privileges, franchises, pre-eminences, advantages, jurisdictions, emoluments, powers, profits, immuni-ties, lands, tenements and other hereditaments, as well by prescription as by divers grants and confirmations of and from divers governors, lieutenant-governors and commanders-in-chief of the said province, by the name of mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and divers other names, styles and titles and otherwise.

And whereas, divers questions, doubts, opinions, ambiguities, controversies and debates have arisen and been made as well upon and concerning the validity and force of the said recited grant or writing, dated in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and eighty-six, and the before recited letters patent of Queen Anne, as upon all and every the other grants and confirmations of divers governors, lieutenant-governors and commanders-in-chief, made to our city of New York, as aforesaid, by reason of the variety of names, styles, titles and incorporations aforesaid, and by reason that the before recited grant or instrument, dated in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and eighty-six, and the other grants and confirmations of divers governors, lieutenant-governors and commanders-in-chief, were made in the governors' own names respectively, when they should have been made in the respective names, styles and titles of former kings and queens, our royal predecessors, under whom they were governors, lieutenant-governors or commanders-in-chief respectively, and by reason, as some suggest and say, that the said city, or inhabitants or citizens thereof, never were well, regularly or legally incorporated, and for want thereof none of all the said grants, confirmations, instruments or letters patent, hereinbefore mentioned, could take effect or operate; and for divers other defects in all, some or one of the aforesaid grants, confirmations and writings; and also upon the validity and force of the prescription aforesaid. And whereas, our well-beloved subjects, the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of our said city of New York, by their humble petition presented to our trusty and well-beloved John Montgomerie, Esq., our captain-general and governor-in-chief of our provinces of New York and New Jersey, and territories depending thereon in America, and vice-admiral of the same, &c., in council, reciting among other things that the city of New York is an ancient city, and the citizens thereof have anciently held and used, and still do use and hold divers and sundry rights, liberties, privileges, franchises, free-customs, pre-eminences, advantages, jurisdictions, emoluments, immunities, lands, tenements, public buildings and hereditaments, as well by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, as otherwise, to the advancement of the said city in the number of its buildings and inhabitants, whereby the said city is become a considerable seaport, and exceedingly necessary and useful to our kingdom of Great Britain, in supplying our governments in the West Indies with bread, flour, and other provisions; wherefore they prayed, among other things, for our confirmation and grant to the said city and corporation, by the name, style and title of the mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of

New York, of all their lands, tenements, public buildings and hereditaments, wharves, docks, bridges, slips, ferries, cranes, grants, charters, rights, liberties, privileges, franchises, free-customs, pre-eminences, advantages, jurisdictions, emoluments and immunities, now and heretofore by them held and enjoyed; and that they might have the soil four hundred feet beyond low-water mark, on Hudson's river, from a certain creek or kill called Bestaver's Killitie, southard to the fort, and from thence the same number of feet beyond low-water mark round the fort and along the East river as far as the north side of a certain hill called Corlear's hook; and also for a grant of such other powers, liberties, franchises, rights, free-customs, jurisdictions, privileges, immunities and things, as may be needful for the good rule and government of the said city. And we, considering that the strength and increase of our good subjects, in that our frontier province of New York does in a great measure depend upon the welfare and prosperity of our said city, wherein the trade and navigation thereof are chiefly and principally carried on, promoted and encouraged; and we, affecting the good and happy estate of our said city, and the steady loyalty and integrity of the inhabitants and citizens thereof, are very desirous and willing to give encouragement to the said city, inhabitants and citizens, and to remove, utterly abolish, and wholly take away all and all manner of causes, occasions and matter, whereupon such questions, doubts, opinions, ambiguities, controversies or debates as aforesaid, or any other questions or doubts may or can arise; and in order thereunto, we have thought fit, them, the said inhabitants and citizens of the said city of New York (by whatsoever name or names they have been or were incorporated, or whether they have been or were heretofore incorporated or not), into one body politic and corporate, by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, by our letters to make, constitute, confirm, renew and of new to create. And we, being also further willing and fully intending and desiring that the said inhabitants and citizens of our said city, by the name aforesaid, should have perpetual succession, and should hold, possess and enjoy, all and singular the rights, privileges, liberties, franchises, pre-eminences, advantages, jurisdictions, courts, powers, offices, authorities, ferries, fees, fines, perquisites, profits, immunities, rents, possessions, lands, tenements, and other hereditaments, not only which in the before recited grants, confirmations, writings and letters patent are mentioned, or intended to be thereby granted, but also, which they have held or claim to hold, by prescription or otherwise, with the alterations and enlargements thereof and additions thereto, in such manner and form as hereafter is mentioned and contained, notwithstanding the before mentioned or any other question, doubts, opinions, ambiguities, debates, faults, or imperfections.

1. Wherefore know ye, That we of our especial grace, certain knowledge, meer motion, have willed, ordained, constituted, confirmed, given and granted, and by these presents for us, our heirs and successors do will, ordain, constitute, confirm, give and grant, that our said city of New York be, and from henceforth forever hereafter shall be and remain a free city of itself; and that the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, and their successors from henceforth forever hereafter shall be and remain one body corporate and politic, in re-facto and nomine, by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and them and their successors by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, one body corporate, in re-facto and nomine, really and fully, we do for us, our heirs and successors, erect, make, ordain, constitute, confirm, declare and create, by these presents, and that by that name they shall and may have perpetual succession; and also, that they and their successors, by the same name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York be, and forever hereafter shall be, persons able in law, and capable to sue and be sued, implead and be impleaded, answer and be answered unto, defend and be defended, in all courts and places before us, our heirs and successors, and before all and any the judges, justices, officers and ministers of us, our heirs and successors, and elsewhere in all and all manner of actions, suits, complaints, pleas, causes, matters, and demands whatsoever, and of what kind or nature soever, in as full and ample manner and form as any of our other liege subjects of our said province, being persons able and capable in law, can or may sue and be sued, implead and be impleaded, answer and be answered unto, defend and be defended, by any lawful ways and means whatsoever. And also, That they and their successors, by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, be and shall be forever hereafter, persons capable and able in law to purchase, take, hold, receive, enjoy and have any messuages, houses, buildings, lands, tenements, rents, possessions and other hereditaments and real estate, within or without our said province, in fee and forever, or for time of life or lives or years, or in any other manner; and also goods, chattels and all other things of what kind or quality soever. And also, That they and their successors by the same name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, shall and may give, grant, demise, assign and sell, or otherwise dispose of all or any the messuages, houses, buildings, lands, tenements, rents, possessions and other hereditaments and real estate, and all their goods, chattels and other things aforesaid as to them shall seem meet, at their own will and pleasure.

And also, That the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, for the time being, and their successors, shall and may forever hereafter, have and use a common seal for sealing all and singular deeds, grants, conveyances, contracts, bonds, articles of agreements, assignments, powers, authorities and all and singular their affairs and things touching or concerning the said corporation. And, by virtue of these our letters, it shall and may be lawful to and for the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors, as they shall see cause, to break, change and new-make the same, or any other common seal, when, and as often as to them it shall seem convenient.

2. And we do further, of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion, for us, our heirs, and successors, give, grant, order, and appoint that the said city of New York, and the compass, precincts, circuit, bounds, liberties and jurisdictions of the same do reach, extend and stretch forth, and shall and may reach, extend, stretch forth, as well in length as in breadth and circuit, in and through the limits and boundaries following, to wit: To begin at the river, creek, or run of water called Spyt den Duyvel, over which King's bridge is built, where the said river or creek empties itself into the North river on Westchester side thereof, at low-water mark, and so to run along the said river, creek, or run, on Westchester side, at low-water mark, unto the East river or sound, and from thence to cross over to Nassau Island, to low-water mark there, including Great Barn Island, Little Barn Island and Manning's Island, and from thence all along Nassau Island shore, at low-water mark, unto the south side of Red Hook; and from thence to run a line across the North river, so as to include Nutten Island, Bedlow's Island, Bucking Island, and the Oyster Island, to low-water mark on the west side of the North river, or so far as the limits of our said province extended there, and so to run up along the west side of the said river, at low-water mark, or along the limits of our said province, until it comes directly opposite to the first mentioned river or creek, and thence to the place where the said boundaries first began. And also, that the said city, within the limits and jurisdictions thereof as aforesaid, be and forever hereafter shall be and remain divided into seven wards, to wit: the West ward, the South ward, the Dock ward, the East ward, the North ward, Montgomerie ward, and the Out ward; each and every of which wards shall contain and comprehend and reach and extend through the several limits and bounds following, to wit:

The West ward to begin at the middle of the east end of the street that goes from the parade to the North river, between the lot of ground now in fence, belonging to Charles Sleigh, and the house and ground late of Thomas Elde; and from thence to run a direct line over the middle of the west end of Beaver street, and so along to the middle of Beaver street, till it comes directly opposite to the middle of the south end of New street, and to run along the middle of New street to the north end thereof; and from thence to run to the rear of the dwelling-house now in the possession of Dominie Du Bois, and from thence to run all along the rear of the houses that front the Broadway up to the north part of the rear of Spring Garden house; and from thence to run up a line, as the Broadway runs, to the end thereof, including the said Broadway and John Harris, his house, and to include all other houses hereafter to be built, fronting the said Broadway, and from the north end of the Broadway to continue and run a line as the said street runs, until it comes directly opposite to Bestaver's Killitie or rivulet, and from thence to run to the said Bestaver's Killitie, and so to continue the said line four hundred feet beyond low-water mark into the North river, and so down the said North river, always keeping four hundred feet beyond low-water mark, until it comes directly opposite to the middle of the west end of the first-mentioned street; and so to run to and through the middle of the said street, to the place where the said West ward first began.

The South ward to begin at the middle of Wall street, where the line of the West ward runs across the same, and from thence down the middle of Wall street, until it comes directly opposite to the middle of the north end of Broad street; and from thence down the middle of Broad street to the long bridge; and from thence to the eastward of, and to include the said long bridge, and the market house at the south end of the said street; and from thence to continue and run a southeast line across the East river to low-water mark on Nassau Island shore; and from thence to run along the said shore at low-water mark, to the south side of Red Hook, and from thence to run a line across the North river, so as to include Nutten Island, Bedlow's Island, Bucking Island, and the Oyster Island, to low-water mark on the west side of the North river; and so to run up along the west side of said river at low-water mark, until it comes directly opposite to Bestaver's Killitie or rivulet; and from thence to run to the north-westerly corner of the West ward, at four hundred feet beyond low-water mark; and from thence along the bounds of the said West ward till it comes to the southwesterly end thereof; and from thence still along the bounds of the West ward through the street by the parade, and through Beaver street and New street, to the place where the South ward began.

The Dock ward to begin at the middle of Wall street, directly opposite to the middle of the north end of Broad street, and from thence down through the middle of Wall street until it comes to the middle of Smith street; then down through the middle of Smith street to a place called Marten Clock's Corner, including the small street between the house late of the said Marten Clock, and the slip, and so to continue and run a line as the said small street runs into the East river four hundred feet below low-water mark; thence running westerly, keeping four hundred feet below low-water mark, till it comes to the bounds of the South ward, and from thence along the bounds of the South ward, up the middle of Broad street to the place where the said Dock ward began.

The East ward to begin at the northeasterly corner of the Dock ward, in the middle of Smith street, and so to run from thence up through the middle of the said street, till it comes directly opposite to the middle of the northeasterly end of Golden Hill street; and from thence to run down through the middle of the said street to the middle of the southeasterly end thereof; and from thence to run through the middle of Rodman's slip to the East river; and from thence to continue and run a line as the said slip runs into the East river, four hundred feet below low-water mark, till it comes to the southeasterly end of the Dock ward; and so along the bounds of the Dock ward up through the middle of Smith street to the place where the East ward began.

The North ward to begin where the East ward begins, in the middle of Smith street and so to run from thence through the middle of the said street, so far as it runs, and so to continue a line from the end of the said street, as the street runs to the south side of the creek that runs from fresh water into the East river; and from thence running a north course till it comes to the bounds of the West ward; and from thence running along the bounds of the said West ward towards Spring garden, and all along the rear of the houses fronting the Broadway, and so still along the bounds of the said West ward to the middle of Wall street, where the West ward runs across the same; and from thence down the middle of Wall street along the bounds of the South ward and the Dock ward, to the place where the said North ward began, including in the same ward the powder-house, the city hall, and the Presbyterian meeting-house.

Montgomerie ward to begin at the southeasterly corner of the East ward, opposite to Rodman's slip, four hundred feet below low-water mark in the East river, and from thence to run along the bounds of the East ward to and through the middle of Rodman's slip, and all through the middle of Golden Hill street till it meets with the boundaries of the North ward, and the middle of Smith street, and so along the bounds of the North ward, through the middle of Smith street, to the rivulet that runs from fresh water into the East River; from thence along the said rivulet so far as it goes, till it empties itself in the said East river; and from thence to run a southeast line four hundred feet beyond low-water mark into the said East river, and from thence running westerly, keeping four hundred feet beyond low-water mark, to the place where the said Montgomerie ward began.

The Out ward to begin at the northwesterly corner of the South ward, at low-water mark, on the west side of the North river, over against Bestaver's Killitie or rivulet, and from thence to run up along the west side of the said river at low-water mark, until it comes directly opposite to the river, creek, or run of water called Spyt den Duyvel, over which King's bridge is built; and from thence to run to the said creek, or river, to the Westchester side thereof, at low-water mark, and so to run along the said river, creek, or run, on Westchester side, at low-water mark, into the East river or sound, and from thence to cross over to Nassau Island to low-water mark there, including Great Barn Island, Little Barn Island, and Manning's Island; and from thence along Nassau Island shore, at low-water mark, to the bounds of the South ward; and from thence along the bounds of the South ward, the Dock ward, the East ward, and Montgomerie ward, to the place where the said Montgomerie ward and the North ward meet, at the rivulet that runs from fresh water, and so to run a north course as the said North ward runs, till it comes to the bounds of the West ward; and from thence along the bounds of the West ward to the north-westerly corner thereof, at four hundred feet below low-water mark, near Bestaver's Killitie or rivulet; and from thence along the bounds of the South ward to the place where the said Out ward began.

And we do further, of our especial grace, certain knowledge, and meer motion, for us, our heirs and successors, will, ordain, give and grant that there be, and forever hereafter shall and may be one mayor, one recorder, seven aldermen, seven assistants, one sheriff, one coroner, one common clerk, one chamberlain, one high constable, sixteen assessors, seven collectors, sixteen constables, and one marshal, appointed, nominated, elected, chosen and sworn, in and for the said city of New York, and the precincts and limits thereof; out of the freeholders or freemen, inhabitants of the said city, in manner and form as hereinafter is particularly mentioned; and for the better execution of our will, gift, and grant in this behalf, we have assigned, named, constituted, and made, and by these presents for us, our heirs and successors, do assign, name, constitute, and make our well-beloved Robert Lurting, Esq., to be the present mayor of the same city, to do and execute all things which unto the office of mayor of the said city, doth or may belong or in any wise appertain. And we do, moreover, for us, our heirs and successors, give, grant, ratify, and confirm unto the said mayor of our said city of New York, and to his successors, and to the mayor of the said city for the time being, and to each of them forever, full power and authority to depute and appoint one of the aldermen of the said city, for the time being, to be approved of by the governor or commander-in-chief of said province, for the time being, in the place of the mayor of the said city, for the time being; and as his deputy in all matters and respects, to act and do all things which to the office of the mayor of the said city, within the limits, liberties and precincts thereof, do or ought to belong during the sickness or in the absence of the said mayor, for the time being.

4. And we do hereby will and grant, That every such deputy or person so to be appointed and approved of, after having taken such oath as hereinafter is directed for every such deputy to take, shall have as full power and authority to act and do, in the sickness or absence of the mayor of the said city, for the time being, all and singular those things which to the office of mayor of the said city belongs, or shall belong or appertain, to all intents and purposes, as the mayor of the said city, for the time being, by virtue of these presents or otherwise, hath, shall, or ought to have. And we do further, for us, our heirs and successors, will, ordain, and grant, that in case it should happen that the present mayor of the said city, or any of his successors, or any of the mayors of the said city, for the time being, should happen to die before any other fit person shall be appointed and sworn mayor of the said city, in their respective rooms and places, then and in every such case, upon the death of such mayor, such alderman, for the time being (who shall have been so appointed and approved of as aforesaid, to act in the place of or as deputy to such mayor), shall be and he is hereby appointed and declared mayor of the said city, and to continue and be continued in, and to execute the same office of mayor of the said city from the death of such mayor so dying, until another fit person shall be appointed and sworn mayor of the said city, in such manner as in and by these presents is hereafter directed for the respective mayors of the said city, to be appointed and sworn, and so as often as such case shall happen.

5. And further we have assigned, ordained, named, and constituted, and by these presents do for us, our heirs and successors, assign, ordain, name, and constitute our trusty and well-beloved Francis Harrison, Esq. (one of our council of our said province of New York), to be the present recorder of our said city, to do and execute all things which unto the office of recorder of the said city doth or may belong, or in any manner appertain, and to continue and be continued in and to execute the said office until another fit person shall be appointed and sworn in the office. And we do hereby appoint, That the governor or commander-in-chief for the said province for the time being, at any time or times, when, and as often as they, or each of them, think fit, may displace and remove the present recorder, or any other recorder hereafter to be appointed.

6. And we do, for us, our heirs and successors, assign, name, constitute and appoint John Cruger, Harmanus Van Gelder, Frederick Phillipse, Gerardus Stuyvesant, Anthony Rutgers, John Roosevelt, and Johannes Hardenbrook, Esqrs., citizens and inhabitants of the said city of New York, to be the present aldermen of the said city; and Egbert Van Borsom, Samuel Kip, John Chambers, John Moore, Isaac De Peyster, Petrus Rutgers and Gerardus Beekman, gents., to be present assistants of the said city, to wit: The said John Cruger to be alderman, and John Moore to be assistant, for the Dock ward of the said city; Harmanus Van Gelder to be alderman, and John Chambers to be assistant for the West ward of the said city; Col. Frederick Phillipse to be alderman, and Isaac De Peyster to be assistant for the South ward of the said city; Gerardus Stuyvesant to be alderman, and Samuel Kip to be assistant for the Out ward of the said city; Anthony Rutgers, Esq., to be alderman, and Egbert Van Borsom to be assistant for the North ward of the said city; John Roosevelt to be alderman, and Petrus Rutgers to be assistant for the East ward of the said city; Johannes Hardenbrook to be alderman, and Gerardus Beekman to be assistant for the Montgomerie ward of the said city.

7. And we do, also, hereby nominate and appoint Cornelius De Peyster to be the present chamberlain and treasurer of the city aforesaid; Colonel

Henry Beekman to be the present sheriff of the said city ; Richard Nichols, gent., to be the present coroner of the said city ; Edmund Peers to be the present high constable, and Robert Crannel to be present marshal of the city.

8. And also, We do hereby nominate and appoint John Le Montes, David Abeel, assessors ; Nicholas Van Taerling, collector, and John Scott, constable, for the South ward of the said city ; John Thurman and John Bogart, assessors, and John Pearse, collector for the West ward of the said city ; Gerardus Duyckinck and Simeon Soumain, assessors, George Brinckerhoof, collector, and Christopher Nicholson, constable of the Dock ward of the said city ; John Brown and Nathaniel Marston, assessors, and Peter Noxen, collector, and Timothy Bontecou, constable of the North ward of the said city ; John Pintard and Peter Van Dyck, assessors, Ebenezer Grant, collector, and John Abrahamson, constable of the East ward of the said city ; Jacobus Kip, assessor, and Cornelius Cousine, collector, for the Bowery division of the Out ward, and Barent Waldren, assessor, Derick Bensing, collector, and Arent Bussing, constable for the Harlem division of the said Out ward.

9. And we do hereby appoint, order and direct, that within forty days after the date hereof, the freemen of the said city, being inhabitants in, and the freeholders of each respective ward in the said city, may and shall assemble themselves and meet together, at such time and place in each of the said wards as each respective alderman for each respective ward shall appoint, and then and there, by the plurality of their voices or votes, to elect and choose out of the inhabitants of each respective ward, being freeholders there, or freemen of the said city, the several officers following, to wit: one other constable for the South ward ; one other constable for the West ward ; one other constable for the Dock ward ; one other constable for the East ward ; two assessors, one collector and two constables for Montgomerie ward ; and two other assessors and three other constables for the Out ward, to wit: one other assessor and two constables for the Bowery division, and one other assessor and one other constable for the Harlem division of the said Out ward. And we do hereby will and ordain, that each and every of the before named mayor, aldermen, assistants, chamberlain, coroner, high constable and marshal, and all and every the before named assessors, constables, and every other assessor and constable hereinafter to be chosen for any ward, or division of a ward in the said city before next Michaelmas day, on their being respectively sworn into their respective offices, as hereafter is directed, shall continue in their said respective offices until the fourteenth day of October next ensuing the date hereof, and from thence until other fit persons be respectively chosen and sworn in their respective rooms and places in manner and form as is hereinafter directed. And we do also further ordain, order and declare, for us, our heirs and successors, that as well the before named sheriff, as every other person and persons hereafter to be appointed for or to the office of sheriff of the said city, before he or they be permitted to exercise the said office, shall each of them give and enter into bond to us, our heirs and successors, with two or more sufficient sureties, in a penalty not less than one thousand pounds, conditioned for the faithful and due execution of his said office, in such manner as the governor or commander-in-chief of the said province of New York, for the time being, shall think fit and appoint. And the before named sheriff, on his giving such security, and having taken such an oath as hereafter is directed, shall continue in his said office until the fourteenth day of October next coming, and from thence until another fit person is appointed and sworn into the said office, and has given such security as aforesaid.

10. And we do hereby further, for us, our heirs and successors, appoint and ordain that the governor or commander-in-chief of the said province of New York, for the time being, by and with the advice of the council of us, our heirs and successors, for the said province for the time being, from time to time, shall have full power and authority on the feast day of St. Michael the Archangel, in every year forever hereafter, to name and appoint, and can, shall and may name and appoint, a discreet and fit person of the freeholders, freemen or inhabitants of the said city, to be mayor of the said city; and one other fit and able person, one of the freeholders or freemen, being an inhabitant of the said city, to be sheriff of the said city; and one other such person to be coroner of the said city, all for the ensuing year. And also, that on the said feast day of St. Michael the Archangel, in every year forever hereafter, the freemen of the said city, being inhabitants, and the freeholders of each respective ward in the said city, shall and may assemble themselves and meet together at such time of the day and such public place in each of the said wards as each respective alderman for each respective ward, for the time being, shall appoint; and then and there, by plurality of their voices or votes, to elect and choose out of the inhabitants of each respective ward, being freeholders thereof or freemen of the said city (except the Out ward), for the ensuing year, one alderman and one assistant, two assessors, one collector and two constables; and for the said Out ward, four assessors, two collectors and four constables, to wit: two assessors, one collector and two constables for each division of the said ward. And also, That the mayor of the said city, for the time being, and four or more aldermen, and four or more of the assistants of the said city, for the time being, on the feast day of St. Michael the Archangel, in every year forever hereafter, shall and may in common council name and appoint one fit person, being a freeholder or freeman and an inhabitant of the said city, to be treasurer or chamberlain of the said city for the year ensuing; and also that on the same day in every year forever hereafter, the mayor of the said city, for the time being, shall name and appoint one other of the said inhabitants, being a freeholder or freeman of the said city, to be high constable of the said city for the year ensuing; every of which person so to be named for mayor, coroner, high constable or chamberlain, or so to be elected for alderman, assistant, assessor or constable, on the feast day of St. Michael, shall, on the fourteenth day of October then next ensuing their nomination or election respectively, take their respective oaths hereinafter appointed for them respectively to take, in such manner and form as hereinafter is directed, and shall continue in their said respective offices, from their being so respectively sworn, until other fit persons be respectively named or elected, and sworn in their respective rooms and places. And also, That every person so to be named for sheriff on the said feast day of St. Michael, shall on the fourteenth day of October then next ensuing his nomination, take such oath as is hereafter appointed for each sheriff to take, and shall give such security as is hereinbefore appointed for each sheriff to give, and shall remain in the said office from the time of his being sworn and giving such security, until another fit person shall be appointed and sworn into the said office, and shall have given such security as aforesaid. And we do further, for us, our heirs and successors, appoint and ordain that if it should happen that either the mayor, sheriff, or coroner of the said city, for the time being, at any time (before other fit persons be so as aforesaid respectively named and sworn in their respective rooms) should happen to die, then and so often as it shall so happen, it shall and may be lawful for the governor and commander-in-chief of the said province for the time being, by and with the advice of the said council for the said province for the time being, in some convenient time thereafter, to name and appoint some fit and discreet person, being an inhabitant, freeholder or freeman of the said city, to be mayor of the said city in the room of such mayor so dying; and one other fit and able person, as aforesaid, to be sheriff of the said city in the room of such sheriff so dying; and one other fit person as aforesaid, to be coroner of the said city, in the room of such coroner so dying; and that every such person so to be named mayor, after having taken such oath as is hereby appointed for each mayor to take, shall remain in and execute the said office of mayor of the said city until the fourteenth day of October then next ensuing, and until another fit person be named and sworn into the said office of mayor of the said city; and every such person so to be named sheriff, after having sworn and given such security as is hereby appointed for each sheriff to do, shall have, exercise and remain in the said office of sheriff of the said city until the fourteenth day of October then next, and until another fit person be named and sworn in the said office of sheriff, and shall have given such security as hereinbefore is appointed for each sheriff to give; and every person so to be named coroner, after having taken such oath as appointed hereby for each coroner to take, shall exercise and remain in the said office of coroner of the said city, until the fourteenth day of October then next, and until another fit person be named and sworn into the office of coroner of the said city.

11. And we do moreover, for us, our heirs and successors, will, and by these presents, grant to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and to their successors forever, that if it should happen any of the present named aldermen or assistants, assessors, collectors or constables, or any one of the aldermen, assistants, collectors or constables hereafter to be elected and sworn, or to be sworn in their respective offices as aforesaid, shall happen to die or remove out of the said city, within the time they are or shall be respectively named or elected for, or before other fit persons be respectively named or elected, and sworn in their respective rooms, it shall and may be lawful for the freemen, being inhabitants in, and the freeholders of each respective ward for which such alderman, assistant, assessor, collector or constable so dying or removing had been named or chosen for, to assemble and meet together at such time and place in the said respective ward, as shall be appointed by the mayor of the said city for the time being, or his deputy, and then and there by plurality of voices, or votes of the freemen, being inhabitants in, and the freeholders of such ward, to elect one of the inhabitants of, and being a freeholder in such ward, or freeman of the said city, to serve as alderman, assistant, assessor, collector or constable, for the said ward, in the room of such alderman, assistant, assessor, collector or constable so dying or removing; and so as often as such cases shall happen. And in case the present named or any future chamberlain, or any high constable of the said city hereafter to be appointed, so sworn or to be sworn in their respective offices as aforesaid, should happen to die or remove out of the said city within the time they were or shall be respectively appointed for, it shall be lawful for the mayor of the said city, for the time being, or his deputy, and four or more aldermen, and four or more assistants, for the said city, for the time being, in common council, to appoint another fit person to be chamberlain, in the room of such chamberlain so dying or removing; and for the mayor of the said city, for the time being, to appoint another fit person to be high constable in the room of such high constable so dying and removing; and so often as such cases shall happen. And all and every such person and persons so to be newly chosen or appointed alderman, assistant, assessor, collector, constable, chamberlain or high constable, shall serve in their respective offices until other fit persons be respectively chosen or appointed, and sworn in their respective rooms, each of them (except collector) first taking such oaths as hereafter is appointed for each of them respectively to take.

12. And we do further, for us, our heirs and successors, ordain, grant and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, that if any one of the inhabitants of the said city of New York, being a freeholder or freeman as aforesaid, shall hereafter be elected or chosen to the office of alderman, assistant, assessor, collector, or constable for any ward in the said city, or shall be appointed to be high constable of the said city, and have notice of his said election, shall refuse, deny, delay, or neglect to take upon him or them to execute such office, to which he or they shall be so chosen or elected for, that then and so often as it shall happen, it shall and may be lawful for the mayor and his deputy, or recorder, and any four or more of the aldermen, and any four or more of the assistants of the said city for the time being, in common council, to tax, assess, and impose upon every such person or persons so refusing, denying, delaying or neglecting, such reasonable and moderate fine and fines, sum and sums of money, as they, the said mayor, or his deputy, or recorder, and any four or more aldermen, and any four or more assistants, in common council, shall think fit, so as such fine for each refusal, denial, delay, or neglect shall not exceed the sum of fifteen pounds current money of New York; all which said fines shall and may be levied, by distress and sale of goods and chattels of such delinquent and delinquents, by warrant under the seal of the said city, signed by the mayor thereof, for the time being, rendering the surplusage to the owner or owners thereof (if any be), the necessary charges of making and selling such distress being first deducted, or by action of debt in any court of record, to be prosecuted, or any other lawful method to be obtained; and shall be recovered and received by and to the use of the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, without any account thereof to be given to us, our heirs or successors, or to any of the officers or ministers of us, our heirs or successors: and upon every such refusal or neglect, other fit persons to be elected and chosen in the room and rooms of such person so neglecting or refusing, in such manner as is before directed or appointed for electing and choosing of aldermen, assistants, assessors, collectors and constables, and for appointing a high constable, upon the death or removal of any of them respectively; and so as often as such cases shall happen.

13. And we do hereby, for us, our heirs and successors, grant, appoint, and ordain, that if it shall happen that the day or days appointed for the naming, appointing, electing or choosing, or for administering any oath or oaths to any of the officers or ministers of the said corporation, shall happen to fall on a Sunday, then and in such case such naming, appointing, electing, or choosing so to be made, shall be made, and such oath or oaths so to be administered, shall be administered on the next day, and so often as such case shall happen.

14. And further we do, of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion, for us, our heirs and successors, give, grant, ratify; and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, that the mayor or recorder, with four or more aldermen, and four or more assistants of the said city, for the time being, be and shall be forever hereafter called the common council of the city of New York. And that the said common council of the said city, for the time being, or the major part of them, have and may, and shall have full power, authority and license to frame, constitute, ordain, make and establish, from time to time, all such laws, statutes, rights, ordinances and constitutions, which to them, or the greater part of them, shall seem to be good, useful or necessary for the good rule and government of the body corporate aforesaid; and of all officers, ministers, artificers, citizens, inhabitants and residents of the said city, within the limits thereof, and for declaring how and after what manner and order the mayor, recorder, aldermen, and assistants of the said city, for the time being, and all and every of their officers and ministers, and all officers and ministers, and all artificers, inhabitants and residents of the same city, and their factors, servants and apprentices, in their offices, functions, and business, within the said city and liberties thereof, for the time being, and from time to time, shall use, carry, and behave themselves; and for the farther public good, common profit, trade and better government and rule of the said city, and for the better preserving, governing, disposing, letting and setting of the lands, tenements, possessions and hereditaments, goods and chattels, to the aforesaid mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York belonging, or to them and their successors hereafter to belong, and all other things and causes whatsoever, touching or concerning the said city, or state, right and interest of the same (provided that such laws be not contradictory or repugnant to the laws or statutes of that part of our kingdom of Great Britain called England, or of our said province), which laws, statutes, ordinances and constitutions, so to be made as aforesaid, may be and remain in force for twelve months from the day of the date thereof, and no longer, unless they shall be allowed of, and confirmed by the governor and council of the said province, for the time being; and that the said common council of the said city, for the time being, or the greater part of them, as often as they shall make, ordain and establish such laws, statutes, rights, ordinances and constitutions, in form aforesaid, may make, ordain, limit and provide such and the like pains, punishments, penalties, either by fines and amerciations, or by disfranchising and amoving from the liberties, privileges, immunities and freedom of the said city, or by either of them, towards and against all and every person that shall offend against such laws, statutes, rights, orders and constitutions, or any or either of them, or by the said common council, or the major part of them, shall be thought necessary and requisite to make, ordain, limit, and provide, for the observation and preservation of the same laws, rights, statutes, ordinances and constitutions; and the same fines and amerciements shall and may, from time to time, levy, receive, have and recover, either by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such delinquent and delinquents, by warrant, under the hand and seal of the mayor, or recorder, or any one of the aldermen, for the time being, rendering the surplusage to the owner or owners thereof (if any be), the necessary charges of making and selling such distress being first deducted;

or by action of debt, in any court of record to be prosecuted, or in any court of record to be prosecuted, or in any other lawful method to be obtained, and to the use of the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, without any account thereof to be given to us, our heirs and successors, or to any of the officers or ministers of us, our heirs or successors : all and singular which laws, statutes, rights, ordinances and constitutions so as aforesaid to be made, we do, for us, our heirs and successors, will to be observed, under the pains, penalties and forfeitures in the same contained. And we do further, of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion, for us, our heirs and successors, give, grant, ratify and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, that the common council of the said city, for the time being, or the major part of them, shall have the sole power of determining and deciding all elections of all and every their officers and ministers, hereafter to be chosen and elected in or for the said corporation, or any part thereof.

15. And we do hereby, for us, our heirs and successors, ordain, declare, give and grant, unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty and their successors, that the common council of the said city shall be summoned, called and held from time to time, so often and at such times and places, as the mayor, or in case of his sickness or absence, the recorder of the said city, for the time being, shall think fit to appoint or direct; and that it shall and may be lawful to and for the said common council of the said city, or the major part of them, to assess and lay such reasonable fines and americiaments in and upon every officer and member of the body corporate aforesaid, for the time being, who, after having had due notice, or being duly summoned to appear or attend at any such common council, to be held for the said city, shall neglect so to do, or make default therein, or shall not appear or attend according to such notice or summons, in that behalf, or show a reasonable cause, by the said common council, or the major part of them, at their discretion to be allowed, and so often as such case shall happen, so that no such fine or americiament for any one default of appearance or attendance of any such officer or member of the body corporate aforesaid, shall exceed the sum of twenty shillings, in the manner and form aforesaid to be levied, and by, to and for the use of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, and their successors, to be recovered and received, without any account thereof to be given to us, our heirs or successors, or any of our or their officers and ministers. And we do further, for us, our heirs and successors, give, grant and confirm unto the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York, and their successors forever, that the common council of the said city, for the time being, or the major part of them (but no other person or persons whomsoever without the consent, grant or license of the said common council of the said city for the time being, or the major part of them), from time to time, and at all times hereafter, shall and may have the sole, full and whole power and authority of settling, appointing, establishing, ordering and directing, and shall and may settle, appoint, establish, order and direct, such and so many ferries around Manhattan's Island alias New York Island, for the carrying and transporting people, horses, cattle, goods and chattels from the said Island of Manhattan to Nassau Island, and from thence back to Manhattan's; and also from the said Island Manhattan's to any of the opposite shores all around the same island, in such and so many places as the said common council, or the major part of them, shall think fit, who have hereby, likewise, full power to let, set, or otherwise dispose of all or any of such ferries, to any person or persons whomsoever; and the rents, issues, profits, ferriages, fees and other advantages arising and accruing from all and every such ferries, we do hereby fully and freely for us, our heirs and successors, give and grant unto the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York aforesaid, and their successors forever, to have, take, hold, and enjoy the same to their own use, without being accountable to us, our heirs or successors, for the same or any part thereof.

16. And we do further, for us, our heirs and successors, give, grant, ratify, and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, that the common council of the said city, for the time being, or the major part of them, have, and from time to time, and at all times hereafter forever, shall have full power, license and authority, not only to establish, appoint, order and direct, the making and laying out of all other streets, lanes, alleys, highways, water-courses and bridges not already made or laid out, but also the altering, amending and repairing all such streets, lanes, alleys, highways, water-courses and bridges, heretofore made or laid out, or hereafter to be made or laid out, in and throughout the said city of New York and the Island of Manhattan's, in such manner as the said common council, for the time being, or the major part of them, shall think and judge to be necessary and convenient for all inhabitants and travelers there.

17. And further, we do hereby, of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion, for us, our heirs and successors, give, grant, ratify and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors, that they and their successors shall and may have, hold, and keep markets, at five several places (in the said city of New York, on every day in the week, throughout the year, except Sunday), as follows, to wit: One market at Coenties dock; one other market at the Old slip, at Burgher's path; one other market at Countesses slip; one other market at the lower end of Wall street, and one other market by the long bridge. And also, we do for us, our heirs and successors, grant unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, that they and their successors shall and may have, hold and keep such and so many other markets, at such and so many other times and places in the said city of New York, as shall from time to time be ordered, established, erected and appointed by the common council of the city aforesaid, for the time being, or the greater number of them.

18. And we do further, for us, our heirs and successors, give and grant unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors, that they and their successors may and shall have the assize and essay of bread, wine, beer, ale, and all other victuals and things whatsoever, set to sale in the said city and the liberties and limits thereof; and the amending and correcting of the same assize; and all americiaments, fines and forfeitures to be laid and forfeited concerning the same or any part thereof, without any account thereof to be given to us, our heirs or successors; and to perform, do and act, by themselves or their deputies, all and every thing needful and necessary in, about, or concerning the same.

19. And we do hereby further, for us, our heirs and successors, grant and give unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, the office of gauger of and in the said city, to gauge all and singular the wine, rum, brandy, molasses, beer, ale, cider and other merchandise and vessels gaugable or to be gauged within the said city; except such liquors as are to pay duty by virtue of any act of assembly, until after they have been gauged by the public officer appointed for that purpose. And the office of measurer of and in the said city, to measure salt, wheat, oats, and other grain and all other merchandises, measurable or to be measured in the said city; and also the office of surveyor and packer of bread, flour, beef, pork and other provisions, and all other merchandises and commodities to be surveyed or packed in the said city; and also the office of cartage, carriage, and portage of all goods, wares, merchandises and other things to be carted or carried in or through the said city or any part thereof; and also the office of garbling of all manner of spices and other merchandises and things to be garbled in the city aforesaid: To have and to hold the several offices aforesaid, and every of them, and the disposition, ordinances and correctness of the same, and to exercise the same by themselves or their deputies; and to take and receive to themselves all fees, profits and perquisites to the said offices and every of them, due or to be due, and all the fines, americiaments and forfeitures to be laid and forfeited concerning the same, or any part thereof, to them the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty, and their successors, to their own proper use forever, without any account, or any other thing, to us or our heirs or successors, to be given or made.

20. And further, That the mayor of the said city, for the time being, or his deputy for the time being, and any four or more of the aldermen, for the time being, shall from time to time, and at all times forever hereafter, have full power and authority, under the common seal of the said city, to make free citizens of the said city and liberties thereof; and that every person so to be made a free citizen, shall pay on his being made free, for the use of the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city aforesaid, and their successors forever, a sum not exceeding five pounds, New York money; and we do for us, our heirs and successors, give and grant unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty, and their successors forever, full power to ask, take, demand, and receive the same to their own use and behoof, without any account thereof to be given to us, our heirs or successors, or any other person or persons whatsoever.

21. And we do hereby, for us, our heirs or successors, constitute, appoint and ordain, that no person whatsoever, not being a free citizen of the said city as aforesaid, shall at any time hereafter use any art, trade, mystery or occupation within the said city, liberties and precincts thereof, or shall by himself, themselves or others, sell or expose to sale any manner of goods, wares, merchandises or commodities by retail, in any house, shop, place or standing, within the said city, or the liberties or precincts thereof (save in the time of public fairs), and that every such person so using any art, trade, mystery, occupation, or so retailing, contrary to the intent and meaning of these our present letters, and shall persist therein after warning to him or them thereof given, or left by the appointment of the mayor of the said city, for the time being, or his deputy, at the place or places where such person or persons shall so use any art, mystery or occupation, or expose to sale by retail as aforesaid, any goods, wares, merchandises or commodities as aforesaid, shall forfeit the sum of five pounds, New York money, to and for the use of the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors, for every time that he or she shall so use any trade, mystery or occupation, or expose to sale by retail as aforesaid, any goods, wares, merchandises or commodities, after such warning given or left as aforesaid; all and every of which same forfeitures shall and may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such delinquent and delinquents, by a warrant under the seal of the said city, signed by the mayor thereof, for the time being, or his deputy, rendering the surplusage to the owner or owners thereof (if any be), the necessary charges of making and selling such distress being first deducted; or by any other lawful method to be obtained; and shall be recovered and received by and to the only use of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, without any account thereof to be given to us, our heirs or successors, or to any of the officers or ministers of us, our heirs or successors; Provided always, and we do hereby for us, our heirs and successors, direct, appoint and order that no person or persons shall be made free as aforesaid, but such as are or shall be natural born subjects of us, our heirs or successors, or shall be naturalized or made denizens. And we do further, for us, our heirs and successors, ordain and appoint, direct, will and grant, that all and every person and persons now living, who at any time heretofore have been admitted free citizens, or into the freedom of the said city of New York, shall be and remain free thereof, and free citizens, and have and enjoy the same freedom, and all the rights and privileges of freemen and free citizens of the said city of New York, to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

22. And for the better preservation of good rule and order in the said city, we do, for us, our heirs and successors, will, ordain, grant unto the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, and their successors, that the common council of the said city, for the time being, or the major part of them, shall have full power and authority to license or appoint by warrant, under the common seal of the said city or otherwise, one or more surveyors of flour, bread, beef, pork and other provisions, measurers of grain, salt and all other commodities, gaugers of wine, beer, ale, cider, rum, brandy, and all other saleable or exciseable liquors, garbles, beadies, bell-men, watchmen, bridewell-keepers, or keepers of a house or houses of correction, and of alms-houses, cryers and bell-ringers, and to displace all or any of them and put others in their room, and to add or diminish the number of them, or any of them, as often as the said common council of the said city, or the major part of them, shall think fit.

23. And further, we do for us, our heirs and successors, grant unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty, and their successors forever, full power and authority to erect and build, or appropriate any other buildings already built, for one or more bridewell or bridewells, house or houses of correction, and work-house or work-houses, together with full power and authority to the said mayor, recorder and aldermen, or any of them, to take up and arrest, or order to be taken up and arrested, all and any rogues, vagabonds, stragglers and idle and suspicious persons; and as they, the said mayor, recorder or aldermen, or any one of them, shall see cause, to order all or any such rogues, vagabonds, stragglers and idle and suspicious persons, either to the said work-house, there to remain and work such work and so long, not exceeding forty days, or else to bridewell or the house of correction, there to receive such punishment, not extending to the loss of life or limb, as the said mayor, recorder and aldermen, or any one of them, shall think fit. And also, that they, the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty and their successors forever, may and shall have power to build, erect, or appropriate any of their buildings already built, for an alms-house for relief of the poor; together, also, with as full and ample power to them and their successors, to order, direct and act in and about the said houses of correction, work-houses and alms-houses, and the persons to be put in and ordered there, as to any city or corporation in any place of that part of our realm of Great Britain called England, and the officers or ministers thereof doth or may belong. And also, that they the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty, and their successors forever hereafter, may have one or more gaol or gaols in such fit place or places, within the said city and limits and jurisdiction thereof, as by the common council of the said city, for the time being, or the major part of them, shall be appointed, to imprison and safe keep all and every person and persons for treasons, murders, felonies, trespasses, evil doings and all others matters and causes whatsoever, to be arrested or attached, or to be committed to the gaol or gaols aforesaid, in safe custody, there to remain until they be delivered by due course of law. And that the common council of the city aforesaid, for the time being, or the major part of them, shall and may have power from time to time, to choose, constitute and place one or more fit person or persons in the office or offices of keeper or keepers of the gaol or gaols aforesaid, to hold the same during the good pleasure of the common council of the said city, for the time being, or the major part of them, as aforesaid requiring, and hereby for us, our heirs and successors, empowering and commanding the keeper and keepers of the gaol or gaols aforesaid, for the time being, and all and singular traitors, murderers, felons, malefactors, disturbers of the peace and other delinquents, and all others, for any crime or offence, or other reasonable cause or matters, to the gaol or gaols aforesaid ordered or committed, or to be committed or ordered, from time to time, shall receive, take, keep and cause to be kept in the same gaol or gaols, until they shall be thence delivered by due course of law.

24. And we do further, for us, our heirs and successors, will, ordain and grant, that the mayor of the said city, for the time being, shall forever hereafter be clerk of the market of us, our heirs and successors, within the city aforesaid, and the limits, liberties and precincts thereof; and that the mayor of the said city, for the time being, by himself or his deputy, may and shall have power and authority to do and execute, and shall and may do and execute forever, within the limits, liberties and precincts of the said city, all and whatsoever to the office of clerk of the market there doth, shall or may belong, without any hinderance or impediment of us, our heirs or successors, or any the officers of us, our heirs or successors; and that no other clerk of the market shall intermeddle there. And also, that the mayor of the said city, for the time being, and his successors during the time of his and their mayoralties, and no other, be and shall be, the bailiff and conservator of the water of the North and East rivers, and shall and may do, exercise and execute the said office of bailiff and conservator of the water of the North and East rivers, or water-bailiff by him or themselves, or by his or their sufficient deputy or deputies, in, upon, or about the same water of the North and East rivers (that is to say), in and through all the limits, bounds and jurisdictions of the said city of New York, upon all and every the banks, shores and wharves of the same water of the North and East rivers, within the limits and bounds aforesaid: and to have, receive, collect, and enjoy, all and singular, wages, rewards, fees and profits to the same offices of clerk of the market and water-bailiff, or any of them, due or to be due, or belonging to his or their own use, without any account thereof to us, our heirs or successors to be made. And also, that the mayor of the said city, for the time being, shall have full power to license or appoint, by warrant, under his hand and seal, or otherwise, one or more marshal or marshals of the said city, porters, carriers, cartmen, carmen, packers, cullers, common cryers, scavengers, and to displace all or any of them, and to put others in their rooms; and to add to, or diminish the number of them, or any of them, when and as often as the mayor of said city, for the time being, shall think fit.

25. And we do further, for us, our heirs and successors, grant, ratify, and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, that the mayor of the said city for the time being, and no other whatsoever, shall have power to give and grant licenses annually, under the public seal of the said city, to all such persons as he shall think fit, to license them, and every of them, to keep a tavern, inn, ordinary or victualling-house, and to sell wine, brandy, rum, strong waters, cider, beer, ale, or any other sort of excisable or strong liquors, within the city of New York, or the liberties and precincts thereof, by retail or the small measure; and that it shall be lawful to and for the said mayor of the said city, for the time being, to ask, demand, and receive for every such license by him to be given and granted aforesaid, such sum or sums of money, as he and the person to whom such license shall be given and granted shall agree for, not exceeding the sum of thirty shillings for each license; all which moneys, as by the said mayor shall be so received, shall be used and applied to the public use of the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the said city of New York, and their successors forever, without any account thereof to be rendered, made or done to us, our heirs or successors, or any other person whatsoever; every and each of which licenses shall continue and be in force for any time not exceeding one year from the granting thereof, but no longer. And we do hereby, for us, our heirs and successors, constitute, direct, order and appoint that no person or persons whatsoever, without such license being in force, shall at any time hereafter keep any tavern, inn, public ordinaries or victualling-houses, or sell wine, brandy, rum, strong waters, cider, beer, ale, or any other sorts of excisable or strong liquors within the city of New York, or the liberties or precincts thereof, by retail or small measure, under the penalty of five pounds current money of New York, for every time that any person shall act contrary hereto, in any respect, to be forfeited and paid by every person, for every time he or she shall offend or act contrary hereto, in any respect to and for the use of the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, for the time being; all and every of which penalties shall and may be levied, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such delinquent and delinquents, by warrant, under the seal of the said city, signed by the mayor thereof, for the time being, or his deputy, rendering the surplusage to the owner or owners thereof, if any be (the necessary charges of making and selling such distress being first deducted), or by any other lawful method to be obtained; and shall be recovered and received by and to the only use of the mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, without any account thereof to be given to us, our heirs or successors, or to any of the ministers or officers of us, our heirs or successors.

26. And further, we, of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion, have given, granted, ratified and confirmed, and by these presents, do for us, our heirs and successors, give, grant, ratify and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and to their successors forever, that the mayor, deputy mayor, recorder and aldermen of the said city, for the time being, be and shall be at all times forever hereafter, and hereby are assigned to be justice, and each of them a justice of us, our heirs and successors, the peace of us, our heirs and successors, within the city aforesaid, and the limits, jurisdiction and extent thereof, and within the county of New York, to keep; and that they the mayor, deputy mayor, recorder and aldermen of the said city for the time being, or any four or more of them (whereof we will the mayor, or deputy mayor, or recorder of the said city, for the time being, to be one), shall and may forever hereafter hold and keep four courts of general sessions of the peace, in and for the said city and county of New York, to begin at certain times in the year, to wit: one of them to begin on the first Tuesday in November; another on the first Tuesday in February; another on the first Tuesday in May; and another on the first Tuesday in August, in every year; each of which sessions of the peace shall and may last, continue, and be held any time, not exceeding four days. And also, that they, the said mayor, deputy mayor, recorder and aldermen of the said city for the time being, or any four or more of them (whereof we will the mayor, or deputy mayor, or recorder of the said city for the time being, to be one), shall and may forever hereafter have full power and authority to enquire of, and hear and determine, within the city and county aforesaid, all and all manner of felonies, imprisonments, riots, routs, oppressions, extortions, forestallings, regratings, trespasses, offences, and all and singular other evil deeds and offences whatsoever, within the city and county aforesaid, from time to time perpetrated, done, arising or happening, which to the office of justices of the peace are incumbent, or do in any manner belong, or which thereafter shall happen to belong, or be incumbent on them, or which in any manner before justices of the peace ought or may be inquired into, heard and determined, together with the correction and punishment thereof, and to do and execute all other things within the city and county aforesaid, and the liberties and precincts thereof, as fully, freely and entirely, and in as ample manner and form as justices of the peace of us, our heirs and successors, any where within that part of our kingdom of Great Britain called England, by the laws, statutes or customs of England or by any other legal method whatsoever, heretofore had or exercised, or hereafter to be had or exercised, could, might or can do, and in as ample manner and form as if the same had been in these our letters particularly and by special words expressed, contained and mentioned. And that the said justices of the peace of us, our heirs and successors, in the city and county aforesaid, may have and exercise jurisdiction in all causes, matters and things whatsoever which to justices of the peace of our said city and county in any manner do or ought to belong. And further, that the mayor, recorder, and aldermen of the said city, for the time being and every of them, from time to time, and at all times forever hereafter, shall be justices assigned of Oyer and Terminer, and of the gaol delivery of all and every the gaols now being and hereafter to be in the said city and county, and either of them, and shall be named in every commission thereof to be made. And we do hereby for us, our heirs and successors, grant, order and appoint, that the sheriff and other ministers and officers of the said city, for the time being, shall and may and they are and each of them is hereby commanded, authorized and fully empowered to execute and return all and every the precepts and commands of the mayor, recorder and aldermen of the said city, for the time being, and either and any of them, from time to time, at all times, as fully and effectually as any sheriff, minister or officer of any county or city any where in that part of our kingdom of Great Britain called England, the mandates or commands of any justice of the peace, justice of Oyer and Terminer, of gaol delivery of or in any county there, hath used to make return or execute in any manner whatsoever.

27. And we do further, of our especial grace, certain knowledge, and meer motion, will, and by these presents for us, our heirs and successors, give, grant, ratify and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, that they and their successors forever hereafter, shall, can and may have and hold in the name of us, our heirs and successors, one court of record within the city of New York, and the liberties and precincts thereof upon every Tuesday in every year, before the mayor of the said city, for the time being, or his deputy, or the recorder of the said city, for the time being, and any three or more of the aldermen for the time being, or any four or more of them (whereof we will the mayor of the said city, for the time being, or his deputy, or the recorder of the said city, for the time being, to be one). And that the mayor of the said city, for the time being, or his deputy, or the recorder of the said city, for the time being, and three or more of the aldermen, and any four or more of them (whereof we will the said mayor, or his deputy, or the recorder, to be one), shall and may hold, plea, and have cognizance of all and all manner of complaints, actions and pleas of any lands and tenements within the said city of New York, and the limits and precincts thereof; and also of all actions of trespass with force and arms, and without replevin, ejectment, trover and conversion, trespass upon the case, debt, detinue, covenant, deceits, contracts, contempts, penalties, forfeitures, and all other actions and pleas, as well real as personal, and mixt, arising and accruing within the said city, and limits thereof; together with full power and authority to hear and determine all and every the same, and such actions and pleas aforesaid, and judgments thereon to render, and executions thereof to award and make, and to act and do everything therein in such manner and form, and by such and the like methods, process, and proceedings as fully and amply as in our other courts of record, in such or the like cases is used, or can or may be acted and done, according to the laws of that part of our kingdom of Great Britain called England, and of our said province of New York.

28. And we do hereby, for us, our heirs and successors, grant, order, and appoint that the sheriff and the coroner, and other ministers and officers of the said city, for the time being, shall and may, and they are, and each of them is hereby commanded, authorized and fully empowered to execute and return all and every the precepts and process of the said court, to them respectively directed, or to be directed, from time to time, and at all times, as fully and effectually as any sheriff, coroner, minister, or officer of or in any city or place within that part of our kingdom of Great Britain called England, the precepts and processes of any court of record there, hath used, or can or may execute and return in any manner howsoever; Provided always, That the mayor of the said city, for the time being, or his deputy, or the recorder of the said city, for the time being, and any three or more of the aldermen of the said city, or any four or more of them (whereof the mayor, or his deputy, or the recorder, we will to be one), may, and by these presents have, and shall have full power to adjourn the said court for any time not exceeding twenty-eight days.

29. And we do further will, and by these presents for us, our heirs and successors, give, grant, ratify and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors, and that they and their successors from henceforth forever hereafter, shall and may have, within the city aforesaid, a fit and discreet man to be, and who shall be, and be called the common clerk of the city aforesaid, to act and do all those things within the city aforesaid, and the limits and jurisdiction thereof, which to any common clerk of, or in any city, borough or town incorporated, any where in that part of our kingdom of Great Britain called England, by virtue of his office, can or ought to do. And also, that forever hereafter the common clerk of the city aforesaid, for the time being, shall also be clerk of the court of record, to be held before the mayor or his deputy, or the recorder, or any three or more of the aldermen of the said city, as aforesaid; and also clerk of our peace, and of the peace of our heirs and successors, and of the sessions of the peace for and in the city and county of New York, from time to time be held, and all and singular those things which to the offices of such clerk of the peace and of the sessions of the peace, do and shall appertain to do, act and execute ; and also shall and may require, demand, take, accept, hold, keep and enjoy all fees, perquisites and profits which may to any such common clerk, clerk of the peace, and of the sessions of the peace, do, or ought to belong. And we hereby give, grant, ratify, and confirm, for us, our heirs and successors, unto our beloved William Sharpas, gent. (one of the inhabitants of the city aforesaid), to be the present common clerk of the city of New York aforesaid ; and also clerk of the peace ; and of the sessions of the peace, for and in the city and county of New York, to continue in the offices aforesaid during his life, and to act and execute the same offices and places by himself or his deputy. And we do further, for us, our heirs, and successors, appoint, will and direct, that the governor or commander-in-chief of the said province of New York, for the time being, from time to time, and at all times after the death of the said William Sharpas, when and so often as the office and place of common clerk of the city shall happen to be vacant, shall and may appoint an honest and discreet man, being one of the inhabitants and a freeman or freeholder of the said city, to be common clerk of the said city, during his good behavior ; and so as often as such case shall happen. And we do further, for us, our heirs and successors, will and grant, that so often as the said office shall be vacant, the common council of the said city, for the time being, shall and may appoint one other honest and discreet citizen, being an inhabitant and freeman or freeholder of the said city, to be common clerk of the said city, and clerk of the said court of record, in and for the said city ; and clerk of the peace, and of the sessions of the peace, in and for the said city and county of New York, to act and execute the said offices, and who shall and may execute, do and receive all and whatsoever to the said offices and every of them belongs or shall belong or appertain, till in his room another honest and discreet person, being an inhabitant and freeman, or freeholder of the said city, shall be appointed into and for the said offices, by the governor or commander-in-chief of the said province, for the time being ; and shall have taken such an oath as is hereby directed for every such person so to be appointed to give and take ; and so from time to time, and so often as the case may or shall so happen.

30. And further, we do hereby constitute, name and appoint James Alexander, Joseph Murray, John Chambers, William Smith, George Lurting, William Jamison, Richard Nicolls, and Abraham Lodge, gentlemen, to be the present attorneys, and each of them to be an attorney of and in the said court of record, for and during the good behavior of each of them respectively ; and we do hereby for us, our heirs and successors, grant, and ordain that no other attorney or attorneys, person or persons whomsoever (besides the aforementioned attorneys, during the time that they shall all remain attorneys of the said court), shall be permitted or suffered to practice as an attorney of or in the said court, but all and every other attorney or attorneys, person and persons (besides the before-named attorneys during the time aforesaid) from being an attorney or attorneys of or in the said court, and from all practice as such, shall be, and are and each of them is excluded and debarred. And we do hereby, for us, our heirs and successors, give and grant unto the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, that the mayor of the said city, for the time being, or his deputy, or the recorder and any three or more of the aldermen of the said city, for the time being, or any four or more of them (whereof we will the mayor or his deputy, or the recorder of the said city, for the time being, to be one), shall and may (by and with the consent and approbation of our governor and commander-in-chief for the time being) have full power and authority, all or any of the before-named attorneys of the said court, and all or any other of the persons hereafter to be appointed, or admitted attorneys of or in the said court, for their or his evil behavior, in their or his said duty or office of attorneys, or an attorney of or in the same, or his or their being thereof legally convicted from being attorneys or an attorney of or in the said court to amove, displace and forever exclude, and after the amoval or death of any two or more of the before-named attorneys, upon the amoval or death of any other of the attorneys before named, or hereafter to be admitted, to recommend one other person to the governor or commander-in-chief of the said province of New York, for the time being, for his approbation, in the room of such attorneys, dying or being removed, each of which persons so to be recommended and approved of as aforesaid, shall and may be admitted and sworn an attorney of and in the said court, and as often as the case shall happen. And we do further, for us, our heirs and successors, grant and appoint that no other attorney or person whatsoever shall, after the death or amoval of any of the before-named attorneys, be admitted or suffered to practice as an attorney of or in the said court, but what shall be recommended and approved of as aforesaid. And further, we do for us, our heirs and successors, grant, will and ordain, that the number of attorneys of the said court shall not at any one time after the death or removal of any two or more of the before-named attorneys, forever hereafter exceed the number of six: Provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to extend to hinder us, our heirs or successors, from prosecuting or defending all or any suits, causes, actions or prosecutions in the said mayor's court by our attorney or solicitor-general for our said province, or the attorney or solicitor-general of us, our heirs or successors for the said province for the time being; nor to hinder the attorney or solicitor-general of us, our heirs and successors for the said province for the time being, to practice in the said court as counsel in any civil cause.

that the mayor, recorder and aldermen of the said city, for the time being, and each of them from time to time, and at all times forever hereafter, shall have by these presents full power and authority to have and take cognizance of and to hear, try and finally determine, with or without a jury, all pleas, suits, controversies and trespasses, wherein the value does not exceed the sum of forty shillings, in such manner as they or either of them shall think or adjudge to be agreeable and according to equity and good conscience; and for the more due proceeding herein, it shall and may be lawful for them, or either of them, to administer an oath to the plaintiff or defendant, and also to such witnesses as shall be produced by each party, if they, the said mayor, recorder and aldermen, or either of them, think fit; and in case either of the parties, plaintiff or defendant, shall not perform such order, judgment or decree, as the said mayor, recorder or aldermen, for the time being, or any of them, shall make or set down, then it shall and may be lawful for them, or any of them, to commit such party or parties to any prison of or in the said city, there to remain, until he, she or they, perform such order; and every marshal of the said city, for the time being, is hereby commanded and authorized to execute all and any the summonses, precepts and commands of them, the said mayor, recorder and aldermen, or any one of them, made, issued, or given in, about or concerning such suits, pleas, controversies and trespasses, or any of them, as shall be to him directed; and every keeper of the gaol for the city of New York, for the time being, is hereby commanded and authorized to receive, and safe keep in his gaol or custody, all such parties so committed or to be committed to the prison he shall then be the keeper of, until he, she or they shall perform such order accordingly.

32. And we do, for ourselves, our heirs and successors, by these our present letters, require and strictly charge and command, and fully empower the sheriff, common clerk, chamberlain, marshal, gaol keepers, high constable, petty constables, and all other subordinate officers of and in the said city, now chosen, elected, constituted or appointed, or that hereafter may be chosen, elected, constituted or appointed, and every of them respectively, jointly and severally, as cause shall require, to be obeisant and obedient to and attend upon the said mayor, recorder and aldermen of the said city, and every or any of them at all times hereafter, according to the duty or obligation of their respective offices and places; and to execute all and every the commands, precepts, warrants, and processes to them respectively directed and issued and given out, and to be issued and given out, by them the said mayor, recorder and aldermen, or any one of them.

33. And we do further hereby will, declare and ordain that before the mayor, deputy mayor, recorder, aldermen, assistants, assessors, sheriff, coroner, common clerk, chamberlain, high constable and petty constables of the said city, such of them as are hereby appointed and named, and all and every such as hereafter are to be appointed, elected or chosen, shall, before they be respectively permitted to execute their respective offices or places aforesaid, respectively be sworn as follows, to wit : The hereby named mayor of the said city, and every other person hereafter to be appointed to or for that office, to take the proper oath as such, and well and truly to execute the office of mayor, and all other offices and places, hereby appointed for each mayor to execute and act in, and the usual oath of a justice of peace, before the governor or commander-in-chief of the said province of New York, for the time being, in presence of three or more of the aldermen of the said city of New York, for the time being ; or, in case of the absence of the governor or commander-in-chief, for the time being, then before the oldest counsellor of the said province, for the time being, in the presence of three or more of the aldermen of the said city, for the time being. And we do hereby, for us, our heirs and successors, give and grant full power and authority to the governor or commander-in-chief of the said province for the time being, in the presence of three or more of the aldermen of the city aforesaid, for the time being, or in case of the absence of the said governor or commander-in-chief, then to the oldest counsellor of the said province for the time being, in the presence of any three or more of the aldermen of the said city for the time being, to administer such oaths accordingly, without any other warrant, commission or power from us, our heirs or successors ; and so from time to time, as often as the case shall or may require or happen. And the above named recorder of the said city of New York, and every other person hereafter to be appointed to or for that office, to take the proper oath as such officer ought to take, and an oath well and truly to execute the office of recorder, and the proper oath of a justice of peace, before the mayor of the said city, for the time being, or his deputy ; to which the same mayor, for the time being, or his deputy, we do, for us, our heirs and successors, give full power and authority, by these presents, to administer such oaths accordingly in the manner aforesaid, without any other warrant, commission or power from us, our heirs and successors ; and every deputy mayor or every alderman hereafter to be appointed to act as deputy mayor for the time being, to take the proper oath as such, an oath well and truly to execute the office of a deputy mayor, during the time for which he shall be appointed deputy, if the same mayor, his constituent, shall so long live. And if the said mayor shall happen to die within such time, that thereupon and from thenceforth such deputy mayor shall well and truly execute the office of mayor of the said city, until another fit person be appointed, and sworn mayor of the said city, in the manner in these present letters mentioned ; and shall also take the proper oath of a justice of the peace before the mayor or recorder, and any three or more of the aldermen of the said city for the time being. And we do hereby, for us, our heirs and successors, give full power and authority to the mayor or recorder of the said city, and to any three or more of the aldermen of the said city, for the time being, to administer such oaths as aforesaid without any other warrant, commission or power from us, our heirs or successors. And also, every alderman hereby appointed, and every person hereafter to be elected to or for the office or place of alderman of or in the said city, to take an oath well and truly to execute the office or place of alderman, and the proper oath of a justice of the peace, before the mayor of the said city, for the time being, or his deputy, or the recorder of the said city for the time being: And also, every assistant, assessor, sheriff, coroner, common clerk, chamberlain, high constable and petty constable hereby named, and every person hereafter to be elected or appointed to or for the office or place of an assistant, assessor, coroner, common clerk or chamberlain, or shall be appointed or elected to or for the office or place of high constable or petty constable of or in the said city, each of them respectively to take the proper oath for his respective office or place, and well and truly to execute the respective offices or places he is or shall have been respectively elected or named for before the said mayor of the said city for the time being, or his deputy or the recorder of the said city for the time being. And we do hereby give full power and authority to the mayor of the said city for the time being, or his deputy or the recorder of the said city for the time being, to administer such respective oaths to each of the respective persons aforesaid accordingly, without any other warrant, power or authority from us, our heirs or successors.

34. And further, of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion, we have granted, and by these presents do for ourselves, our heirs and successors, grant and confirm unto the aforesaid mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York aforesaid, and to their successors, that neither they nor any of them, nor any free citizen of the said city, during the time of their being inhabitants there, shall against their or any of their wills, out of the city aforesaid, be put or empaneled upon or in any assizes, juries or inquisitions whatsoever (although it toucheth, or doth or shall touch us, our heirs or successors, and although we or our successors, be or should or shall be parties), out of the said city, neither shall they or any one of them be made, elected or chosen assessor, taxpayer or collector of any taxes, duties, imposts or subsidies whatsoever, or of any part or parcel of them, or of any of them out of the said city; nor shall be ordained, elected, assigned or appointed constable, bailiff, or any other officer or minister, without or beyond the said city aforesaid, and the liberties and precincts thereof; nor shall be called upon, compelled or forced against their or any of their wills, to do, receive, occupy or discharge any of the duties or functions above mentioned, or any other office, duty or function whatsoever, without the city liberties and precincts aforesaid. And although the aforesaid mayor, recorder and aldermen, freemen or free citizens of the city aforesaid, or any of them, shall, while they are or remain inhabitants of the said city, against their or any of their wills, be put, empaneled or returned upon any assizes, juries or inquisitions whatsoever, out of the said city and limits thereof; or shall to any of the offices above mentioned, or any other office or function whatsoever out of the said city, be elected or chosen; and though they or any of them being summoned, empaneled or returned, elected or chosen as aforesaid, shall refuse or neglect to come and appear before our justices, or other justices, commissioners or officers of us, our heirs or successors (before whom such assizes, juries or inquests shall happen to be summoned or returned), or in or upon the same assizes, juries or inquests, shall refuse or neglect to be sworn or tried, or any of the offices, duties or functions aforesaid, shall refuse to do, receive, occupy or discharge, yet the person or persons so refusing any contempts, fines, amerciaments, penalties, forfeitures or loss whatsoever, by reason of such refusal or neglect to or towards us, our heirs or successors, shall not, nor either of them, shall in any wise incur, but therefrom and thereof, as well before us, our heirs and successors, as all other the justices, commissioners and other officers whatsoever of us, our heirs or successors, shall remain quiet and forever discharged.

35. And further, we do for us, our heirs and successors, by these present letters give, grant, ratify and confirm unto all and every the respective inhabitants and freeholders of the said city of New York, and their several and respective heirs and assigns forever, all and every the several and respective messuages, tenements, lands and hereditaments, situate, lying and being in the said city and Manhattan's Island aforesaid, to them severally and respectively granted, conveyed or confirmed, or mentioned, or intended to be granted, conveyed or confirmed, by any of the late governors, lieutenant-governors or commanders-in-chief of the said province, or by any of the former mayors or deputy mayors, and aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York, by that or any other name, style or title, or by others claiming under any such grant or conveyances, to have and to hold to them respectively, and to their respective heirs and assigns forever; saving and reserving the several rents and quit-rents, reserved and due, and to be due and payable from each of the several persons, to whom by virtue of any former grants to them (or those from or under whom they respectively hold) the same messuages, tenements, lands or hereditaments were made or given.

36. And further, of our special grace, certain knowledge, and meer motion, we do for us, our heirs and successors, give, grant, ratify and confirm to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of our said city of New York, and to their successors forever, full, special and free liberty, license, power and authority to take, receive, have, hold and enjoy to them and their successors forever, in fee-simple, any manors, messuages, lands, tenements, hereditaments, rents, and other possessions and real estate within or without the same city, as well of and from us, our heirs and successors, as of and from all and every other person and persons whomsoever ; so as the manors, messuages, lands, tenements, hereditaments, rents, and other possessions and real estate, which the mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York shall and may have in their possession and seizen, at any one time, exceed not in the whole the clear yearly rent or value of three thousand pounds per annum, money of our realm of Great Britain, beyond and above all charges and reprises, without any hinderance of us, our heirs or successors, or the justices, escheaters, sheriffs, coroners, bailiffs, or other the ministers of us, our heirs or successors ; and this without any other letters patent, liberty, license, or power from us, our heirs or successors, the statute of Mortmain, or any other act, law, or statute, or any other cause, thing or matter whatsoever, to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding ; and the same manors, messuages, lands, tenements, hereditaments, rents, and other possessions, or any part thereof, to demise, grant, lease and set over, assign and dispose at their own will and pleasure, and to make, seal, and accomplish any deed or deeds, lease or leases, evidences or writings, for or concerning the same or any part thereof.

37. And we do, by these presents, of our especial grace, certain knowledge, and meer motion, give, grant, ratify, and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, all those the now city hall and gaols, rooms or places for the courts of justice and chambers adjoining, with the ground and appurtenances thereto belonging, the five market-houses, the great dock, the now crane and wharf, with the common sewer leading through the great dock and bridge, and also the magazine or powder-house near the fresh water, all in the city of New York, and the ferry and ferries on both sides of the East river, and all other ferries now and hereafter to be erected and established all around the Island of Manhattan's ; and the management and rule of, and all fees, ferriages, and perquisites to the same, or any part thereof belonging or to belong ; and also the ferry-houses on Nassau Island, with the barns, stables, pen or pounds, and lot of ground thereto belonging ; and also all the ground, soil, or land between high-water and low-water mark, on the said Island of Nassau, from the east side of the place called Wall-about to the west side of Red Hook ; and also to make laws and rules for the governing and well ordering of all the ferries now erected or established, or hereafter to be erected or established round the said Island Manhattan's, and all the waste, vacant, unpatented, and unappropriated land lying and being within the said city of New York, and on Manhattan's Island aforesaid, extending to low-water mark ; together with the right, benefit, and advantage of all docks, wharves, cranes, and slips or small docks within this city, with the wharfage, craneage, and dockage, and all issues, rents, profits, and advantages arising, or to arise or accrue by or from all or any of them ; and all rivers, rivulets, creeks, coves, ponds, waters, water-courses, fishing, fowling, hunting, and hawking, mines and minerals, and other royalties and privileges, within the city of New York and Manhattan's Island; and also all and singular other the rights, privileges, liberties, franchises, pre-eminences, advantages, jurisdictions, courts, powers, offices, authorities, markets, ferries, ferriages, fees, fines, amerciements, perquisites, profits, immunities, lands, tenements, rents, possessions, and hereditaments, and other real estate, not only which in the before recited grant or writing, made or mentioned to be made in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and eighty-six, and in the before recited letters patent of Queen Anne, mentioned, or intended to be thereby, or by either of them granted or conveyed, but also, which the mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, or their predecessors, inhabitants or citizens of the said city of New York, or any part thereof, by whatsoever other name, style, or title they or any of them have been known or called, have held or claimed to hold by prescription or otherwise (silver and gold mines excepted), and also, except our Fort George in our city of New York, and the ground, full boundaries, and extent thereof or thereto belonging, and also that piece of ground near the English church, called the Governor's garden, and the land called the King's farm, with the swamp next to the same; and saving the several rents, reserved by virtue of former grants, and saving to all other persons, bodies politic and corporate, their respective titles to any of the said lands or tenements; and saving to the inhabitants of those that have plantations by the water-side, between Wall-about and Red Hook, the right of transporting themselves and their goods only in their own boats, from and to their respective dwellings or plantations, without paying ferriage, to have and to hold, all and singular the premises aforesaid, and every part and parcel thereof (except and saving as is herein excepted and saved), unto the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors forever, to their only proper use and behoof forever.

38. And also, we do further, of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion, give, grant, ratify, and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, and to their successors forever, all that space of ground and soil of Hudson's river now lying and being under the water of the same river, to begin at a certain place near high-water mark at the south end of a piece of upland, which lies between the said river and a piece of meadow ground or marsh, being the first piece of meadow ground or marsh near Hudson's river, to the southward of Greenwich, and from whence the above named run of water, called Bestaver's Killitie or rivulet, runs into Hudson's river, from which place of beginning to extend or run to the south side of the street, which runs from the parade before our fort in New York to Hudson's river, south eighteen degrees, thirty minutes west, on a straight line, the distance being one hundred and twenty-five chains, from which line to run a perpendicular breadth of, and to comprehend four hundred feet from low-water mark into Hudson's river, the same containing eighty-two acres and one half acre or thereabout. And also, all that space of ground and soil of the East river, from the north side of Corlaer's Hook to Whitehall, beginning at two large stones set on the south side of a small creek, in a marsh on the north side of Corlaer's Hook; from whence to the eastermost point of Corlaer's Hook, the distance on a straight line running south fifteen degrees thirty minutes east, is forty chains and two rods; from thence to Whitehall, on a straight line running south, seventy-eight degrees, thirty minutes west, the distance is one hundred and fifty-two chains, from which two lines to run a particular breadth of and to comprehend four hundred feet from low-water mark into the East river, the same containing one hundred and twenty-seven acres or thereabouts; together with all and singular the benefits, liberties, privileges, ways, water-courses, easements, wharfs, keys, profits, hereditaments and appurtenances to the same, or any part thereof belonging or appertaining, or to belong or to appertain, or that can in any wise be had, made, used or enjoyed thereon, or therewith used, with full power and authority at any time or times hereafter to fill, make up, wharf and lay out all and every part thereof; and the same to build upon and make use of in such manner as they, the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty, and their successors shall think fit; and also all of our estate, right, title, interest, benefit, claim and demand whatsoever of, in or to the same, and the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders, and the yearly and other rents, issues and profits thereof: To have and to hold, all and singular the premises aforesaid, unto them the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty, and their successors, to their own proper use and behoof forever, and to no other use, intent or purpose whatsoever. Provided always, that nothing in these presents shall be construed to empower or entitle the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, or their successors, to wharf out before any persons who have prior grants from us or some or one of our predecessors, of keys or wharfs beyond low-water mark, without the actual agreement or consent of such persons, their heirs or assigns, owners of such keys or wharfs. And also, that of the wharves to be built or run out, there shall be left towards the East and North rivers, forty feet broad, as well for the greater conveniency of trade, as at any time or times hereafter, for us, our heirs and successors, to plant batteries thereon, in case of any necessities; to do which, we do, for us, our heirs and successors, hereby reserve power; any thing herein contained to the contrary, in any wise notwithstanding; they, the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty, and their successors, rendering, yielding and paying, for all and every the rights, privileges, franchises, pre-eminences, advantages, jurisdictions, courts, powers, offices, authorities, fines, amerciements, perquisites, fees, ferriages, profits, immunities, lands, tenements, rents, possessions, hereditaments and other real estate, and all other the premises in and by these letters before and hereafter granted, or meant, mentioned or intended to be hereby granted unto us, our heirs and successors, or unto our or their receiver-general for the said province of New York, for the time being, at the custom-house in the said city of New York, yearly and every year, on the feast day of St. Michael the Archangel, the annual rent of thirty shillings, proclamation money, besides and over and above the yearly quit-rent of one beaver skin or the value thereof, in current money of our said province, in and by the aforesaid recited grant, made in the year one thousand six hundred and eighty-six, reserved to be paid on the twenty-fifth day of March, yearly, forever; and also the yearly quit-rent of five shillings, current money of New York, in and by the before recited letters patent of Queen Anne, reserved to be paid at or upon the feast day of St. John the Baptist, yearly forever.

39. And we do further, of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion, for us, our heir and successors, by these presents, give and grant unto the aforesaid mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York, and their successors forever, that they and their successors, all and singular the rights, privileges, franchises, pre-eminences, advantages, authorities, jurisdictions, liberties, offices, courts, powers, immunities, ferries, ferriages, profits and perquisites hereinbefore mentioned, or intended to be hereby granted or confirmed, shall and may forever hereafter have, hold, enjoy and use, without the hinderance or impediment of us, or heirs or successors, or of any of the justices, sheriffs, escheators, coroners, bailiffs or other officers or ministers whatsoever of us, our heirs or successors, albeit the same or some or any of them, have not been used or may have been abused, misused or discontinued, forfeited or lost, being unwilling, and hereby forbidding, that the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty, or their successor, or any of them by reason of the premises aforesaid or any part thereof, by us, our heirs, or by the justices, sheriffs, escheators, bailiffs or other officers or ministers of us, our heirs or successors, be hindered, molested, vexed or aggrieved, or in any wise disturbed: being willing, and by these presents for ourselves, our heirs and successors, commanding as well all the judges and justices of us, our heirs and successors, as the attorney and solicitor-general of us, our heirs and successors for the said province for the time being; and also all other officers and ministers whatsoever of us, our heirs and successors, for the time being, that neither they nor any of them do prosecute or continue, or cause to be prosecuted or continued, any information, or any writ or summons of quo warranto, or any or other writ or writs, prosecution, suit or process whatsoever against the aforesaid mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, or their successors for the time being, or against any of them, for any causes, things, offences, claims, usurpations or omissions, or any of them, by them, the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty, or any of them, or by their predecessors or any of them, or by any other mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York or any of them, done, attempted, claimed, used, had, usurped or committed, or omitted, at any time before the making of these letters. And we being willing also that the said now mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors shall not, nor shall any or either of them, be molested or impeached by or before any judge or judges, justice or justices, sheriffs, officers or other ministers, aforesaid, in or for any use, claim, abuse, usurpation, of any the aforesaid, or any other liberties, franchises, or jurisdictions, within the city aforesaid and the liberties and precincts thereof, before the day of the making of these letters, had, used, claimed, abused or usurped, not to or for them, or any of them, or for any other thing whatsoever, shall be compelled to answer; and also of our more abundant especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion, we have given, pardoned, remitted, released, and quit-claimed, and by these presents, do for ourselves, our heirs and successors, give, pardon, remit, release and quit-claim to the aforesaid mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York aforesaid, and to their successors forever, by whatsoever name the same mayor, aldermen and commonalty may be called, named or styled, or lately, heretofore were called, styled, named or titled, all and all manner of actions whatsoever, informations and suits of quo warranto and other informations, suits and prosecutions; and also, all and singular, usages, non-usages, abuses, forfeitures, usurpations, intrusions, omissions, and also, all unjust claims of any rights, privileges, liberties, franchises, jurisdictions, courts, powers, offices, fees, fines, amerciements, ferries, ferriages, perquisites, rents, possessions, lands, tenements or hereditaments whatsoever, by the aforesaid mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city aforesaid, or by any of their predecessors, or by any other mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, by whatsoever name or names, or incorporation, or by pretext of any incorporation, before the day of the making of these presents, perpetrated, made or claimed: and also, all and all manner of fines, amerciements, penalties, sums of money, and other forfeitures whatsoever, by reason of such usurpation, intrusion, usage, non-usage, omissions, abuse or unjust claim, and that they, the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors, and every of them be and shall be, and hereby are, thereof fully acquitted and discharged towards us, our heirs and successors forever; being unwilling that they or any of them should, by reason of the premises aforesaid, or any part thereof by us, our heirs and successors, or by any of our justices, sheriffs, ministers or officers whatsoever, be troubled, molested, or in any wise vexed.

40. And further we do, of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion, will, declare and signify, and by these presents for us, our heirs and successors, do grant unto and covenant with the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors, not only that they and their successors forever hereafter may and shall have, hold, use, possess and enjoy all the rights, privileges, liberties, franchises, jurisdictions, courts, powers, offices, authorities, markets, ferries, fees, fines, amerciements, perquisites, profits, immunities; and also all the rents, possessions, lands, tenements and hereditaments, and all other the premises in these presents mentioned, and intended to be hereby granted and confirmed; but also, that these our letters being entered upon record, as is hereinafter appointed, and the record or enrollment thereof, and either of them, and all and every thing therein contained, from time to time, and at all times hereafter be, and shall be, firm, valid, good, sufficient and effectual in law towards and against us, our heirs and successors, according to the true intention thereof; and in and through all things shall be construed, taken and expounded most benignly, and in favor, and for the most and greatest advantage, profit and benefit of the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors, as well in all courts as elsewhere, without any confirmation, licenses, tolerations procured or to be procured of us, our heirs and successors, notwithstanding that any writ or writs of ad quod damnum, have or have not issued, or is or are not returned before the making of these precepts, and notwithstanding the not reciting, mis-reciting, or not rightly or certainly reciting, or ill or wrong reciting the said rights, privileges, liberties, franchises, jurisdictions, courts, powers, offices, authorities, markets, ferries, fees, amerciements, perquisites, profits, immunities, rents, possessions, lands, tenements, hereditaments, and any other the premises in or by these presents granted or mentioned, or intended to be hereby granted, or any part or parcel thereof, and notwithstanding the not finding, or ill or not right or certain finding of any office or offices, inquisition or inquisitions of the premises hereby granted or mentioned, or intended to be hereby granted, or any part or parcel thereof, by which our title in and to the said premises, or any part thereof, might, could, should, or ought to have been found, before the making of these presents; and notwithstanding any defect in not reciting, or ill reciting of any lease, grant or grants of the premises, or any part thereof being upon record, or not upon record, or otherwise howsoever; and notwithstanding the ill-naming, misnaming, or not right or certain naming any place or precinct wherein the premises or any part thereof are or is; and notwithstanding any defect in not mentioning, or not fully, rightly or certainly mentioning the name or names of all or any of the rights, privileges, liberties, franchises, jurisdictions, courts, powers, offices, authorities, markets, ferries, fees, amerciements, perquisites, profits, immunities, rents, possessions, lands, tenements, hereditaments, or other the premises hereby granted or intended to be granted, or any part or parcel thereof or of the yearly or other rent of, or reserved in and upon the premises, or any part thereof; and notwithstanding any defect for the want of a computation or declaration, or for the omission of the true value of the premises in these presents mentioned, or intended to be hereby granted, or any part thereof, and notwithstanding any defect in not mentioning our true right, estate or title of or to the same premises, or any part or parcel of them; and notwithstanding the not mentioning, or not fully, rightly, or certainly mentioning the natures, kinds, species, or quantities of the premises, or any of them, or part or parcel of them; and notwithstanding any act, statute or ordinance of parliament, or any act of assembly; and notwithstanding any other defects, defaults, or imperfections, or any other cause or thing whatsoever. And further, that if any fault, mistake, or imperfection in time to come, shall be found in these presents, or any doubt, scruple or question be or shall be made, or shall happen to arise concerning the premises, or any part thereof, that we, our heirs and successors, shall, and will vouchsafe to make any other grant or assurance, under the great seal of us, our heirs or successors, of the said province of New York, to the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, for the time being, and their successors, at their own proper charges, for the better giving, granting and confirming, and for their safe and better enjoying the premises aforesaid, and every part thereof, when it shall be desired by the same mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, or their successors. Also we will, and by these presents grant unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty, that they shall and may have these presents, made and sealed under the great seal of our said province of New York, without rendering, paying or making any fine or fee, great or little, to us, or to our use for the same, although no express mention is made of the true yearly or other value, or of the certainty of the premises, or any part thereof, or of the gifts or grants, heretofore by us, or our ancestors, or by any governor, lieutenant-governor, or commander-in-chief of the said province of New York, to the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York, or to the citizens and inhabitants of New York, aforesaid, by that or any other name, style or title, or any other statute, act, ordinance, proclamation, provision or restriction, made, published, ordained or provided to the contrary, or any other cause or matter whatsoever, in anywise notwithstanding.

In testimony whereof, we have caused these our letters to be made patent, and the great seal of our said province to be hereunto affixed, and the same to be entered of record in our secretary's office of our said province, in one of the books of patents there remaining. Witness, our trusty and well-beloved John Montgomerie, Esq., our captain-general and governor-in-chief of our said province of New York, and the province of New Jersey, and territories depending thereon in America, and vice-admiral of the same, &c., at our Fort George in New York, the fifteenth day of January, in the fourth year of our reign.

May it please your Excellency,

I HAVE perused this Charter, and find nothing therein prejudicial to the interest of his majesty.

R. BRADLEY, Attorney-General.

To his Excellency, The Governor of the Province of New York, &c.

MEMORANDUM.

THIS REPRINT of the Charter has been made from one printed by order of the Common Council in 1832, and that was taken from a prior copy certified many years before by T. Wortman, as city clerk, to be a true copy. The editor has compared the edition of 1832, with the Charter as reprinted in 1793 by Hugh Gainé, and certified to be a true copy by Robert Benson, clerk. That was the best printed, and probably the most accurate copy of the Charter that has appeared.

 A N A C T

FOR CONFIRMING UNTO THE CITY OF NEW YORK ITS RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES.

PASSED THE 14TH OF OCTOBER, 1732.

I. Be it declared and enacted by the Governor, the Council and the General Assembly of the colony of New York, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, shall and may forever hereafter remain, continue and be a body corporate and politic, in refacto et nomine, by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York; and by that name to sue, plead and be impleaded, and to answer and to be answered, without any seizure or forejudger, for or upon any pretence of any forfeiture or misdemeanor at any time heretofore done, committed or suffered.

II. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all and singular letters patent, grants, charters and gifts, sealed under the great seal of the colony of New York, heretofore made and granted unto the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York be, and are hereby declared to be, and shall be good, valid, perfect, authentic and effectual in the law, and shall stand, be taken, reputed, deemed and adjudged good, perfect, sure, available, authentic and effectual in the law, against the King's majesty, his heirs and successors, and all and every person and persons whomsoever, according to the tenor and effect of the said letters patent, grants, charters and gifts.

III. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all and singular letters patent, grants, charters and gifts, sealed under the great seal of the colony of New York, heretofore made and granted unto the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York be, and are to all intents and purposes, hereby ratified and confirmed.

IV. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors, shall, and may forever hereafter, peaceably have, hold, use and enjoy, all and every the rights, gifts, charters, grants, powers, liberties, privileges, franchises, customs, usages, constitutions, immunities, markets, duties, tolls, lands, tenements, estates, and hereditaments, which have heretofore been given or granted under the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, by any letters patent, grant, charter or gift, sealed under the seal of the colony of New York.

V. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That this present act shall be accepted, taken and reputed to be a general and public act of assembly; of which all and every the judges and justices of this colony, in all courts, and all other persons, shall take notice on all occasions whatsoever, as if it were a public act of assembly, relating to the whole colony; anything herein contained to the contrary thereof in anywise notwithstanding.

TO AMEND THE CHARTER OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

PASSED APRIL 14, 1857, THREE-FIFTHS BEING PRESENT.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows :

SEC. 1. The Corporation now existing, and known by the name of "The Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New York," shall continue to be a body politic and corporate, in fact and in name, by the same name, and shall have perpetual succession, with all the grants, powers and privileges heretofore had by "the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New York."

§ 2. The legislative power of the said Corporation shall be vested in a Board of Aldermen and a Board of Councilmen, who together shall form the Common Council of the city of New York.

§ 3. The Board of Aldermen shall consist of one Alderman to be elected from each district in the city and county of New York, as hereinafter provided for. The members of the Board of Aldermen first elected under this act, shall be classified as follows: The Aldermen from districts having an odd numerical designation shall hold such office for the term of one year, and those from districts having an even numerical designation shall hold such office for the term of two years. At all subsequent elections for Aldermen, they shall be elected for the full term of two years.

§ 4. There shall be six Councilmen elected from each senatorial district in the city of New York, as the same now are or may hereafter be constituted, by general ticket, in each of said districts; and the persons so elected from each of said senatorial districts, shall together form the Board of Councilmen for the said city. The Councilmen shall be chosen for one year.

§ 5. No person shall be eligible to the office of Alderman or Councilman, who shall not, at the time of his election, be a resident of the district from which he is chosen

RINDYCK

§ 11. Every legislative act of the Common Council shall be by ordinance, act, or resolution, which shall have passed the two Boards of Common Council, before it shall take effect, shall be presented, duly certified, to the mayor of the city for his approval. If he approve, he shall sign it; if not, he shall return it within ten days thereafter, with his objections, to the Board in which it originated, or, if such Board be not tolls, lands, tenements, estates, and hereditaments, which have heretofore been given or granted under the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, by any letters patent, grant, charter or gift, sealed under the seal of the colony of New York.

V. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That this present act shall be accepted, taken and reputed to be a general and public act of assembly; of which all and every the judges and justices of this colony, in all courts, and all other persons, shall take notice on all occasions whatsoever, as if it were a public act of assembly, relating to the whole colony; anything herein contained to the contrary thereof in anywise notwithstanding.

Each Board shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and its doors shall be kept open, except when the public welfare shall require secrecy; and all resolutions and reports of committees, which shall recommend any specific improvement, involving the appropriation of public moneys, or the taxing or assessing the citizens of the city, shall be published immediately after the adjournment of the Board, under the authority of the Board, in all the newspapers employed by the Corporation, and shall not be passed or adopted until after such notice has been published at least two days; and whenever a vote is taken in relation thereto, the ayes and noes shall be called, and published in the same manner.

§ 8. Each Board shall have the authority to compel the attendance of absent members, to punish its members for disorderly behavior, and to expel a member with a concurrence of two-thirds of the members elected to the Board; and the member so expelled shall, by such expulsion, forfeit all his rights and powers as an Alderman or Councilman, and no Alderman or Councilman shall be questioned in any other place for any speech or vote in either Board.

§ 9. The stated and occasional meetings of each Board of the Common Council shall be regulated by its own ordinances; and both Boards may meet on the same or on different days, as they may severally judge expedient.

§ 10. Any person holding office under this charter, who shall, during his term of office, accept, hold or retain any other civil office of honor, trust or emolument under the government of the United States, or under this charter, or who shall, during his said term of office, receive any fees or emoluments, directed to be paid by any ordinance of the Common Council, except as is hereinafter provided, shall be deemed thereby to have vacated his office.

§ 11. Every legislative act of the Common Council shall be by ordinance, act, or resolution, which shall have passed the two Boards of Common Council, before it shall take effect, shall be presented, duly certified, to the mayor of the city for his approval. If he approve, he shall sign it; if not, he shall return it within ten days thereafter, with his objections, to the Board in which it originated, or, if such Board be not then in session, at its next stated meeting. The Board to which it shall be returned shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and cause the same to be published in one or more of the daily newspapers of the city. But no ordinance, act or resolution shall be valid, unless the same shall have received the assent of both Boards within the same year.

§ 12. The Board to which such ordinance, act or resolution shall have been so returned, shall, after the expiration of not less than ten days thereafter, proceed to reconsider the same. If, after such reconsideration, at least two-thirds of all the members elected to the Board shall agree to pass the same, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other Board, by which it shall be likewise reconsidered, and, if approved by at least two-thirds of all the members elected to such Board, it shall take effect as an act or law of the Corporation. In all such cases, the votes of both Boards shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the passage of the ordinance reconsidered shall be entered on the journal of each Board respectively.

§ 13. If the Mayor shall not return the ordinance so presented to him within the time above limited for that purpose, it shall take effect in the same manner as if he had approved of it.

§ 14. Any ordinance of the Common Council may originate in either Board, and when it shall have passed one Board, may be rejected or amended by the other. But no ordinance shall be passed by either Board, except by the vote of a majority of all the members elected to such Board.

§ 15. Neither the mayor nor recorder of the city of New York shall be a member of the Common Council thereof.

§ 16. The executive power of the Corporation shall be vested in the Mayor and the Executive Departments.

§ 17. Whenever there shall be a vacancy in the office of Mayor, or whenever the Mayor shall be absent from the city, or be prevented by sickness, or any other cause, from attending to the duties of his office, or shall be removed as hereinafter provided for, the President of the Board of Aldermen shall act as Mayor, and shall possess all the rights and powers of the Mayor, during the continuance of such vacancy, absence or disability, and until the next charter election, in the case of a vacancy or removal from office.

§ 18. It shall be the duty of the Mayor—

1. To communicate to the Common Council, at least once a year, and oftener if he shall deem it expedient, a general statement of the situation and condition of the city, in relation to its government, finances and improvements.

2. To recommend, for the adoption of the Common Council, all such measures connected with the police, security, health, cleanliness and ornament of the city, and the improvement of its government and finances, as he shall deem expedient.

3. To be vigilant and active in causing the ordinances of the city to be duly executed and enforced.

4. To exercise a constant supervision over the conduct and acts of all subordinate officers, and to receive and examine into all such complaints as may be preferred against any of them for violation or neglect of duty, and generally to perform all such duties as may be prescribed for him by the charter and city ordinances, and the laws of this State or the United States.

5. To appoint such clerks as may be authorized by the Common Council, and as may be required in his office, to aid him in the discharge of his official duties.

§ 19. The Mayor, Comptroller, and Counsel to the Corporation, shall each be elected by the electors of the city; the Mayor for the term of two years, the Counsel to the Corporation for the term of three years, and the Comptroller for the term of four years. The Comptroller shall be voted for on a separate ballot. The other heads of departments shall be appointed by the Mayor, with the advice and consent of the Board of Aldermen. The Board of Aldermen shall have power to confirm or reject all nominations of officers made by the Mayor; and whenever any person nominated by the Mayor shall be rejected by the Board of Aldermen, the Mayor shall immediately nominate another person.

§ 20. The Mayor, Comptroller, and Counsel to the Corporation, may each be removed by the Governor, for cause, in the manner provided by law in the case of sheriffs. The vacancy occasioned by the removal of the Comptroller, or Counsel to the Corporation, shall be filled by the Mayor, with the advice and consent of the Board of Aldermen, until it shall be supplied at the next annual election of charter officers.

§ 21. The other heads of the Executive Departments, except the officers of the Croton Aqueduct Board, shall hold their office for two years, and until the appointment of their successors. The Mayor shall have power to suspend, for cause, during any recess of the Common Council, and by and with the consent of the Board of Aldermen, to remove any of the heads of departments, except the Comptroller and the Counsel to the Corporation, which suspension, and the cause thereof, shall be communicated to the Common Council, if in session; and if not, then at the first meeting thereof. The Board of Aldermen shall have power, without the consent of the Mayor, by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected, to remove any of the heads of departments, for cause, other than the Comptroller and Counsel to the Corporation. The heads of departments shall have power to appoint and remove the chiefs of bureaux and clerks in their respective departments; except that the Chamberlain shall be appointed by the Mayor with the consent of the Board of Aldermen, and may be removed in the same manner with heads of departments. The chiefs of bureaux and clerks of departments and bureaux shall hold office during the same term enjoyed by the heads of departments, unless sooner removed. The Chief Engineer of the Fire Department shall be elected in the same manner as is now, or may hereafter be prescribed by law. The number of clerks to the departments shall be as fixed by the Common Council, who shall also fix the terms of all offices created by them under authority of law.

§ 22. There shall be an executive department, which shall be denominated the "Department of Finance," which shall have control of all the fiscal concerns of the Corporation, and shall prescribe the forms of keeping and rendering all city accounts; and all accounts rendered to, or kept in the other departments of the city government, shall be subject to the inspection and revision of the officers of this department. It shall settle and adjust all claims in favor of or against the Corporation, and all accounts in which the Corporation is concerned, either as debtor or creditor. The chief officer of this department shall be called the "Comptroller of the City of New York." There shall be a bureau in this department for the collection of the revenue accruing from rents and interest of bonds and mortgages, and for the collection of all revenues arising from the use or sale of property belonging to or managed by the city, and for the performance of such other duties as may be directed by the Common Council; the chief officer of which shall be called the "Collector of the City Revenue." There shall also be a bureau in this department for the collection of taxes; the chief officer thereof shall be called the "Receiver of Taxes," who shall have all the powers and perform all the duties now prescribed by law for the Receiver of Taxes, and the office of Receiver of Taxes, as heretofore constituted, and the provisions of law relating to him, are hereby modified so as to conform to the provisions of this act. There shall also be a bureau in this department for the collection of arrears of taxes, arrears of assessments, and arrears of water rents, the chief officer of which shall be called the "Clerk of Arrears." There shall also be a bureau in this department for the reception of all moneys paid into the treasury of the city, and for the payment of moneys on the warrant drawn by the Comptroller and countersigned by the Mayor and Clerk of the Common Council; and the chief officer thereof shall be called the "Chamberlain of the City of New York." The Chamberlain shall keep books, showing the amounts paid on account of the several appropriations; and no warrants shall be paid on account of any appropriations after the amount authorized to be raised by tax for that specific purpose shall have been expended. There shall be another bureau in the Department of Finance, to be called the "Auditing Bureau," and the chief officer thereof shall be the "Auditor of Accounts." It shall revise, audit and settle all accounts in which the city is concerned as debtor or creditor; it shall keep an account of each claim for or against the Corporation, and of the sums allowed upon each, and certify the same, with the reasons for the allowance, to the Comptroller. The Comptroller shall report to the Common Council, once in ninety days, the name of every person in whose favor an account has been audited, with the decision of the Auditor upon the same, together with the final action of the Comptroller thereon. All moneys drawn from the city treasury shall be upon vouchers for the expenditure thereof, examined and allowed by the Auditor, and approved by the Comptroller, and filed in his office.

§ 23. There shall be an executive department, which shall be denominated the "Street Department," which shall have cognizance of opening, altering, regulating, grading, flagging, curbing, guttering, and lighting streets, roads, places, and avenues; of building, repairing, and lighting wharves and piers, the construction and repairing of public roads, the care of public buildings and places, and the filling up of sunken lots, under the ordinances of the Common Council. The chief officer thereof shall be called "Street Commissioner." There shall be a bureau in this department, the chief officer of which shall be called the "Superintendent of Wharves." There shall also be a bureau in this department to be denominated the "Bureau of Repairs and Supplies," which shall have cognizance of all repairs and supplies to public buildings, lands, and places, and of all other necessary repairs and supplies, not provided for in other departments; the chief officer thereof shall be a practical builder, and he shall be called the "Superintendent of Repairs and Supplies." There shall also be a bureau in this department, to be denominated the "Bureau of Lamps and Gas," the chief officer of which shall be called "Superintendent of Lamps and Gas." The Chief Engineer of the Fire Department shall have a bureau under the Street Department, and shall have charge of repairing fire engines and fire apparatus. There shall be a bureau in this department, the chief officer of which shall be called the "Superintendent of Roads." There shall be a bureau in this department for the collection of assessments, and the chief officer thereof shall be called the "Collector of Assessments." There shall be a bureau in this department for grading, flagging, curbing, and guttering streets, the chief officer of which shall be called the "Superintendent of Street Improvements."

§ 24. There shall continue to be an executive department, under the denomination of the "Croton Aqueduct Board," which shall have charge of the Croton Aqueduct, and all structures and property connected with the supply and distribution of Croton water in the city of New York, and the under-ground drainage of the same; and the public sewers of said city, and permits for street vaults, and of paving, repaving, and repairing streets, and digging and constructing wells; and the collection of the revenues arising from the sale of the Croton water, with such other powers and duties as are or may be prescribed by law. The chief officers thereof shall be called the "President, Engineer, and Assistant Commissioner," who, together, shall form the Croton Aqueduct Board, and hold their offices for five years. There shall be a bureau in this department for the collection of the revenues derived from the sale of the water, and the chief officer thereof shall be called the "Water Registrar." There shall also be a bureau in this department for the laying of water pipes, and the construction and repairs of sewers, wells, and hydrants; paving, repaving, and repairing streets, the chief officer of which shall be called the "Water Purveyor."

§ 25. There shall continue to be an executive department, known as the "Alms-house Department," which shall have cognizance of all matters relating to the alms-house and prisons of said city; the chief officers thereof shall be called the "Governors of the Alms-house;" they shall take and hold their offices as provided by the act, entitled, "An act to provide for the government of the Alms-house and Penitentiary in the city and county of New York;" and be charged with the duties, powers, and responsibilities prescribed by that act. All ordinary appropriations intended for the support of the government of the Alms-house department, proposed by the Governors of the Alms-house, shall, before the same are finally made, be submitted by the Governors to a Board, consisting of the President of the Board of Aldermen, and the President of the Board of Councilmen, Mayor, and Comptroller. If said Board approve of the appropriations, it shall immediately report the same to the Supervisors of the county of New York; if it shall disapprove of the same, it shall return them, with objections, to the Governors of the Alms-house for their reconsideration; and in case the said Governors shall, upon a reconsideration, adhere, by a vote of two-thirds of all the Governors then in office, to the original appropriations, they shall return them to the said Board, whose duty it shall be to report to the Supervisors. The Board of Education shall also submit, in like manner, all appropriations required by it, and said appropriations shall be subject to all the provisions of this section, so far as the same may be applicable.

§ 26. There shall be an executive department, known as the "Law Department," which shall have the charge of, and conduct all the law business of the Corporation, and of the departments thereof, and all other law business in which the city shall be interested, when so ordered by the Corporation, and shall have the charge of, and conduct the legal proceedings necessary in opening, widening, or altering streets, and draw the leases, deeds, and other papers connected with the Finance Department; and the chief officer thereof shall be called the "Counsel to the Corporation." There shall be a bureau in this department, the chief officer of which shall be denominated the "Corporation Attorney." There shall be also a bureau in this department, the chief officer of which shall be called the "Public Administrator."

§ 27. There shall be an executive department, known as the "City Inspector's Department," the chief officer of which shall be the "City Inspector," and shall have cognizance of all matters affecting the public health, pursuant to the ordinances of the Common Council, and the lawful requirements of the Commissioners of Health and of the Board of Health. There shall be a bureau in the City Inspector's Department to be called the "Bureau of Sanitary Inspection and Street Cleaning," under the control of an officer named the "Superintendent of Sanitary Inspection," and who shall render such services as by ordinance may attach to said bureau in cleaning the streets, and in the abatement and removal of nuisances detrimental to the public health in said city. There shall also be a bureau in this department to be known as the "Bureau of Records and Statistics," and which shall be under the direction of the Registrar of Records, and in which bureau shall be kept all records which may by law or ordinance be required to be kept in said department. The Coroners in and for the city and county of New York shall make return to the City Inspector of all inquisitions taken by them in the said city and county (excepting those charging homicide or felonious assault, which shall be filed with the Clerk of the Court of General Sessions). There shall also be a bureau in this department for the inspection, regulation and management of the public markets, the chief officer of which shall be denominated "Superintendent of Markets." And it shall be the duty of the Croton Aqueduct Department, at all times, to permit the City Inspector to order the hydrants to be used for cleaning the streets, provided that such use shall not endanger the general supply of the Croton water, and shall be used under such regulations as the Croton Aqueduct Board may prescribe. The City Inspector shall, after the passage of this act, appoint such number of Inspectors and Sealers of Weights and Measures, as now or hereafter may exist, and who shall succeed to all the powers, and perform the duties, and receive compensation as now by law prescribed, and shall hold office upon the same terms as chiefs of bureaux.

§ 28. It shall be lawful for the Common Council of said city to establish such other bureaux as they may deem the public interest may require, and to assign to them, and to the departments and bureaux herein created, such duties as they may direct, not inconsistent with this act, and the duties thereof shall be performed in accordance with the charter and laws and ordinances of the city; but no expense shall be incurred by any of the departments or officers thereof, whether the object of expenditure shall have been ordered by the Common Council or not, unless an appropriation shall have been previously made covering such expense. And no member of the Common Council, head of department, chief of bureau, deputy thereof, or clerk therein, or other officer of the Corporation, shall be directly or indirectly interested in any contract, work or business, or the sale of any article, the expense, price or consideration of which is paid from the city treasury, or by any assessment levied by any act or ordinance of the Common Council; nor in the purchase of any real estate, or other property, belonging to the Corporation, or which shall be sold for taxes or assessments, or by virtue of legal process at the suit of the said Corporation.

§ 29. The Mayor, or either Board of the Common Council, may at any time require the opinion, in writing, of the head of any department upon any subject relating to his department, or any information possessed by him in relation thereto. And every head of department shall report in writing to the Common Council, quarterly, the state of his department, with such suggestion in relation to the improvement thereof, and to the public business connected therewith, as he may deem advisable.

§ 30. It shall be the duty of the Common Council to provide for the accountability of all officers and other persons to whom the receipt or expenditure of the funds of the city shall be intrusted, by requiring from them sufficient security for the performance of their duties or trust, which security shall be annually renewed; but the security first taken shall remain in force until new security shall be given.

§ 31. Annual and occasional appropriations shall be made by proper ordinances of the Common Council for every branch and object of city expenditure; and no money shall be drawn from the city treasury except the same shall have been previously appropriated to the purpose for which it is drawn.

§ 32. Until the Common Council shall otherwise direct, the existing ordinances shall apply to the departments herein mentioned, so far as the same are applicable thereto and not inconsistent with this act.

§ 33. The Common Council shall not have authority to borrow any sums of money whatever on the credit of the Corporation, except in anticipation of the revenue of the year in which such loan shall be made, unless authorized by a special act of the legislature.

§ 34. It shall be the duty of the Comptroller to publish, two months before the annual election of charter officers in each year, for the general information of the citizens of New York, a full and detailed statement of the receipts and expenditures of the Corporation during the year ending on the *the first day of the month in which such publication is made; and in every such statement, the different sources of city revenue, and the amount received from each; the several appropriations made by the Common Council; the objects for which the same were made, and the amount of moneys expended under each; the moneys borrowed on the credit of the Corporation; the authority under which each loan was made, and the terms on which the same was obtained, shall be clearly and particularly specified.

§ 35. No tax or penalty shall hereafter be imposed upon or collected of any person, nor license required for selling or exposing for sale upon his, her or their own premises in said city, any wholesome article of food; nor for selling such articles in such parts of the streets of said city as may be designated by the Common Council for that purpose.

* So in the original.

§ 36. The Clerk of the Board of Aldermen shall, by virtue of his office, be Clerk of the Common Council, and shall perform all the duties heretofore performed by the Clerk of the Common Council, except such as shall be assigned to the Clerk of the Board of Councilmen; and it shall be his duty to keep open for inspection, at all reasonable times, the records and minutes of the proceedings of the Common Council, except such as shall be specially ordered otherwise. The Clerk of each Board shall appoint, and may remove at pleasure, deputy clerks in his department, to the number authorized by ordinance. The Clerk of the Common Council shall keep the seal of the city; and his signature shall be necessary to all leases, grants, and other documents, as under existing laws.

§ 37. It shall be the duty of the Clerks of the respective Boards to publish all ordinances and amendments of ordinances which shall be passed, and also the proceedings, in the newspapers which may be employed by the Corporation, except such parts as may require secrecy; and whenever a vote shall be taken in either Board, upon the passage of an ordinance which shall contemplate any specific improvement, or involve the sale, disposition or appropriation of public property, or the expenditure of public moneys or income therefrom, or lay any tax or assessment, such ordinance shall, before the same shall be sent to the other Board, and immediately after the adjournment of the Board at which the same shall have been passed, be published with the ayes and noes, and with the names of the persons voting for and against the same, in the newspapers employed by the Corporation, as part of the proceedings; and no ordinance which shall have passed one Board shall be acted upon by the other Board on the same day, unless by unanimous consent, except in case of invasion, insurrection, riot or pestilence.

§ 38. All contracts to be made or let by authority of the Common Council for work to be done or supplies to be furnished, and all sales of personal property in the custody of the several departments or bureaux, shall be made by the appropriate heads of departments, under such regulations as shall be established by ordinances of the Common Council. Whenever any work is necessary to be done to complete or perfect a particular job, or any supply is needful for any particular purpose, which work and job is to be undertaken or supply furnished for the Corporation, and the several parts of the said work or supply shall together involve the expenditure of more than two hundred and fifty dollars, the same shall be by contract, under such regulations concerning it as shall be established by ordinance of the Common Council, unless by a vote of three-fourths of the members elected to each Board, it shall be ordered otherwise; and all contracts shall be entered into by the appropriate heads of departments, and shall be founded on sealed bids or proposals made in compliance with public notice advertised in such of the newspapers of the city as may be employed by the Corporation for the purpose; said notice to be published for at least ten days in each of the daily newspapers so employed; and all such contracts, when given, shall be given to the lowest bidder, the terms of whose contract shall be settled by the Corporation Counsel as an act of preliminary specification to the bid or proposal, and who shall give security for the faithful performance of his contract in the manner prescribed and required by ordinance; and the adequacy and sufficiency of this security shall, in addition to the justification and acknowledgment, be approved by the Comptroller. All bids or proposals shall be publicly opened by the officers advertising for the same, and in the presence of the Comptroller. If the lowest bidder shall neglect or refuse to accept the contract within forty-eight hours after written notice that the same has been awarded to his bid or proposal, it shall be readvertised and relet as above provided. All property sold under the authority of the Common Council, shall be sold at auction, after previous public notice, under the superintendence of the appropriate head of department. Every contract, when made and entered into as before provided for, shall be executed in duplicate, and shall be filed in the Department of Finance; a receipt for each payment made on account of, or in the satisfaction of, the same shall be indorsed on the said contract by the party receiving the warrant; which warrant shall be only given to the person interested in such contract, or his authorized representative. The proceeds of all sales made under and by virtue of this section, shall be by the officer receiving the same, immediately deposited with the City Chamberlain, and the account of sales verified by the officer making the sale, shall be immediately filed in the office of the Comptroller. No expenditure for work or supplies, involving an amount for which no contract is required, shall be made, except the necessity therefor be certified to by the head of the appropriate department, and the expenditure be as authorized by the Common Council.

§ 39. Every person elected or appointed to any office under the city government, shall, on or before the 1st day of January next succeeding each election, or within five days after notice of such appointment, take and subscribe an oath or affirmation, faithfully to perform the duties of his office; which oath or affirmation shall be filed in the Mayor's office.

§ 40. Any officer of the city government, or person employed in its service, who shall willfully violate or evade any of the provisions of this charter, or commit any fraud upon the city, or convert any of the public property to his own use, or knowingly permit any other person so to convert it, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, in addition to the penalties imposed by law, shall forfeit his office, and be excluded forever after from receiving or holding any office under the city charter; and any person who shall willfully swear falsely in an oath or affirmation required by this act, shall be guilty of perjury.

§ 41. All ferries, docks, piers and slips shall be leased; and all leases and sales of public property and franchises (other than grants of land under water, to which the owners of the upland shall have a pre-emptive right), shall be made by public auction, and to the highest bidder, who will give adequate security. No lease hereafter given (except as the same may be required by covenants of the Corporation already existing), shall be for a longer period than ten years; and all ferry leases shall be revocable by the Common Council for mismanagement, or neglect to provide adequate accommodations. All persons acquiring any ferry lease, or other franchise or grant under the provisions of this act, shall be required to purchase, at a fair appraised valuation, the boats, buildings, and other property of the former lessees or grantees, actually necessary for the purposes of such ferry grant or franchise. Previous notice of all sales referred to in this section shall be given, under the direction of the Comptroller, in the newspapers employed by the Corporation, and for thirty days in each of the daily newspapers so employed.

§ 42. No money shall be expended by the Corporation for any celebration, procession, or entertainment of any kind, or on any occasion, unless by the votes of three-fourths of all the members elected to each Board of the Common Council.

§ 43. The Common Council are hereby authorized and directed to make all necessary arrangements for the conduct and regulation of all elections authorized under the provisions of this act, and in conformity, as far as may be, to the general election laws, except as herein otherwise provided.

§ 44. No officer under this charter, except the Collector of City Revenue, Collector of Assessments, Clerk of Arrears, Counsel to the Corporation, or Inspector of Vessels, shall have or receive from the Corporation or City Treasurer any perquisites, or any compensation or commission for his services, except a salary, except that the City Inspector may receive to his own use such portion of the fees allowed for recording births and marriages, as are or may be prescribed by law. The salaries of all officers provided for by this act, or that may be created by the Common Council, in pursuance of this act, shall be prescribed by ordinance, to be passed by the Common Council, and approved as hereinbefore provided, for the approval of all ordinances, for raising and appropriating the money, or disposing of the property of the city; and any fees that now are, or hereafter may be provided for any officer under this charter, except as aforesaid, shall, on the receipt thereof, be paid by such officer into the city treasury. No member of the Common Council shall receive any compensation for his services as such member.

§ 45. All officers or other persons, to whom the receipts or expenditures of the city, or fees or funds payable into the city treasury, shall be intrusted, shall give sufficient security for the faithful performance of their duty, in such form and amount as the Common Council may prescribe, which shall be annually renewed.

§ 46. No additional allowance, beyond the legal claim, under any contract with the Corporation, or for any services on its account, or in its employment, shall ever be allowed.

§ 47. No bid shall be accepted from, or contract awarded to, any person who is in arrears to the Corporation upon debt or contract, or who is a defaulter, as surety or otherwise, upon any obligation to the Corporation.

§ 48. No alderman shall hereafter sit or act as Judge of the Court of Oyer and Terminer, or in the Courts of General or Special Sessions in the city and county of New York; but this section shall not prevent his exercising the power of magistrate in the arrest, commitment, or bailing of offenders, excepting that he cannot let to bail or discharge a person arrested or committed by another magistrate. Courts of Oyer and Terminer in and for the city and county of New York, may be held by a Justice of the Supreme Court, and the Court of General Sessions in and for the said city and county, by the Recorder or City Judge of the said city and county; of Special Sessions therein, by any two Police Justices of said city; and when either of the said courts shall be held as aforesaid, all the powers and jurisdiction appertaining by law to each of said courts, shall be possessed and exercised by the officer or officers holding the same.

§ 49. The Grand Jury of the county may present any officer other than Mayor, Counsel to the Corporation, or Comptroller, created by or holding office under this charter, but only upon testimony from witnesses who are personally cognizant of the facts they testify to, and after the person so charged shall have had a reasonable opportunity to appear before said Grand Jury in person, in explanation thereof. This presentment may charge such officer with willful and fraudulent omission of duty, or commission of any official act prohibited by law. It shall be filed with the clerk of the court to which the presentment is made. A copy shall be served upon the officer presented as aforesaid, who shall be required to plead thereto as an indictment. If he admit the charges of the presentment so filed and served, the court shall declare his office vacant. If he deny them, the said presentment shall be tried in the same manner as an indictment. If the jury convict him of any charge contained in the presentment, the court shall then declare his office vacant. The court shall order its declaration, if the person so presented shall be found guilty, to be entered on its minutes, and a copy thereof filed with the Clerk of the Common Council, and thereupon the said office shall become vacant, and the person so convicted shall forever be disqualified from holding any office, not elective, under the city charter.

§ 50. The city of New York shall be divided into seventeen aldermanic districts, as follows:

The first district shall consist of all that part of the city south of a line drawn from the Hudson river through the middle of Chambers street to the middle of Duane street, down the middle of Duane street to Rose street, down the middle of Rose street to Frankfort street, down the middle of Frankfort street to Pearl street, down the middle of Pearl street to Dover street, and down the middle of Dover street to the East river.

The second district shall be bounded southerly by first district, then up the middle of Broadway, from Chambers to Franklin street, down the centre of Franklin to Baxter street, up the centre of Baxter to Bayard street, through the centre of Bayard to Bowery, down the centre of Bowery to Catharine street, and down the centre of Catharine street to East river, and east by the river.

The third district shall be bounded southerly by the first district, then up the middle of Broadway from Chambers street to Spring street, through the middle of Spring street to Hudson river, and bounded west by the river.

The fourth district shall be bounded southerly by second district, then up the middle of Broadway from Franklin to Grand street, through the centre of Grand street to Clinton street, down the centre of Clinton street to East river, and east by the river.

The fifth district shall be bounded southerly by the third district, then by a line drawn up the middle of Broadway from Spring street to Fourth street, thence through the centre of Fourth street to Christopher street, and through the centre of Christopher street to Hudson river, and bounded west by the river.

The sixth district shall be bounded southerly by the fourth district, then by a line drawn up the middle of Broadway from Grand street to Houston street, then down the middle of Houston street to Clinton* street, and down the middle of Clinton street to Grand.

The seventh district shall be bounded southerly by the fifth district, then by a line drawn up the middle of Broadway from Fourth to Fourteenth street, and through the centre of Fourteenth street to Hudson river, and west by the river.

The eighth district shall be bounded south and east by the East river, on the west and north by a line drawn from the river up the middle of Clinton street to Houston street, and down the middle of Houston street to said river.

The ninth district shall be bounded southerly by the seventh district, and then by a line drawn through the middle of Sixth avenue from Fourteenth street to Twenty-sixth street, and then through the centre of Twenty-sixth street to Hudson river, and west by the river.

The tenth district shall be bounded on the south by the sixth district, thence by a line drawn through the middle of Broadway from Houston street to Fourteenth street, down the middle of Fourteenth street to avenue A, and down the middle of avenue A to Houston street.

The eleventh district shall be bounded southerly by the ninth district, thence by a line drawn through the middle of Sixth avenue, from Twenty-sixth street to Fortieth street, and through the centre of Fortieth street to Hudson river, and west by said river.

* So in the original.

The twelfth district shall be bounded southerly by the middle of Houston street, thence by a line drawn up the middle of avenue A, from Houston street to Fourteenth street, and down the middle of Fourteenth street to the East river, and east by said river.

The thirteenth district shall be formed of the territory now known as the Twenty-second Ward.

The fourteenth district shall be bounded by a line commencing at the intersection of Fourteenth street with the East river, thence through the centre of Fourteenth street to the Sixth avenue, thence through the centre of Sixth avenue to Twenty-sixth street, thence through the centre of Twenty-sixth street to the East river, and easterly by said river.

The fifteenth district shall be bounded southerly by the fourteenth district, thence through the centre of Sixth avenue from Twenty-sixth street to Fortieth street, thence through the centre of Fortieth street to the East river, and easterly by said river.

The sixteenth district shall comprehend the territory now known as the Nineteenth Ward.

The seventeenth district shall comprehend the territory now known as the Twelfth Ward, being that portion of the city of New York north of the centre of Eighty-sixth street.

§ 51. The Mayor, Aldermen and Councilmen, provided for in this act, shall be elected at the first election for charter officers, to be held after the passage hereof, which election shall take place on the first Tuesday of December, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven; all persons who shall have been elected under former laws, regulating or affecting the election of charter officers, and shall be in office at the time of the passage of this act, shall continue in office until the officers elected under this act shall take office, and no longer, except that the offices of Commissioner of Repairs and Supplies, and of Commissioner of Streets and Lamps, are hereby abolished, and except that the persons now filling the several offices of Comptroller, Counsel to the Corporation, Street Commissioner and City Inspector, and the officers of the Croton Aqueduct Department, shall continue in office until the expiration of their several terms, and shall not be removed from office during such continuance, except for the cause and in the manner provided for in sections 20 and 49 of this act, and all other charter officers, and all school officers, and each governor of the Alms-house, whose terms of office may expire with the present municipal year, shall be also elected on the day before provided for by this section.

§ 52. Every person who shall promise, offer or give, or cause, or aid, or abet, in causing to be promised, offered or given, or furnish, or agree to furnish, in whole or in part, to be promised, offered or given to any member of the Common Council, or any officer of the Corporation, after his election as such member, or before or after he shall have qualified and taken his seat, any moneys, goods, right in action or other property, or any thing of value, or any pecuniary advantage, present and prospective, with intent to influence his vote, opinion, judgment or action on any question, matter, cause or proceeding which may be then pending, or may, by law, be brought before him, in his official capacity, shall, upon conviction, be imprisoned in a penitentiary, for a term not exceeding two years, or shall be fined, not exceeding five thousand dollars, or both, in the discretion of the court. Every officer in this section enumerated, who shall accept any such gift, or promise, or undertaking, to make the same, under any agreement or undertaking, that his vote, opinion, judgment or action shall be influenced thereby, or shall be given in any particular manner, or upon any particular side of any question, matter, cause or proceeding then pending, or which may by law be brought before him in his official capacity, shall, upon conviction, be disqualified from holding any public office, trust or appointment, under the charter of the city of New York, and shall forfeit his office, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding two years, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or both, in the discretion of the court. Every person offending against either of the provisions of this section, shall be a competent witness against any other person offending in the same transaction, and may be compelled to appear and give evidence before any grand jury or in any court, in the same manner as other persons; but the testimony so given shall not be used in any prosecution or proceeding, civil or criminal, against the person so testifying.

§ 53. The annual election for charter officers, school officers, and Governors of the Alms-house, after the year eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, shall be held on the first Tuesday in December, and the officers elected at the first election, as hereinbefore provided, and in each year thereafter, shall take office on the first Monday of January next succeeding. All the provisions of law now in force in regard to the notification, duration, conduct of election, and canvassing of votes at general elections, shall apply to the first election provided for herein, and to each annual election of charter officers, except that the returns of all elections provided for by this act shall be filed by the district canvassers in the several districts, with the Clerk of the Common Council, within twenty-four hours after the polls are closed, and the said returns shall be canvassed by the Board of Aldermen, sitting as a Board of City Canvassers. The Clerk of the Common Council shall be Clerk to the said Board of City Canvassers; and the said Board shall meet on the Thursday succeeding such election, and shall, within ten days thereafter, wholly complete such canvass, and file, within the same time, duplicate statements of the result in the respective offices of the Clerk of the Common Council and County Clerk. The Clerk of the Common Council, within five days succeeding the filing of the said statement, shall give to each person declared elected a certificate thereof.

§ 54. The act to amend the charter of the city of New York, passed

April seventh, eighteen hundred and thirty, and the act to amend the charter of the city of New York, passed April second, eighteen hundred and forty-nine, and the act to amend an act entitled an act to amend the charter of the city of New York, passed April second, eighteen hundred and forty-nine, passed July eleventh, eighteen hundred and fifty-one; and the act further to amend the charter of the city of New York, passed April twelfth, eighteen hundred and fifty-three; and the act supplementary to an act entitled an act further to amend the charter of the city of New York, passed April twelfth, eighteen hundred and fifty-three, passed June fourteenth, eighteen hundred and fifty-three, are hereby repealed; and all laws inconsistent with this act are also hereby repealed; but the charter of the city of New York, known as the Dongan and Montgomerie charters, so far as the same or either of them are now in force, shall continue and remain in full force, and shall not be construed as repealed, modified, or in any manner affected hereby. This section shall not prejudice or affect any right accrued, or proceeding commenced before this act takes effect.

§ 55. This act shall take effect on the first day of May, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven.

AN ACT

RELATING TO THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

PASSED APRIL 15, 1857, THREE-FIFTHS BEING PRESENT.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SEC. 1. The Mayor and Recorder of the city of New York shall cease to be members of the Board of Supervisors of the county of New York. There shall be voted for, at each and every charter election hereafter to be held in the city of New York, twelve Supervisors, who shall, together, compose the Board of Supervisors of the county of New York, and hold office for one year, from the first of January in each and every year hereafter. They shall be voted for upon a separate and general ticket, but only six names for Supervisors shall be upon one ticket. The six persons receiving the highest number of votes shall be declared elected by the Board of City Canvassers, who shall canvass the votes in the same manner as they are required to canvass votes for charter officers; and all the provisions of law relating to election of charter officers are hereby applied to the election of Supervisors. On or before the twenty-fourth day of December, in each and every year succeeding the charter election, the Mayor of the city shall appoint, as Supervisors, the six persons receiving severally the highest number of votes next to the votes received by the six Supervisors having the return of the Board of City Canvassers.

§ 2. The vote of a majority of all the members elected to the Board of Supervisors shall be necessary to pass any act, ordinance or resolution appropriating money; and every act, ordinance or resolution which shall have passed the Board of Supervisors, except such as levy any tax or taxes, before it shall take effect, shall be presented, duly certified, to the Mayor of the city of New York, for his approval. If he approve, he shall sign it; if not, he shall return it with his objections, to the Board, within ten days thereafter, or if said Board be not in session, at its next meeting after that period. The Board shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and cause the same to be published in one or more of the daily newspapers of the city of New York.

§ 3. The Board shall, after the expiration of not less than ten days thereafter, proceed to reconsider the same; and such act, resolution or ordinance, if approved by a majority of all the members elected to the Board, shall thereupon take effect. In all such cases, the votes of the Board shall be determined by the ayes and noes, and the names of the persons voting for and against its passage shall be entered on the journal of the Board.

§ 4. If the Mayor shall not return any act, resolution or ordinance so presented to him, within the time above limited for that purpose, it shall take effect in the same manner as if he had signed it.

§ 5. No money shall be drawn from the treasury, except the same shall have been previously appropriated to the purpose for which it is drawn; and no expense shall be incurred, whether it shall have been ordered by the Board or not, unless an appropriation of money, then in the treasury, sufficient to cover such expense, shall have been previously made.

§ 6. The Finance Department of the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the city of New York, and its officers, shall have the like power, and perform the like duties, in regard to the fiscal concerns of said Board, as they possess in regard to the local concerns of the said Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty. All moneys drawn from the treasury, by authority of the Board of Supervisors, shall be upon vouchers for the expenditure thereof, examined and allowed by the Auditor, and approved by the Comptroller, and no such moneys shall be drawn therefrom, except on a warrant drawn by the Comptroller, and countersigned by the Mayor and Clerk of the Board, and no other warrant shall be necessary for such purpose.

§ 7. No allowance or payment, beyond legal claims, shall ever be allowed by the Board.

§ 8. The members of the Board of Supervisors, when attending as members of the Board of County Canvassers, shall not receive compensation for a greater period than ten days, for canvassing the votes of any election; nor shall any person receive any compensation for services as a Supervisor of the said county of New York.

§ 9. The Counsel to the Corporation of the City of New York shall be the legal adviser of the said Board of Supervisors, and shall receive such compensation for his services as shall be fixed by said Board, not exceeding the sum of two thousand dollars per annum.

§ 10. This act shall take effect immediately.

N. P. STANTON,

Dep. Sec. of State.

AN ACT

TO AMEND AN ACT ENTITLED "AN ACT RELATING TO THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF NEW YORK," PASSED APRIL FIFTEENTH, EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SEVEN.

PASSED APRIL 17, 1858, THREE-FIFTHS BEING PRESENT.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows :

SEC. 1. The first section of the act entitled "An act relating to the Board of Supervisors of the county of New York," passed April fifteenth, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, is hereby amended to read as follows :

The Mayor and Recorder of the city of New York shall cease to be members of the Board of Supervisors of the county of New York; the members now composing the said Board of Supervisors shall continue to be members thereof, as hereinafter mentioned; on or before the first Monday of May, eighteen hundred and fifty-eight, the present members of said Board shall meet at their usual place of meeting in said county, and the six members thereof, elected by the votes of the electors, shall then and there, in the presence of the Mayor of said city, classify themselves, respectively, by lot, into six classes, and the six members of said Board appointed in December, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, by the Mayor of said city, shall also classify themselves respectively, at the same time and place, and in the same presence and manner, into six classes; the terms of office of the two members of the first class shall expire on the thirty-first day of December, eighteen hundred and fifty-eight; the term of office of the two members of the second class shall expire on the thirty-first day of December, eighteen hundred and fifty-nine; the term of office of the two members of the third class shall expire on the thirty-first day of December, eighteen hundred and sixty; the term of office of the two members of the fourth class shall expire on the thirty-first day of December, eighteen hundred and sixty-one; the term of office of the two members of the fifth class shall expire on the thirty-first day of December, eighteen hundred and sixty-two; and the term of office of the two members of the sixth class shall expire on the thirty-first day of December, eighteen hundred and sixty-three. At the general election to be held in the city of New York in this year, and at every succeeding general election, two Supervisors shall be voted for upon a separate general ticket, but only one name for Supervisor shall be on any one ticket, and any ticket having thereon more than one name for Supervisor, shall not be counted. The person having the highest number of votes shall be declared elected by the Board of County Canvassers, who shall canvass the votes, and all the provisions of law relating to the election of county officers in said county, are hereby applied to the election of Supervisors. On or before the fourth Wednesday of December, in each and every year, the Mayor of said city shall appoint, as a Supervisor, the person who received the highest number of votes for Supervisor, next to the votes received by the Supervisor having the return of the Board of County Canvassers, as having been elected at the election last held.

§ 2. The second section of the said act is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

The vote of seven of the members of the said Board of Supervisors in the affirmative, or in favor thereof, shall be necessary to pass any ordinance or resolution appropriating money, or to fill any vacancy in said Board, or to do any act or thing, except to adjourn from day to day, and every act, ordinance or resolution, which shall have passed the said Board of Supervisors, except such as levy any special tax or taxes, or fill a vacancy, in said Board, before it shall take effect, shall be presented, duly certified, to the Mayor of the city of New York, for his approval; if he approve, he shall sign it; if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the Board, within ten days thereafter, or if said Board be not in session, at its next meeting after that period; the Board shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and cause the same to be published in one or more of the daily papers of the city of New York.

§ 3. In case of any vacancy in said Board by death, resignation, or otherwise, the same shall be supplied by the remaining members thereof, and the person thus appointed shall hold his office as a member of said Board for the unexpired term of the member thereof in whose place he shall have been appointed.

§ 4. This act shall take effect immediately.

OF THE
BOARD OF ALDERMEN
FOR 1861.

PASSED JANUARY 7, 1861.

I. Upon the appearance of a quorum, the President, or, in his absence, a President pro tem., shall take the chair, as President, and the members be called to order.

II. In case the President shall not attend, the Clerk, on the appearance of a quorum, shall call the Board to order, when a President, pro tem., shall be appointed by the Board, for that meeting, or, until the appearance of the President.

III. After the reading and approving of the minutes, the order of business, which shall not in any case be departed from, except by the consent of twelve members voting therefor, shall be as follows:

1st. Presentation of Petitions.

2d. Motions or Resolutions.

3d. Reports of Committees.

4th. Communications and Reports from the Department or Corporation Officers.

5th. Unfinished Business.

6th. Special Orders of the Day.

7th. Messages, Papers from the Mayor or the Board of Councilmen, may be considered at any time.

IV. Whenever the President may wish to leave the chair, he shall have power to substitute a member in his place, provided that substitution shall not continue beyond the day on which it is made.

V. The President, in all cases, has the right of voting; and when the Board shall be equally divided, including his vote, the question shall be lost.

VI. Whenever it shall be moved or carried, that the Board go into Committee of the Whole, the President shall leave the chair, and shall appoint a Chairman of the Committee of the Whole, who shall report the proceedings of the Committee. The rules of the Board shall be observed in the Committee of the Whole, except the rules respecting a call for the ayes and noes, and limiting the time for speaking.

VII. On motion, in Committee, to rise and report, the question shall be decided without debate.

VIII. No amendment shall be allowed in the Board on any question which has been decided in Committee of the Whole, unless by consent of two-thirds of the members present.

IX. If the question in debate contains several points, any member may have the same divided.

X. A motion to refer or lay on the table, until it is decided, shall preclude all amendments to the main question.

XI. When a question has been once put and decided, it shall be in order for any member who voted in the majority, to move for the reconsideration thereof; but no motion for the reconsideration of any vote, shall be made after the ordinance, resolution, or act, shall have gone out of possession of the Board; and no motion of reconsideration shall be taken more than once.

XII. No act, resolution, or ordinance, shall be sent from this Board to the other Board for concurrence, on the same day on which it passes this Board, unless upon the consent of a majority of the members present, first had and obtained; nor shall any ordinance sent to this Board from the other Board, for concurrence, be acted upon the same day it passed the other Board, unless by unanimous consent of the members present, except in cases of invasion, insurrection, or pestilence.

XIII. It shall be the duty of the Clerk to publish all ordinances and amendments of ordinances, which shall be passed, and also the proceedings, in the newspapers employed by the Corporation, except such parts as may require secrecy; and whenever a vote shall be taken upon the passage of a resolution or ordinance which shall contemplate any specific improvement, or involve the sale, disposition, or appropriation of public property, or lay any tax or assessment, he shall, before the same is sent to the other Board, and immediately after the adjournment, cause the same to be published, with the ayes and noes, with the names of the persons voting for and against the same, in at least two newspapers, as a part of the proceedings, and shall thereafter certify, and send to the other Board, every act, ordinance, and resolution, which has originated in, and passed this Board, and which requires a concurrent vote of the Board of Councilmen; and to deliver to the Mayor, certified in like manner, all such ordinances and resolutions which shall have been received from the Board of Councilmen, and concurred in by this Board, and which are required to be submitted to him for approval, and shall certify to the other Board the proceedings of this Board, in reference to all acts or business originating with the other Board.

XIV. The President shall preserve order and decorum, and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the Board.

XV. Every member, previous to his speaking, shall rise from his seat, and address himself to the President.

XVI. When two or more members shall rise at once, the President shall name the member who is first to speak.

XVII. No person shall speak more than twice to the same question, without leave of the Board; nor more than once, until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken.

XVIII. While a member is speaking, no member shall entertain any private discourse, or pass between him and the chair.

XIX. No question on a motion shall be debated or put, unless the same be seconded. When a motion is seconded, it shall be stated by the President before debate; and every such motion shall be reduced to writing, if any member desire it.

XX. After a motion is stated by the President, it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the Board; but it may be withdrawn at any time by the mover before decision or amendment.

XXI. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, unless—

|-------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1. To amend it. | 4. To postpone it. |
| 2. To commit it. | 5. For the previous question; or, |
| 3. To lay on the table. | 6. To adjourn. |

XXII. A motion to lay on the table shall be decided without amendment or debate; and a motion to commit, until it is decided, shall preclude all amendments and debate on the main question.

XXIII. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order, and shall be decided without debate.

XXIV. The previous question, until it is decided, shall preclude all amendments and debate, and shall be put in this form—"Shall the main question be now put?"

XXV. Every member who shall be present when a question is put, shall vote for or against the same, unless the Board shall excuse him, unless he be immediately interested in the question, in which case he shall not vote; but no member shall be permitted to vote upon a question, when a division is called, unless present when his name is called in its regular order.

XXVI. A member called to order shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain; and the Board, if appealed to, shall decide on the case, but without debate. If there be no appeal, the decision of the Chair shall be submitted to.

XXVII. All questions shall be put in the order they are moved, except in filling up blanks, the longest time and the largest sum shall be first put.

XXVIII. The yeas and noes shall be taken at the request of a member, and the name of the member calling for the division shall be entered on the minutes.

XXIX. Upon a division of the Board, the names of those who vote for, and those who vote against the question, shall be entered upon the minutes.

XXX. All appointments of officers shall be by ballot, unless dispensed with by the consent of the Board, and a majority of the whole number present shall be necessary to constitute a choice.

XXXI. No member shall absent himself without permission from the President.

XXXII. All Committees shall be appointed by the President, unless otherwise ordered by the Board.

XXXIII. Committees appointed to report on any subject referred to them by the Board, shall report the facts in relation to the subject referred, with their opinion thereon, in writing, and shall attach thereto all resolutions, petitions, remonstrances, and other papers relative to the matter referred; and no report shall be received, except the same be signed by a majority of the Committee; but nothing contained in this rule shall prevent a minority of any Committee from submitting a report. And no report shall be printed, unless by the express direction of the Board, specifying the number of copies to be printed.

XXXIV. Whenever the doors are directed to be closed, all persons, excepting the members and the Clerk, shall retire.

XXXV. Every petition, remonstrance, or other written application, intended to be presented to the Common Council, may be delivered to the President, or any member of the Board, and the member to whom it shall be given shall examine the same, and indorse thereon the name of the applicant, and the substance of such application, and sign his name thereto; which indorsement only shall be read by the President, unless a member shall require the reading of the paper, in which case the whole shall be read.

XXXVI. STANDING COMMITTEES, consisting of three members each, shall be appointed on the following subjects:

1. Alms-house Department.
2. Arts and Sciences.
3. Assessments.
4. Cleaning Streets.
5. Ferries.
6. Finance.
7. Fire Department.
8. Joint Committee on Accounts.
9. Joint Committee on Croton Aqueduct.
10. Lamps and Gas.
11. Lands and Places.
12. Law Department.
13. Markets.
14. Ordinances.
15. Police.
16. Public Health.
17. Public Buildings on Blackwell's Island, Randall's Island, and Bellevue Establishment.
18. Repairs and Supplies.
19. Roads.
20. Salaries and Offices.
21. Sewers.

22. Streets.

23. Taxes.

24. Wharves, Piers and Slips.

25. Railroads.

XXXVII. The President shall be, ex officio, a member of all Committees; but a majority of such Committee, exclusive of the President, shall be sufficient to agree upon a report.

XXXVIII. The members of the Board shall not leave their places on adjournment until the President leaves the chair.

XXXIX. No person shall be permitted on the floor of the chamber of this Board inside the railing, other than the members and ex-members of the Common Council, his Honor the Mayor, the heads of the several departments of the City Government, and the reporters of the press, unless by written permission, obtained from a member of the Board, to be countersigned by the President; nor shall any such permission extend beyond the day for which it is given. It shall be the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms rigidly to enforce the Rule.

XL. None of the foregoing Rules and Orders shall be amended or repealed, except by the vote of at least a quorum.

8. Messages from the Mayor and the Board of Aldermen may be received at any time.

III. Every petition, remonstrance, and other paper presented to the Board, shall be presented by a member in his place ; and before presenting the same, the person presenting shall indorse thereon the substance thereof, and sign his name thereto.

IV. No motion or resolution shall be debated or put unless it be seconded, nor until it be stated by the President ; and every such motion shall be reduced to writing, if any member desire it.

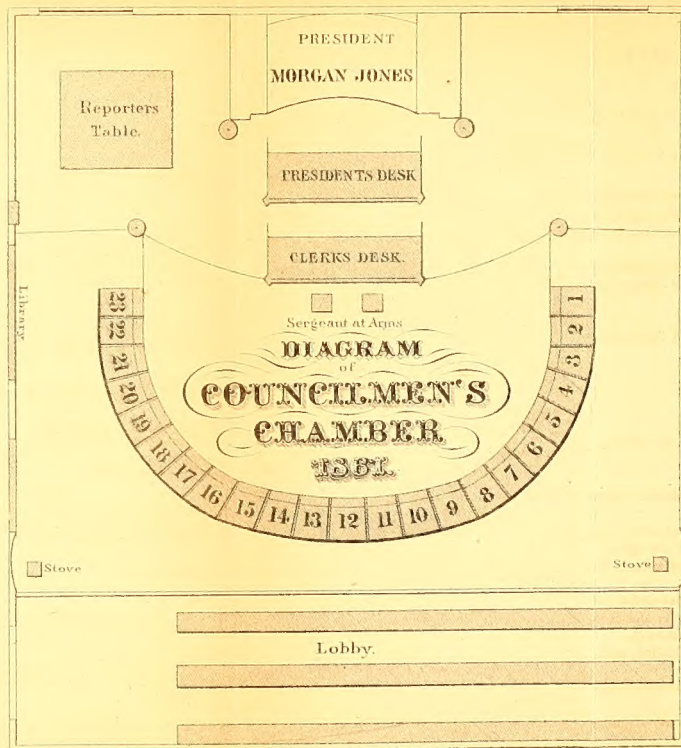

V. When the Board shall be equally divided, including the vote of the President, the question shall be lost.

VI. A motion or resolution may be withdrawn at any time before action had on it.

VII. All questions relating to the priority of business, shall be decided by the President without debate.

VIII. The President shall preserve order and decorum, and decide all questions of order, subject to an appeal to the Board.

IX. Whenever the President shall wish to leave the chair, he may substitute a member in his place; but such substitution shall not continue beyond the day on which it is made.

X. The President may call special meetings of the Board whenever, in his judgment, the interests of the city may require it.

XI. In forming a Committee of the Whole, the President shall leave the chair, and appoint a chairman to preside. The rules of the Board shall be observed in such Committee, except the rule respecting the ayes and nays, the times of speaking, and the previous question, and a motion to pass over shall be decided without debate.

XII. On motion in Committee to rise and report, the question shall be decided without debate.

XIII. When the question to debate contains several distinct propositions, any member may have the same divided.

XIV. All questions shall be put in the order they are moved, except those of privilege. When blanks are under consideration as to time and amounts, the longest time and largest amount shall be put first.

XV. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be entertained, unless—

1. To adjourn.
2. To lay on the table.
3. For the previous question.
4. To postpone for a certain day.
5. To refer.
6. To postpone indefinitely.
7. To amend.

And shall have precedence in the order here arranged, the first three of which shall be decided without debate. A call of the Board may be ordered at any time.

XVI. When a resolution shall be offered, or a motion made to refer any subject, and different Committees shall be proposed, the question shall be taken in the following order:

1. A Standing Committee.
2. A Select Committee.
3. Committee of the Whole.

XVII. After the ayes and noes shall have been ordered, no motion shall be received or entertained by the Chair, except to permit a member to explain his vote, or to be excused from voting, until the result of the vote shall have been announced by the Chair.

XVIII. No act, resolution, or ordinance, sent from the Board of Aldermen, shall be called up for final passage on the same day it is presented to this Board, unless by consent of sixteen members; nor shall it be acted upon on the same day it shall have passed the other Board, unless by unanimous consent, except in case of invasion, insurrection or pestilence.

XIX. It shall be the duty of the Clerk to publish all ordinances and amendments of ordinances which shall be passed; and, also, the proceedings in the newspapers employed by the Corporation, except such parts as may require secrecy; and whenever a vote shall be taken upon the passage of a resolution or ordinance, which shall contemplate any specific improvements, or involve the sale, disposition or appropriation of public property, or the expenditure of public money, or the income therefrom, or lay any tax or assessment, he shall, before the same is sent to the other Board, and immediately after the adjournment, cause the same to be published, with the ayes and nays, with the names of the persons voting for and against the same, in at least two newspapers, as a part of the proceedings, and shall thereafter certify and send to the other Board every act, resolution and ordinance, which has originated in and passed this Board, and which require a concurrent vote of the Board of Aldermen, and shall deliver to the Mayor, certified in like manner, all such acts, ordinances and resolutions which shall have been received from the Board of Aldermen, and concurred in by this Board, and which are required to be submitted to him for his approval; and shall certify to the other Board the proceedings of this Board, in reference to all acts or business originating in the other Board.

XX. It shall also be the duty of the Clerk to make and keep a list of all messages, acts, resolutions, ordinances and reports, not finally or specially disposed of, in order of priority, which list shall be the "General Orders."

XXI. Every member who shall be present when a question is put, shall vote thereon, unless the Board shall excuse him, or unless he be immediately interested in the question; in which case he shall not vote. But no member, on a taking of the ayes and nays, shall be permitted to vote, unless present when his name is called in regular order, except by consent of a majority of the members present.

XXII. Any member who shall have voted with the majority may move for a reconsideration, provided he do so at the time of the next meeting, and while the act, resolution or ordinance is in the possession of the Board; such motion having been once put and lost, shall not be renewed, except by the consent of sixteen members.

XXIII. Every member, previous to his speaking, shall rise in his place, and address the President.

XXIV. When two or more members rise at the same time, the President shall name the member who is first to speak.

XXV. No person shall speak more than twice to the same question, without leave of the Board, nor more than once, until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken.

XXVI. A member called to order, shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain; and the Board, if appealed to, shall at once decide on the case without debate. If there be no appeal, the decision of the Chair shall be submitted to.

XXVII. The previous question shall be admitted only when demanded by a majority of the members present ; and, until decided, shall preclude all amendment or debate, and must be put in this form : " Shall the main question be now put ? "

XXVIII. When the previous question shall have been ordered, and there shall be amendments pending, the question shall first be taken upon such amendments in their order, and then upon the main question, without further debate or amendment.

XXIX. On taking a vote by ayes and nays, in the cases required by law, as well as when required by three members, the names of those who vote for, and those who vote against the question, shall be so entered in the minutes ; and when so taken, on the call of a member, the name of such member, and the fact, shall also be entered in the minutes.

XXX. The following officers shall be elected by ballot, viz. : President, Clerk, Sergeant-at-Arms and Door-Keeper.

XXXI. All Committees shall be appointed by the President, unless otherwise ordered by the Board.

XXXII. The Standing Committees shall be as follows :

1. Alms-house Department.
2. Arts and Sciences.
3. Assessments.
4. Cleaning Streets.
5. Croton Aqueduct.
6. Ferries.
7. Finance.
8. Fire Department.
9. Lamps and Gas.
10. Lands and Places.
11. Law Department.
12. Markets.
13. Ordinances.
14. Police.
15. Public Health.
16. Public Buildings on Blackwell's Island, Ward's Island, Randall's Island, and Bellevue Establishment.
17. Railroads.
18. Repairs and Supplies.
19. Roads.
20. Salaries and Offices.
21. Sewers.
22. Streets.
23. Taxes.
24. Wharves, Piers and Slips.
25. Joint Committee on Accounts.

Each of which shall consist of three members, except the Committee on Railroads, and Repairs and Supplies, each of which shall consist of five members.

XXXIII. The President shall be, ex officio, a member of all Committees; but a majority of the other members shall be sufficient to agree upon a report.

XXXIV. Committees shall inquire into the matters referred to them, and report, in writing, the facts in relation thereto, with their opinions thereon; and attach to such report all resolutions, petitions, remonstrances and other papers relating to the matters referred; but no report shall be made without consent first had, unless signed by a majority of the Committee; nor shall any matter reported on be taken up, for final action, the same day on which it is reported, unless by the consent of sixteen members. No report shall be printed, unless by the express direction of the Board, specifying the number of copies to be printed.

XXXV. No member shall absent himself without permission of the President; nor, on adjournment, leave his place until the President leaves the chair.

XXXVI. Whenever the doors are directed to be closed, all persons excepting the members and the Clerk shall retire.

XXXVII. No person shall be permitted on the floor of the Council, unless in the discharge of official duty, or by special invitation of a member, except the Mayor, Aldermen, members of the Boards of Supervisors and Education, and such persons as have been members of the Common Council, Heads of Departments, or Officers of the State Government, and Reporters of the press. The privilege of admission, under any invitation, shall not extend beyond the day for which it is given; and it is the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms and the Door-Keeper rigidly to enforce this rule.

XXXVIII. The regular sessions of the Board shall commence on the first Monday of each month, at five o'clock P. M., and shall continue on each Monday and Thursday, at the same hour, until the business of the monthly session is concluded; provided that the Board may, by a vote of the majority of the members present, adjourn for a shorter or longer time.

XXXIX. No standing rule or order of this Board shall be changed or rescinded, without one day's previous notice being given of the motion therefor. But any rule or order may be suspended, for a special purpose, by a vote of sixteen members.

COUNTY GOVERNMENT.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

The act of the Legislature passed April 15th, 1857, altered the mode in which the Board of Supervisors of the county of New York were constituted, and prescribed the annual selection, at the Charter election, of twelve gentlemen to compose the Board. By a supplementary act, passed April 17, 1858, the terms of the Supervisors were continued, and a classification of the members ordered, which divided the Board into six classes, with terms varying from one to six years, each class to consist of one member elected and one appointed at the election first held; and thereafter two Supervisors to be annually chosen at the county election to serve for six years each.

The following is the Board of Supervisors for 1861:

POLICE DEPARTMENT.

AN ACT

TO AMEND AN ACT, ENTITLED, "AN ACT TO ESTABLISH A METROPOLITAN POLICE DISTRICT, AND TO PROVIDE FOR THE GOVERNMENT THEREOF," PASSED APRIL FIFTEENTH, EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SEVEN.

PASSED APRIL 10, 1860; THREE-FIFTHS BEING PRESENT.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows :

SEC. 1. The act, entitled, "An act to establish a Metropolitan Police District, and to provide for the government thereof," passed April fifteenth, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, is hereby amended so as to read as follows :

§ 2. The counties of New York, Kings, Westchester and Richmond, and the towns of Newtwn, Flushing and Jamaica, in the county of Queens, are hereby constituted and territorially united for the purposes of police government and police discipline therein, into one district, which shall be known as and called the Metropolitan Police District of the State of New York.

§ 3. The powers and duties connected with and incident to the police government and discipline of the said district, shall be as is hereinafter more especially provided for, vested in and exercised by a Board of Metropolitan Police, Commissioners of Metropolitan Police, and by a Metropolitan Police force, composed of a Superintendent of Metropolitan Police force, Inspectors of Metropolitan Police force, Captains of Metropolitan Police, Sergeants of Metropolitan Police, and Patrolmen of Metropolitan Police.

§ 4. On or before the tenth day of April, A. D. eighteen hundred and sixty, and thereafter, from time to time, as may become requisite, the Governor shall nominate, and, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint from among the electors of the Metropolitan Police District, three Commissioners of Metropolitan Police, who shall constitute the Board of Metropolitan Police, and two of them shall form a quorum for the transaction of business. The Governor shall have power to fill up any vacancy or vacancies that may happen in such Board during the recess of the Senate, by appointing a Commissioner or Commissioners, who shall hold office until appointment shall be made for the remainder of the unexpired term, in the manner hereinbefore provided. Any one of the Commissioners may be at all times removed by the Governor under the provisions of statutes relating to the removal from office of sheriffs, which provisions are hereby extended so as to relate to each one of the said Commissioners.

§ 5. The said three Commissioners, after having been duly appointed under this section, shall assemble together in the office of the Secretary of State, and there proceed to draw lots for three terms of office expiring respectively on the first days of April, in the years eighteen hundred and sixty-two, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, and eighteen hundred and sixty-six. At the expiration of each of the said respective terms, the full term succeeding shall be one of six years.

§ 6. Any one of the said Commissioners who shall, during his term of office, accept or hold any other place of public trust, or civil emolument, or who shall, during his term of office, be publicly nominated for any office elective by the people, and shall not, within ten days succeeding the same, publicly decline the said nomination, shall be in either case deemed hereby to have resigned his commission to the Governor, and to have vacated his office, and the Governor shall proceed as in case of vacancy.

§ 7. Upon the said three terms of office having been determined, as aforesaid, by lot, and a certificate of the result, attested by each Commissioner, having been filed in the office of the Secretary of State, there shall be issued to each Commissioner, from said office, the proper commission of appointment to office, for the term so drawn by lot, and each Commissioner shall, on receipt thereof, take and subscribe before the Secretary of State, for deposit in his office, the oath required by the Constitution for judicial officers.

§ 8. The said three Commissioners, appointed under this section, shall then take the places of the five Commissioners of Police of the said the Metropolitan Police District, now fulfilling office therein under the act hereby amended, and the terms of office of each of the said five Commissioners shall thereupon be at an end. The Board of Metropolitan Police, composed of the said three Commissioners, and of no other officers or persons, shall succeed and take the place of the Board of Police then existing.

§ 9. The said "The Metropolitan Police District," shall be divided by the Board of Metropolitan Police into precincts, not exceeding forty in the whole number thereof, and to each precinct shall be assigned a Captain of Metropolitan Police, and as many sergeants and patrolmen of the Metropolitan Police force as the said Board may deem sufficient. Any number of said precincts may be joined into a sub-district by the said Board, and assigned to the charge of an inspector of police force. Any number of precincts may be likewise joined into surgical sub-districts, and assignments made thereto of Surgeons of Police by the said Board. In precincts within the county towns of Kings, or the towns of Newtown, Flushing and Jamaica, in the county of Queens, or in the counties of Richmond or Westchester respectively, the said Board may appoint therein any patrolman as acting sergeant in command of such precinct, with powers of captain, under the rules and regulations of the Board, but without increase of pay.

§ 10. The Board of Metropolitan Police, whenever vacancies occur, or the same becomes requisite, shall appoint the Superintendent of Metropolitan Police force, and the Inspectors of Metropolitan Police force, not exceeding four, and the Captains of Metropolitan Police, not exceeding forty, and the Sergeants of Metropolitan Police, not exceeding one hundred and sixty, and the Patrolmen of Metropolitan Police to the number authorized or restricted by this act. The Board of Metropolitan Police shall promulgate all regulations and orders through the Superintendent of Police, who shall be the executive head of the whole police force of the Metropolitan district, and who shall have the direction and control of said force, subject to the rules and regulations of the Board of Police.

§ 11. The quota of patrolmen for the county of New York, and whose services are to be paid for by the contribution of said county to the Metropolitan Police Fund, shall not exceed one thousand four hundred, unless the Board of Supervisors of said county shall, by resolution, determine an additional number to be necessary. The quota of patrolmen for the city of Brooklyn, and whose services are to be paid for by the contribution of said city to the general police fund, shall not exceed two hundred, unless the Common Council thereof shall, by resolution, authorize the Board of Metropolitan Police to appoint an additional specified number. Such resolutions may be passed, from time to time, by either the said Board of Supervisors or the said Common Council.

§ 12. The qualified voters of each of the towns in the respective counties of Kings, Westchester and Richmond, and of each of the towns respectively of Newtown, Flushing and Jamaica, in the county of Queens, and the qualified voters of any incorporated village within the said the Metropolitan Police District, shall have power at any annual or special town meeting, or village election, to vote and determine if a regular patrolman, or any and what number of regular patrolmen, shall be appointed by the Board of Metropolitan Police, to be stationed in such town or incorporated village, and to direct the sum necessary to be raised by tax, in such town or incorporated village, for contribution to the Metropolitan Police Fund, to pay such patrolman or patrolmen. Upon proper representation of any such action of any of the above towns or villages, the Board of Supervisors of the county in which such town is situated, or the trustees of such incorporated village, shall cause the sum so voted to be collected with the other expenses of said town or village. A special town meeting or village election, for the purpose or purposes aforesaid, may at any time be held, if required, in the manner provided by law for special town meetings, or now authorized in respective incorporated villages within the said district. But unless so voted as aforesaid, the counties of Richmond, Westchester and Queens, and such towns in the county of Kings as are not within the bounds of the city of Brooklyn, shall not become liable to the imposition of any tax for the general or partial expenses of the Board of Metropolitan Police, provided for or incurred by this act, and only in any case according to the provisions of voting aforesaid, and then such proportion of the general or partial expenses is to be imposed upon the town or towns so voting, in proportion to the number of patrolmen employed by such town or towns.

§ 13. Each member of the Metropolitan Police force of the Metropolitan Police District, shall hold office, respectively, during his good behavior, and shall be liable to removal from membership of the said police force, only after written charges shall have been preferred against him according to the rules and regulations of the said Board, and the same shall have been publicly heard and examined, after notice to him thereof, by the said Board, in manner to be prescribed by said rules and regulations. But no person shall ever be appointed to membership in the police force of the Metropolitan Police District, or shall continue to hold membership therein, who is not a citizen of the United States, or who has ever been convicted of crime, or who cannot understandingly read and write in the English language, or who shall not have resided within the district during the five years next preceding his appointment, except that this last limitation of residence shall not apply to members employed for detective service, not exceeding fifty in number.

§ 14. Vacancies in the police force shall be filled up as follows: Inspectors must be appointed from among those now holding office as Deputy Superintendent, or who are Captains. Captains must be appointed from among Sergeants, and Sergeants must be appointed from among patrolmen.

§ 15. The Board of Police of the Metropolitan Police District, whenever expedient, shall, on the application of any president of an incorporated village, within the said district or corporation, or person or persons showing the necessity thereof, detail regular patrolmen of the police force, or appoint and swear any additional number of special patrolmen of the police force to do special duty at any place within the Metropolitan Police District, upon the corporation, person or persons by whom the application shall be made, contributing to the Metropolitan Police Fund, by payment to the treasurer, not exceeding the sum of two dollars and fifty cents per diem of service on such detail of special duty ; but the patrolmen so additionally and specially appointed shall be subject to the orders of the Superintendent of Metropolitan Police force, and shall obey the rules and regulations of the said Board, and conform to its general discipline, and to such special regulations as may be made, and shall wear such dress or emblems as the Board may direct, and shall, during the term of their holding appointment, possess all the powers, privileges, and discharge all duties of the Metropolitan Police force applicable to patrolmen. The persons so appointed may be removed at any time by the Board of Police, without assigning cause thereof ; upon notice to the person or persons who applied for the appointment as aforesaid.

§ 16. The Board of Police may also, upon any emergency or apprehension of riot, pestilence or invasion, appoint as many special patrolmen, without pay, from among the citizens, as it may deem desirable, and during any day of public election, it may appoint, to perform duty in the city of New York, not exceeding five hundred special patrolmen, who may be paid out of the police fund, contributed by said city, two dollars each for their services as such special patrolmen ; provided, however, that each special patrolman so appointed, shall make oath before any Commissioner of Police, the Superintendent of Police force, or the Chief Clerk of the Board of Metropolitan Police, at the time of appointment, that he will not interfere in any manner with the election taking place on the day for which he is appointed, otherwise than by depositing his own vote ; and providing that such pay may be withheld, and he may be duly prosecuted as for a misdemeanor, if the terms of such oath be violated, and during the term of service of any such special patrolmen, authorized as aforesaid, he shall possess all the powers and privileges, and perform all the duties of the patrolmen of the standing force of the district. Every such special patrolman shall wear an emblem, to be prescribed and furnished by the Board of Metropolitan Police.

§ 17. No member of the Metropolitan Police force, under penalty of forfeiting the salary or pay which may be due to him, shall withdraw or resign, except by permission of the Board of Metropolitan Police, unless he shall have given to the Superintendent one month's notice, in writing, of such intention. There shall be no limitation or restriction of place of residence, to any member of the Metropolitan Police force, other than residence within the Metropolitan Police District.

§ 18. The Commissioners of Metropolitan Police shall, annually, or as often as a vacancy shall occur, select one of their number to act as the President of the Board of Metropolitan Police. He shall preside at the meetings of the Board, and whenever a vacancy shall occur in the office of Superintendent of the Metropolitan Police force in the absence or disability of the said Superintendent, the President shall possess all the powers and perform all the duties of that office, subject to the rules and regulations of the Board of Metropolitan Police, and with proportionate increase of pay during such continuance of duty.

§ 19. The Commissioners of Metropolitan Police shall select one of their number to be the Treasurer of Metropolitan Police. He shall be the fiscal officer of the Metropolitan Police District. He shall, on check and voucher, duly disburse all moneys belonging to the Metropolitan Police Fund, and shall deposit the same when paid to him by the Treasurer of the State of New York, in a bank designated by such officer. He shall execute a bond, with sureties, not less than two, conditioned, in a penalty of fifty thousand dollars, to the people of the State of New York, for the faithful discharge of his duties as such Treasurer. The sureties shall justify, before a justice of the Supreme Court; but before the said Treasurer shall enter upon his duties, the said bond shall be approved by, and filed with the Comptroller of the State. Should any collections be made, upon civil action on such bond, they shall be immediately paid to the credit of the Metropolitan Police Fund of the Metropolitan Police District. No expenses, other than salaries and pay herein provided, shall ever be incurred by the Board of Police, except for rents, stationery, printing and advertising, fuel and lights, unless the same shall be expressly authorized and provision therefor made as a separate annuity, or city charge, by the Board of Supervisors for the county, or the joint Board of the Supervisors and Aldermen of the city of Brooklyn, within the expenditure, becomes necessary.

§ 20. The Board of Metropolitan Police may appoint a Chief Clerk, a Property Clerk, and Deputy Clerks, not to exceed six; Surgeons of Police, not to exceed five; and Doormen, not to exceed two, to each station-house. The persons thus severally appointed shall severally hold office at the pleasure of the said Board.

§ 21. The Board of Metropolitan Police shall provide such office and business accommodations as it shall deem requisite for the transaction of its own business and that of its subordinate officers; there shall be a central office in the city of New York, to be known as the Central Department of Metropolitan Police; but the Inspector of Police force in Brooklyn shall have office accommodation in that city.

§ 22. It shall be a misdemeanor for any person not being a regular member of a police established in any city of this State, or a member of the Metropolitan Police force, or a constable of this State, or a police constable, or assistant police constable, or a sheriff, or one of the usual general deputies of any sheriff, of the State, to serve any criminal process within the said the Metropolitan Police District.

§ 23. The Board of Metropolitan Police shall, at all times, whenever consistent with the rules and regulations of the said Board and with the requirements of this act, furnish all police information desired by the Mayors or Common Councils of said cities respectively, or by the Boards of Supervisors of the counties of Westchester and Richmond, and the county towns of Kings and Queens, within the said the Metropolitan Police District.

§ 24. The Board of Metropolitan Police is hereby invested with, and shall hereafter exercise all the powers now conferred by law upon Mayors of cities in respect to requiring the services of the military, in aid of the civil authorities to quell riots, suppress insurrections, protect the property and preserve public tranquillity; and such investiture of power shall exclude that of the Mayors of New York and Brooklyn, within these cities respectively, and such powers shall apply to the whole Metropolitan Police District.

§ 25. The Board of Metropolitan Police shall have power to issue subpoenas, tested in the name of its president, to compel the attendance of witnesses upon any proceedings authorized by its rules and regulations. Each Commissioner of Police, the Superintendent of Police, and the Chief Clerk of the Board of Police, are hereby authorized and empowered to administer affirmation and oaths to any person summoned and appearing in any matter or proceeding, authorized as aforesaid, or to make any depositions necessary to be made under the rules and regulations of the Board of Police, or for the purposes of this amended act. Any willful and corrupt false swearing, by any witness or person, to any material fact in any necessary proceeding under the said rules and regulations, or under this act, shall be deemed perjury, and punished in the manner prescribed by law for such offense. The provisions and procedure of section three of an act entitled "An act to enable the Common Council of the city of New York to take testimony in matters referred to for investigation or inquiry," passed February eighth, eighteen hundred and fifty-five, are hereby applied to the case of any witness subpoenaed under this section.

§ 26. The Board of Metropolitan Police may, from time to time, establish stations and station-houses, or sub-stations and sub-station-houses, at least one to each precinct, for the accommodation thereof of members of the police force, and as temporary places of detention for persons arrested and property taken within the precinct.

§ 27. The Commissioners of Metropolitan Police, in furtherance of the police government of the said the Metropolitan Police District, and for the promoting and perfecting the police discipline of subordinates, and of the members of the Metropolitan Police force, are empowered to enact, modify and repeal, from time to time, "rules and regulations of general discipline," wherein in addition to such other provisions as may be deemed expedient by said Commissioners, there shall be particularly defined, enumerated and distributed the powers and duties of the superintendent of police force, and of the inspectors and captains of police force, and of the clerks of said Board, of the sergeants, of the doormen, and of the members of the Metropolitan Police force; and wherein shall be specified the modes of appointment to, and removal from office of the said superintendent and inspectors, and the members of the Metropolitan Police force, and the manner of discipline of the said police force, provided that such by-laws, ordinances, rules and regulations, shall not conflict with any of the provisions of this amended act, or with the constitution of the United States or of this State.

§ 28. The members of the police force of the said "The Metropolitan Police District," shall furthermore possess in every part of this State, all the common law and statutory powers of constables, except for the service of civil process; and any warrant for search or arrest, issued by any magistrate of this State, may be executed in any part thereof, by any member of the police force of the said "The Metropolitan Police District," and all the provisions of sections seven, eight and nine of chapter two, title two, part four of the Revised Statutes, in relation to the giving and taking of bail, shall apply to this act.

§ 29. It is hereby made the duty of the Metropolitan Police force, at all times of the day and night, within the said Metropolitan Police District, the members thereof are accordingly hereby thereunto empowered, to especially preserve the public peace, prevent crime, detect and arrest offenders, suppress riots and insurrections, protect the rights of persons and of property, guard the public health, preserve order at every primary and public election, remove nuisances existing in public streets, roads, places and highways, repress and restrain disorderly houses and houses of ill-fame, to arrest all street beggars and mendicants, to provide a proper police attendance at every fire, in order that thereby the firemen, fire-engines and property exposed, may be suitably assisted or protected, assist, advise and protect emigrants, strangers and travelers in public streets, or at steamboat and ship landings, or railway stations, enforce every law relating to the suppression and punishment of crime, or to the observance of Sunday, or regarding pawnbrokers, or mock auctions, or emigrations, or elections, or gambling, or intemperance, or lotteries, or lottery policies, or vagrants or disorderly persons, or the public health, or any ordinance or resolution of Common Councils, or town or village authorities within the said district, applicable to police, health or criminal procedure.

§ 30. The several members of the police force shall have power and authority to immediately arrest without warrant, and to take into custody any person who shall commit, or threaten or attempt to commit, in the presence of such member, or within his view, any breach of the peace or offense directly prohibited by act of the Legislature, or by any ordinance of the city, town or village within which the offense is committed, threatened or attempted; but such member of the police force shall immediately and without delay, upon such arrest, convey in person such offender before the nearest magistrate, that he may be dealt with according to law.

§ 31. The office of Deputy Superintendent of Police, created by the act of which this act is amendatory, is hereby abolished, but the Board of Metropolitan Police shall appoint the persons now acting as Deputy Superintendents to be the Inspectors of Metropolitan Police force, provided by this act; and the said persons are hereby continued in membership of the Metropolitan Police force under such last-named designation, and the said Board may appoint from the Captains of the Metropolitan Police, two additional Inspectors of Metropolitan Police, whose duties shall be prescribed by the Board of Metropolitan Police, by its rules and regulations, but one of said Inspectors shall always perform duty in the city of Brooklyn.

§ 32. The constables elected by the electors within the counties of Westchester and Richmond, and in the county towns of Kings and Queens; and the police constables and assistant police constables in villages within the said the Metropolitan Police District, shall possess all the powers conferred by this amended act upon the Metropolitan Police force. The Board of Supervisors, in each of the said last-mentioned counties, may call upon the Board of Metropolitan Police to appoint for duty within the police precincts of which the said county shall be a part, as many additional captains, lieutenants, sergeants and patrolmen, as the said Board of Supervisors shall enumerate and describe, upon appropriating to the Metropolitan Police Fund the necessary expenses, salaries or pay to be incurred thereby. It shall become the duty of the Board of Metropolitan Police thereupon to appoint such additional members of the Metropolitan Police force, but not until so called upon.

§ 33. The Supervisors of the counties of Richmond, Westchester, Kings and Queens, are hereby authorized and empowered, from time to time, to levy and raise by tax upon the estates, real and personal, taxable within each county, such sum or sums of money as may be required to carry into effect, in respect to either of said counties, the fiscal provisions of this act, affecting said counties, or any of them.

§ 34. No person holding office under this act shall be liable to military or jury duty, nor to arrest on civil process, or to service of subpoenas from civil courts, whilst actually on duty.

§ 35. The Health Officer of the port of New York shall have power at all times to call upon any of the police force of the district, to a number not exceeding ten, to aid him upon any necessary emergency in enforcing the powers and duties conferred upon his office by law, and it shall thereupon become the duty of any such member of the police force, so called upon, to obey him. But such service shall not continue longer than twenty-four hours, unless by direction of the Board of Metropolitan Police.

§ 36. In every case of arrest by any member of the Metropolitan Police force, the same shall be made known within six hours thereafter to the superior upon duty, in the precinct wherein the arrest was made by the person making the same; and it shall be the duty of the said superior, within twelve hours after such notice, to make written return thereof, according to the rules and regulations of the Board of Metropolitan Police, with the name of the party arrested, the alleged offense, the time and place of arrest, and place of detention.

§ 37. The Board of Metropolitan Police are authorized, from time to time, to contract for and to provide suitable accommodation within the said "The Metropolitan Police District," for the detention of witnesses who are unable to furnish security for their appearance in criminal proceedings; and such accommodations shall be in premises other than those employed for the confinement of persons charged with crime, fraud or disorderly conduct. And it shall be the duty of all magistrates, in committing witnesses, to have regard to the rules and regulations of the Board of Metropolitan Police, in respect to their detention.

§ 38. The Board of Metropolitan Police may also suspend from pay or duty, or both, any member of the said force, but not longer than thirty days from pay at any one suspension.

§ 39. The Superintendent of the Metropolitan Police force shall make to the Board of Metropolitan Police quarterly reports, in writing, of the state of the "Metropolitan Police District," with such statistics and suggestions as he may deem advisable to submit for the improvement of the police government and discipline of the said district. The Board of Metropolitan Police shall, on or before the first Monday in December in each year, make a report, in writing, to the Governor of the State, upon the condition of the Metropolitan Police within the said Metropolitan Police District.

§ 40. The Superintendent of Metropolitan Police, and each captain of police within his precinct, shall possess powers of general police supervision and inspection over all licensed pawnbrokers, licensed venders, licensed junk-shop keepers, junk boatmen, licensed cartmen, dealers in second-hand merchandise, intelligence-office keepers, and auctioneers of watches and jewelry, within the said Metropolitan Police District, and in the exercise of and in furtherance of said supervision, may from time to time empower members of the police force to fulfill such special duties in the aforesaid premises, as may be from time to time ordained by the Board of Metropolitan Police. The said Superintendent, and each captain, within his precinct may, by authority in writing, empower any member of the Metropolitan Police force, whenever such member shall be in search of property feloniously obtained, or in search of suspected offenders, to examine the books of any pawnbroker or his business premises, or the business premises of any licensed vender, or licensed junk-shop keeper, or dealer in second-hand merchandise, or intelligence-office keeper, or auctioneer of watches and jewelry, or boat of any junk boatman. Any such member of the Metropolitan Police force, when thereto authorized, in writing, by the said Superintendent, and having in his possession a pawnbroker's receipt or ticket, shall be allowed to examine the property purporting to be pawned, or pledged, or deposited upon said receipt or ticket, in whosoever possession said property may be ; but no such property shall be taken from the possessor thereof without due process or authority of law. Any willful interference with the said Superintendent or captain of police, or with any member of the Metropolitan Police force, by any of the persons hereinbefore named in this section, whilst in official and due discharge of duty, shall be punishable by misdemeanor.

§ 41. If any member of the Metropolitan Police force, or if any two or more householders, shall report, in writing, under his or their signature, to the Superintendent of the Metropolitan Police force, that there are good grounds (and stating the same) for believing any houses, room or premises within the said The Metropolitan Police District to be kept or used as a common gaming-house, common gaming-room, or common gaming-pramises, for therein playing for wagers of moneys at any game of chance, or to be kept or used for lewd and obscene public amusement, or the deposit or sale of lottery tickets or of lottery policies, it shall be lawful for the General Superintendent of Metropolitan Police to authorize any member or members of the police force to enter the same, who shall forthwith arrest all persons there found offending against law, and seize all implements of gaming, or lottery tickets or lottery policies, and convey any person so arrested before the nearest magistrate, and bring the articles so seized to the office of the Board of Metropolitan Police. It shall be the duty of the said Superintendent of the Metropolitan Police force to cause such arrested persons to be vigorously prosecuted, and such articles seized to be destroyed.

§ 42. It shall not be lawful for any person to publicly keep or dispose of any intoxicating liquors upon the first day of the week, called Sunday, or upon any day of public election, within the said " The Metropolitan Police District," under a penalty of fifty dollars for each offense, to be sued for and recovered in the name of the people of the State of New York, by the District Attorney of the county wherein the offense was committed, for the benefit of the said Police Life Insurance fund, and it shall be the duty of the District Attorney to pay over, quarterly, all moneys or judgments collected by him, except the costs and disbursements under the provisions of this act, or the act of which this is amendatory, to the Treasurer of said Police Board. And it shall be the duty of the Superintendent of Police to strictly enforce the provisions of this section, by his proper orders in respect thereto to the members of the Metropolitan Police force, and it is hereby made the duty of the said members, in respect to the enforcing the provisions of this section, to proceed in the manner provided by law for the arrest of offenders.

§ 43. It shall be a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment in the county jail, or in the city and county of New York in the penitentiary, for not less than one year or exceeding two years, or by a fine of not less than two hundred and fifty dollars, for any person without justifiable or excusable cause to use, or to incite any other person to use, personal violence upon any elector on any election day in the Metropolitan Police District, or upon any member of the police force thereof when in the discharge of his duty, or for any such member to willfully neglect making any arrest for an offense against the law of this State or ordinance in force in the said district, or for any person not a member of the police force to falsely represent himself as being such member with a fraudulent design upon persons or property.

§ 44. The Board of Metropolitan Police shall cause to be kept general complaint books, in which shall be entered any complaint of a police nature preferred upon a personal knowledge of the circumstances thereof, with the name and residence of the complainant. The said Board shall also cause to be kept, books of registration of lost, missing, or stolen property, for the general convenience of the public, and for the information of the Metropolitan Police force. The said Board shall cause to be kept, books of record of "The Metropolitan Police District," wherein shall be entered the name of every member of the Metropolitan Police force, with the time and place of his nativity; the time when, and the place where, he became a citizen, if he was born out of the United States; his age, upon becoming such member, and his former occupation; number of his family and residence thereof, and the date of appointment or of his resignation or withdrawal or of dismissal from office, with the cause of the latter. And against all such entries, sufficient space shall be left wherein to make record of any especial arrests, made from time to time, by such member of the police force, or of any special service deemed meritorious by the said Board. The said Board shall also cause to be kept in proper books, the accounts of the treasurer, and all receipts for money expended, or for warrants, or for checks for moneys issued by the treasurer, shall be written in books kept for the purpose; and the said receipts shall be signed by the person or persons receiving said money, warrants or checks from the treasurer. Such books shall be at all business hours, and when not in actual use, open to public inspection. The Board of Metropolitan Police shall also cause to be kept and bound, all police returns and reports from any member of the Metropolitan Police force, and all minutes of the proceedings of said Board which returns, reports and minutes, shall only be open for public inspection in the discretion of said Board.

§ 45. Every member of the Metropolitan Police force shall have issued to him by the Board of Metropolitan Police, a proper warrant of appointment, signed by the President of the said Board, and countersigned by the chief clerk, which warrant shall contain the date of his appointment and his rank.

§ 46. The Board of Metropolitan Police shall make suitable provisions respecting security, to be entered into by the Superintendent of Police force, and by the Inspectors of Police force, and by the Property Clerk, for the faithful performance of their respective duties. Each member of the Metropolitan Police shall take an oath of office, and subscribe the same in a book kept for that purpose, which oath of office may be taken before any Commissioner of Metropolitan Police, who is hereby empowered to administer the same, and write acknowledgment thereof.

§ 47. It shall be the duty of the Commissioners of Metropolitan Police, to detail on the day of any election within the cities of New York or Brooklyn, respectively, at least two patrolmen to each election poll.

§ 48. Said Commissioners shall, in and for each of the said cities, appoint all poll clerks provided for by law, and shall, in and for the said cities, provide ballot-boxes for use at general, special, and charter elections, and for the custody of the said boxes, except during the taking, receiving and counting of votes.

§ 49. It shall be the duty of the Board of Police to prevent any booth or box, for the distribution of tickets at any election, to be erected or maintained within one hundred and fifty feet of any polling place within the cities aforesaid.

§ 50. All criminal process issuing out of any court, or from any justice or judge in the city of Brooklyn, shall be served by a member of the police force, and not otherwise. And the said Board of Police Commissioners shall detail so many patrolmen as shall be necessary to attend all courts transacting criminal business in said city of Brooklyn, and no constables or marshals shall hereafter attend said courts, or be paid either by the authorities of said city, or by the Supervisors of the county of Kings, for any service in said courts.

§ 51. It shall be the duty of the Board of Metropolitan Police District, to set apart a Metropolitan Sanitary Police Company, and to assign to command of each of said companies either a captain or sergeant of Metropolitan Police, and to assign to each company such special duties by the rules and regulations, as may be publicly advantageous.

§ 52. The Metropolitan Sanitary Company are hereby empowered, under such distribution of power and duty as may be made by the rules and regulations, to visit and make inspection of all ferry-boats, manufactories, slaughter-houses, tenement-houses, and edifices suspected of or charged with being unsafe, and to take all necessary legal measures for promoting the security of life or health, upon or in said boats, manufactories, houses, and edifices, and to make report of inspection and action in the premises to the Board of Metropolitan Police. Whenever said Board shall be satisfied by such report, that any ferry-boat, manufactory, slaughter-house, tenement-house or edifice is maintained in a manner prejudicial to the lives or health of the public, it shall, after due entry upon its minutes of the circumstance, cause complaint to be made, founded upon such report and circumstance, before any magistrate of the Metropolitan District, who shall, in a summary way, upon such complaint made under oath, issue his proper warrant, reciting therein the name of the member or members of the Metropolitan Sanitary Police Company, for the arrest of the person in charge of such ferry-boat, manufactory, slaughter-house, tenement-house, and edifice, to the end that he may be brought before such magistrate, and the complaint of insecurity, or the life or health of the public, so made, be duly investigated, according to the law of examination into misdemeanors. If said magistrate shall be satisfied, on a summary hearing thereof, that such charge of insecurity of the lives or health of the public is founded on reasonable and probable cause, he may, by his order, in writing, command any such ferry-boat to cease running, or any business in such manufactory or slaughter-house to cease, until the cause of complaint aforesaid shall be removed to the satisfaction of the Board of Metropolitan Police.

§ 53. The Board of Metropolitan Police may, by its order, in writing, cause any tenement-house to be cleansed at any time after three days' notice for such cleansing shall have been served upon the owner, landlord, or agent thereof, and within such time the same has been neglected. The expense of taking down any edifice, or of cleansing any tenement-house, as aforesaid, shall be paid by the Comptroller of the city within which the said edifice or house is situated; a copy of the order of the Board, in writing, together with the bill of expense, countersigned by the Comptroller aforesaid, with a description of the premises and real estate thereof, being filed with the clerk of the county, shall become and continue to be a lien for the amount of such repair, with interest, upon said premises, to the same effect as a judgment of a court of record, until such time as the Comptroller, on reimbursement of said expenses and interest, shall, in writing, authorize the said county clerk to discharge the same.

§ 54. The said proceedings of the Board of Metropolitan Police, or of the magistrate acquiring jurisdiction, as aforesaid, may be removed into the Supreme Court by certiorari for examination. The acts of the said Board, when in accordance with the provisions aforesaid, shall be deemed judicial acts.

§ 55. In addition to such duties which shall be assigned to surgeons of Metropolitan Police by the rules and regulations, it is hereby made their duty especially to visit each day the station-houses of police within the Metropolitan Police District and exercise supervision over the sanitary condition of station and lodging-houses, and of the members of the force connected with the precinct in which the same is situated, and at all times to perform such services of inspection of nuisances and tenement-houses, and such medical and surgical attendance and services to vagrants, disorderly persons, intoxicated persons, and sick persons within said station-houses, and to witnesses in the house of witness-detention, as may be requested of them in writing, by the Superintendent of Police, or by the inspectors or captains of Metropolitan Police.

§56. The Board of Metropolitan Police shall have power to create, operate, and maintain, under the general laws of the State relating to telegraph lines, all such lines of telegraph in such places within the said district as for purposes of police the Board shall deem necessary. But the ownership of the fixtures and apparatus for such telegraphic purposes, in the cities of New York and Brooklyn, shall be in the respective municipal corporations of said cities, but subject to the exclusive use and control of the Board of Metropolitan Police.

§57. The necessary expenses incurred in the execution of criminal process within the said "The Metropolitan Police District," shall be a county charge only against the county from which the said process issued.

§58. It is hereby declared to be the duty of the Common Council of the cities of New York and Brooklyn, respectively, in accordance with the practice and ordinances now existing therein, to provide, at the expense of said cities respectively, all necessary accommodations within such precincts of the said "The Metropolitan Police District," as shall be contained within the boundaries of the said cities, respectively, for the station-houses required by the Board of Metropolitan Police, for the accommodation of the police force of such precincts, and for the lodging of vagrants and disorderly persons, and for the temporary detention of persons arrested for offenses. In case the said Common Council, or either of them, neglect or refuse, within thirty days after having been thereto in writing requested by the said Board of Metropolitan Police, to provide accommodations as aforesaid, or station-houses, which in the opinion of the said Board are not suitable, or to put the said station-house in due repair, then the said Board may make their own provisions and contracts of leasing or hiring, or repairing in the premises, and the same when made shall become a proper charge and debt for the expenses and disbursements thereof against the said city whose Common Council has so neglected or refused to make provision in manner and form aforesaid.

§59. The accommodations required for the police purposes of this act, in portions of the Metropolitan Police District, other than the cities of New York and Brooklyn, shall be those ordinarily used by the criminal authorities of each town or village therein. In places within the said district, other than the cities of New York and Brooklyn, any member of the Metropolitan Police force taking any person lawfully under arrest, at night, may in default of public accommodation of custody, provide for such person a place of detention, but for no longer period than twelve hours.

§ 60. The Commissioners of Metropolitan Police, and the Comptrollers of the cities of New York and Brooklyn, convened as a board of estimate and apportionment, shall annually, on or before the first day of September, make up a financial estimate of the sums required annually for expenses in the execution of criminal process, or for the fitting up, warming, lighting, and furnishing police station-houses, and the house for the detention of witnesses, and for alterations, and additions to, and repairs of the same, and for office accommodation and printing, and stationery, and telegraph apparatus and fixtures, and for badges, emblems, and equipments of the police force, and also of the sums necessary for counsel fees, law expenses and disbursements incurred by the Board of Metropolitan Police, or by the Commissioners of Metropolitan Police, or rendered necessary in criminal or civil actions and proceedings against the superintendent or inspectors, or property clerk, or members of the Metropolitan Police force, for acts done in the discharge of duty, and to defray the salaries and pay required by this act, and such other general expenses as may, from time to time, in the judgment of such apportionment board, become necessary, with the enumeration thereof. Such estimate shall be accompanied with a written apportionment, by said board, of the proportion of expenses applicable to each city, county, town, or village, in the Metropolitan Police District, interested therein, in the ratio of the number of patrolmen authorized by this act, and employed by such city, county, town or village, respectively. The said estimate shall then be submitted to an auditing committee, composed of the Presidents, respectively, of the Board of Supervisors of the counties of New York, Kings, Westchester and Richmond, and of the Board of Aldermen of the city of Brooklyn, and of the Supervisors of the respective towns of Newtown, Flushing and Jamaica, in the county of Queens, who may meet by a majority thereof to consider the same, on or before the first Monday of October, in each and every year. If the said auditing board, on or before the second Monday of said October, shall object, in writing, to such estimate and apportionment, or any portion thereof, and so notify or cause to be notified the said board of estimate and apportionment, it shall be the duty of the latter to immediately and carefully revise the same, and consider the said objections. If such board shall adhere to their original action of estimate or apportionment, or if they shall modify the same, then the final determination shall be binding upon the respective counties, or cities, or towns, or villages interested therein, except that in the counties of Richmond, Westchester and Queens, no proportion of the general expenses of the board of police, in each year, shall be chargeable to any of said counties, or to any town or village therein, except such county, town or village shall have voted to employ and pay patrolmen.

§ 61. The Board of Supervisors of the county of New York, and the joint Board of Supervisors and Aldermen of the city of Brooklyn, are hereby respectively empowered and directed annually to order and cause to be raised and collected by tax upon the estates, real and personal, subject to taxation according to law, within the said county of New York and city of Brooklyn, respectively, the sums of money as aforesaid annually estimated and apportioned as the share of said county or city, of the said total expenses of the Metropolitan Police district.

§ 62. The several sums of money provided for by the preceding sections shall be paid into the treasury of the State, and shall be paid therein and therefrom under the fiscal regulations of law relating to the school fund of the State of New York.

§ 63. The Commissioner of Metropolitan Police, who shall be selected as treasurer of the Board of Metropolitan Police, shall receive an annual salary of three thousand dollars, and each other Commissioner shall receive a compensation of eight dollars for each day of actual service, the same to be annually certified to the Comptroller of the State by the said treasurer of the Board. The Superintendent of the Metropolitan Police shall receive an annual salary of five thousand dollars. Each Inspector of Police shall receive an annual salary of two thousand dollars. Each Surgeon of Police shall receive an annual salary of fifteen hundred dollars. The Chief Clerk to the Board of Metropolitan Police shall receive a like salary of two thousand dollars. The Property Clerk shall receive a like salary of twelve hundred dollars; and each Deputy Clerk a like salary of one thousand dollars. Each Captain of Metropolitan Police shall receive an annual salary of twelve hundred dollars. Each Sergeant of Metropolitan Police shall receive an annual salary of nine hundred dollars. The pay of each patrolman shall be at the yearly rate of eight hundred dollars, and that of each doorman at the rate of seven hundred dollars per year. The salaries and pay aforesaid shall be paid monthly to each person entitled thereto, in modes to be prescribed by the rules and regulations, subject to such deductions each month from the salary or pay of members of the Metropolitan Police force as the treasurer shall make (and which deductions he is hereby authorized to retain), to satisfy fines imposed on any member of the Metropolitan Police force by way of discipline or punishment, and as prescribed by the rules and regulations of the Board. The salary of the Treasurer, and the compensation of each other Commissioner shall be paid by the Comptroller of the State out of the Metropolitan Police Fund.

§ 64. No member of the Board of Metropolitan Police, under any pretense whatsoever, shall, for his own benefit, share in any present, fee, gift or emolument for police services, additional to his regular salary or compensation.

§ 65. The Board of Police, for meritorious and extraordinary services rendered by any member of the police force, in the due discharge of his duty, may permit any member of the police force to retain for his own benefit, any reward or present tendered him therefor; and it shall be cause of removal from the Metropolitan Police force for any member thereof to receive any such reward or present without notice thereof to the Board of Metropolitan Police. Upon receiving said notice, the said Board may either order the said member to retain the same, or shall dispose of it for the benefit of the Police Life Insurance Fund.

§ 66. All fines imposed by the Board of Police upon members of the Metropolitan Police force, by way of discipline, and collectible from pay or salary, and all rewards, fees, proceeds or gifts and emoluments, that may be paid and given for account of extraordinary services of any member of the Metropolitan Police force (except when allowed to be retained by said member); and all moneys remaining for the space of one year in the hands of the Property Clerk, or arising from the sale of unclaimed goods; and all proceeds of suits for penalties, under this amended act, shall be deposited and paid into the bank wherein the Treasurer of the Board of Metropolitan Police shall keep an account. The payments so made shall constitute and be deposited and kept as a fund, to be called the "Police Life Insurance Fund," and the persons who shall, from time to time, fill the office of the said Treasurer of the Board of Metropolitan Police, and that of Comptroller of the city of New York and city of Brooklyn, are hereby declared the trustees of the said fund, and may, from time to time, invest the same, in whole or in part, as they shall deem most advantageous for the objects of such fund, and are empowered to make all necessary contracts and take all necessary remedies in the premises.

§ 67. If any member of the Metropolitan Police force, whilst in the actual performance of duty, shall become permanently disabled, so as to render his dismissal from membership necessary, or if any such member shall become superannuated after ten years of membership, the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars, as an annuity to be paid such member, shall become chargeable upon the Metropolitan Police Life Insurance Fund. If any member of the Metropolitan Police force, whilst in the actual discharge of his duty, shall be killed, or shall die from the immediate effect of any injury received by him whilst in such discharge of duty, and shall leave a widow, or if no widow, any child or children under the age of sixteen years, a like sum, by way of annuity, shall become chargeable upon the said fund, to be paid to such widow, so long only as she remains unmarried, or to such child or children so long only as said child, or the youngest of said children, continues under the age of sixteen years. In every case the Board of Metropolitan Police shall determine the circumstances thereof, and order payment of the annuity to be made by draft, signed by each trustee of the said fund. But nothing herein contained shall render any payment of said annuity obligatory upon the said Board, or the said trustees, or chargeable as a matter of legal right. The Board of Metropolitan Police, in its discretion, may at any time order such annuity to cease.

§ 68.—1. All property or money alleged or supposed to have been feloniously obtained, or which shall be lost or abandoned, and which shall be thereafter taken into the custody of any member of the Metropolitan Police force, or criminal court in the city of New York, or which shall come into custody of any police justice, shall be by such member or justice, or by order of said court, given into the custody of and kept by the property clerk of the Metropolitan Police district, and all such property and money shall be particularly registered by said property clerk in a book kept for that purpose, which shall contain also a record of the names of the person from whom such property or money was taken, the name of all claimants thereto, the time of the seizure, and any final disposition of such property or money.

2. Whenever property or money shall be taken from persons arrested, and shall be alleged to have been feloniously obtained, or to be the proceeds of crime, and whenever so brought with such claimant and the person arrested, before some magistrate for adjudication, and the magistrate shall be then and there satisfied from evidence that the person arrested is innocent of the offense alleged, and that the property rightfully belongs to him, the said magistrate may thereupon, in writing, order such property or money to be returned, and the property clerk, if he have it, to deliver such property or money to the accused person himself, and not to any attorney, agent, or clerk of such accused person.

3. If any claim to the ownership of such property or money shall be made on oath before the magistrate, by or in behalf of any other persons than the persons arrested, the said accused person shall be held for trial or examination, such property or money shall remain in the custody of the property clerk until the discharge or conviction of the persons accused.

4. All property or money taken on suspicion of having been feloniously obtained, or of being the proceeds of crime, and for which there is no other claimant than the person from whom such property was taken, and all lost property coming into the possession of any member of the said Metropolitan Police force, and all property and money taken from pawnbrokers, as the proceeds of crime, or by any such member, from persons supposed to be insane, intoxicated or otherwise incapable of taking care of themselves, shall be transmitted, as soon as practicable, to the property clerk of the Metropolitan Police district, to be duly registered and advertised for the benefit of all persons and parties interested, and for the information of the public as to the amount and disposition of the property so taken into custody by the police.

5. All property and money that shall remain in the custody of the property clerk for the period of six months, without any lawful claimant thereto, after having been three times advertised in public newspapers, shall be sold at public auction, and the proceeds of such sale shall be paid into the Police Life Insurance Fund.

6. If any property or money placed in the custody of the property clerk, shall be desired as evidence in any police or other criminal court, such property shall be delivered to any officer who shall present an order to that effect from such court; such property, however, shall not be retained in said court, but shall be returned to said property clerk, to be disposed of according to the previous provisions of this act.

§ 69. The persons in the respective offices of General Superintendent, Deputy Superintendents, Captains, Sergeants and Patrolmen of the Metropolitan Police district, at the time of the passage of this amended act, and who have taken and subscribed an oath of office, as members of the police force of such district, are hereby continued in office during good behavior, subject to such promotion as may have been provided by previous sections hereof, and to removal from office only according to the provisions of this amended act.

§ 70. The Board of Police shall, at all times, cause the ordinances of the cities of New York and Brooklyn, not in conflict with the provisions of this act, to be properly enforced, and it shall be the duty of said board, at all times, whenever consistent with the rules and regulations of the board, and with the requirements of this act, to furnish all information desired.

§ 71. This act shall take effect immediately.

FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF THE SURGEONS OF THE METROPOLITAN POLICE.

1. The number of Surgeons of the Metropolitan Police shall, from time to time, be determined by the Board of Commissioners of Police, as the exigencies of the service may require, and the powers and duties of the said Surgeons shall be the same, except as is hereinafter provided.

2. There shall be appointed by the Commissioners of Police, one of the said surgeons as President, who shall be the organ of communication between the Commissioners and Board of Surgeons; but it shall be in order for either of the said surgeons to communicate to the Board of Commissioners, at any time, such suggestions or information, in respect to the sanitary condition of the police force, or of the station-houses in the district to which he is assigned, and to the abatement of nuisances affecting the public health, or the presence of infectious or contagious disease in any part of the Metropolitan Police District.

3. The Metropolitan Police District is divided into Surgical Districts.

The first district comprises the 1st, 2d and 3d Police Precincts, and 8th and 9th Wards (Sub-stations), Brooklyn.

The second district comprises the 4th, 5th and 6th Police Precincts, and 17th Ward (Sub-station), Brooklyn.

The 3d district, 1st and 2d Police Precincts of New York.

" 4th	" 3d and 5th	"	"
" 5th	" 4th and 6th	"	"
" 6th	" 8th and 14th	"	"
" 7th	" 9th and 15th	"	"
" 8th	" 7th and 10th	"	"
" 9th	" 11th and 13th	"	"
" 10th	" 16th and 20th	"	"
" 11th	" 17th and 18th	"	"
" 12th	" 19th and 21st	"	"
" 13th	" 12th and 22d	"	"

4. To each of the foregoing districts the Commissioners of Police shall assign one surgeon for duty; and each surgeon shall, in the district to which he is assigned, have the exclusive surgical and medical charge, except that he may invite the aid of such other surgeons of the force, from time to time, as he may deem expedient.

5. It shall be the duty of each surgeon—

1. To report to the Commissioners of Police, as often as he may deem proper, but at least once every three months, on the health of the police force, and the sanitary condition of the station-houses in the district assigned to him.

2. To render professional services to all members of the police force stationed in his district, who may be ill, whether such illness be in consequence of injuries received on duty, or from ordinary sickness or indisposition, and to report thereon, in writing, to the chief clerk of police, on the last day of each month, the cause of such illness, and specifying the number of days when any officer in his district was unable, from wounds received while on service, or from illness contracted by exposure, to perform duty.

3. To visit daily, and, from time to time, carefully inspect and report to the Commissioners of Police, the sanitary state of the station-houses, the condition and ventilation of the cells, and on all matters connected with the station-houses or other buildings in charge of the Board of Police, within his district, which may affect injuriously the health of the inmates.

4. To attend all prisoners confined in the station-houses in his district, on the requisition of a captain of police or officer in command.

5. To attend all casualties requiring professional aid, occurring by day or by night in his district, on the requisition of a captain of police or officer in command, and to visit all persons reported to him to have been assaulted or otherwise injured, whose cases have or may become the subject of investigation by the police magistrates, and to report to the General or Deputy Superintendent of Police, whether the injuries sustained are of such a nature as to render it necessary for a magistrate to be called to take the injured person's deposition ; and when the life of the injured person may appear to be in danger, it shall be the duty of the surgeon to give immediate notice thereof to the General or Deputy Superintendent.

6. To visit, from time to time, all injured persons in his district whose cases are undergoing investigation, in order that he may be able to give full and complete medical evidence, when necessary, on the trial of the accused parties.

7. To inspect, whenever called upon by a captain of police, the carcasses of any animals within his district suspected to be diseased, or any butcher meat, fish, poultry, or other articles of provisions suspected to be unsound or unwholesome, or in a state unfit for human food, and to give evidence thereon in court when required.

8. To inspect, on the requisition of a captain of police, any adulterated provisions within his district, and to give evidence thereon when required.

9. To report forthwith in writing to the General Superintendent, all nuisances affecting the public health, and the presence of any infectious or contagious disease within his district.

6. It shall be the duty of the captains of police to report in writing to the surgeons of their respective precincts, the names of all officers under their command who may have been wounded or taken ill, stating their residence, and whether wounded or sick ; and no officer so wounded or sick shall be placed on duty without the consent in writing of the surgeon of police who attended him being first had and obtained.

7. It shall be the duty of those surgeons of police who receive fifteen hundred dollars per annum for their services, in consideration of their larger compensation, to examine the physical condition of all candidates for police appointments whose applications shall have been favorably considered by the Board of Police, and report thereon in writing, whether such candidates possess the qualifications prescribed in respect to health, strength, stature, and age. Such reports shall be signed by at least two of the surgeons referred to in this section, and be filed in the office of the chief clerk. It shall be the duty of all the surgeons of the police to make the examination herein mentioned whenever required by resolution of the Board of Commissioners.

8. It shall be the duty of one or more of the surgeons of police to repair to any part of the Metropolitan Police District, whenever so directed by the Board of Commissioners, to examine and report upon the presence of contagious or infectious disease ; upon the existence of nuisances dangerous to the public health, or upon any matter or thing within the said police district, that may be supposed prejudicial to the public health.

9. The surgeons shall file with the Chief Clerk, once in every month reports of the names of Policemen who have received professional attention from them, and stating the number of days they have been ill and unable to do duty, the nature of the illness, and whether contracted in the service of the Department.

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF THE
TWENTY-FOURTH PRECINCT.
(HARBOR POLICE.)

1. The harbor police, until the further action of the Board of Police, shall consist of twenty-five men, distributed in five boats.

2. There shall be assigned to each boat five men, of whom one shall be in command, and be called coxswain, but all shall receive the pay of patrolmen.

3. There shall be two sergeants, who shall relieve each other, and while on duty, shall be in command of all the boats, subject directly to the orders of the Deputy Superintendent of New York, under the General Superintendent, to whom reports shall be made every morning at nine o'clock, of the duty performed by the several boats for the preceding twenty-four hours.

4. Three of the boats shall be on service on the East river and bay, of which two shall be on duty from sunset to sunrise, and one from sunrise to sunset.

Two boats shall be on service on the North river, of which one shall be on duty from sunset to sunrise, and one from sunrise to sunset.

5. The beats of the harbor police shall be from the southerly end of Blackwell's Island, on the East River, to Governor's Island and the entrance to the Atlantic Dock, on the Brooklyn shore, and from Fourteenth street to the Battery, on the North river; but the boats may, by order of the sergeant in command, or of the General Superintendent or Deputy Superintendent of New York, proceed to any part of the harbor on police duty.

6. Each boat on night duty shall be provided with a signal-lantern, to throw flashes of red light on shore; and it shall be the duty of the patrolmen on West or South streets, who may see the light, to repair to the place where the boat shall land, to render such assistance as may be required.

7. The boats on night duty shall, in addition to the signal-lanterns, carry rockets, provided for the purpose, which they shall discharge when requiring assistance from the other boats on service; and it shall be the duty of the other boats to repair immediately to that part of the river or bay whence the rocket was discharged.

8. When a boat shall bring prisoners ashore, it shall be the duty of one or more of the crew to transfer them to the patrolmen on land, who shall convey the prisoners to the nearest station-house.

In addition to the ordinary baton of a patrolman, each member of the harbor police shall be armed, while on duty, with a revolving pistol and a cutlass.

9. Each boat, while on duty, shall be continually moving, unless engaged in watching some suspected place or vessel.

10. The boats shall be painted black on the outside and white on the interior, and the word "Police" shall be painted in large black letters on the inside of the stern, and in white letters on either bow on the outside of the boats, and numbered from one to five; but there shall not be any name or any other distinctive mark on the said boats.

11. The uniform of the harbor police shall be—

A sailor's jacket of blue cloth, police vest buttons.

blue shirt.

" pea jacket, police coat buttons.

And from June till September, instead of cloth, white duck trowsers; and instead of tarpaulin, a sailor's straw hat.

The dress of the Sergeants shall be the same as that of the men, except that they shall wear the cap and other insignia of officers of their rank. The men shall wear the patrolmen's shield.

12. Neither of the boats, under any pretense whatever, whether the crew be on or off duty, shall be employed except on the business of the Police; and if it shall be proven that the crew, or either of them, or any other person or persons, shall use a Police boat for pleasure or fishing, the coxswain in command shall be instantly dismissed from the service.

13. It shall be the duty of the members of the Harbor Police to make themselves thoroughly acquainted with the localities of all junk-shops, and the character of their occupants, and the character, business, and appearance of all boats and vessels plying in the harbor of New York.

The station of the boats and the head-quarters of the men shall be hereafter determined by the Board.

The Judge at Chambers will continue to hold the same, to and including the Saturday preceding the first Monday of the succeeding month, except when otherwise directed herein.

All applications for business to be transacted at Chambers and Special term, must be made to the Judge assigned to hold that branch of the Court.

REGULATIONS.

All issues of fact already joined and triable in the city of New York, will be noticed to the Clerk, and be put on the Calendar for the ensuing January Circuit.

During the first week of that Circuit, motions to correct the Calendar may be made.

After that week the Calendar will remain unchanged, and continue the Calendar for every successive Circuit, until all the causes on it shall be tried; each Circuit beginning on the Calendar, where the immediately preceding Circuit left off, and new causes to be placed in order at the foot of the permanent Calendar.

After the first week of each Circuit (during which motions to correct the Calendar may be made), the Calendar of the causes which may have gone down at the previous Circuit, and the new issues will be entered as part and in continuation of the permanent Calendar; and so on from court to court, until the end of the year.

These regulations do not affect the question of noticing the causes for trial to the opposite party, from court to court, as the statute may require.

Hereafter, no causes will be reserved, generally, after they are placed on the day Calendar.

No cause or any day Calendar will be passed, except where the counsel is actually engaged in a trial of a cause in another court in the city, or in the Court of Appeals; and then only until such an engagement is discharged, or upon proof of the absence of a witness duly subpoenaed.

Parties by consent, may apply to the Clerk and have any cause reserved generally, and set down for a particular day, before it is placed on the day Calendar; and may, on filing with the Clerk a like consent, have the same placed on the day Calendar.

SPECIAL CIRCUIT CALENDAR.

At any Circuit, until further orders, any causes belonging to either of the following classes, may be placed on a Special Circuit Calendar, unless the trial is likely to occupy more than one hour.

1st. Where the action is on contract, and the answer merely denies the allegations in the complaint, without setting up any new matter.

2d. Where the action is on contract, and new matter is set up in the answer, and there shall be reason to believe that the defense is made only for the purpose of delay.

3d. Where it shall appear by affidavit, that the cause can be tried in an hour.

To entitle the cause to be placed on such Calendar, the Plaintiff's Attorney must give a notice of four days to be heard before a Judge, at Chambers, that he will move to have the cause placed on such Calendar; and if the motion be granted, the cause may be heard on any subsequent Friday.

If the motion be founded on the belief that the defense is for delay, affidavits must be served at the time of notice.

The Plaintiff's Attorney must deliver to the Clerk of the Circuit a like notice one day before such Friday, containing also the number of the cause on the General Circuit Calendar.

If the cause shall actually occupy more than one hour on the trial, the trial may be suspended at the discretion of the Court, and the cause be put down at the foot of the Calendar.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

ORDERED

1. That a new General Calendar for the Trial Terms be made up for the year 1861, notes of issue for which must be filed before Saturday, the 29th day of December, instant, specifying whether the issue is to be tried “ by a jury,” or “ by the Court without a jury ;” also stating thereon its numbers upon the Calendar of 1860, and if it has been made “ down,” when it was so marked.

No cause will be entered upon the Calendar, unless the note of issue conforms to these requirements.

2. There will be but one Calendar made up for the year 1861, and but one note of issue need be filed in any cause. Causes noticed after the January term will be placed at the foot of the General Calendar, according to their dates of issue. Causes marked down will be placed at the end of the Calendar.
3. Causes may be generally reserved by a written consent of the attorneys, filed at any time before the case is on the day calendar. Cases so reserved may afterwards be placed on the day calendar, on the application of either party to the Judge at Chambers, provided two days' previous notice of such application be given to the adverse party.
4. All causes marked "Off for the term," shall have priority at the succeeding term, and will be placed at the head of the calendar therefor.
5. The calendar of causes to be tried by the Court without a jury, will be called at the trial terms on the Fourth Mondays of January, March, May, and November.
6. Fifteen causes will be placed on each day calendar, and no calendar will be made for Saturdays.
7. At the General Terms, in appeal cases arising in this Court the parties may by consent reserve the argument until the second week in term, when all so reserved will be called in their order on the calendar. But in appeals from the Marine and Justices' Courts no such reservation will be allowed, and counsel therein must be prepared for the argument when the case is reached in its order.
8. In any action on contract, where there is reason to believe that the defence is interposed for delay, and that the trial will not occupy more than one hour, the plaintiff may, upon a notice of four days, apply at Chambers to have the cause placed upon the Special Calendar for short cases, and which will be made up for the last Friday in each trial term.

The notice must be accompanied by the affidavits (if any), upon which the motion will be founded.

If the motion be granted, the order to that effect shall forthwith be delivered to the Clerk, with a written notice specifying the number of the cause on the General Calendar.

Should the trial occupy more than one hour, it may be suspended in the discretion of the Judge holding the court, and the cause will thereupon be placed at the foot of the General Calendar, unless otherwise specially ordered.

By the Court,

NATHANIEL JARVIS, JR.,

SIXTY-SECOND ANNUAL REPORT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES, 1860.

To the Representatives of the New York Fire Department:

In presenting to your notice the transactions of the financial affairs of the Charitable Fund of the Department, your Trustees deem it their duty to call the attention of the Representatives to the great diminution of the annual receipts for the present year. Deeply do we regret, at any time, to be compelled to present such unfavorable accounts, but more so at the present time; for by referring to the Annual Report of the Chief Engineer, you will find the total number of men in the active portion of the Department to consist of 4,227 men, being an increase over the previous year of 527 men. By long experience, your Trustees are well satisfied, that an increase in the active ranks makes additional applicants on the Charitable Fund for assistance. Without attempting to discuss the necessity of so large a force, we will confine our remarks as to the importance of selecting applicants for membership from those who are possessed of not only moral character, but a careful and rigid examination should be made as to the physical condition of the applicants, concluding with a recommendation to reject those who, in addition to wanting of the above qualifications, they deem no man should be a member of the Department who is not possessed of habits of practical industry.

We earnestly hope that the Representatives will call the attention of the Honorable Board of Fire Commissioners to the importance of a searching investigation as to the ability and qualifications of those who are desirous of enrolling their names as "Members of the New York Fire Department ;" for we are assured that the perpetuation of our noble Institution depends on the character of those who fill the active ranks.

In returning thanks to those who have aided the fund during the past year, we cannot allow the continued exertions of the gentlemen composing the Firemen's Ball Committee to pass unnoticed. Although the net amount received from the proceeds of the last ball falls short of the amount received for several years previous, nevertheless we fully appreciate the feelings of the Committee in their efforts to make the ball one of pleasure and comfort to those who were present, and, although the fund sustained a temporary loss in a pecuniary sense, but no doubt of advantage for the future, the reputation of the Firemen's Ball was fully sustained, and the effort of the Committee to please its patrons was a decided success.

Of the various munificent donations made by the municipal authorities, not one is more fully sanctioned by the taxpayers than the Annual Donation made by the Honorable Common Council in aid of the Charitable Fund Department.

To Messrs. Joseph E. Miller, Edwin Forrest, and the proprietors of the Herald and Sun, we respectfully acknowledge the receipt of their several donations ; as to the latter gentlemen, the entire amount against the Department for printing, in their respective papers.

By referring to the report of the treasurer, you will perceive that, at the time of his last report, there was a balance in the Butchers' and Drovers' Bank to the credit of the Department, amounting to three thousand two hundred and twenty-five dollars and eighty-two cents ($3,225.82).

Since then he has received from various sources the sum of twenty-eight thousand three hundred and fifty-six dollars and twenty cents ($23,356.20), which, in the aggregate, amounts to thirty-one thousand five hundred and eighty-two dollars and two cents (31,582.02).

In the above sum is included two thousand dollars for a bond and mortgage canceled.

The disbursements for the same period have amounted to thirty thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven dollars and twenty-nine cents ($30,897.29), including two thousand dollars re-invested ; leaving a balance in the Butchers' and Drovers' Bank, to the credit of the Department, of six hundred and eighty-four dollars and seventy-three cents ($684.73).

The Permanent Fund remains the same as the last report, namely, $97,250, invested as follows : $97,000 in bonds and mortgages, and $250 in Manhattan Bank Stock.

Engr. for E. T. Valentine's Manual, for 1861.

by Geo. Hayward, 177 Pearl Street, New York.

VIEW OF CENTRAL PARK, OAK BRIDGE.

In the receipts of the past year, we have to acknowledge the amount of $225 from George C. Genet, Esq., Corporation Attorney, for violations of the corporation ordinances relative to hoistways and dangerous furnaces. This amount has been collected since the 1st day of June last.

The Legislature, at its last session, enacted a new law relative to buildings in this city; also, changing the manner of enforcing the same, as well as relieving the Trustees of the onerous duties of prosecuting for penalties. Although six months have scarcely elapsed since the law went into effect, nevertheless, we have reason to believe that, by a proper enforcement of its provisions, our citizens, as well as our brother firemen, will receive protection for life and property. It cannot be forgotten, of the immense destruction to human life at fires during the past year, owing, in a measure, to the want of proper means of escape. Without deciding as to the benefit to be derived in this respect, by the sections of the new law, we are desirous of giving the same a fair trial, and are in hopes, under the operation of the same, that we will not again be called to record such horrid destruction of human lives, as it has been our present task to recount.

The Committee on Schools have distributed 1,370 pairs of shoes to the various recipients of the Department. The vacancies in the New York University still exist. It is hoped that, for the credit of the Department, they will be speedily filled. Any information relative to admission of pupils will be furnished by the School Committee.

The Committee on Fuel have distributed coal, amounting in all, as per Report of the Treasurer, to $3,676.20, and have contracted for fuel for the present season.

The Special Committee on Donations and Benefits report that the Benefit in aid of the Department Fund, which was given at Niblo's, October 30th, resulted, owing to the hearty response given by the Representatives in assisting the efforts of the Committee, in adding to the fund the sum of eleven hundred and eighty-one dollars and twenty-three cents. There remains a balance due for tickets received from the Committee.

At the present time, when the question of reorganizing the Fire Department is agitated, not only by the members of the Department, but by the Press, it is highly important, if any change is needed, that it should emanate from the Department. If any change is requisite, such change can be made to continue the VOLUNTEER DEPARTMENT, so as to command the confidence and support of our citizens.

The duty of a fireman, in addition to a strict performance of his trust, is a prompt compliance with the orders of his superior officers, by a respectful tone to his brother firemen, endeavoring to inculcate a friendly feeling with all members of the Department, so as to avoid any cause of complaint, submitting to the laws which have been enacted for the government of the Department, while such laws exist. If they are detrimental to the interest of the Department, more benefit will be accomplished by an effort to have them modified, than by open violation of the same. As stewards selected by you to guard a sacred and responsible trust, we deem it our duty to ask of our brother firemen, by their acts, individually and collectively, to pursue a course which will not only perpetuate our noble institution, but will secure to the widows and orphans of our deceased brethren, that succor which they look to in the hour of trial. It is our sad lot to know, that the families of those who in former years have aided to sustain the Fund, have, by the vicissitudes of life, been compelled to seek relief from that source.

The term of service of Messrs. Henry A. Burr, Zophar Mills, and William Williams, expires at the annual meeting; it will be necessary to elect three Trustees for three years each. All of which is respectfully submitted.

By order of the Board of Trustees.

THE NEW ARMORY, OR DOWN-TOWN ARSENAL.

This edifice is situated on the corner of White and Elm streets. It is one hundred and thirty-one feet on White street, and eighty-four feet on Elm street. It is built of blue stone, only two stories high, the first being thirteen feet, and the second thirty feet high. The windows are very narrow, being only eighteen inches wide, so that in case of an assault by a mob outside, the building could be defended with success by fifty men. The first floor is used as a gun-room and meeting-room, the second as a drill-room, and a rendezvous in case of a riot. The style is Gothic, and on the three corners of the building are situated towers; there are five doors on White street, and one on Elm, which are made of boiler iron. It is built on piles driven into the ground. This building is used as a receptacle for a portion of the artillery of the first division of the New York State Militia. It is a very handsome building, and is constructed on the very best plan for defense. On the centre of the roof is erected a large flag-staff, by which communication from this building and the arsenal up-town may be carried on by signal telegraph.

THE FREE ACADEMY.

The Free Academy of the city of New York is the first institution established in this State by the popular sovereignty, and maintained at the public expense, for the purpose of extending to the pupils of the Common Schools the advantages of free education in those higher departments of learning, which cannot be obtained but at a considerable expense in the colleges previously established in this State. It was intended to be the complement of the system of free public schools—making them complete and available for all classes of the people, and by their courses of studies and means of instruction, fitted to meet the wants of all, from the elementary instruction of early childhood to the more various and profound studies in literature and science, which constitute the higher departments of collegiate learning.

The Board of Education of the city of New York took the first action in reference to the establishment of this institution, by the adoption of a resolution, introduced by Commissioner Townsend Harris, July 27th, 1847, raising a Committee to report upon the subject. On January 20th, 1847, a report was presented by said Committee, recommending the establishment of "a Free College or Academy," and presenting its design, nature, and objects, in this language: "Your Committee will not at present enter into the details of the proposed institution, but will briefly remark, that their design is to offer the idea of a college, which, while it shall be in no way inferior to any of our colleges in the character, amount, or value of the information given to the pupils, the course of studies to be pursued will have more especial reference to the active duties of operative life, rather than those more particularly regarded as necessary for the pulpit, bar, or the medical profession."

The report was published, and considered at a meeting of the Board, held on the 10th of February, 1847, when a Committee was appointed to draft a memorial, in the name of the Board, to be presented to the Legislature, praying, among other things:

First—"That the Legislature will be pleased to pass a law directing the Regents of the University to pay over to the Board of Education such amount of the literature fund as may be apportioned by them to the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth Senate Districts of this State; such moneys to be applied to the support of a free college or academy, in the city of New York, for the instruction of students who have been pupils in the Common Schools of the said city."

Second—"That the Legislature will further authorize the Board of Education in said city to call on the Supervisors from time to time, to raise by tax such sums as may be required for the erecting, furnishing, and fitting up of said college or academy, and supporting the same, such sums to be notified to, and raised by the said Supervisors, in the same manner and under the same heading of taxation that the moneys for the support of Common Schools in said city are now raised."

The memorial was drafted and presented to the Legislature, offering, among others, the following views and purposes:

"One of the important objects designed to be secured by establishing a Free Academy, is to bring the advantages of the best education that any school in our country can give within the reach of all the children of the city, whose genius, capacity, and desire of attainments are such as to render it reasonably certain that they may be made, and by such means would become eminently useful to society; the permanency of our free institutions, the future state of society, the extent to which the laws of the country will be regarded, and social quiet and order preserved, depend essentially upon the virtue and intelligence of the people."

"Another object of the proposed free institution is, to create an additional interest in, and more completely popularize the Common Schools. It is believed that they will be regarded with additional favor, and attended with increased satisfaction, when the pupils and their parents feel that the children who have received their primary education in these schools, can be admitted to all the benefits and advantages furnished by the best endowed college in the State, without any expense whatever. It is believed that such an institution as the proposed Free Academy is designed to be, in addition to the great benefits it will confer by annually graduating a large number of highly educated young men, destined to pursue some of all the various pursuits of life, would stimulate tens of thousands, who might never enter into this Academy, to additional industry and greater advances, while in the Common Schools. The certainty to a young man of good abilities, and desirous of making large acquisitions in knowledge, of having the opportunity of gaining as extensive an education as can be acquired in any institution in the State, if his parents can only furnish him the means to subsist at home, is in the highest degree cheering, while the certainty that the limited earnings of his parents will preclude him, in the existing state of things, from having any such advantages, tends to repress such generous aspirations, paralyze effort, and prevent the full development of his ability to become extensively useful to the class in which his lot may be cast, or to society at large."

Such were the objects presented to the Legislature, to induce the passage of the law authorizing the establishment of the Free Academy. The people were promised an institution which, in the character, amount and value of the education imparted, should be inferior to none of our colleges, and at the same time should be so organized that the course of studies to be pursued would tend to educate the pupils practically, and particularly qualify them to apply their learning to advance and perfect the operations of the various trades and occupations in which they may engage; and, also, to furnish peculiar facilities for instruction of the highest order in various branches of knowledge omitted altogether, or not practically taught in our colleges. These views were approved by the Board, and concurred in by the succeeding Boards, who always have considered the Academy as a part of the Common School system of the city, by which, in easy and continuous development, students may pass on, as far as they are able, to the higher levels of literary and scientific education—an institution uniting in a properly progressive system the usual duties of the American Academy, and the American College—retaining always its characteristic peculiarity of an agency of the government, in offering to all the people; equally, the means of educating their sons up to the point from which they respectively are to start in the pursuit of manhood and citizenship, and meeting the wants not only of those whose wealth is largely taxed to support education, but of those more numerous, whose aggregate taxes are still larger, and also those whose more slender resources are subject to no direct pecuniary tax, but who in numberless indirect exactions, contribute their full share in supporting the burdens of organized society.

The act authorizing the Board to establish a Free Academy was passed May 7th, 1847, providing as a condition to its becoming a law, that the question whether such academy should be established according to its provisions, should be submitted to the people at the election to be held on the first Monday of June, 1847, and that a majority of the votes given must be in favor of the proposition. The question was so submitted, and 19,404 votes were given in favor of it, to 3,409 against—leaving a majority of 15,995.

ORGANIZATION OF THE FREE ACADEMY.

By the statute, it is made the duty of the Board of Education:

"To continue to furnish, through the Free Academy, the benefit of education gratuitously, to persons who have been pupils in the Common Schools of the said city and county, for a period of time to be regulated by the Board of Education, not less than one year.

"To supervise, manage and govern said Free Academy, and make all needful rules and regulations therefor; fix the number and compensation of teachers and others to be employed therein ; prescribe the preliminary examination, and the terms and conditions on which pupils shall be received and instructed therein and discharged therefrom ; direct the course of studies therein, and provide in all things for the good government and management of the said Free Academy ; and purchase the books, apparatus, stationery, and other things necessary and expedient to enable the said Free Academy to be properly and successfully conducted, and to keep the said building or buildings properly repaired and furnished. And the Board, upon the recommendation of the Faculty of the Free Academy, may grant the usual degrees and diplomas in the arts, to such persons as shall have completed a full course of study in the said Free Academy.

“ To appoint annually a standing committee of not less than five persons of their number, who shall, subject to the control, supervision and approbation of the said Board, constitute an Executive Committee, for the care, government and management of the said Free Academy, under the rules and regulations prescribed as aforesaid, whose duty it shall be to make detailed reports to the said Board of Education, and, among other things, to recommend the rules and regulations which they deem necessary and proper for the said academy.”

The organization of the institution, based on the above enactments, is shown in the following digest of the by-laws of the Board of Education and regulations of the Faculty.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

The examination of candidates for admission takes place immediately after the general examination, in July, and continues at the same hours every day until concluded. No student can be admitted to the Academy unless he resides in the city, be fourteen years of age, shall have attended the Common Schools in the city twelve months, and shall pass a good examination in

Spelling,	Algebra, as far as quadratic equations
Reading,	Geography, [inclusive,
Writing,	History of the United States,
English Grammar,	Constitution of the United States,
Arithmetic,	Elementary Book-keeping.

No candidate can be examined for admission unless he shall present to the Principal of the Academy a certificate in the form prepared by the Executive Committee, signed by the Principal of the school or schools of which he has been a member, and specifying the age of the candidate, the Common Schools of the city which he has attended, the length of time in each, and when. If the number qualified for admission be more than can be admitted, the preference is given to those who have attended the Common Schools the greater period.

At either of the regular examinations, members may be admitted to one or all of the classes, to pursue the studies of any one or more departments, provided they shall have attended the Common Schools the requisite period—shall be of the proper age—shall pass the proper examination in the requisites for admission, and also an examination satisfactory to the Faculty, in the previous studies of the class or departments to which they are to be admitted.

No person is allowed to be present at the examination, except the instructors in the Academy, and members of the Board of Education and other school officers; neither are the names of the candidates, nor the schools from which they come, made known to the instructors conducting the examinations, but each candidate is designated during examination by a number given to him on a card by the Principal. Only the names of such as have passed a good examination are afterwards ascertained, in order to be inscribed on the rolls of the Academy.

Students are not allowed to reside or board in the Academy; they reside or board with their parents or guardians. By removing from the city they forfeit their right to remain in the institution.

Graduates may become resident graduates, and continue their studies at option.

DISCIPLINE.

The discipline of the Academy is mild, persuasive, and just, but steady, strict, and unyielding. The law on this point is clear and explicit.

“Every student,” it says, “shall conduct himself according to the rules of good manners, good morals, and manly propriety; shall give punctual and constant attendance to all his duties; shall use the property of the institution with care and economy, and restore the same when required.”

The punishment inflicted in the Academy are demerit marks, private admonition, admonition by the Principal in presence of the Section and of the Instructor in the recitation-room, suspension by the direction of the Principal, public admonition by the Principal in presence of all the students at roll-call, final admonition by the Principal in a meeting of the Faculty, and dismissal for misconduct, to be directed by a vote of the Faculty.

Every violation of the rules is recorded in the Book of Discipline, together with the degree of punishment inflicted, and the amount of demerits received. No student is demerited without receiving notice of the fact and the cause.

Every student admitted into the Academy receives a certificate thereof, stating, that on leaving the institution with a good character after one year, he shall receive another certificate or diploma, stating the period he has been in the Academy, and the studies there pursued by him; and, provided he shall have satisfactorily accounted for all the books and other property committed to him, and shall have maintained a good character, he shall, on so leaving the Academy, receive such diploma; but no student shall receive a certificate of dismissal if he be dismissed for misconduct; and, in each certificate, it shall be stated that he is furnished with a statement of his standing in the Academy, as it shall appear on the records during his whole connection with the Academy.

OFFICERS OF INSTRUCTION AND GOVERNMENT.

The studies are pursued under the following academic officers, appointed by the Board of Education :

The Principal, who shall be Professor of Moral, Intellectual, and Political Philosophy.

A Professor of English Language and Literature.

A Professor of the Latin and Greek Languages and Literature.

A Professor of French Language and Literature.

A Professor of German Language and Literature.

A Professor of Spanish Language and Literature.

THIRD AVENUE RAILROAD DEPOT AND STABLES.—This building is situated on a high piece of ground opposite the southern boundary of Hamilton square, and occupies the block on the easterly side of the Third avenue, between Sixty-fifth and Sixty-sixth streets ; the area of ground which it covers, being 24 full lots. The frontage, 200 feet, is an ornamental style of architecture, known as the "Modern Italian," and is composed of brick and brown stone. It is three stories high, and 85 feet from the base. The main front is 50 feet deep, and contains the necessary offices adapted to the use of the company ; likewise two large halls for balls, meetings, &c., with the necessary rooms for suppers, &c., on the third floor, and a suite of rooms for the Janitor's use. The top of the building commands a fine view of the suburbs of the city. The stable is arranged on the most approved principle of light, ventilation, and drainage, and is 200 by 300 feet, containing 720 stalls. Above the stable is a large car-house, centrewoven, with iron rails, capable of housing 100 cars ; also the necessary work shops. In the centre of the building is a large feed room or granary, and planned so as to facilitate the working of the road in every department. The whole forming a sight worth seeing by the many strangers visiting the city.

* The first three named railroads have the trains running to different parts of the State ; and the New York and New Haven and Hudson River Railroad Companies have city or small cars.

LAWS TO REGULATE PUBLIC PORTERS.

1. The Mayor shall license and appoint as many and such persons as he may think expedient, to be public porters of the city of New York, and revoke or suspend any or all such licenses, at his pleasure ; and it shall not be lawful for any person to use any wheelbarrow or hand-cart, to carry within said city, for hire, wages, or pay for such conveyance, or to be at any hotel, boarding-house, ferry, steamboat-landing, railroad-station or depot, and solicit of strangers, travelers, citizens, or other persons, or accept the conveyance of baggage, or other articles, without being licensed, as aforesaid, by the Mayor.

This section shall not be construed to prevent any person keeping, or employed in, any hotel or boarding-house, from conveying any baggage or other articles to or from such hotel or boarding-house, and using a hand-cart or wheelbarrow therefor : provided the name of the hotel or boarding-house, and the keeper thereof, be painted distinctly on both sides of such wheelbarrow or hand-cart, and on a badge worn on the front of his hat or cap, so as to be easily and distinctly seen.

2. All licenses to public porters, granted as aforesaid, shall run one year from the date thereof, and may be renewed by the Mayor at any time within the said year, for a succeeding year.

3. Every person receiving a license to be a public porter, as aforesaid, shall pay to the Mayor, for the use of the city, one dollar ; and a further sum of seventy-five cents upon the renewal of every such license.

4. Every public porter shall wear in a conspicuous place about his person, so as to be easily seen, a brass plate, or badge, on which shall be engraven his name, the words "public porter," and the number of his license ; and it shall be unlawful for any other person to wear or exhibit any badge, purporting to be, resembling, or similar to, the badge of a public porter ; and no public porter shall permit any other person to wear his badge, or use his name in any way whatever, in the transportation or conveyance of anything.

5. Public porters shall be entitled to charge and receive for the carrying or conveyance of any article, any distance within half a mile, twelve cents, if carried by hand, and twenty-five cents if carried on a wheelbarrow or hand-cart ; if the distance exceeds half a mile, and is within one mile, one-half the above rates in addition thereto, and in the same proportion for any greater distance.

6. If any public porter shall ask or demand any greater rate of pay or compensation for the carrying or conveyance of articles than is herein provided, he shall not be entitled to any pay for the said service ; and to so ask, demand, or receive any such greater pay or compensation, shall be deemed a violation of this ordinance.

7. It shall not be lawful for any person to represent himself as, or to wear or exhibit any badge, inscription, card, or device, purporting or implying that he is employed or authorized by the keeper, proprietor, agent, or officer of any hotel, boarding-house, vessel, steamboat, or railroad company, to solicit, receive, or convey persons, baggage, or other things to or from any such hotel, boarding-house, vessel, steamboat, or railroad company's station or depot, without being actually and duly authorized by such keeper, proprietor, officer, or agent, so to do, under the penalty of twenty-five dollars for every offense.

All persons who shall violate or fail to comply with any of the provisions of this ordinance, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished pursuant to the provisions of sections 20 and 21 of an act relative to the powers of the Common Council of the city of New York, and the criminal courts of said city, passed by the Legislature of the State of New York, January 23d, 1833, or, in lieu thereof, shall forfeit and pay for the use of said city, ten dollars for each and every offense, except where a penalty is prescribed in said ordinance.

EXTRACT FROM ORDINANCES,

OF THE RATES AND PRICES OF

FARES TO BE CHARGED BY HACKNEY COACHES.

The prices or rates of fares to be taken by, or paid to the owners or drivers of hackney coaches or carriages, shall be as follows :

For conveying a passenger any distance not exceeding one mile, fifty cents ; for conveying two passengers the same distance, seventy-five cents ; or thirty-seven and a half cents each ; and for every additional passenger, thirty-seven and a half cents.

For conveying a passenger any distance exceeding a mile, and within two miles, seventy-five cents ; and for every additional passenger, thirty-seven and a half cents.

For conveying a passenger to the new alms-house, and returning, one dollar ; and for every additional passenger and returning, fifty cents.

For conveying one passenger to Fortieth street, and remaining half an hour, and returning, one dollar and a half ; and for every additional passenger, fifty cents.

For conveying one passenger to Sixty-first street, and remaining three-quarters of an hour, and returning, two dollars ; and for every additional passenger, fifty cents.

For conveying one passenger to Eighty-sixth street, and remaining one hour, and returning, two dollars and a half ; and for every additional passenger, seventy-five cents.

For conveying one or more passengers to Harlem, and returning, with the privilege of remaining three hours, five dollars ; or to High Bridge, five dollars, with the same privilege.

For conveying one or more passengers to Kingsbridge, and returning, with the privilege of keeping the carriage all day, five dollars.

For the use of a hackney coach or carriage by the day, with one or more passengers, five dollars.

For the use of a hackney coach or carriage, by the hour, with one or more passengers, with the privilege of going from place to place, and stopping as often as may be required, one dollar an hour.

In all cases where the hiring of a hackney coach or carriage is not at the time thereof specified to be by the day or hour, it shall be deemed to be by the mile.

For children between two and fourteen years of age, half price is only to be charged; and for children under two years of age, no charge is to be made.

Whenever a hackney coach or carriage shall be detained, excepting as aforesaid, the owner or driver shall be allowed after the rate of seventy-five cents an hour.

Every driver or owner of a hackney coach, carriage, or cab, shall carry, transport, and convey, in and upon his coach, carriage, or cab, in addition to the person or persons therein, one trunk, valise, saddle-bag, carpet-bag, portmanteau or box, if he be requested so to do, for each passenger, without charge or compensation therefor; but for every trunk or other such articles above named, more than one for each passenger, he shall be entitled to demand and receive the sum of six cents.

In case of disagreement as to distance or price, the same shall be determined by the Mayor, or Superintendent of Hackney Coaches or Carriages.

The owner of any hackney coach or carriage shall not demand or receive any pay for the conveyance of any passenger, unless the number of the carriage, and the rates and prices of fare, shall be fixed and placed in a manner hereinafter directed by section second of title fourth of this ordinance, at the time such passenger may be conveyed in such carriage.

The owner or driver of any hackney coach or carriage shall not be entitled to recover or receive any pay from any person from whom he shall have demanded any greater price or rates than he may be authorized to receive as aforesaid.

Upon the trial of any cause commenced for the recovery of any of the aforesaid prices or rates, it shall be incumbent upon the plaintiff or plaintiffs, in such action, to prove that the number and prices or rates were placed and fixed in pursuance of the provisions of this ordinance, at the time the services were rendered, for which the suit may be brought.

No owner or driver of any hackney coach or carriage in the city of New York shall ask, demand, or receive any larger sum than he or they may be entitled to receive as aforesaid, under the penalty of ten dollars for every such offense, to be sued for and recovered from the owner or owners, or driver, of any such hackney coach or carriage, severally and respectively.

AN ORDINANCE,

IN ADDITION TO AN ORDINANCE ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE FOR LICENSING AND OTHERWISE REGULATING THE USE AND EMPLOYMENT OF CARTS AND CARTMEN, DIRT CARTS AND DIRT CARTMEN, AND PUBLIC PORTERS, AND FOR THE PRESERVATION OF GOOD ORDER IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK."

The Mayor, Aldermen, and Commonalty of the city of New York, in Common Council convened, do ordain as follows :

§ 1. All the provisions of this ordinance, to which this is an addition, as far as relates to carts and cartmen, and not inconsistent herewith, excepting sections 2, 3, 5, 10, 17, and 18, are extended to, and shall include and be applicable to all wagons and other vehicles, commonly known as express wagons, which shall be kept or used, driven or employed for the transportation of anything whatsoever, to or from any place within the city of New York, from or to any place whatsoever, for hire, wages, or pay; provided always, that the owner or owners of such wagons or vehicles shall have a place in the city of New York for the transaction of such business.

§ 2. The Mayor shall find time to license and appoint so many and such persons as he may think proper, to set up and keep one or more express wagons in said city; and he may revoke or suspend any or all such licenses at his pleasure; but it shall not be lawful for any person to receive or hold a license to keep such express wagon, unless he is the actual owner of the wagon or wagons, and of a good horse or horses therefor, nor unless he be a citizen of the United States, and has a family, and resides with his family in said city; or, if not having a family, shall have resided himself therein during the six months preceding; and the Mayor may examine, under oath, all persons applying for or holding any such license, or the renewal thereof, touching their qualifications, as aforesaid; and all licenses other than to persons so qualified, shall be void.

§ 3. The Mayor shall require and receive, for the use of the city, from every person to whom he may grant license to keep such express wagons, five dollars for every wagon so licensed, and two dollars and fifty cents for the licenses of each such wagon renewed.

§ 4. Every such express wagon shall have fairly painted on the outside thereof, in a conspicuous place, on each side, so as to be easily seen, in plain letters and figures, of at least two and a half inches in length, the name of the owner or owners, the place of business in said city, and the number of the license for such wagon; and such owner or owners shall be responsible for all articles intrusted to such wagon, or to the driver thereof, and for the conduct of such driver, whilst in charge of or with such wagon.

§ 5. No person shall drive such express wagon, unless he be twenty-one years of age, and have obtained license from the Mayor for such purpose, under the penalty of ten dollars for every such offense, to be recovered from the owner or owners of such express wagon, and from such driver, both or either.

§ 6. The Mayor is hereby authorized to grant licenses, from time to time, to drivers of such express wagons as are herein mentioned, as often as may be necessary, and to suspend and revoke the same, whenever he may deem it expedient.

§ 7. Any driver of any express wagon, who shall be thrice convicted of a breach of any of the sections of this ordinance, shall be deprived of his license, and forever debarred of a license under this ordinance.

TO AMEND AN ORDINANCE ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE FOR THE LICENSING AND OTHERWISE REGULATING THE USE AND EMPLOYMENT OF EXPRESS WAGONS, CARTS, AND CARTMEN," ETC., ETC., APPROVED BY THE MAYOR, JUNE 2, 1851.

The Mayor, Aldermen, and Commonalty of the city of New York, in Common Council convened, do ordain as follows :

§ 2. The Mayor shall, from time to time, license and appoint so many and such persons as he may think proper, to set up and keep public carts in said city, provided that no one person shall be licensed to keep more than three such public carts. And he shall also license so many and such persons as he may think proper, to be public cartmen of said city, and he may revoke or suspend any or all of such licenses at his pleasuse ; all persons licensed as aforesaid, to keep public carts, shall be deemed to be public cartmen, within the meaning of this ordinance ; but it shall not be lawful for any person to receive or to hold a license to keep public carts, or to be a public cartman, unless he be a citizen of the United States, and resident within the State of New York, and is the actual owner of the cart or carts, with good horses therfor, so licensed to be kept as public carts ; and the Mayor may examine, under oath, all persons applying for, or holding any such license, or the renewal thereof, touching their qualifications as aforesaid ; and all licenses other than to persons so qualified, shall be void.

Adopted by the Board of Councilmen, May 9, 1856.

Adopted by the Board of Aldermen, July 15, 1856.

Approved by the Mayor, July 30, 1856.

1st. Every letter or parcel, not exceeding half an ounce in weight, shall be deemed a single letter or rate.

2d. All drop letters, or letters placed in the New York Post Office not for transmission, but for city delivery only, are charged at the rate of two cents each.

3d. Each deputy postmaster, whose compensation for the last preceding fiscal year (ending the 30th June) did not exceed two hundred dollars, may send through the mail all letters written by himself, and receive through the mail all written communications addressed to himself on his private business, which shall not exceed in weight one-half ounce, free of postage. This does not authorize them to frank any letters, unless written by themselves, and on their private business only; nor does it authorize them to receive free of postage anything but written communication addressed to themselves, and on their private business.

NOTE.—From and after the 30th June, 1851, the mode of computing the rates upon inland letters—i. e. letters from one office within the United States or Territories to another, and also upon letters between the United States and the British North American Provinces—is to be as follows, to wit: Single rate, if not exceeding half an ounce; double rate, if exceeding half an ounce, but not exceeding an ounce; treble rate, if exceeding an ounce, but not exceeding an ounce and a half; and so on, charging an additional rate for every additional half ounce or fraction of half an ounce.

The mode of computing rates upon letters to Great Britain, and to all other foreign countries, the British North American Provinces excepted, will remain as at present under the act of 3d March, 1849, and agreeable to instructions appended to the table of foreign postages.

NEW YORK GAS-LIGHT COMPANY.

Chartered 26th of March—unlimited in duration. Capital $1,000,000.

OFFICERS.

———, President. John Mowton, Manager.

C. L. Everitt, Secretary.

The pipes have been laid in all of the streets of the district south of Grand street, under its contract with the Corporation of the city, requiring about 130 miles of mains of various sizes, from eighteen-inch to three-inch diameter.

The works are situated on Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets, from First avenue to East river, with buildings and suitable apparatus for manufacturing, washing, purifying and distributing the gas. The Company are about putting up additional buildings, with the requisite apparatus, appertaining thereto. There are now in operation six large telescopic gasholders at that station, and there are seven smaller gasometers, for storage of gas in different parts of the city.

MANHATTAN GAS-LIGHT COMPANY,

Office, corner Irving place and Fifteenth street.

Chartered February 26, 1830—Perpetual. Capital $4,000,000.

OFFICERS.

Samuel H. Howard, Secretary. Joseph A. Sabbatton, Engineer.

Charles Smith, Superintendent of Street Mains and Lamps.

Thomas Marsh, Chief Inspector.

William Combe, Superintendent of Gas-works in 14th street.

This company supplies that portion of the city which lies north of Grand street. South of Seventy-ninth street they have two stations or works; one at the foot of Eighteenth street, near the North river, containing four large gas-holders and six hundred retorts, and capable of supplying two millions cubic feet of gas in twenty-four hours; and one station at the foot of Fourteenth street, East river. The Fourteenth street works are now producing four hundred thousand feet of gas per day; when finished they will contain six large gas-holders and nine hundred retorts, equal to a production of three millions cubic feet of gas in twenty-four hours. This company have 350 miles of street mains; light 15,000 street lamps, and supply gas to over 50,000 stores and dwellings. In 1860 they manufactured 1,500,000,000 feet of gas.

FORMATION OF WARDS.

In 1683, the city of New York was divided into six wards, under the designation of "South," "Dock," "East," "North," "West," and "Out" Wards; for map showing the boundaries of these wards, see page 212 of Manual of the Common Council for 1848.

The Montgomerie Charter, dated January 15th, 1730, designates, in addition to the above, the boundaries of the "Montgomerie" Ward.

By an act of the colonial government, passed February 28th, 1791, the wards are designated numerically from 1 to 7, and the bounds of each described.

By an act of the Legislature, passed March 8th, 1803, the wards are increased to nine, numerically designated, and boundaries described.

The Tenth ward was erected from the Seventh, by act of March 18th, 1808.

The Eleventh and Twelfth wards were formed, and the boundaries of all described, by an act passed April 25, 1825. (Chap. 195, Laws of 1825.)

13th ward was erected from the 10th ward, Act April 6, 1827.

Admiration and Applause to the latest Posterity.

May the Tranquility of your City be perpetual - May the Ruins soon be repaired, Commerce flourish Science be fostered; and all the civil and social Virtues be cherished, in the same illustrious Manner which formerly reflected so much Credit on the Inhabitants of New York.
In fine, may every Species of Felicity attend
You Gentlemen & your worthy fellow Citizens.

G. Washington

Fac. Simile of the Original in possession of George Granville White, Brooklyn, N. Y. (grandson of Tho^r Tucker, one of the signers, and the writer of The Citizens' Address.)

To his Excellency George Washington Esquire, General and Commander in Chief of the Armies of the United States of America —

The Address of the Citizens of New York, who have returned from Exile in behalf of themselves and their Suffering Brethren —

Sir

At a moment when the arm of Tyranny is yielding up its fondest usurpations; we hope the salutations of long suffering Exiles, but now happy freemen, will not be deemed an unworthy tribute. — In this place, and at this moment of exultation and triumph, while the Ensigns of Slavery still linger in our sight, we look up to you, our deliverer, with unusual transports of Gratitude and joy. — Permit us to Welcome you to this City, long torn from us by the hard hand of Oppression, but now, by your Wisdom and energy, under the guidance of Providence, once more the seat of Peace and freedom; we forbear to speak our gratitude or your Praise: we should but echo the voice of Applauding Millions; But the Citizens of New York are eminently indebted to your virtues and we who have now the honour to address your Excellency, have been often companions of your sufferings, and witnesses of your exertions. Permit us therefore to approach your Excellency with the dignity and Sincerity of freemen, and to Assure

Assure you, that we shall preserve with our latest breath, our Gratitude for your services, and Veneration for your Cha=

His Excellency's Answer —

To the Citizens of New York who have returned from Exile.

Gentlemen,

I thank You sincerely for your aff= ectionate Address, and entreat You to be persuaded that nothing could be more agreeable to me than your polite Congratulations: Permit me, in Turn, to felicitate You on the happy Repossession of your City.

Great as your Joy must be on this pleasing Occasion, it can scarcely exceed that which I feel, at seeing You, Gentlemen, who from the noblest Motives have suffered a voluntary Exile of many Years, return again in Peace & Triumph to enjoy the Fruits of your virtuous Conduct.

The Fortitude and Perseverance which You and your suffering Brethren have exhibited in the Course of the War, have not only endeared You to Your Countrymen, but will be remembered with Admiration.

New York who have returned

You sincerely for yours aff entreat You to be persuaded more agreeable to me than
I am: Permit me, in turn, to express the representation of your

New-York, Nov. 24, 1783.

The Committee appointed to conduct the Order of receiving their Excellencies Governor CLINTON and General WASHINGTON, BEG Leave to inform their Fellow-Citizens, that the Troops, under the Command of Major-General KNOX, will take Possession of the City at the Hour agreed on, Tuesday next; as soon as this may be performed, he will request the Citizens who may be assembled on Horseback, at the Bowling-Green, the lower End of the Broad-Way, to accompany him to meet their Excellencies Governor CLINTON and General WASHINGTON, at the Bull's Head, in the Bowery---the Citizens on Foot to assemble at or near the Tea-water-Pump at Fresh-water.

ORDER OF PROCESSION.

A Party of Horse will precede their Excellencies and be on their flanks---after the General and Governor, will follow the Lieutenant-Governor and Members of the Council for the temporary Government of the Southern Parts of the State---The Gentlemen on Horse-back, eight in Front---those on Foot, in the Rear of the Horse, in like Manner. Their Excellencies, after passing down Queen-Street, and the Line of Troops up the Broadway, will a-light at CAPE'S Tavern.

The Committee hope to see their Fellow-Citizens, conduct themselves with Decency and Decorum on this joyful Occasion.

CITIZENS TAKE CARE!!!

THE Inhabitants are hereby informed, that Permission has been obtained from the Commandant, to form themselves in patrols this night, and that every order requisite will be given to the guards, as well to aid and assist, as to give protection to the patrols: And that the countersign will be given to THOMAS TUCKER, No. 51, Water Street; from whom it can be obtained, if necessary.

Proprietor of your sons: Permit me, m

HISTORICAL.

ACCOUNT OF THE EARLY ARCHITECTURE OF THIS CITY.

THE log-house of modern times—which is so well adapted to frontier life by its economy and convenience of construction, and its comfort as a place of abode, both in Summer and Winter—does not seem to have been known to, or, if so, not to have been appreciated by the early settlers in the forest wilds of Manhattan Island. Some of those pioneer families, we find, adopted the bark cabin of the savages, and others, more desirous of comfort than show, constructed cellars roofed over, which were much commended as temporary dwellings. A saw-mill, however, constructed on a stream on this island, called Saw-mill Creek, emptying into the East River opposite Blackwell's Island, was soon gotten into operation, and the settlers were supplied with lumber. Thus enabled to construct edifices more conformable to a state of civilization, a humble class of buildings was erected, being only one story in height, with two rooms and a garret. In the absence of shingles, straw thatch was the common roofing material in this city for about thirty years after its first settlement, and during that period the class of building just mentioned may be considered as characteristic of the architectural progress of New Amsterdam.

The fire-places of these humble edifices were constructed of stone, to the height of about six feet, having an oven of the same material at the side of the fire-place, and extending beyond the rear of the house. But, in the absence of bricks, the chimneys above the stone work were made of boards, plastered inside with mortar. The average value of a house was one hundred and fifty dollars, and of rent, twenty-five dollars per annum.

The enterprise of De Graaf and Hogeboom, in establishing a brick yard in this city about the year 1660, was a notable circumstance in connection with its architectural progress, though it proved to be an unfortunate speculation for those tradesmen personally. They came to New Amsterdam from Fort Orange (Albany), at which place they had carried on the same business, but, under the impression that the capital city would furnish a profitable field of trade, they established a brick yard not far above the present Park, on the fresh water road. It was in those days thought that the baking of brick of greater thickness than two inches, could not be effectual, and thus we find the brick of olden times to be relatively a third smaller than those of later days. They wasted none, and those which from greater exposure to the heat, were burnt black, were built in the fronts of houses in ornamental figures of diamonds, crosses, or squares, or perhaps the whole front checkered, as suited the taste of the owners. This custom is believed to have been peculiar (in the American settlements) to the Dutch of New Netherland, and their descendants, as travelers, at a period much later than the one now spoken of, remark upon the appearance of this city in that particular, as being unlike that of any other place they had visited in the colonies.

We have mentioned that the enterprise of De Graaf and Hogeboom proved unprofitable to themselves, and it is probable they had formed unreasonable expectations from the sounding edicts of the Burgomasters, ordering all wooden chimneys to be taken down within six months, and other proclamations of similar character, formidable enough in their penalties, but which the people refused to submit to. The inspectors of chimneys and fire-places who were to report infractions of these ordinances, were insulted, and various sorts of indignities offered them, so that the office became most undesirable. The magistrates, in subjection to public opinion so clearly expressed, were obliged to extend the period of the operation of their laws from six months to a year, then to two years, and so on from time to time as suited the convenience of the burghers. It was partly from these causes that De Graaf and Hogeboom failed in realizing the extent of trade which they had expected. But it cannot be denied that their enterprise was greatly conducive to the improvement of the city. Several leading and prosperous citizens availed themselves of the opportunity thus afforded to erect new dwellings with brick fronts, and of greatly superior architectural pretensions to the class previously existing. The period spoken of may indeed on this account be termed an era in the progress of the city in respect to the character of its architecture. Among the first buildings erected in this city with brick fronts, two stories in height, were those of Jeronimus Ebbing, in what was then called the "Brouwer straet," now Stone street, between Whitehall and Broad streets, and of Pieter Cornelisen Vanderveen, near the corner of Whitehall and Pearl streets.

It may be proper here to say that the principal public buildings erected during the times of the Dutch, viz., the great storehouses of the W. I. Company, commonly called the five stone houses, the church in the fort, the Governor's mansion in the fort, and the city tavern, were built of stone, in a substantial and not inexpensive manner. The church in the fort, erected in 1642, was seventy-two feet in length and fifty feet in breadth, built of rock stone, the height of the walls being sixteen feet. The cost of the stone work, as is found by the contract, was about $1,000. The City Tavern (afterwards the Stadt House) was about fifty feet square, and cost about five thousand dollars. The five stone houses extended from the present Stone street to Bridge street, and were substantial structures two stories in height. One of the peculiarities of that period was the taste for very steep roofs. It would seem that a certain angle of inclination was deemed necessary in a roof, the consequence of which, in buildings of any considerable breadth and length, was to elevate the roof to a most disproportionate size to the rest of the house. The roof was in fact higher in some instances than the elevation of the walls. In a very large house there were several stories above the eaves ; first above the eaves was the garret, next the loft, next the cockloft. We are told that each of these had its separate uses in the domestic economy. The garret was generally open over the whole floor, and was occupied for storing grain and similar articles of domestic use—it was also used as a sleeping room. The loft was used for storing lumber and other articles of only occasional use, while the cockloft was the receptacle of rubbish. These different stories in the roof were lighted by dormer windows for each story. The City Tavern (Stadt Huys) had, as may be observed in pictures of it, two rows of dormer windows in the roof lighting the two lower stories, and probably one still more elevated lighted from the gables. In the fatherland there were dwellings (which are still in existence) having six stories above the eaves.

A little disquisition on this subject will, however, show that though this custom may seem singular, the proverbial economy of the Dutch was not at fault in this mode of construction. For, in the first place, it is in accordance with the reasonable proposition that the square form of building affords more room at less cost of construction than any other, and as the roof could be made equally available (however uncomfortable) as sleeping-room and store-room, the greater elevation of that part of the building was in fact of greater economy, as the shingle-covering was less expensive than the stone body of the edifice. And its elevated appearance formed a striking mark of the aristocratic pretensions of the mansion. The city tavern was confessedly built to increase the respect of strangers for the architectural character of the town, and, singular as its appearance may now seem, it no doubt was an object of admiration and pride on the part of the community of that day.

The ceilings of the buildings of the better class of that day were objects of particular solicitude in respect to the quality of the timbers and flooring of the upper stories of which they were composed. The beams were required to be clear of knots, and were ornamented in some instances with carving. The floor above was required to be tongued and grooved on the lower side, or ceiling. In the living-rooms, the beams were useful for hanging hats and depositing many articles of ordinary use, such as the arms of the burgher and household utensils. The ceilings were low, generally not exceeding seven or eight feet in height. The stories of the city tavern were about eight feet.

A tavern of more humble class, and a building which may best illustrate the style of buildings used as public inns of that period, was the ferry-house on the Long Island side, erected for Egbert Van Borsum, the ferry-master, in 1655, the contract for which was in the following words (as translated) :

“ We, Carpenters Jan Cornelisen, Abram Jacobsen, and Jan Hendricksen, have contracted to construct a house over at the ferry of Egbert Van Borsum, ferry-man, thirty feet long and eighteen feet wide, with an outlet of four feet, to place in it seven girders, with three transome windows, and one door in the front, the front to be planed and grooved, and the rear front to have boards overlapped in order to be tight, with door and windows therein; and a floor and garret grooved and planed beneath (on the under side); to saw the roof thereon, and moreover to set a window-frame with a glass light in the front side; to make a chimney mantel and to wainscot the fore-room below, and divide it in the centre across with a door in the partition; to set a window-frame with two glass lights therein; further, to wainscot the east side the whole length of the house, and in the recess two bedsteads, one in the front room and one in the inside room, with a pantry at the end of the bedstead (betste); a winding staircase in the fore-room.

“Furthermore we, the carpenters, are bound to deliver all the square timber—to wit, beams, posts, and frame timber, with the pillar for the winding stair-case, spars, and worm, and girders, and foundation timbers required for the work; also the spikes and nails for the interior work; also rails for the wainscot are to be delivered by us.

“For which work Egbert Van Borsum is to pay five hundred and fifty guilders (two hundred and twenty dollars), one-third in beavers, one-third in good, merchantable wampum, one-third in good silver coin, and free passage over the ferry so long as the work continues, and small beer to be drunk during work.

“We have subsequently contracted with said Egbert Van Borsum to build a cellar-kitchen under said house, and to furnish the wood for it—to wit, beams and frame timber. There must be made two door-frames and two circular frames with door and windows therein, with a stairway to enter it, and to line the stairs in the cellar round about with boards, with a chimney mantel in the kitchen, and to groove and plane the ceiling. Egbert must excavate the cellar at his own expense. The carpenters must furnish the nails. For this work one hundred guilders (forty dollars) are promised, together with one whole good otter skin. Moreover, Egbert must deliver all the flat wood-work required for the house—to wit, boards and wainscoting.

“Dated 26th April, 1655, at New Amsterdam.

THE MARK OF EGBERT VAN BORSUM.

The word “betste,” equivalent to the present “bedstead,” which occurs in this contract, requires some explanation, as its modern signification is very different from that which it had in those days. The “betste” was then a part of the house, being constructed like a cupboard in a partition with doors closing upon it when unoccupied, so that one sleeping apartment of an inn could accommodate several travelers with sleeping accommodations, and yet, in the daytime, the room would answer for a public room, and afford a neat and unencumbered appearance. In houses of more humble pretensions, the "slaap-banck," or "bunk," of modern parlance, was the place of sleeping for travelers.

To illustrate in a manner, which we do not doubt will give a fair idea of the customs of the Dutch taverns of New Netherlands, such as Van Borsum's, the journal of one of our citizens,* who, as a matter of curiosity, visited a part of the Netherlands where customs have not changed for centuries, is here given :

"It was the business of the good vrow or her maid to show up the traveler, and open the doors in the smooth partition of the box which was to receive his weary limbs for the night, and which otherwise he might not be able to discover, and, after he crept into it, to come back again and blow out the candle, and in the morning to draw the curtains of the windows at the hour he fixed to rise. There was generally one room in which all the guests were received, and where there was a pleasant reunion in the evening, and all the visitors ate, drank, and smoked. It had, in one corner, a closet, which, when opened (and, honestly, it was not unfrequently opened), disclosed sundry decanters, glasses, and black bottles ; and, on one side of the room, a rack in which were suspended by their bowls, a score or two of very long pipes, each one inscribed with the name of a neighbor, its owner. This was the room of Mynheer the landlord, who found all his occupation here in attending to the pleasure of his guests. He had no care beyond this : mevrouw was the head of the house ; she attended to all the wants of the guests, and gave them the information which they might desire. She was always on the spot, as when, with a 'wel te rusten,' like a good mother, she bade you good-night, and when with a 'hoo-y-reis,' like an old friend, she bade you good-by."

While upon the subject of the ferry house at Long Island (foot of present Fulton street, Brooklyn), we may properly continue its history in advance of the period to which our attention has been directed. The house erected by Van Borsum was used for the public accommodation about forty years, when the Corporation of New York, designing to extend their ferry rights, and having received the grant of the franchise, erected a new ferry house, which was leased with the ferry franchise. This building, a view of which has been given in previous "Manuals," stood until about the year 1750, when it was destroyed by fire, supposed to be caused by an incendiary—it being a period when great excitement existed in the population of Brooklyn owing to the ferry monopoly of New York. A new ferry house was erected soon after.

In further illustration of the subject of the ancient "bedste," it is found that Jan Peeck (the discoverer and first settler of Peekskill) commenced to build an inn on the present east side of Broadway, near Exchange place, in 1653. Before completion, he sold it, agreeing to deliver "the planks now on the property for the construction of the house, and so much wainscoting as shall be necessary for the construction in the middle of it, two stories high, and four bedsteads."

But few stone dwellings were constructed for private individuals during the times of the Dutch. The contract for one of these soon after the close of the regime (1676), has, however, been loaned to us, which is given in the original Dutch, being especially curious as illustrating the alteration of the early English settlers' family names, arising from the difficulty, on the part of the Dutch, in pronouncing English names. The Dutch corruption, in this instance, has prevailed, and the original family cognomen is lost.

"CORNELIS WONTERSEN,

"HENRY PAWLING."

It is needless to give a further translation of this document than to say it was to build a klip-stone house 24 by 28 feet, Paulding (Pawling) to find the materials and a man to assist, for the sum of 850 guilders. One of the curious things therein mentioned, however, is that the windows were to consist of two lights each, and as it is known that the window panes of olden times were not in size exceeding six by eight inches, and generally smaller, the limited size of the windows must seem remarkable.

The necessity of this will, however, be readily understood when we consider the dangers to which the people residing on plantations were exposed from the assaults of savages, who were frequently in a state of war with the Dutch, that the subject of defense was of paramount consideration in the erection of dwellings. Thus stone houses were constructed, when within the means of the proprietor, as the more defensible, and the windows were constructed to prevent the ingress of assailants. They were rather port-holes than windows, in the sense we now regard the word. Frame houses in exposed situations, being accessible to the fire-brand of the savage, were protected from assault by palisades set around them, of sufficient height to prevent the "overloopen" or escalading of the foe.

To furnish a good idea of the average value of the dwellings in which our Dutch ancestors dwelt, in the little city of New Amsterdam, an account of the prices at which they sold will be given. The period at which these sales were made was from 1653 to 1660, when the place presented its mature features under the Dutch administration.

Abraham Rycken to Jan Rutgersen: "A house and lot on the east side of the graft (present Broad street, near Beaver street), by Abraham Rycken long occupied, with the buildings, fence, and all that is thereon, wind and water tight, as the same belongs to said Rycken, for the sum of 950 carolus guilders, current wampum" ($380). The lot, as we infer from the sale of one adjoining, 30 by 100 feet, was valued at $100, leaving the value of the building ($280).

Evert Duyching to Jan Ryndersen: "A house and lot situated between the house of Duyching and the lot of Domine Megapolensis, the ground being 28 feet front, for the sum of 600 guilders" ($240).

Willem Beeckman to Alexander Bryn and William East. House and plantation on the East river, "where said Beeckman now lives, with all the fencing, building, and all whatever is earth and nail fast, according to the deed, given therefor to him by Jacob Van Corlaer," for the sum of 2,600 guilders ($1,040). This was a farm at the present Corlaers Hook.

Pieter Vanderlinden to Jan Cornelis Van Kleef, "a certain plantation named 'Lindenborch,' with the house, fences, timber, and all that is thereon fastened by earth and nail, situated on this island Manhatans, on the East river, between the plantations of Tomas Samelson and Pieter Stoutenburg (according to the ground brief), together with six pigs, for the sum of 900 guilders ($360), half in merchantable beavers and half in good Long Island wampum, together with a whole beaver as a present to the seller's wife."

To continue this view of the value of dwellings during the quarter of a century subsequent to the end of the Dutch government, the following instances of sales are given:

1680. House and lot of about the average class of habitations, having been occupied as a small tavern or tap-house, situated on the present Broad street, near Stone street, then the heart of the town, sold for $600.

1686. The house and lot of Cornelis Steenwyck, one of the wealthiest merchants of the day, and which may be regarded as one of the best houses of that day, was valued at $3,500. This house was situated on the corner of Bridge and Whitehall streets. It contained seven rooms, besides those in the cellar.

1676. The house and lot of Jeronimus Ebbing, before mentioned as having been one of the first houses built in this city with brick front, situated on the present Stone street, was sold for 210 beaver skins, of the value probably of $1,000.

1685. The house and lot occupied by Nicholas Bayard, one of the leading citizens of that day, on the present Stone street, near Hanover square, was purchased by him for about $1,100. The lot was 40 by 150 feet.

1684. House and lot on the south side of Pearl street, between Whitehall street, one of the old-fashioned houses of New Amsterdam, was sold for $600. The lot was 50 by 56 feet.

1685. House and lot on the eastside of Broadway, near Wall street, sold for $450.

1680. House and lot on the southeast corner of Whitehall and Stone streets, a respectable residence in that day, and in the best location, sold for $1,200.

1676. The premises of Jacob Tunizen DeKey, who, during the time of the Dutch, was one of the principal bakers of the town, and occupied a respectable position in every respect, sold for $360.

1672. House and lot (the latter extending from Broad street to Broadway), and about 25 feet front, sold for $550.

1672. The premises of N. DeSille, who, during the Dutch rule, had been one of the provincial council, and therefore stood among the leading burghers, sold for $1,200. The premises embraced also a large orchard adjoining the house.

There can be no doubt that the change of national customs, arising from the conquest by the English, produced a beneficial effect upon the social affairs of this city. Not only English habits were incorporated upon the less ambitious character of the Dutch population, but the settlement here of many Huguenot families of respectability, fleeing from religious persecution, gave a French tone to society, which had a beneficial effect. The close of the seventeenth century began to show evidence of the effects of these causes. The Dutch burghers by many years of slow but successful accumulation had in many instances acquired large fortunes, which were expended in part in the purchase of manorial grants, and we find the Dutch burgher transformed into an English lord of the manor. The English scions of aristocracy were fain to connect themselves with these lords of acres, ambitious to establish their families upon the sure footing of wealth joined to birth. The French emigrants, refined and emulous of sustaining the character of their nationality, were equally ambitious of shining in the social sphere, and thus we find a gradual change from the features of the city, which had clung to the settled habits of the old population. Merchants, instead of dwelling in the same building in which they carried on trade, established their residences in fashionable quarters. Domestic architecture was thus greatly stimulated towards a greater degree of elegance, when relieved from the drawbacks incident to the hurry and turmoil of business pursuits carried on in the same premises. Tradesmen followed in the wake of fashionable progress, and general improvement was manifested in the architectural pretensions of the city.

Then it was that tiled roofs came into common use. Basements entered by cellar doors were a mark of improvement—castellated gable ends (for the houses still fronted with gables to the street), with fanciful weathercocks adorning the highest elevation—double doors with bull's-eye lights—knockers of the most fanciful devices, “stoopes” with their cozy side seats well adapted to the evening receptions and gossiping of neighbors (an institution for which our city was famous in the olden time), and various other marks, were exhibited of the gradual progress of the social community. A political incident also about the same period served to stimulate the emulated spirit here spoken of.

Towards the close of the seventeenth century, the rivalry of the two prominent religious sects in New York, the Episcopalian, representing the aristocratic English element, and the Reformed Dutch, embracing the great body of the people—contributed to the architectural progress of the city. Politics entered into this rivalry to an extent which neither sect was willing to admit. The intense feeling which existed for many years between the friends and opponents of the murdered Leisler, was at its height towards the close of the seventeenth century. The Leislerians were almost wholly of the Dutch Church, and the opposite party were mostly attached to the Church of England, and those of the anti-Leislerians who did not originally belong to the English Church, sought affiliation with its members, and finally sheltered themselves under its protecting arms. It was thus that several of the old Dutch families, who had been among the chief supporters of the Dutch Church in the early period of that dynasty, were, afterwards, and at the present time their descendants are, found strangely identified with the National Church of the Conquerors of New Netherland.

These political factions, chafing under the various restraints which prevented their going to deadly warfare, wisely went, instead of fighting with each other, to building churches, to rival each other in architectural pretensions.

The Episcopal Church in Broadway (old Trinity), and the Dutch Church in Garden street (Exchange Place), were built in or about the same year (1696), and thenceforward some emollient to the old political sores could be found in discussing the architectural merits of these edifices. The impetus then given to the minds of the community towards the improvement of the city in architectural embellishment, is demonstrated by the fact, that four years afterwards the resolution was unanimously embraced that a new City Hall should be built, and we may fairly point to this period as an era in the architectural history of the city. During the half century preceding, no public work had been undertaken; and during the succeeding thirty years none was added to those erected at the period now spoken of.

We have referred to the circumstance that, about the close of the seventeenth century, fashionable quarters of the city were selected for the residences of the principal inhabitants. It is a little remarkable that the East river side of the town (the old Smits valley) maintained this character for many years over that part which would seem to have presented the most attractive situation, from its elevated and agreeable position. Queen street (Pearl street) was the favorite place of residence for a period extending into the present century.

But, before giving a particular account of that fashionable quarter, we will give a sketch of the progress of that famous promenade, which subsequently contended with, and at last outshone, its rival on the other side of the town.

Broadway was originally granted in large lots: those on the west side of the street, when first improved, averaged about fifty feet in width, and extended in depth about two hundred and fifty feet to the shores of the Hudson; those on the east side of the street were about the same width, and extended down the steep side of a hill to the swamp in Broad street. On the west side, opposite the Bowling Green, there were early indications of its being a favorite place of residence. Balthazar Bayard, a relative of Governor Stuyvesant and Cornelis Van Buyven, the accomplished secretary of the province, resided there in the times of the Dutch, and afterwards, under the English regime, William Smith, Chief Justice Emott, and other distinguished citizens, resided in the same locality. A more powerful impetus was, however, given to that neighborhood, from the fact that, in 1756, Captain Archibald Kennedy,* the English naval captain on this station and collector of the port, afterwards Earl of Cassilis in the Scotch peerage, purchased of Abraham Depeyster several small buildings which had been erected on the ground now covered by No. 1 Broadway. For this purchase Captain Kennedy paid £600, and soon after commenced the erection of a dwelling house, which is still standing, though altered from its former dimensions. This was the starting point of the improvement of Broadway as a fashionable place of residence. The families of Livingston, Stevens, and others, erected dwellings on the west side, extending up to Trinity Church; and certainly the situation at that period would seem to have compared favorably with any to be found. The gardens extended to the bank along the river shore, and the view over the river and bay was uninterrupted. The dwelling houses were constructed with a roof flattened at its apex, which was surrounded with balustrades, and formed a delightful place of social assemblage on sultry evenings. The street in front was shaded by large trees, and the promenade received the name of the Mall, after its London prototype.

* In connection with Captain Kennedy's residence in this city, it may be stated that his tastes for country life were stimulating to others of wealth in the erection of suburban residences. The present Bedlow's Island was once owned by him and occupied as a summer residence, but his principal country residence was on the Jersey shore, now covered by a part of Jersey City. He married into the family of Watts in this city.

The east side of Broadway had long been occupied by a class of dwellings which must have been of the most moderate pretensions. The average value of the dwelling-houses along that side of the street previous to the middle of the last century, did not exceed one thousand dollars. The great fire of 1776 destroyed the principal part of Broadway above the Bowling Green.

Queen street, the rival quarter of fashionable residences, was, up to the close of the seventeenth century, still known by its ancient cognomen, the Smits valley. The name of Queen street was first given to the present Pine street, then newly laid out, and which was designed to be established as one of the principal streets in the city, being situated on high ground, and forming, in connection with Broadway and Pearl streets, an agreeable "round" in promenading the city. But the designs of the proprietors were not sustained by the inhabitants, and they were forced to drop the favorite title of their sovereign and to take that of King street, after her royal consort, while the old Smits valley adopted the name of Queen street, shortly after the accession of William and Mary to the British throne. During eighty years this thoroughfare, under its favorite cognomen, enjoyed prosperity and popularity in the city, and was the scene of many a gay and festive occasion, then the talk of the day in the fashionable world. It is somewhat remarkable that the rival political and rival church parties also resided generally in the rival quarters of the town. There is probably little doubt that the location of the Dutch church in Garden street (an unpromising site in other respects), was chosen in view of its vicinity to the rising Queen street district, while consulting the convenience of the older parts of the town. The families who earliest adopted Queen street above Wall street as the site of their residences, were the Depeysters, Van Cortlands, Staets, Byvancks, Van Horns, Van Dams, Van Zandts, and others of the old Dutch families. By these the south side of the street was built upon the gardens extending to the river-shore along Water street. As these were among the wealthiest families in the city, it may be supposed that from the spirit of the day, a good class of buildings was erected. The first three-story dwelling-house erected in this city, is believed to have been erected by one of the Depester family, in Pearl street, near Depeyster street, in the early part of the last century. Others followed his example; but the general character of the dwellings of that day were two-story brick edifices, substantial but not pretending. The value of the premises ranged from $1,500 to $6,000.

But as we move along in the course of years towards the middle of the century, we find the character of Queen street, which still maintained its ascendancy as the favorite quarter of the town, changing its social character in its onward progress. The English families accomplished a "grande coup" by the settlement of the "top of the hill above the ferry," and soon exclusively occupied that section. The ground for an English chapel, on Beekman's pasture, was purchased in 1748 by the Rector, &c., of the Church of England. This consisted of six lots, which cost £645. The present St. George's chapel was erected upon them a few years later.

Among others, William Walton, about 1756, commenced the erection of his celebrated mansion on Queen street, which was justly considered a palatial residence at that day, and its present condition attests its stability of structure. It may not be uninteresting to say that this lot of 50 feet front, and 202 feet deep, extending to the river shore, had originally been the ship yard of John Yerworth, shipwright, who sold it to Mr. Walton in the year 1721, for £300. Other English families followed Mr. Walton, in the improvement of that part of the city, and the triangular section lately known as Franklin square, was just previous to the Revolutionary war, and indeed for some time subsequent to that event, the most fashionable quarter of the city. Among the families residing there, were the Waltons, Franklins, Osgoods, Bownes, Nortons, and Alsops.

THE OLD DEAR-TREE PLANTED BY GOVERNOR STUYVESANT

CRIMINAL LAWS OF NEW AMSTERDAM.

THE police of the city of New Amsterdam was chiefly centred in one individual called the Schout. It was his duty to personally perambulate the city, to observe if there were any infractions of the laws and police regulations, and when, either upon his own observation, or upon the information of others, such infractions came within his cognizance, he presented a formal complaint to the Burgomasters and Schepens against the delinquents, and demanded the infliction of such punishment as by the laws of that day was consequent upon the particular offense. It was generally within the power of the magistrates to mitigate the penalty demanded, and in general we find them mercifully inclined, though in some cases the punishments for crimes seem to us of the present day to have been severe and excessive.

As the best manner of illustrating the subject, we shall make up a schedule of complaints of the Schout against divers persons for different breaches of the peace, with the demands of the Schout, and the decision of the magistrates.

Anneke Kocks, defendant, complaint for kicking and striking Geertruyd (wife of Jan De Witt, the miller), who was then pregnant. Schout demands fine of two hundred guilders. Decision: Fine of fifty guilders, to be paid to the Deacons, for the poor.

Anneke Kocks' servant-maid, defendant, complaint for assisting her mistress in the assault on Vrow De Witt. Schout's demand: That she be put on bread and water for a sufficient term. Decision: Reprimand.

Francois DeBruyn, defendant, complained of for striking and insulting the Court Messenger, and also insulting the Fiscal DeSille and his wife, so that they had to have the soldiers called. Schout's demand: A fine of 200 guilders. Decision: That defendant pay the amount in Court. Defendant says he will rot in prison first. Decision: He shall be imprisoned in a respectable tavern.

Thomas Teiller, defendant, complained of for fighting and rioting by night at unusual hours. Schout's demand: A fine of 50 guilders. Decision: Fine of 50 guilders.

Merritje Lawwerens, defendant, complained of for severely beating the wife of Hendrich Janzen Smitt. Schout demands that she shall be confined on bread and water for three months, or pay a fine of 300 guilders. Decision: 50 guilders fine, besides costs of suit.

Dirk Janzen, defendant, complained of for abusing the Schout. The Schout demands that he be confined on bread and water for six weeks, or pay a fine of 300 guilders, and costs. Decision: Defendant to pay a fine of 50 guilders, or sit in close confinement three days. The defendant refuses compliance, and says the devil shall take him who first attempts to arrest him.

Renier Willemsen, baker, defendant, complained of for baking bread under weight. Schout demands a fine of 150 guilders, and further, a fine of 25 guilders for having baked bran in the bread. Decision: A fine of 25 guilders, and costs of suit.

Willem Bogardus, defendant, complained of for beating Albert Albertsen so that the blood flowed. Schout demands a fine of 100 guilders. Decision: Fine of 25 guilders with costs.

Jan Gerrisen De Vries, defendant, complained of for theft of two pieces of meat. Schout demands that defendant be fixed to a stake at the place of justice, and there scourged, and be then banished from the city for four years. Decision: Defendant to be sent to prison.

Peter Pia, defendant, complained of for tapping after setting the watch at 9 in the evening, and for making noise and other insolences. Schout's demand: Banishment from the city for three years. Decision: Defendant is not to tap for the term of six weeks.

Roelof Hermyzen, defendant, complained of for rioting and fighting on the "Heeren Straat" (Broadway), seeking to revenge himself with a hatchet and adze. Schout's demand: Fine of 100 guilders. Decision: Fine of 25 guilders, with costs.

Andries Rees, defendant, complained of for not notifying the Schout of a disturbance that took place at his house, in which a man was stabbed. Schout's demand: That he be prohibited from tapping for a year and six weeks, or pay a fine of 300 guilders. Decision:

William Hatkis, defendant, complained of for striking his employer. Schout's demand: That he be imprisoned on bread and water for two months, or pay a fine of 200 guilders. Decision: That defendant was unjustly accused, and that his accuser pay costs to the Schout.

Abel Hardenbrook, defendant, complained of for cheating in selling shoes badly pegged. Schout's demand: That he be fined one pound Flemish, and make another pair of good shoes for complainant. Decision: A reprimand.

Joris Dopzen, defendant, complained of for keeping a disorderly house and entertaining sailors. Decision: A reprimand.

Lambert Huybertsen Mol, defendant, complained of for fighting with his son and drawing a knife on him. Schout's demand: Fine of 150 guilders. Decision:

Huybert Verschie, defendant, complained of: first, for striking a man so that blood bowed, and also for riding along the street on his cart, instead of walking by the side of it, according to ordinance. Schout's demand: On the first complaint, fine of 100 guilders; and on the second, fine of 2 pounds Flemish. Decision:

Joannes Hooft, defendant, complained of for taking some loose servant at Jan Schryver's, and for striking a boy. Schout's demand: Imprisonment on bread and small beer, or a fine of 300 guilders. Decision: Imprisonment.

Jasper Abrahamsen, defendant, complained of for disorderly conduct as mentioned in the sentence, convicted and sentenced as follows : Whereas, Jasper Abrahamsen, sailmaker of the ship the Purumberland Church, native of Amsterdam, at present in prison, hath acknowledged without torture or bonds that he, in company with Hendrich Jansen, committed great violence at Rendel Huit's house ; coming into the house against the will of Huit's wife, demanding drink and insisting on having food, and being refused going to the cupboard and taking food against her will—and going thence to Joris Wolsey's house, and forcing themselves into the house, demanding drink, and being shoved out of the house, going thence to Carel Van Brugh's, demanding drink, and though he said he did not tap, still insisting upon it with violence, and being put out of the house, tearing the garments of Van Brugh in the struggle, and then in forcing themselves in again, giving to Van Brugh a cut on the jaw, from which blood flowed—all which grave actions cannot be tolerated in a well-ordered community. Therefore, it is decided that said Abrahamsen be conveyed to the place where justice is administered, and there being well fastened to a stake, that he be severely scourged, and a gash be made in his left cheek or jaw, and that he be banished from the city for twenty-five years, and pay costs before he be liberated.

Hendrich Jansen, defendant, complained of for the same offense as the foregoing. Decision the same, except the gash in the left cheek or jaw.

Note to the two last cases. "This 5 day of May, 1763, the two preceding sentences were executed, and the prisoners received the deserved punishment, although Carel Van Brugh's wife and others requested that the said sentences should not be carried out, or at least should be executed within a room.

Jan Smedingh, defendant, complained of for taking bricks from the strand, which did not belong to him. Schout's demand: That he be imprisoned one month on bread and water, or fined 100 guilders with costs. Decision: Fine of 25 guilders with costs.

Andries Jochemsen, defendant, complained of for tapping after 9 at night—and on being called on by the Schout for the fine, his wife said, "Schout, hast thou any soul or conscience? dost thou expect to go to heaven?" and other words. Decision: A reprimand.

Hendrich Jansen Smith, defendant, complained of for having unstamped mutzies, half mutzies, and pint measures. Decision: Fine of 10 guilders.

Andries Rees, defendant, complained of for having at his house on Sunday 20 to 30 persons playing nine-pins and backgammon, and drinking. Schout's demand: Prohibition from tapping for a year and six weeks, and a penalty of 90 guilders. Decision: That as the time was two hours after preaching, the complaint is dismissed.

Lysbet Ackerman, defendant, complained of for having tapped brandy for two soldiers, and beer for two Indians, on Sunday. Decision: Fine of ten guilders.

Francois Allard, defendant, complained of for cutting wood on Sunday.

Excused with a reprimand, as it was only for kindling, and his children complained of the cold.

Albert the Trumpeter, defendant, complained of for being seen on Sunday with an axe on his shoulder. Excused with a reprimand, as he shows it was only to cut a bat for his child.

Jan Vincent, Gerrit Teunizen Kray, and Jan Deforeest (boys), defendants, complained of for having, on last thanksgiving day, ran fuddled and tipsy along the streets. Schout's demand: That they be imprisoned two days on bread and small beer. Decision: Their parents shall punish them, and charge them not to repeat it.

Jan De Witt (miller), defendant, complained of for striking his man. Defendant demands proof, and says the Schout must have brought the complaint. Schout demands fine for his indecent words. Decision: Defendant to pay for his unmannerly talk six guilders, for the use of the poor.

Madaleen Vincent and Foppe Roberzen's wife, defendants, complained of for throwing filth into the graft. Schout demands fine of twenty-five guilders each. Decision: Not proved, and complaint dismissed.

Mighiel Tades, defendant, complained of for having tapped on Sunday to twelve Indians, some of whom were drunk. Schout demands a fine of 500 guilders. Decision: Defendant is fined 30 guilders.

Hendrick Jansen Smitt, suicide. The Schout demands that as said Smitt has hanged himself on the branch of a tree, on the Kalckhoeck, on this side of the fresh water, that his goods shall be forfeit, the corpse drawn on a hurdle, as an example to others, and brought to the place where it was found hanging, and there shoved under the earth; further, that a stake-pole or post shall be set there, in token of an accursed deed. Decision: That, whereas Hendrick Jansen Smitt hath been an old burgher here, of whom no bad behavior was ever heard, and as his next neighbors, eight in number, have requested a decent burial, it is adjudged that the body shall be interred in a corner of the churchyard, in the evening, after the ringing of the nine o'clock bell; further, the forfeiture of the goods left by him, to be applied as is proper.

Jan Smedes, defendant, complained of for that his horse, in a fright, ran over a child and killed it, and that he had been warned from previous injury to a child. Schout's demand: Satisfaction to the child's parents and a fine. Decision reserved.

Hendrick Jansen Shuyter and wife, complained of for fighting, and the wife for indecent exposure. Schout demands a fine from both parties, and that they shall pay the damages they caused, and also imprisonment of the wife. The defendant requests that his wife be excused this time from imprisonment, offering the fine, and says he will send her to Holland. Decision: That defendant shall send his wife to Holland, and pay the fine, and also the damage done by fighting.

Hendrick Muller, complained of for fraudulently appropriating moneys received by him. Schout demands that he be condemned to go to the wheelbarrow or other labor for the city, and pay costs of suit. Decision: Fine of one hundred guilders and costs of suit, and to restore the money, or to go three months to the wheelbarrow.

Lysbet Willems, complained of for making a great noise, and also for charging Anneken Felle, wife of Simon Felle, with committing adultery with Captain Beaulieu. Decision: That she be charged to remain quiet for the future, and to utter no more such infamous words, and to keep herself still.

Reinier Gaukes, complained of for using great violence at house of Clery Aart, abusing the widow as a * * * * and her daughter as a * * * * and striking parties who attempted to put him out. Schout demands the fine, and something at discretion of the judges for the poor. Decision: Fine of twenty-five guilders, and costs.

Romein Servein, complained of for riding with his car on the strand on Sunday, also for sitting on his car while driving. Decision: Fine of twelve guilders. The fine not being paid, the Heer officer was subsequently ordered to lock up the cart.

Pieter van de Water, complained of for shooting at partridges and wounding a person adjoining the fort and violating the Sabbath. Schout demands a fine, and also the gun or the value thereof. Decision: Fine of six guilders for the poor.

Aris Otte, complained of for tapping on the sword of Hendrick von der Waal. Schout demands fine and something for the poor.

Hendrick Jansen Claarbout van ter Goes, charged with speaking words involving capital punishment. The Court having doubts as to the power to inflict capital punishment, applied to the Director-General for authority. The Director-General thereupon authorized the Court to hear the case, and to pronounce sentence of capital punishment if the offense should be adjudged capital and the prisoner convicted, the sentence to be approved by the Director-General. The prisoner being arraigned and the demand of the Schout being read, he begs his life, acknowledging that he spoke ill.*

The Burgomasters and Schepens then voted as follows:

The Heer Burgomaster Masten Cregier: That he shall be whipped and branded, and banished for all his life, out of the Province of New Netherlands.

The Heer Burgomaster Olof Stevensen Cortlandt: Though he be worthy of death, yet from special grace that he be whipped and branded and banished.

The Heer Schepen Pieter Van Couvenhoven: He shall be put to death.

The Heer Schepen Johannes Van Brugh: That he be whipped and branded, and banished the country.

* The words used do not appear in the record, but they were probably in reference to the government, as it seems the case was transferred from the Governor and Council, the usual tribunal for trial of capital cases, to the City Court of magistrates.

The Heer Schepen Hendt. J. Van de Vin : That he is worthy of death, and ought to be punished until death follows, with the costs and mises of justice.

The Heer Schepen Jacob Kip : That he should be executed by death.

The Heer Schepen Cornelis Steeynwyck : That he be whipped and branded under the gallows, the halter being around his neck, and banished forever, and put hence with his wife and children, on pain of the gallows, thanking the magistracy on his bended knees for their merciful and well-deserved justice.

It was thereupon decided by plurality of votes that the prisoner be brought to the place where justice is usually administered, and with rope around his neck be whipped and branded and banished the country, and condemned in the costs and mises of justice. The sentence was approved by the Director-General, and permission given to erect a half gallows before the City Hall to carry out the sentence.

The prisoner was subsequently ordered to be placed on board a bark bound for the Virginias, under command of Mr. Brown.

Isaac Greeverat, charged with slandering Jarrein Black. Plaintiff demands that defendant be condemned to repair the injury honorably and profitably : honorably, by appearing before the Court, begging of the injured and Justice forgiveness ; profitably, by paying to the poor at the discretion of the Court. Against which defendant says that plaintiff and his wife came to his house and used many words, and tried to strike him with a slipper, and demands that plaintiff shall repair damages honorably and profitably. Decision : That the parties, for their pinching, beating, striking, and injuries committed against each other, shall each pay a fine of 25 guilders with costs, and charged neither in acts nor words hereafter to molest one another about this dispute, but to live in peace and harmony in pain of a further fine of 100 guilders.

Jan Jansen van Rotterdam and Moses Lueena, charged with fighting in presence of the Schout, and Under Sheriff. Schout demands a double fine. Decision : Fine of two pounds Flemish, each.

Ariens Jariaanzen Sausmans. The Schout demands from defendant the fine, according to placard, because he does not proceed with the solemnization of his marriage. Defendant says he could not be ready, as the clothes were not yet made ; also, last Sunday fortnight, the last publication was made. Decision :

Abel Hardenbrook, complained of for having at night, and at unseasonable hours, in company with some soldiers, created an uproar, and great insolence in the street, by breaking windows. Schout demands a fine of 20 pounds Flemish. Decision : Fine of 40 guilders.

Arien Jansen Visser, Symon Fransen, Joghem Andriesen, and Jan Gearizen, charged with going on board the ships at their arrival from Holland here. Decision : Fine of 25 guilders against Fransen and Andriesen, and 12 guilders against the others.

Jan Jariaanzen Becker, charged with having three sailors at his house on Sunday evening, with a backgammon table and candle before them, and tapping during sermon. Decision: Fine of 40 guilders.

Teuntze Straalmans, charged with striking Styntie Hermesen, so that the blood followed. Schout demands fine of 100 guilders. Defendant says Styntie gave her great provocation, calling her, publicly, a whore. Decision: Fine of 25 guilders, and that defendant be ordered to keep quiet and still, or that other provision shall be made in the matter.

Walewyn Van der Veer, charged with insulting and calumniating the worshipful Magistrates of the city. The Schout demands that the prisoner for his committed insults, shall be condemned to repair the injury, honorably and profitably: honorably, by praying with uncovered head forgiveness of God and Justice; profitably, by paying a fine of 1,200 guilders, with costs, and in case of refusal, to go into close confinement. Decision: That he shall here beg forgiveness, with uncovered head, of God, Justice and the Worshipful Court, and pay a fine of 190 guilders, with costs, and in case of refusal, he shall go immediately into confinement. Which judgment being read, the prisoner said: "I appeal, and request copy of the sentence to answer its principal points," saying further, "people complain at the South river, but I may well regret myself here." It was thereupon ordered that he go into his house in confinement, and to be kept there by a Court Messenger until he shall have obeyed it.

Jan de Witt, charged with insulting the Heer Schepen Tymotheus Gabry, calling him a bastard. Schout demands that he repair the injury profitably and honorably. Defendant says he said it in jest. Decision: That he be forgiven this time.

Pieter Janzen, charged with being at hand grips with Hendrick Miller so that blood followed; also, that a knife was drawn. Schout demands a fine of 100 guilders. Decision: Fine of 25 guilders and costs.

Antony de Milt, charged with having his bread, both large and rusk, under weight. Schout demands a fine of 25 pounds Flemish, or 150 guilders, with costs. Decision: Fine of 150 guilders.

Gerrit Gerrizen, charged with fighting. Schout demands that he be put six weeks on bread and water, and pay 50 guilders fine. Decision: Fine of 10 guilders and costs.

Marten van Waart, charged with theft and several offenses. Schout demands that he be brought to the place where criminal justice is usually inflicted, and there publicly fastened to a stake and very severely scourged and banished for 25 years, with the costs and mises of justice. Decision: That he be severely scourged with rods in a closed chamber, and be banished 10 years out of the jurisdiction, with costs and mises of justice. Afterwards, in consideration of the youth of the prisoner, the whipping was remitted.

Lysbet Anthony, about 10 years old, charged with theft. Decision: That Mary her mother be ordered to chastise her, or, in case of, refusal to let the same be done. Mary undertaking it hath, with the assistance of Long Anna, severely punished and whipped her daughter with rods, in presence of the Worshipful Magistrates.

Annetje Minnes, widow of Conelis Nyven, about 23, and Neeltje Pieters, wife of Romeyn the carman, also about 23 years, charged with theft. Schout demands that they be corrected and punished therefor; that Neeltje Pieters shall be brought to the place where justice is usually done, and there be bound fast to a stake, severely scourged, and banished for 10 years from the jurisdiction of the city. That Annetje Minnes shall, while justice is administered to Neeltje Pieters, stand by and look at her, and after justice it executed, shall be whipped severely within doors and banished for 6 years. Decision: As to Neeltje Pieters, that she being a pregnant woman going on her last, having neither time nor hour, be excused from the well-merited punishment, but be banished for 8 years with costs and mises of justice; and that Annetje Minnes be excused from corporeal punishment and banishment, and condemned in the costs and mises of justice.

Geleyn Verplanck, charged with seducing Geertruyd Wingers. Plaintiff demands that the defendant shall be bound to marry her according to promise, or pay her 600 guilders in beavers, and also 100 guilders for lying-in expenses, and also 100 guilders per annum for maintenance of her child. Defendant denies having promised to marry her. Decision: That defendant pay the plaintiff 400 guilders, half beaver and half seawant. Both parties condemned to maintain their child, and in costs of suit.

Messack Martens, charged with stealing. The following are the interrogatories proposed to him and his answers thereto, which are given in full as illustrative of the method of dealing with criminal cases of importance:

1. If you the prisoner have not stolen more than a month ago, a quantity of cabbage at the house of one Pieter Jansen, ship-carpenter, residing at the entrance of Maiden Lane, when you were caught and overtaken by the watch?

Answer: Acknowledges to have taken five or six cabbages from the garden, and to have climbed over the palisades.

2. And how many cabbages did you, the prisoner, steal, as well there as at other places: who helped you, and were your abettors and fellow-thieves?

Answer: Hath stolen as before five or six cabbages, and no other place.

3. And did you not, about fourteen days ago, having climbed in behind the fence of one Lucas Andriessen, skipper, trading to Fort Orange, and going through the garden and entering the house, there very early in the morning, were you not found there with a tub of butter about half empty, and did you not steal and take it with you and carry it to your house?

Answer: No, and says he does not know where his garden is, nor where it comes out in the rear.

4. And did you not hastily retire, and on hearing noise leave your hat behind, which was then taken up by one Basent Cruytdop and saved?

Answers: Knows of no noise and was not there, and knows not how his hat came there.

5. And did you not frequently break off, draw out and burn the city's or company's palisades, or where do those remain or to whom sold?

Answers: Hath taken no palisades, but says he took away some pieces of palisades from the garden of the Heer Paulus Lendersen, which he had helped to lay, for firing, and that the same still lie by his house.

6. What more, and where have you prisoner stolen; where concealed; to whom sold; who are your receivers or abettors or co-operators?

Answers: Stole nothing but the cabbage, and had no abettors.

7. And did not you prisoner steal some fowls and turkeys from the garden of Mons Verlett, and what more?

Answers: No.

On a subsequent day the prisoner being again brought forward, was examined by torture, as to how many cabbages, fowls, turkeys, and how much butter he hath stolen; who his abettors and co-operators have been. Answering he persists by his reply that he did not steal any butter, fowls, or turkeys, nor had any abettors; being again set loose, the Schout demands that for his committed theft, voluntarily confessed, he shall be brought to the usual place of criminal justice, well fastened to a stake and severely whipt and banished from the jurisdiction of the city for ten years, with costs. Decision: That he be brought to the usual place of execution to stand in the pillory with cabbages on his head, and be banished five years from the jurisdiction of the city, with costs and mises of justice.

Subsequently, Peter the negro entering requests payment for executing the sentence on Mesaek Martens and Marten Van Wart; is promised that arrangement shall be made that he have that of Mesaek, but that of Marten Van Wart is promised him by the Heer officer.

Tomas Seiller, charged with striking Charles Morgan, Schout of Gravesend, so that blood followed, and his leg was broken. Schout demands a fine of 150 guilders, and costs. Defendant says it was in self-defence. Decision:

Ruyser Cornelisen, charged with theft. Schout demands that he be publicly tied to a stake, severely scourged, branded, and banished for 25 years, with costs. Decision, that he be publicly tied to a stake, severely scourged, and banished for 10 years, with costs, and mises of justice.

Hendrick Jansen. Schout demands that prisoner be condemned to remain eight days in close confinement on bread and water, or pay a fine at discretion of Court, because he, while the officer was going round among the bakers, cried out with force and violence, and used villainous words. Decision: Close confinement on bread and water for eight days, or a fine of 30 guilders.

Annetji Smits, charged with tapping on Sunday, during preaching, and using ill language to the under sheriff. Decision: fine of 6 guilders.

Huge Barens, charged with baking small white loaves of bread under weight. Schout demands a fine of 150 guilders, and that he shall not bake or sell bread for a year and six weeks. Decision: Fine of 25 guilders.

Madaleen Vincent, charged with bad behavior and abuse towards the Herr Schepen Wilhelmus Beeckman and his wife and others, saying to Beeckman's wife—"Your man goes with the Heer Fiscal, and spends and gambles my man's money," with other abuse. Decision: Fine of sixty guilders, and defendant charged not to misbehave any more towards the Heren magistrates.

Solomon La Chair, charged with affronting the Fire Inspectors while inspecting, and abusing them as chimney-sweepers. The Schout further says, that defendant stated, through the City Messenger, "Is it to have a little cock booted and spurred, I shall give it." Decision: Fine of 12 guilders, as it is not seemly that men should mock and scoff at persons appointed to any office, yea a necessary officer.

Nicholas Vetthuisen, charged with tapping during sermon, from which arose quarrels and fighting and wounds, defendant striking the first blow, and acting with an angry and hasty spirit, escaping through the back-way of his house and attacking his opponent from behind over the clapboards, and sticking him in a vehement spirit. Decision: Fine of 25 guilders for surgeon's fees, 25 guilders for smart pain and lost time; next, 300 guilders penalty, and 60 guilders to the city for the renewing of his trade, with costs.

Jacob Eldersen, charged with some murderous assault. This prisoner escaped from jail, and the Court thereupon ordered his goods to be provisionally seized, and he summoned, by bell-ringing, to appear. After the third citation he surrendered himself. Decision: Fine of 300 guilders for the assault, and 100 guilders for breaking jail.

Meentje Joris, wife of Cloas or Nichalaas Boodt, complained of by her husband because she goes drinking in all the groggeries and holes, and being drunk he cannot keep house with her and does no good. Defendant says, she drinks her own and not his substance, and that he has not a stiver, and that he himself goes drinking and rollicking, and full, and were she a young vrouw he would have more affection for her. The Court ordered her to live in peace with her husband, so no more complaint should be made.

Nicholaas Boodt, charged with living unbecomingly with his wife, shutting her up in her house without order or authority, nailing to the windows and doors, and beating her. Schout demands that as he hath assumed unto himself the power of the magistracy, he be brought for so many days into the public prison, and amerced and corrected in such punishment as the Court shall deem proper. The wife, daughter, and servant of defendant, being examined before commissioners as to matters charged, the Court having seen the interrogatories proposed to said Boodt's wife, and finding she denied some of them which she had declared before the Court, and as such tends to vilipend or scoff at the Court, condemn her in a fine of 12 guilders, for the poor, and costs, and order husband and wife to remain at peace.

Barent Egbertsen and wife, and Jan Smedinck and wife, occupying a house together—Egbertson renting half the house to Smedinck—charged with being disorderly, and beating each other. Schout demands that they may be separated. Decision: That Jan Smedinck shall quit the house on paying according to his promise.

Solomon La Chair. Schout states that one Vervelen had a dispute with a soldier, at house of defendant, and that defendant took away the soldier's sword, and demands that he be corrected therefor, as a landlord has no right to take away a soldier's sword when insulted. Decision:

Joost Gooderus, charged with unreasonably abusing people when he is somewhat out of his head. Schout demands that he be reprimanded. Decision: Reprimand.

Teuntje Straalmans, charged by Pieter Jansen with abusing him, and threatening him with a knife. Defendant admits abusing him, but says plaintiff abused her sister as a whore, and herself as a thief. Decision: That the parties keep themselves quiet and peaceable, and whichever of the two should begin again, shall pay a fine of 25 guilders.

Herman Barendsen, of Amsterdam, charged with stealing three half beavers, two new linen sheets, and one pair of linen pillow-cases. The Schout's demand being read to him, he is asked if he have anything to object to it. Answers and begs for nothing but mercy, mercy. Decision, by plurality of votes: That through special consideration, he be punished with the rod, in a room, and banished out of the city's jurisdiction, with costs and mises of justice.

Stoffel Mighielsen, charged with going around calling out that Nicholas Vellihusen should take his wife back, on pain of the severest punishment, saying he hath an order from superior authority. Schout demands that he be publicly whipped and broken of his office, and banished. Decision: That he be broken of his office.

Willem Janzen van Borckeloo, charged with slaughtering cattle, not being a sworn butcher. Schout demands fine of 25 guilders and costs. Decision: Fine of 25 guilders and costs.

Jan Cornelisen and Rulger Jansen. Cornelisen charged with beating Jansen, and Jansen with calling Cornelisen an Indian dog. Cornelisen says that he called Jansen spitter baard, as the above-named Rulger Jansen was so named throughout the whole of Flat Bush, whereupon Jansen called him an Indian dog, and blows followed. Decision: That Cornelisen pay a fine of 12 guilders for striking Jansen, and that Jansen pay fine of 6 guilders for his foul and abusive language.

Aryan Jansen van Spreckerhoon, a sailor, charged with having attacked his skipper on shore with a drawn knife, and wounding him in the hand. Schout demands punishment according to placard of 16th of May, 1647. Decision: In consideration of the delinquent's youth and the intercession of the skipper, that the prisoner appear in court, and there with uncovered head ask forgiveness of God, Justice, and his skipper; defray the costs of arrest and pay a fine of sixty Carolus guilders, to be applied half to the officer and the remainder to the city. On the same day, Argan Jansen van Spreckerhoon appeared in court and fulfilled the first part of the sentence, namely: begged the forgiveness of God, the court, and the skipper.

Peter van de Linde, Hendrick van Dyck, the wife of Paulus Leendrs. van der Grest, and Egbert Woutersen, charged by the overseers of the common fences with not repairing the common fencing. Overseers demand a fine. Decision: That Peter van de Linde being an old man and heretofore excused, be excused this time; that the others pay the fine.

Judith Verleth, the daughter, complained of by Wolfert Webber, for violence, force, and abuse committed against him by the defendant and her daughter, striking him in his own house and flinging stones at him. Plaintiff requests that defendant be ordered to let him remain in peace in his own house. Defendant denies that she ever gave the plaintiff any trouble, and complains that plaintiff berated her for a whore and a strumpet, and threatened in his own house to strike her with the whip as he daily does his wife, bruising and dragging her arm, and kicked her sister so that her hip was blue. Decision reserved. Webber was fined twelve stivers for fulminating lies, &c., in presence of the court.

Jan van Iselsteyn alias Jan van Leyden, charged with striking F. Fyn in the face on the highway, laying his hand on the hilt of his sword, and threatening said Fyn with harsh words, he, Iselsteyn, being drunk; and also thence proceeding to Wolfert Webber's house, leaping over the fence, and striking Webber's wife on her own ground and giving her a black eye; using also very abusive language, saying to her, "Good evening, Madam Van Vineker—whore! every man's whore! The gunner's whore! In twelve English shillings thou hast served him; the cows thou hast thou earned by adultery;" and also, "I will have my will of you, even it be in the street, before the pigs." Schout demands that the prisoner be banished out of the jurisdiction, and pay a fine of one hundred Rix dollars, with costs and mises of justice.

Advices on the above demand—

The advice of the Heer Allard Anthony is: That he be for this time excused from banishment on condition that he shall ask pardon of the Worshipful Court, and promise to behave himself hereafter as an honest man. With costs.

The Heer Oloffte Stevensen: That for this once he be discharged on payment of costs, with a warning that on the recurrence of the past offense he shall be banished and punished as he shall deserve.

The Heer Johan Depeyster: That he shall pay for his confinement and release, and to the officer, in addition, the sum of fl. 50, and then be released.

The Heer Johan Nevens: That he pay a fine of 100 Rix dollars.

The Heer Joh Verbrugge: Whereas what Wolfert's wife hath accused him with cannot be proved, but only his fault, that he be liberated on payment of costs.

The Heer Jacob Strycker: That he shall pay his board and jailor's fee, and then be liberated.

The Heer Jan Vigne: That he shall pay 100 dollars and be exempt from banishment. Decision: That he shall appear in Court, and there, with uncovered head, beg of God and Justice, forgiveness, and promise to comport himself in peace and quietness, without molesting any one touching this complaint; or, in default thereof, shall, without any mercy, on the first complaint, be punished as it shall behoove, and be banished; and that he shall pay the costs of imprisonment and trial.

Cornelis Aersen Ide Van Vorst, and their servants, complained of, for that their servants raced on Sunday evening after sermon, with horses and wagons, and much noise and singing, from which great damage and disaster might have arisen. Schout demands a fine of 4 pounds Flemish. Decision: Fine of 3 guilders against each master; and they are ordered to watch themselves, so that all dangers and irregularities shall be prevented.

David Frere, a Jew, charged with removing from the Bailiff's house, contrary to express prohibition, a certain chest which was brought by order to the Bailiff's house, in order to obtain 5 beavers due him. Schout demands that the beavers be confiscated; that the prisoner be publicly whipped at a stake and banished. Decision: Fine of 800 Carolus guilders, with costs of suit; to be imprisoned until the same is paid.

Geert, wife of Geurt Coerten, charged with slandering the wife of the Hon. Beeckman and Cornelis Steenevyck. The Schout producing the points of accusation, the same were by defendant denied, as only known by hearsay; declaring that Jan Adamsen spoke to her of a little sailor and a woman whom he found in the bush, and that he said it was a married woman whom no one would suspect, saying, also, "I came with her from the bush to the fresh water, and I had such a kiss from her that I could scarcely compose myself,"—acknowledges conjecturing with her husband as to who it could have been, but protesting her innocence. Schout demands fine of fl. 1,000. Decision:

Jan Rutgersen, charged with buying firewood from Jacob Hoey's negroes, unknown to their master, and secretly removing the same, thus stealing the labor which the negroes owed their master. Schout demands that he be punished as a secreter of stolen goods. Decision: That he pay the master of the negroes for the wood, at the usual rate, and also a fine of twenty guilders.

Isaac Bedlo, Jacob Buys, and Gulyn d' Wys, charged by Joost Goderis with insulting and abusing him, using foul and slanderous language,

The complainant says that while returning from Oyster Island, where he had been to procure oysters or crabs, the defendants going away in company with Guysbert Verdorck, Jan Vinje, and others, the defendants, Bedlo and Buys, called aloud, and said to him, "You horn-beast" (cuckold), and immediately afterwards sung out, "Joost Goderis ought to wear horns as the cattle are wont to do," &c.; and they also said, "Allard Antony has had * * * *." He also complains that at Soockerman's house on the strand, he had asked Bedlo why he had insulted him so, whereupon Bedlo replied, "You fool, I have not said it; you have said it yourself." Upon which Joost gave him, Bedlo, a slap, and Bedlo, drawing his naked knife, gave him, Goderis, a wound in the neck. He also complains that d'Wys addressed him, and said Joost might rather give him, the defendant, the liberty of playing with his (plaintiff's) wife, as Allard Antony was in the habit of doing it. Plaintiff demands right and justice. The parties denying the charge, the Court appointed Paulus Senderse, Van der Grist, and Wilhelm Beeckman as commissioners, to examine the witnesses in the case, and report their opinions respecting the same. The Court also ordered the following interrogatories to be administered to the witnesses, to which they are to give categorical answers. The first point, "Whether on the 29th January, in Oyster Island, they did not hear Buys and Bedlo calling after Goderis 'you cuckold and horn-beast, Allard Antony has * * * *.'" The second point, "Whether Buys and Wys did not ask Goderis for a lettre represailles, to * * * * , for, said they, Allard Antony is in the habit of doing it." Some of the witnesses refused to testify at first, but afterwards gave evidence. One of them, Gysbert Van der Donck, pleaded that he was not of age, and therefore, "according to divers authors and jurists, not obliged to make oath concerning such a matter," which plea the Court overruled.

The case seems finally to have been dropped, as there appears to be no record of any further proceedings therein.

Borgeo Jorisen, charged by Thomas Griddy with striking him, running after him with an open knife, and driving out of his stable, without his permission, four oxen, which he had hired of defendant. Decision :

Tomas Hall, charged with bringing to Egbert Van Borsum, innkeeper, three half-barrels of beer, with his own servant, sled and horse, not having an excise certificate. Decision : Fine of sixty guilders.

Nicolaes Terhaer, charged with tapping to the Indians on Sunday during sermon, as well as at other times ; and also for making a great uproar, and in his own house beating Harmen de Knyher's face in pieces ; and also for coming with a naked knife before the house of Juryaen Blunk, and there making a great uproar, and threatening him, saying he had betrayed him. The Schout demands suitable law and justice. Decision : That he shall be no longer allowed to tap or to vend any wines or beers, and be removed from said occupation, and pay a fine of sixty guilders, of which one-third shall be applied to the poor, one-third to the officer, and one-third to the Court.

La Duane

MAYORS OF THE CITY.

JAMES DUANE,

Mayor in 1783-84-85-86-87-88.

JAMES DUANE, the first mayor after the Revolutionary War, was born in the city of New York, on the 6th of February, 1733. He was the third son of Anthony Duane, a gentleman from Cony, in the County of Galway, Ireland, who, having, when very young, been a purser in the British Navy, on the New York station, resigned his situation, and returned to the city of New York, where he spent the rest of his life as a merchant, and where he died on the 14th of August, 1747. The mother of James Duane was Altea Keteltas, daughter of one of the most considerable merchants, and long an alderman of the city of New York. She died when he was only three years old, and in May, 1741, his father married a third wife, the widow of Thomas Lynch, whose maiden name was Riker, of Flushing, Long Island. Two of the brothers of James Duane held appointments in the British Navy.

The profession of the law being selected as the future occupation of James Duane, he entered the office of James Alexander, one of the most eminent counsel of our colonial bar, and the father of the American general, Lord Sterling. He was admitted an attorney of the Supreme Court on the 3d of August, 1754, and was soon entrusted with a large professional business. On the 21st of October, 1759, Mr. Duane married Mary, the eldest daughter of Colonel Robert Livingston, then proprietor of Livingston Manor. His professional standing soon caused him to be retained in most of the heavy suits brought to litigation. He was the attorney of Trinity Church in the suits relating to the property claimed by the heirs of Anneke Jans.

Mr. Duane's father had left to him and his three brothers, among other property, about six thousand acres of wild land in the present town of Duanesburgh, Schenectady County. By the death of two of his brothers, and by purchase from the third and by other purchases, he subsequently became the owner of nearly the whole of that township, then a wilderness. In 1765 he commenced measures for its settlement, and entered into a contract with a company of twenty Germans from Pennsylvania, who made the first permanent settlement of that town.

The king, in council, having decided in 1764 that the territory now called Vermont was part of the colony of New York, Mr. Duane made purchase of about sixty-four thousand acres, which cost him upwards of eight thousand dollars, nearly all of which was lost upon the State of New York relinquishing its rights to that territory.

When faithful and skillful agents were sought for in 1774, to devise means to regain those rights which England had grossly infringed, Mr. Duane was naturally one of the earliest selected. He was a member of most of the committees in the city of New York, raised to devise plans for opposing British encroachments; and when the General Congress of 1774 was determined upon, and the Colonial Assembly had refused to appoint any delegates to act, Mr. Duane was elected by the people, not only of that city, but of several counties. He set out for the Congress on the 31st of August, accompanied from his house to the foot of Broad street (whence he took the ferry boat) by a great procession, with music playing and colors flying. On arriving at the Exchange, then in that street, the procession halted, and he addressed the citizens. In the course of the session of this Congress (which was held at Philadelphia), a committee was appointed to state the rights of the colonies, the several instances in which they had been violated, and the means most proper to obtain redress. Of this important committee Mr. Duane was a member. The expenses of delegates from New York to the first Congress seem to have been paid by themselves, and Mr. Duane's, as entered in his memorandum book, were eighty-seven pounds and upwards, exclusive of two months' board.

In April, 1775, Mr. Duane was elected a member of the Provincial Congress, which met on the 20th of that month, in the city of New York, and by that body was chosen a delegate to the Congress that had been recommended to meet in Philadelphia on the 10th of May.

In 1776, he was chosen to the Provincial Congress of New York. The convention was obliged to retire from the city, on account of the invasion of the British troops, and Mr. Duane removed his family from the city in June, 1776, and did not return to it until after the close of the war. The Congress, however, continued to meet at various places, and was attended by Mr. Duane. In 1777, he was chosen for the general Congress at Philadelphia, where he remained until December of that year, when, having obtained leave of absence, he returned to his family at Livingston's Manor. In the spring and summer of 1778, Mr. Duane had an attack of sickness, and did not return to Congress until November, 1778, having been reappointed a delegate on the 16th of October preceding. He was also a member the several succeeding years, until the close of the war. On the 25th of November, 1783, with General Washington, Governor Clinton, and hundreds of his fellow-exiles, he re-entered his native city in triumph, when he took possession of his dilapidated property. He found his houses in King (now Pine) street, and at the corner of Water street and Fly Market, almost entirely destroyed. His farm, as he calls it, consisting of about twenty acres, at what is now called Gramercy Park, and its vicinity, was in pretty good order, the house having been occupied by one of the British generals.

About the last of December, 1783, Mr. Duane was elected State Senator. The Common Council of the city soon after petitioned the Governor to appoint him Mayor, "as no one," they say in their petition, "is better qualified, so none will be more acceptable to us and our constituents at large than Mr. Duane. Few have sacrificed more, or deserve better from their country." He was accordingly appointed, on the 5th of February, 1784, Mayor of this city. He presided in the Mayor's Court for nearly six years.

In 1789, Mr. Duane was nominated by President Washington, and appointed by the Senate, District Judge of the District of New York. For about five years Judge Duane continued to execute the duties of this office. But, finding his health feeble, he resigned his office with the intention of establishing his residence at Duanesburgh, where his only son and one of his daughters resided. He removed to Schenectady, where he owned some property, and where he had frequently spent part of the year with his family, designing to remain in that city until he could carry into effect his intention of fixing his permanent residence in Duanesburgh. In 1796 he commenced building a house in that town for his own residence, but he never lived to complete it. On the morning of the 1st of February, 1797, just as he was about to rise, he was taken with an affection of the heart, and expired immediately.

Judge Duane was survived by his widow, one son and four daughters. The son was the late James C. Duane of Schenectady. His oldest daughter married the late General North, of Duanesburgh, and is long since dead. His second daughter married George W. Featherslonhaughe, an English gentleman, who after her death returned to England. Another daughter married the late Alfred S. Pell, Esq. Another daughter is, or was recently, residing at Duanesburgh.

Judge Duane is interred under the church he built in Duanesburgh, and a neat mural tablet within the church is erected to his memory.

RICHARD VARICK,

Mayor in 1789, '90, '91, '92, '93, '94, '95, '96, '97, '98, '99, 1800.

The common ancestor of the family of that name in this State, was the Reverend Rudolphus Van Varick, minister of the Reformed Dutch Church at Jamaica, Long Island, who died in the year 1694; the following year his venerable widow followed him, leaving four children—Joanna, Marinus, Rudolphus, and Cornelia.

Immediately after the Declaration of Independence in 1776, the subject of this sketch, then a young lawyer of this city, tendered his services to Major-General Schuyler, commanding the Northern army, and was appointed his military Secretary. In February, 1776, he was appointed by Congress Deputy-Commissary-General of Musters for the Northern army, with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, and joined the army in that capacity in the spring of the same year, and continued attached thereto after the command of that army was conferred upon the late Major-General Gates.

He was present at the memorable battles of Stillwater and Saratoga (15th of September, and 7th of October, 1777), and with others, reaped the reward of those actions, in the surrender of the British army, commanded by General Burgoyne, to General Gates, on the 16th day of October, in the same year. After Burgoyne's surrender, Colonel Varick was stationed at West Point, and performed the duty of Inspector-General of the troops of that post and its vicinity, until after the treason of General Arnold, to whose family he was for some time attached as Aide-de-camp. After the desertion of General Arnold, Colonel Varick was attached to the military family of General Washington, in which capacity he was, by him, appointed his Recording Secretary, until near the close of the Revolutionary War, and possessed his esteem and confidence in an eminent degree.

After the evacuation of this city by the British troops, on the 25th of November, 1783, and the restoration of the civil government of this State, Colonel Varick was appointed Recorder of the city. In the year 1789, he held the office of Attorney-General of the State, and the following year was appointed Mayor of the city, which office he held for twelve years.

Upon his retirement from public office, he devoted himself to charitable and benevolent pursuits. He was President of the Society of the Cincinnati, for nearly thirty years.

Mr. Varick died at an advanced age in the year 1831.

In the latter part of his mayoralty the city contained about 50,000 inhabitants.

EDWARD LIVINGSTON,

Mayor in 1801-2.

MR. LIVINGSTON was born in the year 1764, at Clarmont (Livingston's Manor), in Columbia County, in the State of New York. He went to school at Albany, and then at Kingston, Ulster County. In 1779, he entered an advanced class of Princeton College, where he took his degree of A. B. two years afterward. Having selected the law for a profession, he pursued the study of it at Albany; and upon being admitted to the bar in 1785, established himself in the city of New York. There, before he had attained the age of thirty he had acquired a high reputation for his attainments as a jurist, and ability as an advocate. In 1794 Mr. Livingston was elected a member of Congress from the district of New York, and remained a member of that body for six years, being then in the opposite ranks to the government of Mr. Adams. Shortly after retiring from Congress, he was appointed by Mr. Jefferson to the office of United States Attorney for the District of New York, and in the years 1801-2 held the office of Mayor of the city of New York.

Having become involved, through the misconduct of persons entrusted with the collection of debts for the United States, Mr. Livingston thought proper to resign his office, and removed to Louisiana with the design of availing himself of the rising fortunes of that newly acquired territory, to retrieve his pecuniary condition, a design in which he was successful, and he ultimately paid the obligations which he had incurred, both principal and interest.

He was appointed by the Legislature of Louisiana one of the Commissioners to prepare a system of Judiciary for that State. This gave rise to the civil code of Louisiana, justly considered as a work of great merit, and reflecting the highest credit upon its framers. In 1821, he was appointed sole commissioner to prepare a system of criminal law, which still further extended his reputation as a man of profound mind, and great learning. It attracted the attention of the public in Great Britain and France, and as a work deserving the consideration of the world at large, was reprinted in London, and translated into the French language at Paris. A biographer of Mr. Livingston remarks: "The beauty of its arrangement, the wisdom of its provisions, and the simplicity of its forms, have never been surpassed, probably never equalled, in any similar work, and it is not without entire justice that this admirable production has contributed, perhaps more than any other of his labors, to secure to Mr. Livingston that eminent place which he holds among those who are regarded not merely as distinguished jurists, but as eminent philanthropists."

In 1823, Mr. Livingston was elected a member of Congress from the State of Louisiana, and in 1829 was appointed by the Legislature to a seat in the Senate. In 1831, he was appointed by President Jackson (whose Aid he had been at the battle of New Orleans), to the office of Secretary of State. In the year 1833, he was appointed Minister to France in a time of peculiar importance, and conducted his mission in the most satisfactory manner.

On his return to America, in the spring of 1835, he retired to his seat at Rhinebeck, on the Hudson river, where he died on the 23d of May, 1836.

In the time of his mayoralty, the city contained about 60,000 inhabitants.

DE WITT CLINTON,

Mayor in 1803-4-5-6-8-9-11-12-13-14.

DE WITT CLINTON was born March 2, 1769, at Little Britain, in Orange County, New York. His father served with great distinction during the Revolutionary war, and became a Major-General in the army of the United States. His mother was a De Witt, a member of the distinguished Dutch family of that name. He was educated at Columbia College, where he highly distinguished himself. He then commenced reading law with the Hon. Samuel Jones, and in due time was admitted to the bar. But before he was able to acquire any practice of importance, he was appointed private secretary to his uncle, George Clinton, and continued in this office until the end of his relative's administration, in 1785. In the interim he had been chosen Secretary to the Board of Regents of the University and to the Board of Fortifications in New York. In 1797 he was elected a member of the Legislature, at the time when the two great parties, which afterwards divided the country, were organized, and embraced the Republican or Democratic side. In 1800 he was chosen by the Council of Appointment, of which body he was a member, to support their cause in a controversy between them and Governor Jay. The same year he was chosen a member of the United States Senate, to supply the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of General Armstrong, and continued a member of that body for two sessions. After that period he was chosen Mayor of New York, and remained in this situation, with the intermission of two years, until 1815, when he was obliged to resign on account of the violence of party politics. In 1817 he was elected, almost unanimously, Governor of the State of New York, the two great parties having combined for the purpose of raising him to that dignity. This harmony continued until the distribution of offices, when discontent was excited and an opposition commenced to his administration. He was re-elected, however, in 1820, notwithstanding the great exertions of the opposite party, who had induced Daniel D. Tompkins, then Vice-President of the United States, and, from his popularity in his native State, emphatically termed the Man of the People, to become his opponent. After his re-election great resistance was made to his measures; but fortunately, the canal scheme, of which Mr. Clinton was one of the prime movers and most efficient advocates, had been so firmly established, that it was secure from attack. In 1822 he declined offering himself again as a candidate, and retired into private life. He was then acting as one of the Canal Commissioners, of which office he was deprived in 1823. This act of his opponents caused a reaction of public feeling with regard to him, and his friends brought him forward in 1824 as a candidate for Governor, to which office he was elected by a large majority over the late Colonel Young. In 1826 he was again elected by a large majority over Judge Rochester, but he died before his term was completed. His decease was in consequence of a catarrhal affection of the throat and chest, which being neglected, occasioned a fatal disease of the heart. He expired almost instantaneously, while sitting in his library after dinner, February 11, 1828.

His son was writing near him, and on being informed by him of a sense of oppression and stricture across the breast, immediately called in medical aid, but before the physician could arrive, Mr. Clinton was dead. Mr. Clinton was tall, finely proportioned, and of a commanding aspect. In his domestic relations he was cheerful and kind; in his friendships, warm and sincere. He was an early riser, and extremely laborious. Mr. Clinton was twice married; his first wife was Miss Maria Franklin, the daughter of an eminent merchant of New York, by whom he had seven sons and three daughters. His second wife was Miss Catharine Jones, daughter of Dr. Thomas Jones, of this city.

In the time of his mayoralty the city contained about 70,000 inhabitants.

M. Willett

MARINUS WILLETT,

Mayor in 1807.

COLONEL WILLETT was the great great grandson of Thomas Willett, the first Mayor of New York. He commenced his military career at the time of the old French war, and was present at the battle of Salle George, where the first Lord Howe was killed. He became distinguished, in the time of the Revolutionary war, as one of the most efficient officers in the American army. His principal theatre of action lay in the middle and western part of this State, in the country of the Five Nations—then friendly to the British cause. The history of the Revolution exhibits the opening of the year 1781 as one of the gloomiest periods of the war. The army was greatly distressed for provisions, and several regiments of the Pennsylvania and New Jersey lines had actually revolted. In the mean time, Brandt, the leader of the Indians, was extremely active in the Mohawk country, and a common sense of the desperate condition of the American cause seemed to prevail among the inhabitants of that section. There was, however, one officer whose name among the people was a tower of strength. This was Colonel Willett, who, about this period, was induced by Governor Clinton to take the command of all the militia levies and State troops that might be raised for the protection of the country. He arrived at Fort Rensselaer (Canajoharie), where he established his headquarters towards the close of June. The forces were very small, but were represented by himself as “keen for revenge and properly determined.” His first essay against the savage enemy was about the first of the following month. The smoke of a village on fire was reported by his scouts, who also tracked the savages and discovered their encampment. This being reported to Willett, he collected his levies and moved towards the enemy, with the design of taking them by surprise. The encampment was in a thick cedar swamp, five or six miles northeast of Cherry Valley, and, of course, to reach it through the woods, during an exceedingly dark night, and without any better road than a bridle-path, was no small undertaking. It had been ascertained that the Indians numbered between two and three hundred, commanded by a Tory, named John Doxtader, in connection with an Indian chief, named Quackyack. Colonel Willett’s strength, levies and militia included, did not exceed one hundred and fifty men. The plan of falling upon the enemy while asleep did not exactly succeed, in consequence of the difficulties of the march occasioned by the darkness, the thickness of the woods, and, worse than all, by the losing of his way by the guide. It was therefore nearly six o’clock when he arrived in the vicinity of the encampment, and instead of falling upon the enemy by surprise he found them occupying a more favorable situation, and awaiting his reception. Immediate dispositions were made to engage the enemy, with a view to which a stratagem was laid to draw him from the advantageous position he had chosen. For this purpose, before the Indians had become fully aware of Willett's near approach, a lieutenant, named Jacob Sammons, was detached, with ten resolute men, to steal as near to them as possible, give them one well-directed fire, and retreat. The ruse succeeded. Sammons and his men turned their backs on the first yell of the Indians, and the latter sprang forward in pursuit. They were soon met by Colonel Willett in person, advancing at the head of the main division. The enemy did not wait an attack, however, but with great appearance of determination, advanced with their wonted shouts and yells, and began to fire.

The onset of the Indians was furious, but they were received with firmness, and in turn the Americans advanced upon them with loud huzzas, and such manifestations of spirit as soon caused them to give way. The Indians now betook themselves to their old game of firing from behind the trees; but Willett's men understood that mode of fighting as well as themselves. Willett pressed forward, cheering his men; and being followed by his men with the bayonet, the enemy was put to flight about half an hour after the commencement of the action. They ran down the Susquehanna, on their old war-path. The loss of the Indians was about forty killed. Willett's loss was five killed and nine wounded. Several other affairs in which the commanding officer displayed great spirit, served to inspire the inhabitants with great confidence in him, and so rapidly did he infuse something of his own ardor and energy into the bosoms even of the dispirited and broken militia, that they presently appeared like a different race of men.

In the month of October, 1781, the last invasion of the Mohawk valley, of any consequence, occurred. A secret expedition against Johnstown was planned by the Johnstons, the British agents in that county, and executed with such silent celerity, that, on the 24th of that month, about one thousand men from Canada struck off through the forests and broke in upon Warrensbush, near the junction of Schohariekill with the Mohawk river, and about twenty miles distant from the head-quarters of Willett. They had time to commit great havoc and devastation before Willett could muster his force; but he immediately collected his recruits, and marched the same day of the attack to meet the invaders. Willett had but four hundred and sixteen men, all told. Having sent out a flanking party of sixty men, Willett advanced upon the enemy at the head of his column. The forces met and the battle soon became general. The disparity of forces was such as to compel the Americans to give way, and but for the flanking party sent out, their defeat would have been inevitable. This party, however, fell on the rear of the enemy just at the moment of victory. The diversion was such as to once more renew the general battle, and after a severe contest, the enemy retreated to the woods, nor stopped short of a mountain-top six miles distant. The loss of the Americans was about forty. That of the enemy about the same number killed and fifty prisoners. Willett pursued the enemy, and followed them night and day, committing great havoc among them. Among others of the enemy who were killed was their leader, Butler. He was shot down by the rifle of one of Willett's Indians, who, after bringing the officer down, followed to the spot where he fell and found him not dead, but sorely wounded, sitting against a tree. The Indian advanced, shot him again through the eye, and took his scalp. The victory of Willett was complete, and he returned with his little army in triumph.

Colonel Willett was honored in civil life with several profitable offices ; among others, that of Sheriff of New York. He lived to a very advanced age at his farm, near the present Corlaers Hook. He died on the 22d of August, 1830, at the age of ninety years. The coffin in which he was interred was made of pieces of wood collected by himself many years before from different Revolutionary battle-grounds.

The corpse, in compliance with a written request of the deceased, was habited in a complete suit of citizen's apparel, including an old-fashioned three-cornered hat. Several thousand persons passed through the house for the purpose of viewing his remains.

In the time of his mayoralty the city contained about eighty thousand inhabitants.

JACOB RADCLIFF,

Mayor in 1810, '15, '16, '17.

The father of Mr. Radcliff, named William, was a captain of militia in the Revolution, and rose to the station of Brigadier-General. He was a member of the State Legislature (his residence then being at Rhinebeck, Dutchess County), and died in 1831, leaving four sons and two daughters. Jacob, the eldest, was bred to the bar, commenced practice at Poughkeepsie, which he followed with distinguished success, and at an early age was raised to the bench of the Supreme Court, after which period he removed to the city of New York, and soon after resigned his judicial office, returning to the practice of his profession, and was soon after appointed Mayor of the city, which he held at intervals during four years.

Mr. Radcliff continued his professional pursuits until within a few years past, having died at a venerable age.

THE De PEYSTER FAMILY IN CONNECTION WITH THE COLONIAL HISTORY OF NEW YORK.

No catastrophe in the moral or in the physical world could be compared with more justice to the explosion of a vast hypercharged mine, than the massacre of St. Bartholomew, in France. It commenced at Paris, August 24, 1572. Besides the 100,000 French Protestants instantly destroyed by this religious war of intolerance, and the thousands who died and were ruined in consequence, it is impossible to calculate how many families were torn asunder, and how many happy households were scattered abroad, whose fragments fell into the remotest and strangest lands.

One of the families driven at this time from their native seats by the persecutions of Charles IX. against his Protestant subjects, were the de Peysters. Such was the impulse they received from religious persecution that the first time we find the different members of it corresponding together freely as if they had at length settled down in peace, one was a Doctor of Laws, and Schepen or Mayor of a quarter or district of Rotterdam, one of the most distinguished offices in Holland at that date; another was a wealthy merchant in London; another was Mayor of New York. Others again were still in movement, although, like spent balls, they had lost so much of the momentum imparted to them by the persecution which sent them forth, that but little influence was required to arrest their progress and induce them "to settle." One sister, like a fragment hurled vertically, eventually returned to settle at Rouen, where, in the succeeding century, she lived a widow, in the possession of an ample fortune.

Johannes de Peijster (Peister or Pester), the ancestor of the family in this country, and an eminent merchant of New York in the seventeenth century, was born at Haarlem, in the commencement of the seventeenth century. He was of noble descent, and possessed by inheritance of wealth for the era in which he lived. Portions of the costly articles of furniture, the elegant and massive family silver and pictures, perfect gems of art, two of which are herewith presented for the gratification of the readers of the MANUAL, which he brought out from Holland, are still in the possession of his descendants. The coat of arms engraved upon these is the same as that of Messire Julien de Peyster, Count of Turnhout and of Seneffe, a fief near Antwerp, who disappeared in the vortex of the first great French revolution. This was corroborated by the King at Arms in London, in the case of Pierre Guillaume de Peyster, brother of Arent Schuyler de Peyster, Colonel of the Eighth or King's Regiment of British foot. As to his property, his voluntary contributions to the works of public defence, as well as the tax and assessment rolls of New Amsterdam, are sufficient vouchers.

After a short visit to this country, evidently to look about him before establishing himself, he returned to Holland, and married, at Haarlem, Cornelia Lubberts or Lubbertus,* like himself a native of that place, on the 17th December, 1651. His wife, Cornelia, returned with him to New Amsterdam, and survived him many years.

In 1653, although just arrived in this country to establish himself—1652 or '3—Johannes de Peyster offered as his contribution a considerable sum for those days (only exceeded by twelve of the most opulent and oldest settlers), towards erecting the city palisades.

According to the list of the wealthier inhabitants of New Amsterdam, 13th March, A. D. 1653, the municipal authorities assessed Johannes de Peyster, just arrived, 100 guilders, only eleven persons paying more than he. His name stands fifth on the list of those who shall "provisionally contribute for the purpose of putting the city in a state of defence," which list appears to be arranged in accordance with the position of the different parties. In the "list of inhabitants who offered money for erecting the city palisades," in the same year (1653), his name is fourth, and his contribution only exceeded by eleven of the oldest settlers, who had large investments at stake in buildings, &c., liable to fire in case of a hostile attack. In 1655 another tax and contribution list was made out to raise means to defray the debt for constructing the city defences. "This list embraces all the taxable inhabitants at that time. The several amounts are given in the currency of the present day in round numbers. Several included in the list were non-residents, but held taxable interests in the city." The name of Johannes de Peyster stands sixth therein, and lower down that of his son-in-law, Paulus Schrick, first husband of his daughter, Maria, who afterwards married the Mayor, David Provoost, Jr. On this occasion, however, the amount itself can be no indication of the wealth of the parties contributing, as the wealthiest pay by no means the highest rates. In 1674, a tax list of New Amsterdam was prepared, as "the extraordinary expenses attending the repair of the fortifications and providing for the public defence, after the reconquest of the city by the Dutch, in 1673, led to the imposition of a direct tax on those citizens whose estates were worth at least 1,000 guilders. The following list was made out by a Board of six Assessors specially appointed for that purpose."

In this Johannes de Peyster is assessed at 15,000 guilders (the same amount as the remarkable Jacob Leisler), only seven individuals exceeding that sum.

In Valentine's History of New York is given the "List of Owners of Houses and Lots in the city, about the year 1674, at the final cession to the English; property being classified as to its relative value, as 1st, 2d, 3d, and 4th, with the national descent of the persons named—to illustrate the condition of the population of that era—and their estimated wealth,” which “estimates of the wealth of the several inhabitants of New York, at this period, is not based upon any single document, but is compiled from various sources, and is only designed by the author to be considered as an approximate estimate, formed from the best evidence within his reach.” In this Johannes de Peyster is set down as the owner of property on the present Broad street, east side, between South William street and Broad street, then known as a part of the Heere Graft and Princess' Graft: second class of property (this “second” must be an error, or else the value appears to have had nothing to do with this classification, as some worth only $1,500 and $2,500 are placed in the first category); national descent, Dutch: estimated wealth, $10,000; an amount exceeded by that of only ten other individuals.

* This name Lubberts or Lubbertus was by no means unknown or without distinction in Holland. Sybrand Lubertus, born about the year 1556, at Langoworde, in Friesland, a distinguished theologian, was, in 1613, professor of theology at the college of Franeker, and one of the most ardent controversialists of his time. He died in 1625. The only one of his works well known at present is his treatise "de Papa Romano," 8vo, published in 1594.

The first mention of him in the colonial records after his return is as a cadet in one of the city burgher corps. Johannes de Peyster must have possessed marked ability and discretion, since immediately upon his return he acquired and exercised an unusual share of influence for a newly arrived young man. This consideration and confidence of his fellow-citizens he continued to enjoy to the end of his life.

During the years 1655, 1657, 1658, 1662, he held the office of Schepen, and his name constantly appears in connection with important movements in the colony. Fortunately for his honor he did not belong to that city government, whose want of patriotism and manliness undoubtedly compelled the bold Stuyvesant to surrender to the English. In 1664, when Nichols made himself master of the city of New Amsterdam, de Peyster had returned to private life.

Still, although the Dutch civil authorities were instrumental in delivering up the colony to the British, they were not unmindful of the interests of their constituents, for the articles of surrender proved the New York charter of liberty. When Nichols sought to annul or elude these terms, the most influential Dutch merchants came forward and refused to take the oath of allegiance to the British crown until they and their fellow-citizens were secured in their rights. This contest continued for years, and was renewed by “some of ye chiefs of ye Dutch,” until their sturdy opposition to the oppressions of the British crown gradually prepared the material, and broke the ground for the American Revolution. One of the foremost and most fearless of these patriots were Johannes de Peyster.

In 1665, the government being apparently firmly vested in the British crown, he again accepted the office of Schepen, and in 1666, 1667, 1669, and 1673 (the form of government having been changed to one corresponding with that of the conquerors), was appointed, and acted as Alderman.

The year 1673 was a year of jubilee for the Dutch, for the gallantry and determination of Evertzen, Binckes, and Colve, had restored them to the jurisdiction of the mother country. Johannes de Peyster was one of six, selected to confer with their deliverers upon the settlement and establishment of affairs. In August, 1673, the name of New York, originally New Amsterdam, was changed to New Orange, and one of the three Burgo-masters selected by the Council of War, from the six candidates elected by the people, to govern it conformably to the laws and statutes of "our fatherland," was Johannes de Peyster. He was likewise, during the re-occupation of the New Netherlands [July—August, 1673, to 9th February (Cession 9th November), 1674], a member of that Commission of five, to whom was committed the preparations for defense against the anticipated attempts at recapture by the English. This was one of those crises which never occurred without affording additional proof of the fearless and unselfish patriotism of the Dutch. The Commission of Defence rivalled the resolution of the Muscovites in the conflagration of Moscow, so often cited as the illustrious example of patriotic sacrifice, without evincing any of the ferocity which characterized the act of Rotopschin. To render the fortress William and the city of New Orange (N. Y.), more susceptible of successful defence, that determined commission decreed, on the 17th September, 1673, that the spreading suburbs, pleasant villas, smiling boweries or orchards and productive gardens should all be laid waste in ashes or destroyed. This was done in order that nothing should remain standing to impede the fire of the artillery of the fort, and of the bastions of the place, nor afford cover and lodgment to the enemy. But in one respect the example of this commission has scarcely ever been imitated. They not only determined to destroy for the good of the public, but they also provided the means to pay for what the public good required to be demolished and laid waste. The grandest passages of the history of the Hollanders upon this continent, remain to be brought before the public eye. (Consult Moulton's N. Y. 170 Years Ago, &c., 1843.)

In 1674, he and his colleagues were just as bold in maintaining the rights of the "Burghery" against the Dutch military governor-general, the impetuous Colve, as they had been and afterwards were to defend those of their fellow-citizens against the encroachments of the English governors.

Notwithstanding his opposition to the British government, and although he was one of the very last to take the oath of allegiance, he was soon after the final cession of the Dutch colony to that power promoted to the highest offices in the municipality. In 1676, he was an Alderman; in 1677, Deputy Mayor, and in the same year he was tendered the office of the Mayor, but declined it, in consequence of his imperfect acquaintance with the English language.

After a long life of activity and usefulness, having been one of the wealthiest and most influential inhabitants of his adopted home, and had proved himself (at a time when opinions brought men's lives into jeopardy) one of the most patriotic citizens of our metropolis in its infancy, he died, previous to the year 1686, leaving a widow, Cornelia (born Lubberts), residing in the Heeren Gracht, now Broad street. He had originally resided in what is now Stone,* or perhaps part of Whitehall street, near the locality in which the West India Company had their capacious storehouses.

Two of his sons, Abraham, the eldest, and Johannes, besides occupying other important positions, filled the Mayoralty chair of New York; likewise a son-in-law, David Provoost. Miss Sprat, a daughter of Mrs. Provoost by a previous husband, and grand-daughter of Johannes, married James Alexander, Secretary of the Province and member of the Provincial Legislature and of the King's Council. One of their children was the celebrated William Alexander, Earl of Sterling, and Major-General in the Revolutionary army under Washington.

From the arrival of Johannes until the end of the previous century, his descendants and immediate connections occupied the most prominent positions, and discharged many of the most important trusts in the city, colony, and province of New York.

We will now proceed to take them up in order.

Of his surviving sons, the most remarkable was the eldest, Abraham, whose merits and position require a separate and more detailed notice.

The second in order of birth was Isaac, who, for many years, was a member of the Provincial Legislature and of the corporation (Assistant Alderman of the South Ward) from 1730 to 1734.

The third in order was Johannes. He was a person of fine parts, popular manners, and superior ability in military matters, particularly the administrative branches. In 1692-93 he was Assessor, and in 1694-96 Assistant Alderman of the Dock Ward. In 1698-99 he was at the same time Mayor of the city of New York and a Representative of the Municipality in the Provincial Legislature. He was succeeded in the Mayoralty by his brother-in-law, David Provoost, Jr., who married his eldest sister, Maria, and was Captain of the 2d (Battalion) Company of Foot, in the regiment commanded by his eldest brother, Abraham 1st. On the 26th of May, 1698, we find him one of four members active in maintaining the purity of the elective franchise, and complaining against the undue return of representatives made by the Sheriff October 1st, 30th, 1700. This Johnnes or John continued for many years a prominent member of the Colonial Assembly, sitting as Chairman of Committees entrusted with the most important business. He was the Captain of the Troop of Horse attached to the regiment (comprising six hundred and eighty-five men), of which his eldest brother Abraham (1st) was Colonel. In 1710 he visited his friends and relatives, settled in different places in Holland.

In 1744 Captain John de Peyster was still a member and one of the Commissioners of Indian Duty at Albany, and, together with Philip Livingston, discharged the duties of Quartermaster and Commissioner or Engineer for, fortifying Oswego, &c.* In 1750, he was Commissioner of Repairs to the fort at Albany; in 1751, Commissioner for the collection of duties levied on goods carried to Oswego; in 1753, Commissioner for the construction of cabins (temporary barracks or quarters—huts?)† for the soldiers and repairs to the fort at Albany; in 1754, he was appointed, and performed the duties of, an Officer and Inspector of Ordnance, and in August, 1755, he was one of the two commissioners for carrying on the first expedition against Crown Point. He was also one of the first Vestrymen of the city of New York, and advocated the calling of a Dissenting clergyman. The choice eventuated in the selection of the Rev. Mr. Vesey of the Established Church.

* * * * *

The fourth and youngest was Cornelius, who served for many years in the Corporation of New York (Assistant Alderman of the South Ward, 1703–7, 1709–19). He was the first Chamberlain of that city who was appointed to, and held, that office, and Captain of the 5th Company of Foot in the regiment of which his eldest brother was Colonel. He continued for a great length of time in various public situations.

Colonel de Heer Abraham de Peyster—eldest son of Johannes—was one of the most prominent politicians, of great wealth, and also one of the largest owners of real estate in his native city. He was born in New Amsterdam 8th July, 1657. At the age of twenty-six he espoused, on the 5th April, 1684, Catharina de Peyster, at Amsterdam, in Holland, whence he returned home on the 13th September of the same year. In the next year (1685), he filled the office of Alderman, in the city of New York, and being in command of one of the schuttery, or city companies, on the breaking out of the Revolution of 1689, attached himself to Leisler. There is a well-authenticated tradition in the family that the success of the popular movement was owing to his firmness, and to its taking place during his tour of duty in the fort, as captain of one of “the New York trained bands.” Although he took a very active part in the movements to resist the arbitrary measures undertaken by the agents of James II., he did not awaken the bitter enmity whose effects fell so heavily upon several other Leislerians. Nevertheless, he remained faithful to his principles. He was one of the judges who presided at the trial of Bayard, upon which occasion his younger brother, Johannes (of whom a biographical sketch has been given), was foreman of the jury, and his brother-in-law, David Provoost, a member of the same. This Johannes, or John, was one of the committee chosen by the "free and open elections of the freemen," who guaranteed the acts of Leisler by the countenance of their signatures and ordinances. The consequences of this struggle affected the government and society for many years. Throughout the contest the De Peysters never flinched from their duty to the "People's Party." Under these circumstances, it is strange that Abraham de Peyster did not make himself more obnoxious to the adverse faction. That he did not, however, is certain; for, on the downfall of Leisler, we find him appointed by Governor Slaughter, whose signature, disgracefully obtained, consigned his predecessor to the gallows, Mayor of New York, successively, from 1691 to 1695. He was sworn as a member of Lord Bellamont's Council 28th September, 1698, and on the 4th October following was appointed assistant judge of the Supreme Court. On [the death of Mr. Van Cortlandt, Judge De Peyster filled the office of Chief Justice, immediately before Attwood's arrival in the country.

* The notices of the following appropriations may be interesting, to show the relative cost of military preparations one hundred and ten years ago and at the present time. In 1744 an account appears in the Assembly Journal of Messieurs John de Peyster and Philip Livingston, Jr., of disbursements for materials and workmen, &c., for making up the bastion in the fort at Albany, dismounting the old guns and mounting the new ones, amounting to the sum of £58 5s. 2 1-4d. or about $280. Also another account of same commissioners “for purchasing powder, transporting cannon, and other charges to Oswego, amounting to the sum of £131 14s. 6 1-2d. or about $634;” and it was therefore “Resolved, That there be paid unto John de Peyster and Philip Livingston, Jr., for their account of powder and transporting cannon to the several out-fortifications, the sum of £131 14s. 6 1-2d.

"Colonel Abraham De Peyster (as he was better known), presided occasionally at the Council in 1700, as the eldest member of the Board present, in the absence of Colonel Smith, with whose pretensions at that time," those acquainted with our colonial history, "are no doubt familiar. In point of seniority, Colonel de Peyster stood No. 3, Colonel Peter Schuyler being also his senior, but he absented himself likewise. Dr. O'Callaghan on this subject has remarked that—'It is singular, as showing how historical events, like fashions in dress, repeat themselves and re-appear, that the very principles of government that divided Smith and De Peyster in those days, caused a division in the Cabinet in Canada under the late Lord Metcalfe, and the constitutional views advocated by De Peyster were only permanently triumphant under the present Lord Elgin. The progress of the present age is sometimes in a circle.'"

In 1701 he administered the affairs of the Province, and his name appeared in the list among the Royal or Colonial Governors, as in office in that year (Manual of 1855, p. 307). That he was possessed of the authority is proven by the obedience paid to the acts of his administration.

He was suspended from the King's Council in September, 1702, on the accession of his political opponents to power. In 1705, the Assembly being fully convinced that Lord Cornbury was no more to be trusted with the public funds, insisted on appointing a Treasurer for the receipt and disbursement of any moneys the Legislature might order for public purposes. After a year's resistance, the government gave way, and Colonel Abraham de Peyster, who had already acted as Deputy Auditor-General, was appointed Treasurer by a law passed on the 19th of October, 1706. He held this office of Treasurer of the Province of New York and New Jersey until June, 1721, when "an unhappy indisposition" incapacitated him from the performance of its duties any longer. His death occurred on the 2d of August, 1728.

SILVER PUNCH BOWL OF JOHANNIS DE PEYSTER

Colonel de Peyster left surviving his wife Catharina, by whom he had issue eight sons and five daughters, and was succeeded in the office of Provincial Treasurer by his eldest son, Abraham.

A person examining the most popular histories of the Province and State of New York, might be surprised that the name of Colonel Abraham de Peyster appeared so seldom therein, if ignorant of the fact that the authority most frequently quoted is the history published under the direction of the New York Historical Society in 1830, of William Smith, the son of Colonel Smith, who was the bitter political opponent of Colonel de Peyster. The latter on the 14th of April, 1701, before the Provincial Legislature, had charged Colonel Smith with having transcended his powers, and that he had no right whatever to act as Governor pro tem. of the Province.* What the more chagrined Smith was, the position of De Peyster was sustained by the Legislature, which decided that Smith had no right to exert the authority which he assumed to possess; but that the powers of government were vested in the whole Council, of which De Peyster was President—his seniors, at the same time, also his political opponents, consisting of Colonel Smith and his associates, Colonel Schuyler and Robert Livingston, refusing to appear.

The last belonged to the anti-Leisler party (called by their opponents Papists or King James's men), which had judicially murdered Governor Leisler and his son-in-law, Milborne. Col. de Peyster was one of the principal leaders of the popular party, who adhered to the martyr Leisler, and maintained their protestant and democratic principles, for which he had been acrimoniously attacked by Bayard and Livingston. It may be satisfactory to mention here that the Lords of Trade afterwards coincided with the Legislature and the popular members of the Council. So much for Smith's studious avoidance of giving Col. de Peyster the credit due to him for his patriotism, influence, and manliness.

Facts, it is well said, speak louder than words, but in order that they may exert their influence, it becomes necessary to make them generally known. First, in support of the position herein assumed, we find De Peyster set down in an English statistical work, published in 1794, in London, where all the public documents necessary to establish the facts were open to the author, among the Governors of the Province, and in the N. Y. S. Manual of 1855 his name also appears in the list of Colonial Governors.

Scarcely any historical writers seem to have been more thoroughly imbued with political and personal rancor than those who treat of the Colonial History of New York, during the struggles between the Leislerians and their opponents, whose proper titles would be Oligarchs. Of the latter none acted at that time more energetically against the "people's party" than Livingston, who was sufficiently carried away by partisan feelings to be present at the sacrifice of the innocent victims of his associates' implacability. The partiality of Bellamont averted his punishment for a time, but in August 30, 1701, Col. de Peyster being President of the Council, Capt. John de Peyster, Chairman of the Assembly Committee, brought in a bill which ultimately resulted in Livingston's removal from his offices, expulsion from the Council, and the confiscation of his property (Booth, 265). Bayard, a still more virulent but less sagacious persecutor of the popular leaders, likewise, in turn, suffered by a peculiar stroke of justice under the very law he had proposed and carried through for the destruction of his opponents. He was tried by the Supreme Court, at which Atwood presided, as Chief Justice, Col. de Peyster and Walters sitting as puisne judges, convicted of treason and sentenced to death. Had Lieut. Gov. Nanfau continued in office, he would no doubt have suffered the penalty of a law of which he was the author. It should never be forgotten that Col. Smith, the father of Smith the first historian, was one of the judges upon the trial of Leisler. Of this Hoffman remarks: "The legal proceedings which follow are chronicled with shame, even by those writers who have been most willing to cast every slur upon the career of Leisler." It is sad to think how, party spirit can gloss over crime with "dainty words," and still sadder to know that the early history of our State has hitherto depended almost entirely upon the authority of one whose ancestor belonged to the party who hunted to death "a martyr of the people," and to the cause of liberty, "a great man." If "an honest man is the noblest work of God," Leisler was the founder of the (true) Democracy of New York, and assertor of those republican principles inherited from the Fatherland. Throughout, Smith, the son, misrepresents the leaders of that party, whose great historical principles his father had assisted in attempting to crush out.

The only time that we find Smith and De Peyster acting with apparent unanimity, is when they were selected to carry to the Five Nations the assurance that the Provincial Government of New York would aid them in resisting the French and the French Indians.

Colonel de Peyster with his large means had the opportunity of exhibiting his patriotism, for, on page iii, vol. 1, of the Journal of the General Assembly (1701), it is recorded, that on the 18th of April, 1701, the thanks of the House were returned to Colonel Abraham de Peyster and Mr. Weaver,* who for three weeks past subsisted the soldiers in his Majesty's pay, on their own charge, without any bills. Another proof of his ample fortune is the fact of his being able, on difficult occasions, to advance large sums of money for the use of the Government, in anticipation of the revenue.

* This was Thomas Weaver, Esq., His and Her Majesty's Collector, Receiver-General, and Solicitor or Attorney-General, under Lord Bellamont. He was forced to fly the Colony for his liberal, or, as they were then termed, Leislerian principles.

MASSIVE SILVER PLATE OF JOHANNIS DE PEYSTER

The noble character of De Peyster in those excited and turbulent times commanded the respect of even his bitterest political opponents. He was alike remarkable for his sound sense, social qualities, political influence, liberal sentiments, and upright disposition. Such was his firm integrity, that when the Recorder, and the whole Corporation, yielding to the dictates of a corrupt government, were willing to unite to add another calumny to those heaped upon the memory of the martyred Leisler, the Mayor (Abraham de Peyster) refused to sign the address, because, in the language of the historian Dunlap, "De Peyster was too honest." This was the more remarkable, inasmuch as he had been appointed Mayor by Slaughter, who had signed Leisler's death-warrant, and was at this time a joint owner with him of the "Horne frigate."

Besides his other numerous and honorable offices, De Peyster was colonel commanding the military forces of the city and county of New York, composing a regiment, consisting of eight companies of foot (one of which was under his brother, Captain Cornelius de Peyster), and one troop of horse (commanded by another brother, Captain John de Peyster, who, in 1709, was a member of the Provincial Legislature).

He was the intimate friend and correspondent of one of the best governors which this province ever had, the generous, upright, dispassionate Earl of Bellamont (Macaulay, V. 204), (colonial history accords him the title of "the friend of Bellamont"*), as also of William Penn.

The dwelling of the eldest son of Col. de Peyster (the Abraham de Peyster, who succeeded him as Treasurer), erected by him in 1695, stood in Queen, near Pearl street, nearly opposite Cedar. At the time of its demolition, in 1856, it was believed to be the oldest building in the city. It was subsequently the residence of Governor George Clinton, and General Washington occupied it as his head-quarters after he had assumed the command of the army in New York. It is so represented in the CORPORATION MANUAL of 1854. It was afterwards known as the Redmond Hotel, of which there is a drawing in the MANUAL for 1853, which gives a pretty fair outline of this ancient structure. It was a grand edifice for the day, and far more comfortable than many of the so-styled palatial residences of our time.

The main building was 59 feet front, and the principal rooms facing upon the present Pearl street, extended back 40 feet. The whole depth was nearly if not 80 feet, and the edifice by a rear building extended nearly through to the present Water street, with which it was connected by a carriage-way. The stable and coach-house were in the centre of the block on the north side of the yard. The main building was three stories high, had a wide entrance, with a double door, opening in the centre, according to the fashion of the day, and projecting over it was a capacious balcony with a double arched window. From this balcony, on many a field day, the military reviews were held by the Colonial Governors.

* Lord Bellamont presented to Col. de Peyster an exquisitely finished pair of pocket pistols, manufactured by Bordie, at Paris. Nothing more beautiful can be made at the present day. They are still in perfect condition, and in possession of a lineal descendant of the colonel.

The contracts and plans are still in existence in the hands of one of his lineal descendants. There must have been in those early colonial times much style in the mode of living among the prominent burghers. A sketch taken from the appraisal after the Treasurer's death describes the furniture, plate, &c., in the different rooms, which are designated according to the distinguishing features of each, viz.: the tapestry room, the blue room, the wainscoted room, dining-room, &c. Besides the various chambers there were an upper and a lower kitchen, the latter for the accommodation, probably, of his eight slaves. The silverware in daily use amounted to 1618½, as appraised at, ounces, and was according to said appraisal valued at £572 sterling, which, taking into consideration the cheapness of workmanship at that date and the beauty of the articles, as also the relative value of money and silverware now and then, it would be fair to estimate the same articles at $7,500. One piece of embossed work, a cake-plate, is remarkable for the boldness and finish of the figures with which it is covered. This, as well as Colonel de Peyster's tankard, is represented in an accompanying engraving; likewise the punch-bowl which his father Johannes brought out from Holland.

Colonel de Peyster owned at one time the greater portion of the land on the north side of Wall street, a little easterly of Broadway, to Smith street, now William street, and thence extending along Wall street toward the river, and through to King's, now Pine street. This latter portion was called in its day the "Great Garden of Colonel de Peyster," and was after his death divided into lots, and partitioned among his children.

Among other instances of his liberality, was the donation to the city of the site of the old Fly Market, of which there is a view in the MANUAL of 1857, and the site for the old Federal Hall, in which Washington was inaugurated in the portico in front, on Wall street, as the first President of the United States. This also is referred to in the MANUAL of 1856. The United States Custom House now stands upon the grounds thus donated.

It is our intention in a future volume of this work to give a copy of the map which is annexed to the partition deed of the above-described property fronting on Wall street. Originally it embraced the ground on which stood the first Presbyterian Church, a few years past removed to the westerly side of the Fifth avenue, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets. This map shows the course which Kipp, now Nassau street, took at its commencement at Wall street, and the position of the City Hall, as it stood in 1717, with the lines of Wall street, from Broadway towards the East river.

It may be interesting to state that, as the property which extended from Water street, directly in the rear of the mansion of Abraham de Peyster, above described, to the East river, belonged to him, he laid out a street from the easterly side of Water street to the river, now known as De Peyster street. The cart-way leading at present from Water street to the rear of the noble marble front stores, standing on the ground formerly fronting on Pearl street, covered by the Mansion House, and recently erected by one of our enterprising and successful merchants, Joseph Sampson, Esq., is shown on the ancient map of this property, to have been the original carriage-way which led to the stables in the rear of the house, adjacent to the grounds, then open country, which on that side extended to, and were bounded by, the river.

In 1721 Colonel Abraham de Peyster resigned, in consequence of illness, his office of Treasurer of the Province of New York, and was succeeded in it by his eldest son, Abraham de Peyster. The latter continued to discharge the duties until his death, in 1767, and was again succeeded in the charge by his son Frederic, who did not serve for any length of time, however, as he went to reside in France, to enable him to inherit the large fortune from his aunt at Rouen.

The Colonel's eldest daughter, Catharine, married Philip Van Cortlandt, whose son was the well-known Lieutenant-Governor, Pierre Van Cortlandt, of Croton, who continued in office from 1777 to 1795—his friend and confidant, George Clinton, being Governor during the same period. The Lieutenant-Governor's son commanded a regiment under Washington during the American Revolution.

His second daughter, Elizabeth, married the Hon. John Hamilton, then Governor of the Province of New Jersey.

His seventh son, Pierre Guillaume, married Catharine Schuyler, sister of Colonel Peter Schuyler, famous for his extraordinary influence over the Five Nations of Indians. The second son of this Pierre Guillaume was the distinguished Colonel Arent Schuyler de Peyster, of the British army, who overcame the French influence in the great Northwest, and "contributed in no trifling degree" to securing the empire of the Lakes to the Anglo-Saxon race.

Of Abraham, the second of the name, Smith, the historian of New York—who seems to have inherited all his father's prejudice and political rancor, and to exhibit them whenever he writes of or alludes to families who had been opposed to his ancestors and his friends—nevertheless, intimates of Abraham de Peyster, the second of the name, that he was a gentleman of large means, and that he exercised a very commanding influence, both personally and through his powerful connections.

At his decease the following flattering obituary appeared in one of the New York papers, a copy of which has been preserved in the family :

"Last Thursday, Abraham de Peyster, Esq., Treasurer of this Colony, departed this life in the 71st year of his age. It would be doing injustice to the memory of this gentleman were we not to say that he possessed every qualification necessary to form the most amiable character. He was warm and disinterested in his friendships; humane and social in his disposition; liberal in his sentiments, and regular in his deportment; his benevolence, unconfined within the narrow sphere of interest, had the whole human race for its object, and his liberality, directed by the generous emotions of an honest heart, was neither influenced by the dictates of pride, nor sought its reward from popular applause. As treasurer, which office he sustained forty-six years, his fidelity did honor to the discernment of those by whom he was called to that important trust, and his readiness at all times to dispatch the public in preference to his private business, gave not even envy an opportunity for complaint. Through the course of a tedious and painful illness, he behaved with a fortitude and resignation becoming the exalted character of a Christian, and died in the perfect exercise of his reason, which was steadily employed in preparing for the grand change he was about to make. He was on Saturday decently interred in the family vault in Trinity church-yard."

James, Abraham, Jr., second's eldest son, was the first of the family who did not occupy a prominent position in public affairs. He was, however, one of the most eminent merchants of the city of New York, and had at one time forty-five vessels upon the seas. He was as much noted for his benevolence as for his commercial enterprise. His generosity is dwelt upon with great feeling in a somewhat rare and remarkable old work, styled "The Surprising yet Real and True Voyage of Monsieur Pierre Viaud, &c., &c.," edited by Mrs. Griffith, Philadelphia ; printed by Robert Bell, on Third street, MDCCLXXIV.

James de Peyster married Sarah, only daughter of the "exemplary" Hon. Joseph Reed, Member of the King's Council ; she died at Jamaica, Long Island, in 1799:

His sister Margaret, third daughter of Abraham de Peyster, Jr., married Hon. Col. William Axtell, Member of the King's Council, &c.

His eldest daughter, Margaret, married Major Thomas James of the Royal Regiment of British Artillery, in which he afterwards rose to be Colonel Commandant. At the outbreak of the Revolution he was at the head of the British Artillery in the colony of New York, and afterwards under St. Peter Parker. He was a man of great ability, and author of a very learned work in regard to the fortress of Gibraltar and the neighboring lands, entitled the "History of the Herculean Straits."

Three of James's sons distinguished themselves in the British military service.

The eldest was captain in Fanning's Fourth Company, or King's American Regiment, sometimes called the "Associated Refugees." He was second in command at the sanguinary battle of King's Mountain, and was hit upon that occasion by a rifle bullet. His life was saved by the ball striking a doubloon which he had received that very morning, and placed in his vest pocket. When his regiment was disbanded, he went to St. John, New Brunswick, and was one of the grantees of that city.

He became Treasurer of the Province of New Brunswick, and colonel of the militia. He died there previous to 1799.

Another son, James, a younger brother of the preceding, was likewise captain-lieutenant in the same regiment as his eldest brother, having entered the service before he was nineteen years of age. No officer could have desired prouder testimonials of courage, ability and conduct, than he received from his colonel (Fanning) and Brigadier-General (Small), when he was transferred to the British artillery, under his brother-in-law, Col. James. Is this corps, as in that which he had quitted, he acquired the good-will and respect of his associates and superiors, and embarked with every prospect of winning honor and promotion for Flanders, to take part in the campaign of 1793, in the army under the Duke of York. He was one of the handsomest men in the British army, and was engaged to be married, on his return, to a lady of fortune, in England. But "man proposes and God disposes." The closing scenes of his career are so marvellous, that were they not well attested, they would seem too romantic for credence. He was blown up, and buried for over an hour, by the explosion of a mine at the siege of Valenciennes; a second time swallowed up by the explosion of a mine in front of the French works near Menix, and so completely covered, that nothing but the fringe of his sash protruded from the ground. This accident led, after a long search, to the discovery of his body. A second time released as it were from the grave, he was restored to life only to fall a few days after by a musket-shot through the head, in the action, so glorious to the British arms, at Lincelles, on the 18th August, 1793. Cotemporary publications admit that he was buried amid the tears and regrets* of the whole army, on the evening of the ensuing day.

Another brother, Frederic, was a captain, at the age 17-18, of a company raised in New York to protect his uncle, Hon. Colonel William Axtell, Member of the King's Council, who resided at Flushing, Long Island. He was afterwards captain in the Royal New York Volunteers, served with credit, and was grievously wounded by a rifle bullét which, while he was mounted and swimming a river, passed through both legs, killing his horse under him.

* The following were found among letters preserved in the family :

"MY DEAR SIR :—There is none among your friends that sincerely laments the loss of your amiable brother more than myself. My personal knowledge of him in England, and his universal good character, places him high in my esteem. The painful reflection is greatly alleviated by philosophical minds, when our friends leave us with so much credit and honor. It is a rich legacy which you much enjoy."

The above is from the Hon. G. LEONARDS.

"MY DEAR SIR :—I most sincerely condole you in the loss of your brother. Unfortunate man! after so narrow escape as he had the first when buried alive, that he must at last fall; and yet it must be a consolation to friends, the glory he obtained, and the reputation with which he ended his military career."

The above is from the Speaker of the House of Assembly, Mr. BOTSFORD.

In October, 1777, Sir Henry Clinton was fighting his way up the river to the assistance of Burgoyne; and on the fifth of that month disembarked his troops to storm the forts about Peekskill. The left column was detached under Lt. Col. Campbell to storm Fort Montgomery, which situated on the west shore, protected the boom and chain thrown across the Hudson river to Anthony's Nose. The extreme left of Campbell's force was comprised of a detachment of the New York volunteers. The capture of the fort by the British regulars and royalists on the succeeding day (the 6th October, 1777), was one of the most gallant exploits performed by them during the war. The Americans made a desperate resistance. It is highly creditable to the New York volunteers, that they were the first to make their way into this strong fortification.

When his regiment was disbanded he removed to New Brunswick, was one of the grantees of the city of St. John, in 1784, and Justice of the Peace in the County of York, in 1792. He afterward became a prominent merchant, and died in the year 1834.

Colonel Arent Schuyler de Peyster was grandson of Colonel de Heer Abraham de Peyster, and nephew of the distinguished Colonel Peter Schuyler. He was born in New York, on the 27th of June, 1736; entered the Eighth or King's Regiment of foot, British army, on the 10th of June, 1755; rose gradually to the colonelcy of that corps, and expired at his residence at Dumfries, Scotland, at the advanced age of about eighty-seven years. His obituary notice says he was ninety-six, and would seem to have data upon which to base the statement. If so, there is an error in the copy of the family record transmitted to the writer in regard to the date of his birth.

He was a remarkable man in many respects, uniting to the winning manners of a gentleman the sterner qualities of a soldier, characteristics rarely possessed by an officer long stationed, and in command upon a wild frontier. To his courtesy of feeling and demeanor, he added charity and judgment and benevolence in action. These attributes, acknowledged by flattering testimonials from those who enjoyed his society and protection, were greatly instrumental in connection with his sagacious diplomacy and honest decision, in transferring the affections and co-operations of the Indian tribes of the vast Northwest, from the French to the English crown. There is little doubt but that the British Government owed, in a great measure, to him its authority over the vast northwestern territory, a large portion of which, including Michigan, and the coterminous States, our countrymen subsequently obtained possession.

Nor was Colonel de Peyster remarkable only as a soldier and diplomatist, for he wielded a vigorous pen, and even shone in poetry, sufficiently so to merit a poetic notice from the celebrated Burns, with whom he broke a lance in verse.

Such was the nobleness of his character, that we cannot refrain, even at the risk of tautology, from quoting, in regard thereto, from the journals of the town in which he spent the closing years of his life, as well from corroborative chronicles :

“ Few men, it may be truly said, ever deserved better of his king and country, or combined in his own person a greater number of those qualities that constitute the character of the veteran warrior.

“ For more than three (four? in original) score years he held the Royal Commission, and in the course of his long and active career, commanded at Detroit, Michilimackinac, and other parts of Upper Canada, during the most stormy period of the American war, and among natives not only fierce and savage, but decidedly hostile to the British Government. Yet, by his prudence and foresight, by measures at once fitted to conciliate and overawe, by combining, in a word, the talents of the soldier and civilian, he completely succeeded in detaching the Indians from the French cause, and in this way contributed in no trifling degree to the safety and consolidation of the British transatlantic possessions.”

Nor was his humanity inferior to his other noble characteristics, for several American missionaries (among them the noted Heckewelder) owed their preservation from the Indian scalping-knife, tomahawk, and fires, to his prompt and energetic interposition.

His military supervision, and, in some respects, jurisdiction, extended over the wilderness which stretched from the Mississippi to the denser settlements along Lakes Erie and Ontario, and even to the Ottawa. His correspondence and orders embrace movements in districts now known as parts of the States of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and the coterminous territories. They breathe the ability and energy which characterized his dealings with his savage allies and dependents. But what is most remarkable in these documents are the reiterated commands and injunctions, impressed again and again upon his subordinates, enjoining upon them to provide for the humane treatment of the prisoners who may fall into the hands of the savages under their influence and leadership.

It would appear from his correspondence, that he enjoyed the entire confidence of his superiors, Major-General Hamilton and General Haldimand, Commander-in-Chief of his British Majesty's Forces in the Canadas, with whom he was co-operating for the defense of vast regions, much of which have since prospered, and grown rich and strong under our flag.

He also served in various other parts of North America under his uncle, the celebrated Colonel Peter Schuyler, and after being promoted to the rank of colonel, and commanding for many years the Eighth or King's Regiment of foot at different stations, among others the garrison of Plymouth at the close of the reign of George III., he retired to Dumfries, his wife's native town.

“ At the stormy period of the French revolution,” his “ zeal and talents ” were again called into exercise in the embodying and training of the first regiment of Dumfries Volunteers. On this occasion his military ardor completely revived, and so successfully did he labor in his vocation, that in the course of a very few months his associates-in-arms displayed nearly all the steadiness and precision of a regiment of the line, a fact which deserved to be recorded, as equally honorable to the men, who so eagerly rallied round what they believed to be the standard of order, and the veteran commander, who at once extended to them the benefits of his own experience, and animated them with a portion of his own spirit. Of this corps the poet, Burns, was an original member; and it is said, "that the private and field officer (the latter of whom had a great fondness for literature and a ready talent at versification) engaged, unknown to each other, in a poetical controversy, which was conducted with considerable spirit through the medium of the Dumfries Journal." One of Burns' fugitive pieces (Dumfries, 1796) is addressed to his friend, Colonel de Peyster. We quote the first of these sparkling verses, which breathes the kindly feeling entertained for the veteran :

" My honor'd Colonel, deep I feel
Your int'rest in the poet's weal ;
Ah ! how sma' heart ha'e I to speel
The steep Parnassus,
Surrounded thus by bolus pill
And potion glasses."

Besides his fugitive poetical efforts, Colonel de Peyster left behind him a rare volume of miscellanies, in which he recorded the reminiscences of his services in the Northwest, from 1774 to 1779, which contains vast funds of information in regard to the early history of those regions before the tide of immigration and the lights of commerce had replaced the roving Indian tribes and the darkness of their savage life.

On his decease "the officers of the regiment resumed the habiliments so long laid aside, while a party of the privates carried his body to the grave, supported by the Staff of the Dumfriesshire Militia." The obsequies are thus narrated in the London Star of December 6th, 1822 :

"On Monday the remains of this wonderful old gentleman were interred in St. Michael's church-yard, Dumfries, in presence, we believe, of a greater crowd than ever entered or surrounded the walls of the same place since the funeral of Robert Burns. Colonel de Peyster, at the time of his demise, was probably the oldest officer in His Majesty's service. As fitted the occasion, the gallant old veteran was interred with military honors; the Staff of the Dumfriesshire Militia attending, as well as a numerous body of the officers and men of a retired volunteer corps (of which Burns was an original member), who one and all seemed anxious to pay this mark of respect to the memory of their revered commander.

"Among the other mourners appeared most of the county gentlemen, and at their head the Most Noble the Marquis of Queensbury.

"As the funeral passed along, every window was filled with spectators; and, indeed, among high and low, we have never seen the sympathy of the public more universally excited. The deceased belonged to the Church of England, and the service was most beautifully and impressively read by the Rev. Mr. Babington."

"In his person, Colonel de Peyster was tall, soldier-like, and commanding; in his manners, easy, affable, and open; in his affections, warm, generous, and sincere; in his principles, and particularly his political principles, firm, even to inflexibility. No man, we believe, ever possessed more of the principles of vitality. Old age, which had silvered his hair and furrowed his cheeks, appeared to make no impression on his inner-man; and those who knew him best declare that up to the period of his illness, his mind appeared as active and his intellect as vigorous as they were fifty years ago. When the weather permitted, he still took his accustomed exercise, and walked round the billiard-table or bestrode his gigantic charger, apparently with as little difficulty as a man of middle age. When so mounted, we have often fancied we beheld him the last connecting link between the old and new school of military men."

His nephew, namesake, protege, and intended heir, one of our first American circumnavigators, who figured last in public as President of the Relief Fire Insurance Company in this city, was a veritable rover by sea and shore. In the course of his various wanderings, he sailed twice around the world, doubled the Cape of Good Hope fifteen times, visited most of the Polynesian Islands, and in a passage from the western coast of America to Calcutta, discovered the group of islands bearing his name—the De Peyster or Peyster Islands.

This gentleman has in his possession an elegant testimonial subscribed for by the merchants in the trade centred at Michilimackinac, as a token of their grateful appreciation of his uncle's efforts to protect and prosper commerce, and consolidate the English ascendancy in those regions. The funds collected were transmitted to England, and a service of plate prepared, which never reached the hands for which it was intended. One article, a Punch Bowl, described hereinafter, came finally by accident into the possession of the Colonel's nephew and namesake, after a series of transfers and mishaps, whose narration were the semblance of fiction.

By the time the silver was shipped, the Revolutionary War was raging throughout the Thirteen Colonies, and the Atlantic ocean swarmed with American privateers. One of these, belonging to Salem, Mass., captured the vessel which had the silver on board. For some years the prize service remained in the family of the privateer's owner, and in the lapse of time was distributed into different hands. Finally, the Punch Bowl was sent on to New York to be sold, and through the courteous interposition of a well-known citizen, Captain de Peyster was enabled to purchase it. In the course of its wanderings the cover was lost, which is the more to be regretted as it would have not only added to the symmetry of the bowl but must have possessed great elegance in itself, if as elaborately finished as the rest of the testimonial. This beautiful punch bowl stands about fifteen inches high from the bottom of the base to the edge of the brim, which is nearly fifty inches in circumference. Its cost is said to have been a hundred guineas, a large sum of money for such an article three quarters of a century ago. As a piece of workmanship, such a specimen of the silversmith's art is seldom seen in show-cases of the craft at the present day. It unites grace, solidity, and exquisite finish, and bears the following inscription :

“ Je me souviens Tortue en voyant ton image.”

We conclude this article with the following interesting note from a discourse delivered in August, 1856, by Rev. Dr. Thomas De Witt, senior minister of the Reformed Dutch Church in this city ; referring to the bell which hung on the Old Middle Dutch Church, on Nassau street, a few years since converted into the present City Post Office :

THE BELL ON THE OLD MIDDLE CHURCH.

This bell was presented to the church by Col. Abraham de Peyster, a prominent citizen of New York, and an influential member of the Reformed Dutch Church. He died in 1728, while the church was in the process of being built, and directed in his will that a bell should be procured at his expense from Holland for the new edifice. It was made at Amsterdam in 1731, and it is said that a number of citizens of that place cast in quantities of silver coin in the preparation of the bell metal. The following is the inscription on the bell.

Me fecerunt De Grave et N. Muller, Amsterdam, Anno 1731.

* The signification of the Indian word, Michilimackinac, is a tortoise, or, rather, the “Big Turtle,” referring, it is said, to the shape of the island. It was also the totem or device of the tribe in that locality. It is remarkable that the shield of one of the Counts de Pester (Peijster), according to Goethal's Dictionnaire des Familles Nobles de Belgique, displays the same effigy.

Abraham De Peyster, geboren (born) den 8 July, 1657, gestorven (died) den 8 Augustus, 1728.

Een legaat aan de Nederduytsche Kerke Nieuw York.

(A legacy to the Low Dutch Church at New York.)

This bell continued with the church in Nassau street till it was closed in 1844 for religious uses, and leased to the United States Government for the City Post Office. It was then removed to the church on Ninth street near Broadway, where it remained till 1855, when that church was relinquished to a new and distinct church organization. It was then placed on the church on Lafayette place, where it will remain sounding its silver tones which have been rung in this city for more than a century and a quarter.

John Oothout, Esq., of this city, states an interesting fact in relation to this bell. He remarks, in a letter to Frederic de Peyster, Esq., that early in the Revolutionary War, when the British converted the Middle Church into a riding-school for their dragoons by removing the pulpit, gallery, pews, and flooring, HIS FATHER obtained from the commander-in-chief, Lord Howe, permission to take down the bell. This he stored in a secure and secret place, where it remained some years after the British army evacuated the city. When the church was repaired and reopened, he brought forth the old bell from its hiding-place, and restored it to its rightful position.

THE CAPTURE OF THE CITY OF NEW AMSTERDAM BY THE ENGLISH.

THE graphic picture of the progress of events which resulted in the subjugation of the Dutch authority in this city, and the denationalization of the descendants of those enterprising, frugal, and industrious burghers who had settled the wilderness of Manhattan Island, turned its wilds into fruitful plantations, built up a thriving village, to which, in fond anticipation of its future growth and importance, they had given the happy cognomen of "the city of New Amsterdam;" who had, in short, upreared a prosperous civilized community upon the soil of the savage—cannot be better exhibited than by following the course of our city magistrates from the first rumor of the fell design until its final consummation, and the settling down of the community under their new rulers.

Meeting of Burgomasters and Schepens :

The Honorable President proposes that whereas the rumor prevails that the frigates which have arrived at Boston will come here, should which happen, and Burgomasters be sent for to the fort by the Right Honorable Director-General and Council, what shall be done and concluded if the time does not admit the calling of a meeting the Burgomasters and Schepens.

Whereunto it was agreed to await the time, in order to hear what demonstration the frigates will show, and regulate themselves afterwards accordingly.

It was also resolved by the Court to demand twenty-five negroes from the Right Honorable Director-General and Council for the space of eight days, to labor at the city's works, which are to commence the next coming week.

Monday, 26th August, 1664.

Meeting of Burgomasters and Schepens :

At this conjuncture of time and current rumors, the Board in actual session decrees and resolves—

First, That one-third of the inhabitants (as well residents as citizens) of this city, without any exception, shall appear in person or put another in each one's place, furnished with a shovel, spade, or wheelbarrow, to labor every third day at the city's works, on a penalty of six guilders.

Second, That the guard shall be kept, and parade held by a whole company, which shall commence this day, and that the drum shall be beaten at five o'clock in the afternoon.

Third, That every one who mounts guard shall receive one pound of powder and a pound and a half of lead.

Fourth, That the brewers shall not malt any hard grain during eight days, nor brew beer higher than twelve guilders the tun.

And further, To demand the following by form of petition from the Right Honorable the Lord Director-General and Council :

“Whereas we are of a certainty informed that four frigates have arrived from old England at Boston or thereabouts, in New England, provided with a considerable number of soldiers, with intention, as reports run, to attack and invade this place and the adjoining districts, especially on Long Island, and are even on the way to come here, which requires that this place be put in proper defence. Your honour’s humble petitioners find themselves therefore necessitated to apply to your honors, requesting that your honors would be pleased to favor this place with eight pieces of good and heavy cannon, with their carriages, balls, swabs, brushes, picks, and spoons, which being granted by your honors, they further say that, this place being then provided with twenty-two pieces of artillery, they require for each piece fifty pounds of powder, amounting in all to 1,100 pounds, and ball in proportion; also 600 pounds of lead for bullets, to be used by the burghers for their guns. And whereas it is to be feared that this city will have to bear the first attack before the fort is assaulted, it is therefore necessary to demand a greater number of people than the citizens can turn out, and as we have resolved that a company of citizens shall keep guard every night, we request that the same be strengthened by soldiers and the company’s servants, and that the day watch shall be kept by soldiers at both the city gates; and in case of being besieged or attacked, we require that all the soldiers and company’s servants shall repair with the citizens to the city walls, as if the city be lost, the fort is not tenable or very little so: and if it happens that in skirmishing any citizens should require powder, they shall have free access to the company, to be furnished there.

“On which very fair, and not less necessary request, they await your honors’ disposition, and remain, &c.”

ANSWER TO THE FOREGOING BY THE DIRECTOR-GENERAL AND COUNCIL.

“The proper fortifying this place is not only granted to the petitioners, but is also earnestly recommended. In order to the speedy and effectual execution of which, the Director-General and Council have already contributed the aid of the company’s negroes; and they this day further grant the assistance of a corporal’s guard of soldiers, and will assist in other respects with all possible might and means.

“As regards the request for some fit and heavy guns, in addition to the fourteen pieces previously delivered to the city, six pieces are allowed, with powder and ball necessary thereunto, to wit, 1,000 pounds of powder, and six hundred pounds of lead.

“As to the aid of the company’s military to assist the citizens in defending the city (which is considered absolutely necessary), they promise such assistance, and a suitable order shall be issued therefor; and it is allowed for the present that one-half of the company's people shall watch with the citizens, both by night and day, so long as the citizens are engaged at labor on the works.

MEETING OF THE BURGOMASTERS AND SCHEPENS.

The bakers being sent for, to learn how much grain they have on hand at present, the following appear and report as follows:

Cornelius Pluvier.....	60 Schepels.
Renier Willemsen.....	200 "
Lawrens Vanderspeigle.....	60 "
Jacob Tunizen Kay.....	500 "
Anthony Demilt.....	50 "
Jan Gerrisen Van Buytenhuysen.....	25 "
Thomas Lauwrens.....	80 "

Meeting of Burgomasters and Schepens:

William Willemsen and Thomas Verdon, inhabitants of Gouwanus, appear and complain of great injury inflicted on them by some English, about twenty persons in number, from one of the ships lying in the bay.

William Willemsen declares that they took away his powder, lead, and gun; also the stockings and shoes from his feet, six or seven pounds of roll tobacco just spun, a young hog, a red under-waistcoat; that they struck Verdon's wife during his absence, with a hanger, inflicting a blood-wound on her arm, because she sought to prevent them taking any property with them. They also took the goods out of his chest and strewed them on the floor, keeping watch meanwhile at the door, to prevent him going to call the neighbors; and when they missed him (he having climbed out through a back window), they departed.

14th October, 1664.

Several of the principal citizens appeared at the City Hall, having been sent for by the Burgomasters and Schepens. The Burgomasters informed them that Governor Nicolls had, the evening previous, given notice that he should appear in person to administer an oath of allegiance, and for that purpose he required the attendance of the magistrates, and some of the principal citizens.

Soon after Governor Nicolls arrived with his secretary, and made inquiry where were the Hon. Petrus Stuyvesant, Secretary Van Ruyven, and the Preachers? To which answer was made, that it was not known they should have been sent for. The Hon. Gov. Nicolls said, in reply, they should be sent for; and said persons being invited, they came immediately.

Gov. Nicolls then requested of the persons present to take the following oath:

I swear by the name of Almighty God, that I will be a true subject of the King of Great Britain, and will obey all such commands as I shall receive from his Majesty, his Royal Highness, James, Duke of York, and such governors and officers as from time to time may be appointed over me by his authority, and none other, whilst I live in any of his Majesty's territories, so help me God.

The preceding oath being read to the meeting by the Hon. Governor Nicolls, divers debates occurred thereupon by some of the assembly.

Finally, all the meeting roundly declared that they could not take such oath, unless the Hon. Nicolls should please to add to the said oath, "conformable to the articles concluded on the surrender of this place," as they feared by taking such oath, they might nullify or render void the articles.

Then Domine Mesapolensis (the Dutch clergyman), and Secretary Van Ruyven, stated that they saw no impediment to taking such oath, nevertheless, divers words occurred, over and hither, thereupon; after which the Governor Richard Nicolls finally departed with his secretary, from the meeting.

The assembly then also adjourned.

On the Tuesday following, the Burgomasters went with the Treasurer's book of the City accounts to the Hon. Governor Richard Nicolls, and placed the same in his hands, together with the bonds given to the City by the late Director-General and Council. After which divers debates arose on both sides, in presence of Colonel Cartwright and Mr. Thomas Willet, regarding the oath, and then the Governor said that the commonalty were greatly distracted by some. The Burgomasters thereupon declared that they had no knowledge thereof, and persisted again that they could not take the oath until thereto it was added, "conformable to the articles concluded at the surrender of this place," whereupon the Hon. Governor Nicolls exhibited and delivered to the Burgomasters the following writing:

"Whereas there is a false and injurious aspersion cast upon the oath of obedience to his Majesty, his Royal Highness the Duke of York, and the Governor and officers appointed by his Majesty's authority, and that some persons have maliciously sought to distract the minds of the inhabitants of New York, by suggesting that the articles of peace so lately and solemnly signed and sealed, were intended by that oath to be made null and of no effect. To the end that such wicked practices may not take the effect for which they are designed, and that all now under his Majesty's obedience, as denizens of this town, may be undeceived and not give any longer credit to the disturbers of the peace of this government, I do think it fit to declare that the Articles of Surrender are not in the least broken or intended to be broken, by any words or expressions on the said oath, and if any person or persons shall hereafter presume to give any other construction of the said oath, then I hereby declare that I shall account him or them disturbers of the peace of his Majesty's subjects, and proceed accordingly.

"I do further appoint and order that this declaration be forthwith read to all the inhabitants, and registered; as also that every denizen under my government do take the said oath, who intend to remain here under his Majesty's obedience.

"Given under my hand the 18th day of October, in the year of our Lord God 1664.

(Signed)

"RICHARD NICOLLS."

On the 20th October, 1664, were assembled in the City Hall several of the principal citizens.

The proceedings which took place as well on the 14th of October as afterwards, and the writing of the Hon. Governor Nicolls being read to the meeting, it was asked whether the aforesaid oath could not be taken, inasmuch as the Hon. Nicolls stated in writing that the articles of the surrender of this place are not broken in the least nor intended to be broken; whereupon it was unanimously resolved in the affirmative, provided the said Gov. Nicolls should seal his said writing. Then the Heer Tonneman (one of the citizens present), said that he could not give his advice thereon, as he intended to depart for Holland in the ship lying ready to sail.

COPY OF A LETTER WRITTEN "TO HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS JAMES, DUKE OF YORK, BY THE GRACE OF GOD, OUR MOST GRACIOUS LORD: HEALTH."

"It has pleased God to bring us under your Royal Highness's obedience, wherein we promise to conduct ourselves as good subjects are bound to do, deeming ourselves fortunate that your Highness has provided us with so gentle, wise, and intelligent a gentlemen as governor as the Hon. Hr. Colonel Nicolls, confident and assured that under the wings of this valiant gentleman we shall bloom and grow like the cedar on Lebanon, especially, because we are assured of his Royal Highness's excellent graciousness and care for his subjects and people.

"The Schout, Burgomasters, and Schepens of the city of New York, on the island of Manhattan, your Royal Highness's faithful subjects and humble liegemen, hereby request that his Highness would be pleased to benefit and favor this place with the same rights and privileges that his Majesty, our king and most gracious lord, is conferring on all his subjects in England: that is, that ships of all nations may come and bring into England the products of their own country, and may sail therefrom back again free and without impost, on condition of paying the king's duty; but, inasmuch as this place has been for some years impoverished by onerous recognitions which we have been heretofore obliged to pay, we, therefore, through regard for this our country, and for the prosperity of his Highness's, our most gracious lord's, lands in this province, and not only for our, your Royal Highness's humble loyal subjects' eternal praise, but also as a general renown for his Royal Highness throughout all Christendom, pray that no more be paid here for five or six years than ships and goods pay which come from other places out of England, or even from England to Boston or any places in New England, or else go to their own countries, which being so long free from all burthens, or at least paying but few, we doubt not but his Royal Highness will, at the close of those years, learn with hearty delight the advancement of this province even to a place from which your Highness shall come to derive great revenues, being then peopled with thousands of families and having great trade by sea with New England, and other places in Europe, Africa, and America. And, in order that everything be taken in hand with greater pleasure, zeal, and courage, we respectfully request that all privileges and prerogatives which his Royal Highness may please to grant this place, in addition to those referred to and conditioned in the capitulation on the surrender of this place, may be made known by letters patent from his Royal Highness, and his Majesty of Great Britain, our Lord, not only in the United Provinces but also in France, Spain, and the Hause, and other Eastern places.

"Praying then his Royal Highness to be pleased to take our interest and the welfare of this country into serious consideration; and if his Royal Highness would vouchsafe to write a letter to us, his dutiful subjects, he will oblige us more and more to pray for his Royal Highness, our most gracious Lord, that God, the Lord, may spare your Highness in long continued health and prosperity.

"We remain, your Royal Highness's dutiful subjects, Schout, Burgomasters, and Schepens of this city.

"Signed by order of the magistrates, Johannes Nevius, Secretary. Dated November 22d, 1664, and sealed with the great seal of the city, impressed on red wax. Approved in the Session of Magistrates, Nov. 24, 1664."

February 2d, 1665.

At a meeting of the Schout, Burgomasters, and Schepens:

As in the articles of capitulation it was reserved to the city to select the succeeding magistrates, the Board proceeded to name their successors, which being reported to Governor Nicolls, and he being asked if he had any objection to the persons named, he answered: No. Thereupon the persons selected were sent for, and being come to the City Hall, after congratulations and ringing of the bell three times, they were announced to the Commonalty and took the oath:

"You do swear by the everliving God, that according to your best power and skill in your places, you will do right and justice to all persons, and in all cases wherein you shall act by virtue of your offices, and demean yourselves in your places according to the good and wholesome laws which are or shall be ordained by virtue of his Majesty's commission to his Royal Highness the Duke of York, within this government and city of New York; So help you God."

Wednesday, March 29th, 1665.

At a meeting of the Schout, Burgomasters, and Schepens:

The Heer, President of the Burgomasters and Schepens, states that he went yesterday in company with Burgomaster Van Cortland to the Hon. Governor Nicolls's, and that his Honor represented that as the soldiers were not boarded nor their washing done, nor had pot or kettle to cook for themselves, it was therefore necessary to quarter the soldiers in the burghers' houses. Saying further that he should furnish weekly to each soldier four pounds of meat, a pound and a half of pork, three pounds of peas, and seven pounds of bread, and that those on whom the soldiers should be quartered, should for each soldier be paid weekly two guilders lodging-money, which should be paid by Burgomasters. In consideration of which the City should have in addition to the great excise, the income of the scales and of the Ferry. Eighty soldiers should be quartered two-and-two in a house. The President of the Board therefore requested each member to give his opinion thereon.

Whereupon the Board advise, and it is resolved that some of the citizens be seen, to endeavor to have them consent thereto.

It is further resolved to send word the Honorable Hr. Nicolls to acquaint his honor that the Burgomasters and Schepens are assembled and to request his honor to be pleased to come to the meeting.

The officer despatched with this message returning reports that his honor is not yet dressed, and requests that the Burgomasters and Schepens would please come to him.

Friday, March 31st, 1665, P. M.

At a meeting of the Burgomasters and Schepens:

Divers burghers and inhabitants having been invited to appear at the City Hall this day, those whose names are hereafter mentioned appeared; to whom the President of the Burgomasters and Schepens made known, that the Honorable Governor Nicolls has resolved, in consequence of the soldiers having committed in the city great insults and insolences towards divers of the inhabitants, and still continued so to do, and inasmuch as they live together and have neither washing nor board nor cooking done for them, and think of nothing but how to commit disturbance; it therefore is deemed necessary for the peace of the inhabitants to quarter the soldiers on the residents, in order to prevent further insolences and insults. The President further stated that the Governor promised to give weekly four pounds of meat, a pound and a half of pork, three pounds of peas, and seven pounds of bread; and whenever any troubles happen, or any person suffer any damage or imposition, the Honorable Governor promises to make good the same, and charge the damage to the soldiers who are billeted in the house where the damage occurs, for not having prevented or endeavored to prevent it. Those who receive such soldiers are to receive their lodging-money every week.

The President therefore asks those in attendance who of them are willing to take in any soldiers, and then an agreement shall be made with them about the lodging-money.

Thursday, 6th April, 1665.

At a meeting of the Schout, Burgomasters, and Schepens :

The Heer President states that himself and Burgomaster Van Cortland were at noon in the fort with the Honorable Governor Nicolls, and that his honor accused them with sloth, in regard that they had not done their duty in quartering the soldiers in the citizens' houses, saying further, that if they had not sufficient authority, he would give it to them, and he would hear them once more on the subject this evening, and should send for them for that purpose. And they therefore desire to know what is best to be done in the matter.

Whereupon it was unanimously resolved and concluded by the Board, that inasmuch as it is a serious matter, the Governor should be requested to postpone the subject till to-morrow, in order in the meantime to consult the old Burgomasters and Schepens, as well as some of the principal citizens, and ask their advice.

Friday, 7th April, 1665.

At a meeting of the Schout, Burgomasters and Schepens :

Bartholdus Maan, entering, complains that on the 5th of April two soldiers struck him on the head. He further complains, that though the Honorable Governor Nicolls forbade him to tap for the soldiers, he is nevertheless obliged to do so, for the soldiers force him to it by besetting i door armed with clubs. He further says, that the soldiers have accused him of presenting a pistol at them to shoot them, which is untrue, for they took his pistol from his bed and attempted to carry it away, but he got it again outside his door. He further says, that yesterday, two soldiers were at his house who asked for a can of wine, which he tapped for them, and whilst he was tapping, they put their hands on his wife's belly, whereupon he told them that was not manners, and Willem Bogardus being present fell into a quarrel with one of the soldiers, and they got to fisticuffs; meanwhile the other soldier went from the house and brought back ten others, who came in with naked swords, striking all within their reach, giving him, and also Daniel Verveelen, a cut. And that the same night after the rounds had passed, they smashed his windows in pieces, as indeed they had done previously.

At this meeting, the old Burgomasters, and Schepens, and also some of the principal citizens were present, to whom the President stated that the Honorable Governor Nicolls had concluded, in order to prevent all the insolences and disturbances committed by the soldiers, to quarter the soldiers on the citizens, and that his honor pledged himself that the houses in which the soldiers should be quartered, should be protected from all dangers, as the soldier or soldiers therein should keep the premises safe from disturbance, and further that the soldiers shall every week be rationed with four pounds of meat, a pound and a half of pork, three pints of peas, and seven pounds of bread. They are therefore asked if they are inclined to lodge one or two apiece, whereupon they unanimously excuse themselves, and say they would rather contribute than receive the soldiers into their houses.

The Right Honorable Governor Nicolls, then appearing at the meeting, was informed of the resolution of the assembly, and those present were then once more asked, in the presence of Governor Nicolls, if they would receive and lodge the soldiers, or what they meant to do. Whereupon they adhered to their resolution, viz. : that they would rather contribute than lodge the soldiers, and then the old Burgomasters, and Schepens, and the citizens withdrew.

After such withdrawal, Governor Nicolls handed the following writing to the Burgomasters and Schepens assembled, asking, at the same time, if the Board was complete, to which it was answered there were two absent, namely, Jacob Kip and Jacques Cosseau, who were sent for :

(COPY.)

"These are to strictly charge and require you that you give me a list of such houses as are capable to lodge the number of a hundred soldiers, and so to distribute them that not above two may be lodged in any one house. With respect to those conditions which I formerly made for easing the inhabitants by making a good allowance of provisions to the soldiers out of my stores ; for so doing this shall be to you a sufficient order and discharge.

"Given under my hand and seal, this 7th April, at the City Hall, to the Schout, Burgomasters, and Schepens of New York.

"R. NICOLLS."

The Burgomasters and Schepens having read the writing, state that the commonalty dread receiving the soldiers, having witnessed the insolence they at present commit.

Wednesday, 19th April, 1665.

At a meeting of the Schout, Burgomasters, and Schepens :

The President states that, whereas the Hon. Governor Nicolls hath, in writing, ordered the Burgomasters and Schepens to quarter one hundred soldiers on the burghers and inhabitants of this city, and promises to pay weekly in lodging money for each soldier the sum of three guilders ($1.20), in seawant currency, or goods equivalent, besides their weekly rations; in answer to which the Burgomasters and Schepens expressed their assent thereto, but found no one disposed to receive them unless two guilders (80 cents) were added to the amount for each soldier. Quarters had thereupon been provided at that rate, for the said one hundred soldiers, and information thereof had been given to Governor Nicolls with a list of the places at which the soldiers would be quartered. Governor Nicolls had given this list to Captain Delavall and Captain Salisbury, with orders to inspect those places, and ascertain if they were suitable for the accommodation of the soldiers. After their inspection, they had made report to the Governor, in which they approved of all except fifteen, which wanted double bedding and pillows for two persons. The Burgomasters and Schepens had thereupon supplied those articles, and they were delivered over on the 18th of this month, by order of the Governor, to Captain Salisbury. And, whereas the Governor is about to depart for Boston, which he expects to do in three or four days, his honor had thought fit to suspend the quartering until his return, so that no difficulty may arise between the burghers and soldiers during his absence, on condition that the Burgomasters and Schepens should pay now to the soldiers the two guilders per week in lieu of the lodgings they had engaged to pay; and, whereas many citizens had expressed their desire to contribute rather than lodge the soldiers, the Burgomasters and Schepens having seriously considered the subject, have resolved to accept the proposition of the Governor, believing it to be best for the community.

They therefore resolve that a general assessment and contribution of what each citizen shall have to pay weekly for six weeks should be made, and have accordingly adopted the following list. From which assessment, if more than two hundred guilders shall be collected weekly for the soldiers, whatever the Burgomasters have heretofore disbursed to the former garrison of the city, shall be reimbursed.

This assessment list shows as follows :*

Jan Jelisen, the bell-ringer, is hereby authorized to go with one of the Court Messengers from house to house, with the assessment list, and collect the moneys from each for so much as he is assessed.

He was further ordered to prepare both notes and strings of wampum of two guilders to two hundred guilders, and deliver them to the Treasurer. He shall not receive any sum without counting it, as he must be responsible for the moneys, for the counting of which he shall get ten guilders per week.

May 2d, 1665.

At a meeting of the Burgomasters and Schepens, Pieter Wolfersen Van Couwenhoven, and with him divers other persons, entering the court-room, were informed of the resolution and decision of the Heer Governor Nicolls, and that for the good of the place an assessment-list had been made, containing the sum to be given per week by each citizen during the absence of the Governor, which was expected to be at least six weeks—which had been done so that the soldiers might not be quartered in the burghers' houses—and as the persons present had been found unwilling to contribute the same, they were asked the reason of their refusal; to which it was answered, that the money was not properly expended, and the soldiers continued their indolence the same as before. They also objected that the assessment was unjust, as some were taxed higher in proportion than others.

The Board having explained the matter in a friendly way to those present, and informed them that it should not continue more than six weeks, they consent to pay their assessment as it stands.

There also appear some women, to whom a similar explanation is given, and after some reasons given on both sides, they were permitted to contribute according to their ability.

On the same day, the Heer Petrus Stuyvesant appeared at the meeting, and stated that he was about shortly to visit the Fatherland, and desired to wish the Burgomasters and Schepens all good luck and happiness. The same friendly wish was returned by the magistrates, and it was hoped he might settle and arrange his affairs in Fatherland to his satisfaction. The Heer Stuyvesant requested, if the Burgomasters and Schepens thought proper, that they would accord him a certificate of his comportment, which might avail him or his children some day; and after the matter was considered by the magistrates, they indite the following:

"We, the undersigned, Schout, Burgomasters, and Schepens of the city of New York, on the Island of Manhattan, formerly named New Amsterdam, certify and declare at the request of the Hon. Petrus Stuyvesant, late Director-General of New Netherland, and who now, on the change of government by the English, is about to return to Fatherland, that his honor hath during about eighteen years' administration, conducted and demeaned himself, not only as a Director-General, as according to the best of our knowledge he ought to do, on all occasions, for the best interest of the West India Company, but besides as an honest proprietor and patriot of this province, and as a supporter of the Reformed religion.

"Thus done and executed at our Court in the City Hall, May 2d, old style, 1665. In New York, on Manhattan's Island."

TRINITY CHURCH-YARD.

BY THE HON. FRANCIS R. TILLOU.

The abode of the dead is holy : it cannot be contemplated without emotion ; it cannot be looked upon without a sentiment of awe and reverence. It demonstrates the destiny in this world of all humanity. It presents a cold, stern, solemn reality, and in a still, small, and eloquent voice, conveys to the mind a full sense of the true value and positive uncertainty of all things here.

Few, if any, of the cemeteries in this country are more interesting than that of Trinity church-yard.

The first burial-place in this city was on the west side of Broadway, near Morris street, comprising four lots of 25 by 100 feet. That was broken up in 1676, on which the north part of Trinity church-yard was substituted. The church was originally erected in 1696, and in 1697 it was incorporated and declared the parish church, and the whole yard granted to it as the parish church-yard. Until the cessation of burials in the city generally the yard was employed as a cemetery, and multitudes of the past generations of our inhabitants, of all ages and of all conditions, have been there interred ; and now there is not one of the old families of the city that has not some relative, connection, or friend abiding in that sacred repository.

Most, if not nearly all, of the monuments and headstones first put there, have perished or become essentially delapidated by the lapse of time ; as to vast numbers, all memorials have past away—none now living remembers them ; as to others, in some instances, the monuments remain and are legible, and a surviving friend or relative may, by tradition or recollection, hold them in memory ; and some eminent persons, distinguished in their generation for great virtues, great services or talents, or noble actions, or other cause of renown, they, from special causes, have become part of history, and will not, probably, ever be forgotten.

Numerous are the episodes of the past which belong to the silent tenants who there repose. Included in its contents are the remains of those noble men who, in the sublime struggle of the Revolution, suffered every privation and cruelty, and died in the Sugar House Prison.

Abiding there also are the remains of General Lamb, Colonel Willett, Judge Laurence, and General Hamilton, besides others of those heroic men who devoted all their powers and energies to that great cause. What true-hearted American can look on the monuments of those faithful and brave men without a strong sense of admiration—a warm sense of gratitude for their patriotism ?

In that yard lie also the remains of William Bradford, said to have been the first publisher and editor of a newspaper in the city.* Who, in times gone by, has not read the story of Charlotte Temple ? The lady to whom that tale applies, for it was a tale of truth, also lies there. The heroes of the last war, Captain Lawrence and Lieutenant Ludlow, of the Chesapeake, are also buried there.

Included, also, in that holy ground, are the remains of Robert Leake, and those of his son, John George Leake; the former noted for the singular vicissitudes and events of his life, and for his integrity, bravery, and fidelity. The latter distinguished for his many eminent virtues, and purity of mind, a large share of whose wealth was applied to, and endowed "The Leake and Watts Asylum," now one of the benevolent institutions of the city.

Robert Leake* was born in the latter part of the year 1700, in the parish of Calder, in Lannarkshire, in Scotland, of respectable parents, and received a good education.

About the year 1739, he enlisted in the King's regiment of Horse guards. He was a gentleman, for none below that rank were admitted in the corps; as such he was entered on the muster-roll. He was in the King's service for many years afterwards. In the campaign of 1743 he was in the battle of Dettingen; he was wounded in the battle, he had his horse shot under him. The horse, in falling, fell upon him, and one of his legs was broken. In a disabled condition he returned home and became an outdoor pensioner of Chelsea Hospital. In 1744 he resided at Castleton,† near Glasgow, and in 1745, while he resided there, the rebellion in favor of Prince Charles Stewart broke out.

Robert Leake, having then sufficiently recovered, joined the forces of King George, and received the commission of Second Lieutenant in one of the volunteer companies then organized in that part of Scotland.

The events of that rebellion, are an interesting though sanguinary chapter of British history. Many brave and distinguished men fell in the conflict; many suffered an ignominious death. To the honor of the Scots, it should be remembered, that although an immense reward was offered for the capture of Prince Charles, after he became a fugitive, not one could be tempted to betray him. The devotion of Flora Mac Donald, and her trials and successful efforts to save him, present an instance of unwavering loyalty and fidelity worthy of all admiration.

Robert Leake went through that service with honor. He was in the battle of Culloden, and in that terrific struggle performed his duty gallantly. In 1746, as a reward for his services, on the discharge of the volunteers, he received the appointment of Commissary-General in the army in North America and went to Cape Breton.

It was about this time, as is supposed, that he first married, for his first child, Margueretta, was baptized on March 7th, 1747. He returned from Cape Breton about June, 1748.

*See the report of the Committee of the Assembly on petition of James Hay, on February 1, 1859, Doc. 151.

† Castleton.

In 1754 he was appointed Commissary-General to the Forces under General Edward Braddock. He came again to America, and shared in that unfortunate enterprise. He retained his commission for many years afterwards. He adopted the city of New York as his place of residence, and there resided until his death. He died in this city on December 28, 1773, aged 73 years, and was buried in the Trinity church-yard.

His first wife, named Margueretta, died in England in 1754. He subsequently, in this city, married Ann Borrege, a connection of Mr. John Leake, of the Hermitage, a property which was on the west side of the island, west of what now is the Seventh avenue, and included a part of Forty-second street. This land afterwards became the property of John Leake Norton. Mr. John Leake was no relation of Robert Leake.

The second wife of Robert Leake survived him. She died in 1783, and was buried in the same vault in which he reposed. He had only two brothers and one sister. Both his brothers died without issue. His brother James was killed at the battle of Fontenoy; his brother Matthew was killed in the war in America.

His sister Helen married in Scotland James Martin, and had several children, one of whom, a daughter, married John Hay, and died in 1792, leaving children, one of whom was John Hay, Junior. He married, and in 1812 died. He also left children, one of whom is James Hay, the only descendant of Helen Martin who is a citizen of the United States.

At the time of his death, Robert Leake resided at the southwesterly corner of Nassau street and what was then called Fair street, and is now a portion of Fulton street. By his will, dated in 1772, it appears that he had houses, store-houses, offices and stables in this city; a farm at Belvue; two farms in New Jersey; an estate at Bidlington, in England; lands at Pittstown, in the county of Albany; a farm at Claverack; lands on the south side of the Mohawk river, near the German Flats; part of a tract, granted to William Bayard and others, in the county of Tryon; a right to lands in East Florida, and money in the Funds in England, besides furniture, carriages, horses, cattle, and sheep. His second wife, Ann Borrege, made her will, dated in 1783. The mass of both estates descended to John George Leake.

In the proofs which were taken, as mentioned in the sequel, Robert Leake is described as being, at the age of seventy, a stout and robust man, and, in others, that a short time before his death he was a hale, hearty-looking old man. He wore a silver plate upon the wound on his head, and limped in his gait. He wore the old-fashioned costume, somewhat military; he wore small-clothes, stockings, shoe and knee buckles, and the three-cornered hat.

He had children only by his first marriage. He had three children. Margueretta above named, who married William Fenwick, in England, and there died without issue. Robert William, who was a major in the British army, and who married the sister of John Watts, and died leaving one child, who died when about eight years old, and John George Leake.

By the letters and tokens which passed between these children, their parents and relatives, and yet extant, it is manifest that they were persons of refinement, education, and intelligence; sincerely attached to each other.

Robert Leake was a brave, faithful and kind-hearted man; a man of integrity and honor. Elizabeth Muir (the widow Mac Donald), when 107 years old, in her deposition, stated, "that he behaved so well and became so great that he mounted to the highest rank next most to the king. He was sae muckle respected, and became sae rich." The memorial which for a generation after him existed of him, proves that he was a charitable, an affectionate, and a good man.

The life of Robert Leake was one of uncommon variety and importance of event. He lived in an age of special events. He was a member of the favorite corps of the British nation. He was in the celebrated battle of Dettingen; in the bloody one of Culloden, and in the disastrous one in which General Braddock fell (in the battle in which that great and good man, General Washington, first put forth his powers of wisdom, bravery, and humanity). He was industrious, frugal, and orderly; well educated and of sound principles. He passed to the grave with honor.

John George Leake, the son of Robert Leake, the commissary, was born in England in 1767, and came to this city when about fifteen years old. He survived his brothers and sister. He inherited his father's estate, and the most of that of his step-mother, Ann Burrige. When a young man he studied law with James Duane, once the mayor of this city. John Watts, whose sister married the brother of John George Leake, was his fellow-student.

He practised law very little after his admission to the bar; his income being more than enough for his wants. He never married. At the time of the death of his step-mother, he resided at the corner of Nassau and Fair streets. He resided afterwards at No. 5 Fair street,* in Greenwich street, and for many years previous to and at the time of his death at Park Row. He died at his residence in Park Row on the evening of Saturday, the 2d of June, 1827, at an advanced age. He died suddenly.

During most of his life, after he attained manhood, he appears to have preferred seclusion; mingled very little with society; visited very little; was esteemed as a man of great modesty, urbanity, and kindness. Was unobtrusive and reserved; not social though really affectionate. His step-mother in her will, speaks of "his dutiful and affectionate care and attention to her."

He is said to have been a man of pious thoughts and disposition.

He kept no bank account, but employed a banker, and employed an agent to manage his real estate. He had in his service two colored men:

* See Frank's Directory of 1787.

one, a slave, to whom, by his will, he gave freedom, and another, a free-man, who was his body-servant. His valuable papers he kept in an iron chest in a small room in his house, near his sitting-room, and employed himself frequently in overlooking them. He was a man of great quietness and gentleness, and very benevolent.

He was buried in the same vault in Trinity church-yard in which were the remains of his father and step-mother.

After his death several unsuccessful searches were made for his will, and at length a document, purporting to be such, was found in the iron chest, between the leaves of a field-book, which it was, from various circumstances, believed to have been written in or about the year 1800. It was in his own handwriting, carefully written throughout.

By this will, after appointing William Bayard and others his executors, and after several specific bequests, he gave the rest of his estate to his executors in trust to pay the interest on his United States Bank stock to the widow of his brother Robert, and as to the rest of his estate and on the death of his brother's widow, as to the said Bank stock, in trust for Robert Watts, the son of John Watts, provided he and his heirs should take the name of Leake, and if he did not, then to convey the same to the Rector and Church Wardens of Trinity Church, the eldest minister of the Dutch and Presbyterian Congregations, and the Mayor and Recorder of the city, to purchase and endow a house and grounds near the suburbs for the purpose of the reception, education, and maintenance of as many helpless orphan children until they should be of an age to be apprentices, as the trustees should deem the income adequate to support.

His personal estate amounted to about $300,000; his real estate was estimated to amount to about the same.

When the document last mentioned was offered to the Surrogate as a will of personal estate, and application was made to him to admit it to be proved as such, the application was opposed by the Public Administrator and by Mr. John Leake Norton, as of kin to Mr. Leake. Mr. Norton was in fact, the nephew of John Leake of the Hermitage, who was in no way related to John George Leake. Mr. Norton, it was said, was the god-son of the latter, and had received from him many kindnesses.

The similarity of surname, without relationship, was a singular coincidence; and a fact also singular, John Leake of the Hermitage, by his will appointed John George Leake one of his executors.*

A long examination of the case before the Surrogate ensued, in the course of which a large amount of evidence was collected, disclosing interesting circumstances. The will was not signed, sealed, or acknowledged, the date was not filled up, none of the forms usual in such cases had been observed, and yet it was contended that it was a valid will by those who presented it.

* See page 50 of the trial before the Surrogate.

The Surrogate finally decided it was valid. From his decision an appeal was made to the Chancellor, and after full hearing, he decided that it was not a valid will,* and from his decision the case was carried by appeal, to the Court of Errors, which Court, by a majority of its members, decided that it was a valid will and confirmed the judgment of the Surrogate. This series of decisions present a singular instance of the honest and important differences of judgment of learned and eminent jurists.

Previous to the decision Robert Watts died without having taken the name of Leake. After the decision of the Court of Errors, an act of the Legislature was passed, incorporating the Trustees as "The Leake and Watts Asylum," and the personal estate of John George Leake was transferred to and forms the endowment and resource of that institution.

The life of John George Leake was peculiar; his habit, manners, and tastes singular; indeed, his life and his actions and avocations, and his will, and all pertaining to him seem to have been wrapt in or blended with mystery, and more extraordinary from the document, incomplete as it was, has resulted the establishment of an institution now regarded as one of the most beneficent of our city.

The functionaries of the State,† considering that he left no kindred capable of inheriting the real estate within the State of which he died, seized as escheated, and took the proper measures to perfect its rights as they believed.

Portions of the real estate were sold, and the net proceeds, $89,603 46, were paid into the Treasury. The balance of the property remains unsold.

James Hay, above named, when his kinsman, John George Leake, died, and during the period of the after proceedings, including the final decision in the Court of Errors, the charter of the Leake and Watts Asylum, and the sales of portions of the real estate, was not in the United States.

On being informed of the facts, he came to New York and undertook to prepare his proofs, to establish his rights in the estate, and to this end to demonstrate his relationship to Mr. Leake. He presented his claims in New Jersey, as well as in New York.

He was then a man of pecuniary means and in the prime of manhood, and, conscious of the rightfulness of his pretensions, he entered on the pursuit confidently, fearlessly, and hopefully. By means of a commission from the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, under the law to perpetuate testimony, he collected a large amount of evidence in Scotland and elsewhere, all of which is now on record. The proof is clear and explicit as to the points to which it has reference. The widow Mac Donald, above named, was one of the witnesses examined.

† See the Senate Document of 1836, No. 86, Vol. 2, and Assembly Document of 1838, No. 54, Vol. 2; also Assembly Document of 1850, No. 22, Vol. 3.

The testimony demonstrated that James Hay is the great-grand son of Helen Martin, the only sister of Robert Leake, the commissary, and that the only brother of Robert Leake died without issue. That John G. Leake survived his only brother and sister, who both died leaving no issue surviving. In 1839 James Hay was naturalized a citizen of the United States; this and the treaty with Great Britain he believed entitled him to the claims he advanced.

The first delays, difficulties, and disappointments, though severely trying, did not discourage him. He patiently proceeded and renewed his efforts; employed agents and counsel; applied his money, his time, his whole power, to get up his case properly and to have it correctly understood. He travelled far and wide to obtain the evidence which he collected; and, for a long succession of years, even until now, has he pursued this deceitful, though alluring, hope, with an unabated ardor, unchanged belief, with a patient perseverance and a continued faith that seems marvellous; each year leaving him, as he was the year before, with promises and hopes and no reality; each year ending with a favorable report of a committee to his application to the Legislature, or his application waiting for its turn on the calendar of business, but without further progress. Upwards of twenty years have passed since he began the undertaking; his pecuniary means and the power of his life are exhausted. He is now an old man, in poverty, and yet he pursues and yet the shadow flies; yet he is an applicant, yet listens to the enticing whisperings of hope.

It is sorrowful to behold him now, with garments worn, with dimmed eye, and feeble gait; with spirits so accustomed to disappointment as to have the appearance of silent, wearied depression, of quiet resignation and regret, of forlorn hope, and withal, sad as is his condition, he is a gentleman, and by his intelligence and graceful and dignified deportment compels respect as well as compassion.

What vicissitudes and contrasts do these facts present? His kinsman's wealth applied to the endowment of a noble institution, and to increase the property of the State, and this poor man in poverty and old age, applying, yet in vain, for what he deems justice.

The narrative above given is one of a vast series connected with, or relating to, the silent tenants of "Trinity church-yard."

JULIANA ELMORE SANDS.

The compiler is indebted to Rev. Dr. Ferris, Chancellor of the New York University, for the following letter :

“MR. VALENTINE—Dear Sir: It was very gratifying to old New Yorkers, to see you desire to preserve the memorials of the old city. Allow me to call your attention to two buildings which have had quite a notoriety in their day, but which will soon pass away. They are the three-story, double-pitch wooden building on the southwest corner of Greenwich and old Provost (now Franklin) streets, and the other, the two-story wooden house on the southeast corner opposite. The first of these was occupied for a long time as a house-furnishing, hardware store, and especially a nail-factory, by Joseph Watkins, and was considered a great affair in its day. The second, on the corner opposite, I have always understood was the home of the unfortunate and beautiful Elmore Sands, whose mysterious death created an amazing excitement through the city. An old aunt of mine, who knew her well, and who saw her the evening of her fatal sleigh-ride, when she was just ready to step into the sleigh ; always spoke of her as the most lovely creature she ever saw, and especially fascinating at that moment. From that ride she never returned. In my school-boy days we used to visit a well on the north side of Spring street, about two and a half blocks west of Broadway, whence it was said her body, full-dressed, was taken some fortnight after her disappearance. The lower story of said corner was, in my time, a school-room (since converted into a store), where among my school-mates were several nephews of Washington Irving.

“New York, March 6th, 1861.”

The tragic fate of Juliana Elmore Sands, referred to by Dr. Ferris in the preceding letter, is yet fresh in the recollection of many of our old citizens. The youth and beauty of the unfortunate girl, and the mysterious nature of her disappearance, have combined to give to her fate an interest perhaps never equalled by any similar occurrence which has transpired in our city. A brief account, therefore, of her disappearance, and of the trial of Levi Weeks, the young man accused of her murder, may prove acceptable to the readers of the MANUAL.

Miss Sands left the house of her uncle, in Greenwich street, where she resided, on the evening of Sunday, the 29th of December, 1799, probably between eight and nine o'clock, P. M., of that day. As will be seen from the evidence produced on the trial of the person accused of the murder, it is uncertain whether she left the house alone or accompanied by any one. However this may be, nothing more was heard of her until the afternoon of Thursday, the 2d of January, 1800, when her body was found in a well dug by the Manhattan Company to supply the city with water, in Spring street, near Greene. An inquest was held upon the remains, and the jury returned a verdict of willful murder by some person or persons as yet unknown. Suspicion at once fell upon a young man named Levi Weeks (to whom it was reported that Miss Sands was engaged to be married, and who had been at her house in company with her on the evening of her disappearance, and with whom her family supposed she had left the house). He was accordingly arrested and committed to prison to await his trial. During the interval which elapsed before the trial, great excitement prevailed throughout the city. A thousand rumors of a vague and unfounded character were everywhere in circulation. A story was spread abroad that a person in New Jersey had confessed himself to have been an accessory to the murder, and would testify as State's evidence upon the trial. It was also said that several disinterested persons exerted themselves with peculiar activity to procure the conviction of the prisoner. As an example of the reports that everywhere prevailed, and of the interest universally felt upon the subject, we insert two communications which appeared in nearly all the newspapers of that time. The first of the date of Friday, Jan. 10th, 1800 :

“COMMUNICATION.

“The public are desired to suspend their opinion respecting the cause of the death of a young woman, whose body was lately found in a well. However some circumstances that have been published may seem to justify the horrid imputation of her murder which has been thrown on a certain young man, yet there are others which strongly militate against it, and appear to establish his innocence in an unquestionable manner. We understand he has, contrary to some accounts, the universal testimony in favor of his character. He is a moral, sober, industrious, amiable man. By general consent, great stress has been laid on the circumstance of his asking, ‘if the body was found in the Manhattan well.’ But it must be recollected that he had been previously informed of the muff being taken from that place. He had no conceivable temptation to perform such an atrocious action. She was not, as it was said, pregnant, nor can it be proved that he was under an engagement to marry her. She had several times been heard to utter expressions of melancholy, and throw out hints of self-destruction, particularly the afternoon before. Several other circumstances have come to our knowledge, which had respectable authority, and which are sufficient to induce us to believe that the young man is innocent, or that his guilt is at least extremely questionable. The crime is so diabolical, the punishment so awful, the motive so unaccountable, the proof so merely circumstantial, that the public mind ought to remain unbiased, that the unhappy prisoner may not fall a victim to any prepossessions, but be condemned or acquitted by the free and unprejudiced voice of an impartial jury.”

The second of the date of Jan. 13th, 1800 :

"COMMUNICATION.

"An anonymous piece has appeared in your paper and several others, calling on the public to suspend their opinion relative to the person charged with the murder of Juliana E. Sands. This caution, calculated to counteract unfavorable prepossessions against the prisoner previous to his trial, may perhaps be justifiable enough, but to insinuate a suspicion that the ill-fated girl was herself the perpetrator, is such an outrage on probability that all who are acquainted with the circumstances must hear the remark with indignation. It is not the purpose of these observations to excite prejudice against the person charged with the murder, but one who was well acquainted with the deceased, cannot refrain from repelling a suspicion that is unaccompanied with a single fact or a single circumstance to warrant even the faintest conjecture. It is a fact that Miss Sands, so far from showing signs of melancholy, was uniformly cheerful and serene, and on the day previous to the murder, was remarkably so. Her expectation of becoming a bride on the morrow, was the natural cause of her liveliness. Alas, how soon was the gay prospect blackened by the shades of death! Her temper was mild and tranquil, her manners artless and tender; her conversation ever chaste and innocent. She was one of those virtuous characters against whom the tongue of slander never moves. Her murderer yet lives, but let him tremble with horror at the vengeance that inevitably awaits him.

"A NEIGHBOR."

The Grand Jury having found a true bill against the prisoner, his trial came on before the court of Oyer and Terminer, Chief Justice Lansing presiding, on Monday, the 31st of March, 1800.

The prosecution was conducted by Mr. Colden, Assistant Attorney-General, and the prisoner was defended by Messrs. Alexander Hamilton, Brockholst Livingston, Aaron Burr, Abram Skinner, James Woods, Chas. Baldwin, and George Lynch. The chambers of Justice, the avenues of the City Hall, and the streets adjacent, were thronged with an eager multitude, anxious to witness the trial. The court-room was so crowded that it became necessary to direct the officers "to clear it of all superfluous spectators" before the Court could proceed to business. The prisoner was brought in properly guarded, and attended by a numerous train, a volunteer guard of citizens, as distinguished for decorum of behavior as for respectability of appearance. "Here," says the author of a brief narrative of the trial, "let us remark the collected composure of the prisoner's manner, and the open expression of his countenance. His appearance interested us greatly in his favor. We waited with anxiety for the testimony, convinced that if his was not the expression of conscious innocence, he was indeed a man incapable of feeling, whose bosom was not to be assailed by any remorseful sensations." The indictment being read, the prisoner pleaded not guilty. The Attorney-General opened the prosecution and introduced the witnesses for the people.

These were some fifty or sixty in number, the general tenor of whose testimony was to connect circumstances of a presumptive nature, but which so connected, might establish a conclusive mass, the nature of the case being such that in proof of the prisoner's guilt, presumptive evidence only could be adduced.

The following is the import of the material part of the testimony :

It was endeavored on the part of the prosecution to prove that the prisoner had been in the habit of paying very particular attention to the deceased ; that about eight o'clock of the evening on which she was missing, he had come to her uncle's, where she resided, and had departed about the same time at which she was supposed to have left the house, which was about twenty minutes after eight o'clock. A woman living in the neighborhood of the yard in which the horse and sleigh of Ezra Weeks, brother to the prisoner, was kept, deposed that some time about 8 o'clock, being in her house, with the doors shut, she heard the gate of the above yard open, and a carriage come out, whether a sleigh or chair she could not tell, and in about half an hour she heard it return, and the gate again shut. She admitted that she had never heard this gate open or shut, except at this particular time, though it was in continual use. She was also certain the evening was Sunday, though she appeared very incorrect with respect to the time of the month. She also admitted that she did not recollect any of those particulars till about twelve days after, when she was informed of the unfortunate end of the young woman and of the time when the event happened. It is also to be noted that this witness appeared to be greatly advanced in age and her memory not very tenacious on most particulars.

A witness was produced to prove that about the time mentioned a one-horse sleigh, without bells, was seen on the road, containing a woman and two men, who appeared laughing very merrily.

Three other witnesses deposed that, about half-after 8 o'clock, being in a sleigh in the middle road, a one-horse sleigh passed them on a gallop, without bells, and containing two or three persons ; but from the darkness of the night they were not able to speak decidedly as to the number, nor were they certain as to the sex of the persons it contained. As the sleigh passed them the witnesses huzzaed, in the manner frequently customary on such occasions. The persons in the one-horse sleigh took no notice of their shouting, but passed them in perfect silence.

Two witnesses, a man and his wife, who resided in the vicinity of the Manhattan Well, declared that, at about the hour at which this catastrophe is supposed to have happened, they heard exclamations of a female in distress, and distinguished the words, " O Lord ! have mercy, do help me." The old man looked through his window, but, on being asked, declared that he did not discover any sleigh, though, it was observed, that from the nature of the ground it was not impossible but a sleigh might have been kept from his view to a kind of hollow between the well and the house.

Another witness deposed that he passed not far from the Manhattan Well about nine o'clock; the time was ascertained by his having noticed the hour, a few minutes before, at the house he left. He heard a voice as of a female in distress, and went in the direction of the well to discover the cause. He heard the voice twice, but did not distinguish any words. His wife called him and told him she believed it came from a house in the neighborhood, he thereupon desisted from his examination. He declared that he saw no sleigh, and the sounds were not again repeated.

Another witness deposed that, passing near the well the morning after the event, he saw the tracks of a one-horse sleigh, which had gone out of the roads, and struck into the field, turning extremely near to the well. He remarked, that the circumstance being very singular, arrested his attention. He did not perceive whether it bore the marks of a pleasure sleigh, or a wood sleigh. The latter appeared to have been the impression on his mind, as he thought that some carmen, riding for sport, had turned out of the road, through whim. From the unfrequented nature of the ground, it being out of the common road, the counsel for the prisoner discovered by their questions the witness's opinion that these tracks of a sleigh might not have been made on the preceding night.

Two other circumstances were adduced, which appeared at first view extremely unfavorable to the prisoner. He had declared that he had never been at the well in his life, and a witness was brought to prove, that he had seen him examining the depth of the well a week before this unfortunate occurrence. The witness deposed that, at about eleven o'clock on a Sunday morning, a week before the young woman was missing, he saw a young man by the well, with whom he had some conversation; and this young man, fastening two pieces of wood together, which had been left from the wood-work, sounded the well in different places, mentioning to him the depth. But the witness declined swearing to the identity of the prisoner, declaring that he could not take his oath that the prisoner was the man. He also described accurately, the dress of the person he saw at the well, which happened to be particularly singular.

The person who lived in the house with the prisoner, and the man with whom he boarded, being called, declared that they had never seen clothes of that description in his possession.

The other unfavorable circumstance was, that the prisoner, immediately on being taken, asked if they had found the body in the Manhattan Well. But it was proved by several witnesses that the muff of the deceased being discovered had led to a suspicion that her remains would be found in the well. It was also clearly proved that this circumstance of the finding of the muff had already been communicated to the prisoner.

This alone was the material testimony against the prisoner.

The prosecution having closed, Col. Burr opened for the defense in an eloquent and masterly manner.

The evidence for the defense went to prove that the prisoner was a man of much worth, of mild and amiable manners, and of a very gentle and affectionate disposition. Several witnesses were brought to show that his conduct towards the unfortunate young woman in question had been certainly attentive, but not more so than to other young women in the house, or than was consistent with propriety.

It was clearly proved by a number of witnesses that he was at the house of Mr. Ezra Weeks, his brother, on that evening, from before candle-light till 8 o'clock.

It was proved by a witness who lodged with the family of the deceased, that he (witness) came home about two minutes before or after eight o'clock; that the prisoner with the deceased and the family were together. That shortly after, one of the company looking at his watch, it was ten minutes after eight. That about four minutes after this circumstance he left the room.

It appeared from the evidence of the family, that at the time the prisoner took his leave, it was supposed by the family that the young woman, who had gone up stairs, went away with him. This, from the evidence, must have been about a quarter past eight.

It was further proved that some company who had been at Mr. Ezra Weeks's, the brother of the prisoner, remained there until about twenty or twenty-five minutes after eight, when they departed, and in consequence of the darkness and slipperiness of the evening, Mr. Ezra Weeks stood at the door with a candle and lighted them. He returned, but had not sat down before his brother, the prisoner, came in as usual to receive directions for the work of the next day.

The interval unaccounted for of the prisoner's absence was thus reduced to ten or fifteen minutes, in which time, if at all, he must have perpetrated the crime; must have gone to the Manhattan Well, about a mile, and returned, and must have composed his appearance, and overcome all kind of agitation and all signs of haste or exertion.

It was further proved that the sleigh of Mr. Ezra Weeks had bells. That the boy who took care of the horse had fed him as usual, locked the door, and either kept the key in his pocket or placed it in the kitchen. It appeared that the bells were on the harness before and after this transaction; and in the opinion of the lad who had the care of the horse, it would have taken about ten minutes to remove the bells from the harness and put the horse to the sleigh.

It was satisfactorily proved by numerous witnesses, that the behavior of the prisoner on the evening prior to the young woman's being missing, was perfectly composed and cheerful as usual. It appeared on his return his conduct was the same; perfectly free from every kind of agitation; that he eat a hearty supper, and received directions for making eight doors of different dimensions, and executed them accurately without further instructions.

It was also proved by a person who worked in the same shop with him, and who, having heard some surmises hinted to his disadvantage, paid very particular attention to his appearance; that his subsequent conduct was uniformly the same as ever. That he paid the same attention to the superintendence of the work, and never exhibited the smallest sign of guilt or agitation.

A variety of other witnesses were brought forward. Some invalidating the testimony against him, and others tending to establish his innocence.

The evidence of several medical gentlemen of respectability, who had examined the body, was taken, as was also the professional opinion of a physician of eminence, who had not inspected it. From their testimony it would appear possible that the deceased had received her death from drowning without having sustained any previous violence.

Some evidence was produced to show that, for a short time prior to her unfortunate end, she had exhibited marks of occasional gloom and melancholy. But several witnesses also deposed to the gaiety and cheerfulness of her disposition.

The evidence on both sides being closed at about half-past two o'clock on Wednesday morning, April 2d, the Attorney-General requested an adjournment, stating that he had not slept for forty-eight hours, and if, after listening to the summing up of the counsel for the defense, he was obliged to close the case at five or six o'clock in the morning, it would be totally out of his power to do so.

The Court refused to adjourn, on account of the exhausted condition of the jury, fearing some of them might be taken sick, if locked up for another night in the picture-room, and thus prevent a determination of the case.

The counsel for the prisoner then expressed their opinion that the merits of the case by no means required any length of time in summing up the evidence, and proposed leaving the matter to the Court and jury without further argument. This proposal was accordingly acceded to.

Chief Justice Lansing then delivered an appropriate and judicious charge to the jury. He declined going into the mass of the evidence, but detailed the most striking and important testimony, showing the deficiency of motives to induce the prisoner to the commission of the crime, entering into consideration of the most material evidence against him, and evincing the opinion of the Court of its deficiency to prove the guilt of the prisoner. He concluded by directing them to decide according to the conviction produced upon their own minds by the evidence, without being biased by any report they might have heard before their arrival at court, or by any regard to the consequences which might result to the prisoner.

The jury retired, and returned almost immediately with a verdict of NOT GUILTY. And the prisoner was accordingly discharged.

"We again remark," says the author of the narrative before alluded to, "the prisoner's collected behavior through the whole case—the perfect innocence and artlessness of his countenance. Guilt could never have lurked under such a conduct. His face appeared the index of a virtuous and benevolent heart; his deportment that of a man incapable of the smallest approach to the crimes with which error had accused him."

As an evidence of the public feeling at the result of the trial, we insert the following editorial article from the Commercial Advertiser of Wednesday evening, April 2, 1800:

"The trial of Levi Weeks, for the murder of Juliana Elmore Sands, which came on before the Court of Oyer and Terminer on Monday last, ended this morning at about half-past two.

"The vague reports which had been in circulation from the time of her body being discovered until the hour of trial, had irritated the public mind in such a manner as to draw to the place of justice a large concourse of people, and render it somewhat difficult at first for the Court to proceed to business. After the examination of the witnesses, which occupied two whole days, the counsel for Mr. Weeks, without a single remark upon the testimony, submitted his case to the charge of the Court. Mr. Chief-Justice Lansing, after commenting upon the evidence, delivered to the jury the unanimous opinion of the Court, that Mr. Weeks was not guilty. The jury, which was as respectable as ever appeared in this city, retired, and after appointing a foreman, returned in less than four minutes with a verdict of 'Not guilty.' It must be a pleasing circumstance to this young man, whose character on the trial appeared irreproachable and uncommonly amiable, and to his respectable connections, that he does not owe his acquittal to the eloquence of his counsel, but solely and entirely to the clear and unequivocal proof he produced of his innocence. After so fair and impartial a trial, it is hoped that those who have entertained any suspicions, which have been very improperly excited on this occasion, will not only divest themselves of them, but that this young man will be fully and completely restored to the standing in society which he has so uniformly maintained."

The Manhattan Well, where the remains of Miss Sands were found, was for a long time an object of notoriety. Screams, fire-balls, and a figure in white were nightly reported to be heard and seen there. Parties were sometimes made up to watch for these appearances, but on such occasions nothing was heard or seen, owing, perhaps, to the presence of unbelievers. Years have passed away since then, but no clue has yet been discovered to clear away the mystery which hangs about the sad fate of beautiful, but unfortunate, Juliana Elmore Sands.

ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH.

The first attempt to lay the Atlantic Cable, was made in August, 1857, by carrying the cable from the shore. The end was taken to the shore at Valentia Bay, Ireland, on the evening of August 6th, by a boat of the steam frigate "Niagara," under charge of Lieutenant Whiting, U.S.N.—and the ships sailed on 7th August.

On the 11th August, the cable parted on board the "Niagara," in 2,000 fathoms of water, when 334 miles had been paid out. This was lost, with the exception of 52 miles, which were subsequently recovered, and the enterprise was abandoned for the season.

The second attempt was made in June, 1858. This time it was determined to connect the two ends of the cable in mid-ocean, and have the ships sail landward, one towards Trinity Bay, the other towards Valentia.

On the 10th June, the ships left England, and on the 26th they met at the rendezvous, and the splice was made and the vessels parted—the "Niagara" for Trinity Bay and the "Agamemnon" for Valentia Bay. They had not proceeded far when the cable broke, and another splice was made on the 28th June, and again the wire broke under the stern of the "Agamemnon" the aggregate amount of wire paid out by both vessels being 291 miles.

The ships then returned to Queenstown to coal, and left again on the 17th July, having on board about 2,500 miles of cable.

On Thursday, July 29th, the splice was again made in mid-ocean, and the ships once more parted. The "Agamemnon" having 813 nautical miles to run to Valentia Bay, and the "Niagara," 882 nautical miles to the Telegraph house at the Bay of Bull's Arm!

This time nothing occurred to prevent the safe arrival of the vessels at their respective destinations, the "Niagara" entering Trinity Bay at about midnight of August 4th, and the "Agamemnon" arriving in Valentia Bay at 6 A.M. on August 5th.

The distance from one point to the other, is about 1,690 nautical, or 1,960 statute miles, and about 2,050 nautical miles of cable were paid out, being a surplus average of about $21\frac{1}{3}$ per cent.

The fleet engaged in the successful attempt to submerge the cable consisted of the British steamers "Agamemnon," "Gorgon" and "Valorous," and the United States steamer "Niagara."

Of the cable used in the enterprise, 3,000 miles were manufactured, and its construction was as follows:

The conductor consists of 7 wires of the purest copper and of the size known to the trade as No. 22. One of these wires is straight, and the other six are twisted or wound around it, and the diameter of the conductor thus arranged is about 1-16 of an inch.

This is insulated by means of three coats of gutta percha, covered over with six strands of hempen yarn, well tarred, and around all are twisted 18 strands, each composed of 7 of the best charcoal wires. The whole being about 11-16 of an inch in diameter, and weighing about 1,860 pounds to the mile. Its strength was estimated to being capable of bearing, in water, over six miles of its length suspended vertically.

It requiring 126 miles of small wire to make one mile of cable, there were used in its construction 378,000 miles of small wire.

The first message sent over the Atlantic Telegraph Cable was from the Queen of Great Britain to the President of the United States, which was received and replied to on the 16th of August, and the next, from the Directors of the Company in England to the Directors in New York, in the following words: "Europe and America are united by telegraph! Glory to God in the highest, on earth peace and good-will toward men!"

We have given several views of the progress of laying the cable in this issue, which will be interesting as regards the history of the enterprise.

THIS view represents the buildings as they appeared about sixty years ago, fronting William street, on the west side, looking from the corner of Liberty street towards Maiden Lane. The first house on the left hand, like most of the buildings of that day, had the front door divided, in order to open the upper part by itself if required. The windows of this house have been modernized, the old sashes, which still remained on the premises being of lead, with very small-sized diamond-shaped lights, and much neater than those which superseded them. The jamb around the fire-place was faced with numerous earthen tiles, of enamelled blue, each representing some passage in the New Testament, such as the Prodigal Son, &c. These, with the sashes, were doubtless imported from Holland. In the cellar was a spring* of pure water, which from its having no outlet caused much trouble. This was probably one of the many which supplied the beautiful little stream that had formerly coursed its way down what is now Maiden Lane, to the river. At this period, William street from Stone to Fulton street, was the principal street for retail business, and consequently the most fashionable promenade. Broadway had very few stores between Wall street and Liberty street. Most of the sidewalks were laid with brick, with wooden curb stones. The whole of the property above named, including two lots on Liberty street, and the same on Maiden Lane, was sold a few years previous to 1800, to Mr. C. D., for a mere trifle, in consequence of a defect in the title. It remained in his family many years, no one coming forward to claim it; the title was probably due to some family in Holland, who never new of its existence.

L. P. CLOVER.

* This spring is still there I am told, but connecting with the sewer, causes no inconvenience.

MARRIAGES IN THE DUTCH CHURCH.

The following interesting statistical table is taken from the Dutch Church records, to which the compiler has been kindly allowed access through the intervention of Rev. Dr. De Witt, and by the politeness of GEORGE S. STITT, Esq., the custodian of these memorials of the olden times.

It is to be observed that the dates here given are for the most part the time of the publication of the banns; the marriage commonly took place within a few weeks subsequent. But from August 9, 1673, the dates are in general those at which the marriage took place.

ORDINANCES, &c., OF THE DIRECTOR-GENERAL AND THE COUNCIL OF NEW NETHERLANDS.

TO ALL persons to whom these presents may or shall come, or who may or shall hear them read : Petrus Stuyvesant, Director-General of New Netherland, Curacoa, &c., and the islands of the same, Captain and Commander of the Company's ships and vessels cruising in the West Indies, sendeth greeting—

Whereas, we have observed and remarked the insolence of some of our inhabitants, who are in the habit of getting drunk, of quarreling, fighting, and of smiting each other on the Lord's day of rest, of which on the last Sunday we ourselves witnessed the painful scenes, and we came to the knowledge of by report, in defiance of the magistrates, to the contempt and disregard of our person and authority, to the great annoyance of the neighborhood, and, finally, to the injury and dishonoring of God's holy laws and commandments, which enjoin upon us to honor and sanctify Him on this holy day of rest, and which proscribe all personal injury and murder, with the means and temptations that may lead thereunto :

Therefore, by the advice of his Excellency the Director-General and our ordained Council, here present, to the end that we may, as far as it is possible and practicable, take all due care, and prevent the curse of God, instead of His blessing, from falling upon us and our good inhabitants, we do, by these presents, charge, command, and enjoin upon all tapsters and innkeepers that on the Sabbath of the Lord, commonly called Sunday, before two of the clock in the afternoon, in case there is no preaching, or otherwise before four of the clock (in the afternoon), they shall not be permitted to set, nor draw, nor bring out for any person or persons, any wines, beer, nor any strong waters of any kind whatsoever, and whatever pretext, excepting only persons traveling, and the daily boarders that may from necessity be confined to their places of abode, in the penalty of being deprived of their occupations, and over that in the penalty of six Carolus guilders for each person that during said time may or shall have run up a score for any wine or beer in their house ; and, furthermore, we do hereby forbid all innkeepers and tapsters whatsoever to keep his house open for common company, or to tap or deal out on said day or any other day in the week, after the ringing of the bell in the evening, which shall take place about nine of the clock, any wines, beers, or strong waters, excepting all the members of their families, travelers, and boarders, under the same penalty, and to the end that we may take all due care to prevent all rash drawing of knives, all fightings and personal injuries, and all catastrophes resulting from the same : therefore, with the praiseworthy approbation of their high, wise, and honorable Councillors of the city of Amsterdam in New Netherland, by these presents, we do proclaim and ordain that all persons who shall rashly, or in anger, draw, or who shall have drawn, any knife or dagger against another person, in such case shall be fined in the penalty of one hundred Carolus guilders, or in case of their failure in the payment of the same they shall be put to the most menial labor, with bread and water for their subsistence; or, in case any person shall have been wounded thereby, the penalty shall be three hundred Carolus guilders, or an additional half-year's confinement to the most menial labor, with bread and water for their subsistence.

We do also charge and command our fiscal, our lieutenant, our sergeants, corporals, and every one of our citizens and inhabitants, as well as the soldiers, on all occasions, with all due zeal and activity and fidelity, to take measures that all such persons be pursued and apprehended, so that they may be proceeded against, and dealt with as the law directs.

Done in Fort Amsterdam, on this last day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and forty-seven (1647).

Whereas, his Excellency the Director-General, and the Honorable the Council, have been credibly informed that certain individual traders engaged in the Southern trades, and sailing under the license of this government, are in the practice of going into the interior and entering into the Maquaes country, whereby the regular traffic is ruined not only, but to the great damage and loss of the privileges of those traders who remain with their cargoes at the usual places of deposit; And moreover by such means, the good understanding with the Indians may be interrupted, and they may be stirred up to murder and put to death such and such persons, whereby these districts of country are in constant danger of being brought into difficulty and war:

Therefore, to the end that we may in the most effectual way guard the interest and honor of the West India Company, we have forbidden and interdicted, and we do by these presents from this time forbid and interdict, every one of our inhabitants from having the hardihood to go into the interior with any cargoes or any other merchandise; but they shall leave them at the usual places of deposit, and there wait for traffic.

Thus done at Fort Amsterdam in New Netherland, this eighteenth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and forty-seven (1647).

Whereas, there is the continual practice of selling much strong drink to the Indians, whereby these districts of country are exposed to imminent dangers, and whereas it behooves us promptly to take measures to prevent the same:

Therefore we, the Director-General and the Council of the New Netherlands, do hereby forbid and interdict from this time forth, all tapsters and all other inhabitants from selling, dealing out, or bartering, in any way whatsoever, or under any pretext whatsoever, to the Indians, any wine, beer, or any strong drink, and from permitting the same to be fetched by the mug, directly or indirectly, even though it may be through the third or fourth person, in the penalty of five hundred Carolus gelders, and the farther responsibility for all the misdemeanors that may result therefrom.

All persons are hereby also warned and forbidden to trespass upon the orchards, fields, and gardens, provided they shall be found in fence, or planted with fruit trees; and every one that shall have trespassed upon any fields, gardens, or orchards in fence or in fruit, shall be fined in the penalty of one hundred gelders, and in addition thereto shall be liable to pay actual damages.

Also, all the inhabitants of the New Netherland are hereby charged and commanded to set off, and to put into good fence, all their plantations, so that the cattle therein may be kept from committing trespass, which cattle, whether they be horses, kine, and in a special manner goats and hogs, must be taken care of, or otherwise disposed of, that they cannot commit any trespass. To this end the Fiscal Van Dyck shall build a pound, in which the cattle shall be detained until the damage shall have been made good and the fees of officer shall have been paid. Let every one take warning, and look out for costs.

Done at Fort Amsterdam, in the New Netherland—present, his Excellency the Governor, the former Director-General Kieft, the Honorable Derick Wagen, Mr. Lemontagnie, the Captain, Lieutenant Nuton, Paulus Leenders, Jacob Loper, Solomon Tomassen, and John Classen Bol—on this first day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and forty-seven (1647).

Whereas, in time past, all free merchants here in the New Netherlands, for some time back have been in the habit of paying monthly the duties on all the peltries procured here in trade, and of shipping them, when opportunities offer, to Fatherland, therefore it is by Council deemed very necessary to establish a regular duty, so that every one may have the opportunity of knowing what the law requires them to pay. With respect to which it is resolved that the following shall be the established tariff:

For every beaver skin exported, fifteen stivers—two halves for one whole one, and three thirds for two whole beavers. For every otter skin and beaver skin, fifteen stivers. For every skin of an elk, fifteen stivers. As the other peltries are of less value, the duty shall be as the case may require.

Thus done in Council. Present, the Director-General Petrus Stuyvesant, Hon. William Kieft, former Director-General, Hon. Duicklager, Mons. La Montagnie, Lieutenant Nuton, the Equipage-Master Paulus Leenderse, Jan Clase Bol. This 23d day of July, 1647.

Whereas, both by correct information and our own knowledge, we have remarked the disorderly practice, both now and formerly, of building and erecting houses and of extending house-lots far beyond their lawful limits, and of putting up hog-pens and privies along the public roads and streets, neglecting and omitting to make suitable improvements upon the lots given and granted to them, to prevent which for the future, by the Director-General Petrus Stuyvesant and the Excellencies the Councillors, it is resolved to appoint three Surveyors of Buildings, his Excellency Lubert Van Duicklagen, the Equipage-Master Paulus Leenderse, and the Secretary Cornelius Van Tienhoven, whom we do hereby authorize and empower to condemn all impropriety and disorder in buildings, fences, palisades, posts, and rails, and for the future to forbid it; for that purpose to order and warn from this time forward all and every one of our subjects, disposed within or around the city of New Amsterdam, to build, to plant, or to settle, or to inclose with palisades, that no one shall continue in the practice of the same, or undertake to do it without the knowledge, consent, and inspection of the aforesaid Surveyors of Buildings, in the penalty of twenty-five Carolus guilders, and of removing whatever they may have built or set up. We do also hereby warn and give notice to all and every one who may heretofore have received the grant of house lots, within nine months from this time to improve their lots by building suitable and convenient houses, according to order, or in default thereof the unimproved lots shall revert to the patroon or landlord, or to whomsoever they may have belonged, and who may have conveyed the same. Thus done in Council at Fort Amsterdam. Present, His Excellency the Director-General, the late Director-General Kieft, His Excellency Duicklagen, Monsieur La Montagnie, Lieutenant Nuton, Paulus Leenderse, Equipage-Master Jan Classe Bol. Dated, this twenty-fifth day of July; in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and forty-seven (1647).

Whereas, it has come to the knowledge of his Excellency the Director-General, and their Honors the Councillors, that in and about the city of Amsterdam there are brewers who are in the practice of tapping and selling beer by the small measure, whereby it may happen and come to pass that those neighbors who obtain from them their beer and pay the excise, may not be accommodated when they shall be tapped dry: Therefore, by the aforesaid his Excellency the Director-General and the Councillors, agreeable to the order and practice in Holland, this has been forbidden, and by these presents it is ordained and interdicted that no brewer in and around this city shall be permitted to tap and sell beer by the half-pot or small measure. And also that no brewer shall be permitted to brew beer, or procure it to be done for him by others, in the penalty of forfeiting all such beer, and all such stock on hand as shall happen to be in the house of said brewer, or tapped, and in addition thereunto, he shall be admonished not to do so any more. Thus done this twelfth day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and forty-eight (1648).

OLD HOUSES IN DIVISION ST. BETWEEN ELDRIDGE & ORCHARD ST'S - 1861.

Whereas, it has come to the knowledge of his Excellency the Director-General of New Netherland, Curacoa, &c., and the islands of the same, and their Excellencies the Councillors, that certain careless persons are in the habit of neglecting to clean their chimneys by sweeping, and of paying no attention to their fires, whereby lately fires have occurred in two houses, and whereas the danger of fire is greater as the number of houses increases here in New Amsterdam, and whereas the greater number of them are built of wood, and are covered with reeds; together with the fact that some of the houses have wooden chimneys, which is very dangerous: Therefore, by the very prompt and excellent Director-General, and their Honors the Councillors, it has been deemed advisable and highly necessary to look into the matter, and they do hereby ordain, enact, and interdict, that from this time forth, no wooden or platted chimneys shall be permitted to be built in any houses between the Fort and the Fresh Water, that those already standing shall be permitted to remain during the good pleasure of the Fire Wardens. And to the end that the foregoing order may be duly observed, the following persons are appointed, to wit: From the Council, the Commissary Adrian Keyser; and from the Commonalty, Thomas Hull, Martin Crigier, and George Woolsey; who in their turn shall visit all the houses in this city, wheresoever they may stand or may be situated, between the Fort and the Fresh Water, and shall inspect the chimneys whether they be kept clean by sweeping; and as often as any shall be discovered to be foul, the Fire Wardens aforesaid shall condemn them as foul, and the owners shall immediately, without any gainsaying, pay the fine of three guilders for each chimney thus condemned as foul, to be appropriated to the maintenance of fire ladders, hooks, and buckets, which shall be provided and procured the first opportunity. And in case the house of any person shall be burned, or be on fire, either through his own negligence or his own fire, he shall be mulcted in the penalty of twenty-five guilders, to be appropriated as aforesaid. Thus done, passed, and published at Fort Amsterdam. this twenty-third day of January, one thousand six hundred and forty-eight (1648).

Petrus Stuyvesant, Director-General of New Netherland, Curacoa, &c., and their Excellencies the Councillors, to all to whom these presents may or shall come, or who may hear them read, Greeting:

Whereas, it has come to our knowledge that our former proclamations, issued against unseasonable and intemperate drinking, both at night and on the rest day of the Lord, to the scorn and derision of our persons and our nation, have not been observed and executed according to our intent and meaning; which proclamations, by these presents, we do renew, ordain, and enact, that from this time forth they shall continue to be in force, and be maintained and carried out with a stricter observance and execution, according to the obvious tenor and meaning thereof. In the mean while, the occasion and the reasons why these our good regulations and well-meant proclamations have not been observed according to the tenor and meaning of them, are the following, to wit: The kinds of business and the easy profits flowing therefrom divert and seduce many from their primitive calling, trade and business, and they devote themselves to tapping, so much so that almost one full fourth part of the city of New Amsterdam have become bawdy houses for the sale of ardent spirits, of tobacco and beer, whereby very many do not only neglect and abandon their honest handicraft and business, but also the common man and the company's servants, in a great measure, are allured; and, what is still worse, the youth, even from their childhood, noticing the unbecoming conduct of their parents, consequently are drawn off from the path of virtue, into all idleness, and into what are concomitants, cheating, smuggling, and frauds, in the clandestine sales of beer and brandy to the Indians and natives; both daily experience and God teach us better, from which we cannot but apprehend fresh animosities betwixt them and us. And, in addition to all this, it happens that some honest inns, established and supported for the use and benefit of the traveler and stranger, and the inhabitants, who do honestly and righteously pay their taxes and excise, and are in the possession of suitable houses, or do hire them, have to bear the greater part of the burdens, whereby these tavern keepers are in a great measure interrupted in their licensed and lawful calling and business: Being ready, in these premises, to make provision according to the exigency of the case and the emergency of the : Therefore we, the Director-General and the Councillors aforesaid, on the subject of the tapsters and innkeepers, do ordain and enact the following regulations and by-laws :

I.

In the first place, that from this time forth, there shall be no new Tavern, Inn, nor any retail Grocery made or established without the special approbation and consent of the Director-General and the Councillors, unanimously agreed to and permitted.

II.

The Inns, Taverns, and retail Groceries that are already in the city, may be permitted to continue at least yet for the four following years; yet in the mean time they shall be held under the obligation, moreover, to employ themselves in some other honest business in these places, together with suitable and honest sureties, living under the guardians and supervision of this city of New Amsterdam, each one in conformity with his state, quality, and condition, according to the order and regulations made by the Director and Council, with the advice and approbation of the surveyor of buildings.

III.

That the Inn-keepers and Tapsters to whom we have granted yet four years at least, wishing for sufficient reasons to change their business, after they have laid aside this their former business of tapping, shall not be permitted to transfer the same to any other person, nor yet, to this intent, rent or sell their houses and dwellings to any other person without the previous advice and full consent and approbation of the Director-General and Councillors.

IV.

Item: The Inn-keepers and Tapsters, from this time forward, shall not be permitted to sell or to mix, or to hand out to the Indians or natives, any beer, wine, brandy, or waters, although it may be through the first, second, or third person, that the natives are supplied with therewith, in the penalty of the forfeiture of their business, and arbitrary correction at the discretion of the Court.

V.

Item: They shall be obliged, for the prevention of all fightings and mischiefs, actually to report to the officer, in case any one shall be injured or wounded in their own house, in the penalty of forfeiting their business, and one pound Flemish for every hour after the injury or wound has been inflicted, and during which time the Tapster or Inn-keeper has concealed it.

VI.

The proclamations heretofore issued against all unseasonable night tippling and drunk drinking on the Sabbath, shall be fulfilled by the Inn-keepers with strict regard and observance, to wit: That in the evening they shall not keep tavern after the ringing of the bell, nor on the Sabbath sell or deal out any beer or waters to any one (the traveler and the boarder alone excepted), before three of the clock in the afternoon when there is divine service, in the penalty fixed by proclamation.

VII.

They shall be obliged not to receive into their houses or cellars any wines, beers, or any ardent spirits, directly or indirectly, before the receipt of the invoice and the possession of the bill, in the penalty of the forfeiture of their particular business—beers and spirits—and an exemplary fine besides, at the discretion of the Court.

VIII.

Finally: All Innkeepers and Tapsters who may be minded to continue their business, shall within the time of eight days after the publication and affixing of these presents, address and give in their persons and their names to the Director and Council, and there solemnly promise punctually to fulfill all things whatsoever, that on the subject of tapsters and innkeepers have been ordered, or hereafter may be ordered, in all their particulars, and conduct themselves honestly in their business, as it becomes loyal and honest subjects.

Thus done at our session at Fort Amsterdam, this tenth day of March A.D. 1648.

Whereas, by their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, it has been daily seen and observed, that the goats and the hogs are in the habit of daily committing great damage in the orchards, plantations, and other productions here and about the Fort Amsterdam, not only to the discouraging of the cultivation of fine orchards and gardens, but also to many great and particular damages :

Therefore, their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors, desirous of making provision in the premises, from this time forth, do ordain and enact, that between the Fort New Amsterdam (or thereabout) and the Fresh Water, no hogs nor goats shall be pastured, nor be kept, except within their own inclosures ; care must also be had that the goats do not get out of their inclosures, and that they do not damage to any one. Also, that the goats shall not be pastured beyond the Fresh Water without a herdsman or keeper, in the penalty (in case the goats shall be found out of their inclosures, or on this side of the Fresh Water, or on the other side of the Fresh Water without a herdsman or keeper), of their being attached by the Fiscal, and of their being declared by their High Mightinesses to be forfeited. Be each one hereby warned, that he suffer no damage.

Suspended and published the 16th of March.

Petrus Stuyvesant, in behalf of their High Mightinesses the States General of the United Netherlands, his High and Mighty Lord the Prince of Orange, and their High Mightinesses the Gentlemen Directors of the General Privileged West India Company, Director-General over New Netherland, Curacoa, &c., and the islands of the same, together with their High Mightinesses the Councillors.

Whereas, we have seen and observed, that notwithstanding our decrees and ordinances, heretofore issued, concerning the keeping and sanctifying of the Holy Sabbath according to the holy command of God, have not been observed according to our intent and meaning ; And whereas, the Sabbath in various ways has been profaned and desecrated, to the great scandal, offense, and reproach of the community, and the neighboring strangers that frequent these places ; also to the vilifying and contemning of God's holy word, and our ordinances flowing therefrom :

Therefore, we, the Director-General and the Councillors aforesaid, for the purpose of averting as much as lies in their power the dreaded wrath and punishment of God, through this sin and other misdemeanors, from themselves and their subjects, do, by these presents, decree, renovate, and amplify our former proclamations and ordinances : having, for the better observance of the same, with the approbation of the minister of God's word, ordained that from this time forth, in the afternoon as well as in the forenoon there shall be preaching from God's word, and the usual exercises of Christian prayer and praise ; requesting and charging for that purpose, all their officers, subjects, and vessels, to frequent and attend the same; forbidding, in the mean while, during divine service, in conformity with our previous proclamations, all taverning, fishing, hunting, and other usual occupations, handicrafts, and professions, whether in houses, cellars, shops, ships, sloops, or in the streets and markets, in the forfeiture of such wares, merchandise, or property, or the redemption of the same, with the sum of twenty-five gelders, until otherwise ordered, to be applied for the benefit of the poor and the church, and furthermore, one pound Flemish, in case either buyers or sellers, the hirers or the hired, that may transgress, to be applied one-half to the officers, the other half at the discretion of the Court. Furthermore, we do hereby enact and forbid, that no one shall on the fore part of the day, give himself up to foolish drinking and other excesses, to the scandal and offense of others, in the penalty, in case any one be thus found, of being chastised by our Fiscal, or any of the higher or lower officers, at their discretion.

Thus done, and after the resumption agreed to and published, at New Amsterdam, in New Netherland, 29th April, 1648.

Whereas, by daily experience it has been seen and observed, that notwithstanding it has been forbidden several times by former proclamations, that any one should tap, hand out, mingle, or sell through the third or fourth person, directly or indirectly, any strong drinks to the Indians or natives of this country, we must daily see before our eyes, that the Indians are running about through the Manhattans in a state of intoxication, and also that the inhabitants, living without, experience great vexation from the drunken Indians; whereby, as formerly, fresh animosities and wars are to be apprehended: Therefore, his Excellency the Director-General and the Honorable the Councillors, have resolved, this once more, the former proclamations to re-enact; and hereby peremptorily to forbid, and we do by these presents peremptorily forbid, the handing out, the mingling or selling of any strong drinks, by whatever name or mark they may be known. And in case any person, after this date, shall be convicted of these, though it should be even through the information of the Indians themselves (to whom, for weighty reasons, credit shall be given in this case), he shall, over and above the penalty established by former proclamations, be arbitrarily punished without any dissimulation, since it is far better that such evil-disposed persons should be punished, than that the country and community in general should suffer damage through them.

Thus done in session at Fort Amsterdam, in the New Netherlands, this 13th May, A.D. 1648.

Whereas, by their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors, it has been, with great concern, noticed and observed, that many of the Scotch merchants and small traders, that from time to time come out of their country with the ships, are doing or aiming at nothing else than with their underselling and manners of trading to destroy trade ; selling their goods very rapidly, giving eleven to twelve gelders in loose seawant for one beaver, and having sold out, they go with their ships, whence they may return that same year, without leaving or doing any benefit to the country, to the injury of the inhabitants, who by their freehold and birth are obliged to bear all the burdens : Therefore, for the purpose of preventing such destroyers of trade, it is deemed advisable and necessary for New Netherland and the inhabitants thereof, to enact and ordain that from this time forth all Scotch merchants and small dealers, who come over from their country with vessels, with the intention of trading here with Christians or heathens, in wholesale or retail, shall not be permitted to carry on the least trade in the land, except in case they shall have had a residence here in New Netherlands three following and succeeding years ; and furthermore, to be compelled within one year after their privilege and opportunity, to erect a decent and habitable tenement in this city, New Amsterdam. All traders and others who are in possession of one habitable tenement, and have resided three years in the place, shall be permitted to trade, and not otherwise (the merchant or skipper of their High Mightinesses' vessels alone is exempted), provided that the same shall not be permitted to have any shop on the land.

Thus done in the presence of his High Mightiness the Director-General, His Excellency Duicklagen, Mons La Montagne, Brian Nuton, and Paulus Leendersen, at New Amsterdam, this 18th September, A.D. 1648.

By his High Mightiness the Director-General, and their Excellencies the Councillors of New Netherland, the Fire Wardens are charged and ordered to prevent all accidents by fire in this city of New Amsterdam, to visit all around, and to see whether every one keeps his chimneys clean by sweeping, and in case any are found to be deficient, immediately to demand the penalty of three gelders, to be appropriated agreeably to the proclamation on this subject published on the 21st January, 1648.

Thus done and ordained in session at Fort Amsterdam, New Netherland, this 28th September, 1648. Present, his High Mightiness the Director-General, L. Van Duicklagen, La Montagne, Brian Newton, Paul Leendersen.

Whereas, there are daily complaints made by the Indians and native to their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors, that some of the inhabitants are in the habit of setting the natives at work, and availing themselves of their labor, and of letting them go off unpaid, after the work is done, and as the refusal to pay the Indians for their labor is contrary to the right of all people ; whence the Indians are threatening, in case they are not satisfied and paid, that they will take their pay by resorting to other unbecoming measures :

Therefore, for the timely and possible prevention of all mischief, their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors, &c., do hereby warn all the inhabitants that are any indebted to the Indians for their daily wages, or otherwise, to pay the same without any gainsaying, and in case of the employment of the Indians for the future, they shall be under the same obligation, on the statement or complaint of the Indians (to whom, for reasons in the case, credit shall be given), to make payment, in the penalty of such a fine, as according to the occasion shall be deemed right.

Thus done in session, and published this 28th of September, 1648, at New Amsterdam—Present: His High Mightiness the Director-General, L. Van Duicklagen, La Montagnie, Lieut. Newton, and Paulus Leendersen.

Whereas, their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors, do daily notice and observe, that by some of the inhabitants of New Netherland, the servants of the Honorable the Company, and others of their domestics, whenever the same run away from their lords and masters, and also those from without that come from our near neighbors, are harbored at their homes and in their houses, whereby it is caused that many servants, whenever they serve unwillingly, have the means and the way given them for running away, which occurs daily; and that their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors may make all possible and practicable provision to prevent such things:

Therefore, their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors do, by these presents, advertise and warn every person to give no harbor or lodging to any of the servants, whether of the Honorable the Company, or of any other persons living here or elsewhere, at the longest, no longer than twenty-four hours. And in case one shall be found to have acted contrary to this, he shall forfeit one hundred and fifty stivers as satisfaction, to be appropriated as the prosecutor to whom it is due shall direct.

Thus done in session, this 6th October, 1643—Present: His High Mightiness the Director-General, L. Van Duicklagen, B. Newton, Paulus Leendersen.

Whereas, their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, by proclamation, have long ago admonished the community in general, to improve their house lots by building on the Island of Manhattans, which before now have been surveyed as plantations, and the more so since these lots have been built on by some of the inhabitants; And whereas, certain persons are desirous of building, and have no place near this suitable for building a house:

Therefore, by the considerate and excellent the Director-General and the Councillors, it is deemed advisable to make known to every one, for the last time, for the improvement of their house lots, to erect suitable buildings, and in default thereof, that their Excellencies the Director-General and Councillors of New Netherland, shall point out to such persons as may be inclined to build houses in this city of New Amsterdam suitable sites, and award to the present actual settlers a reasonable compensation for the same, at the discretion of the surveyors of buildings. It is also hereby farther advertised, in case any one feels inclined to build, he be pleased to give in his name to the Secretary, upon which having been done, the order will be issued accordingly.

Thus done, published, and affixed in session at New Amsterdam, this 15th day of December, 1648—Present: The Director-General, L. Duicklagen, La Montagnie, Brian Newton, Paulus Leendersen.

Their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, having daily noticed that their order heretofore made and ordained on the subject of measures and weights, has not been well observed by some, whereby the good inhabitants have been greatly defrauded:

Therefore their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors do hereby give notice to all the great and the small dealers, together with the bakers, and all others who sell aught by the ell measure or by weight, in selling and in buying, to make use of the just Amsterdam ell, weight, and measure. And that all things may be transacted in an orderly manner, the Director-General and the Councillors do, by these presents, advertise all the inhabitants and traders, between this date and the first day of August next ensuing, to provide and procure for themselves, just Amsterdam ells, weights, and measures. And in the mean time, those that may have for the present time any weights, shall bring the same to the warehouse of the Company in Fort Amsterdam, for the purpose of having them weighed and measured, so that for the time to come, no one of our subjects shall suffer loss therefrom. And that all things may be regarded and observed with greater zeal by all and each one, our Fiscal, Hendrick Van Dyck, is hereby charged and authorized, after the expiration of the first day of August next ensuing, to inspect all weights and measures as often as he shall think proper. And in case any shall be found using no just ells, weights, or measures, he shall pay such fine as in the premises may have been established in Fatherland. Let every one be hereby warned, and keep himself from harm. Thus done in session this 17th day of July; resumed and affixed the 19th day of July, A.D. 1649, at New Amsterdam, in New Netherland.

The Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, to all and each one that may read these presents, or hear them read, send greeting:

Whereas, with concern we have noticed and observed that the foregoing ordinances, made against frauds and smuggling, which have been ordained concerning the beers given out by the tapsters and inn-keepers; also that notwithstanding our foregoing ordinances, some few of the inhabitants make it a business to tap and brew at the same time; whereby the customary duty has been defrauded not only, but also other tapsters who make that their only business, have been injured in their profession: Wherein, in conformity with the general Fatherland order, willing to apply the remedy, we ordain and order, by these presents, that no inhabitant, following the business of brewing, nor by the small measure, excepting at meal-time, tap, sell, or hand out any beers, wines, or waters, not even to boarders, who they may pretend are boarding with them, under which pretense we have observed great frauds to be practised. To prevent both the one and the other, we do moreover ordain that from this time forth, no beers nor any wines shall be moved out of the cellars of any brewery or warehouse, nor be lodged in the house of the tapsters, except they shall have first been given in at the office of the Secretary, and the sledgmen or carriers of the same shall have brought back a bill of delivery, signed by the first clerk of the Secretary, which bill shall be shown and exhibited to our Fiscal, Hendrick Van Dyck, on the same day it was brought and signed, or to the person whom the Fiscal shall have substituted in his place during his absence. We do insist upon every one and all the brewers, not to deliver any beers, nor give them to any sledgmen or beer-carriers, until they shall have first shown a bill of delivery, in the penalty of forfeiting the beers and wines, and all the utensils, whether they be horses, sledges, or any other instruments whereby the same may be removed, and an arbitrary correction of those that may be accessory thereto. Thus done, and after the resumption agreed to in our session at Fort Amsterdam, this 8th day of November, A.D. 1649. Signed by P. Stuyvesant, L. Van Duicklagen, H. Van Dyck, La Montagnie, Brian Newton.

The Director and the Councillors of New Netherland having remarked the scarcity of the crops of the past year, and also that there is a great complaint among our good inhabitants that already they have scarcely a subsistence of bread for themselves and their children to be had of the bakers, and the apprehension is, that if there is not a seasonable interposition there will be a further deficiency of bread-corn and a greater advance in price:

Therefore, by the Director and Councillors, by these presents, it is ordained that, from this time forth, until our further order and a greater supply of grain, no brewer shall be permitted to malt or brew any wheat, in the forfeiture of the malted wheat and arbitrary correction; and furthermore, by these presents they do interdict and forbid that no wheat, rye, nor baked bread shall be transported out of the province of New Netherland unto the time when by our more exact estimate of the quantity of grain and the yearly necessary consumption, our necessary consent to such transportation shall be given.

Thus done and approved in our session this 8th day of November, A.D. 1649. Undersigned by P. Stuyvesant, L. Van Duicklagen, H. Van Dyck La Montagne, Brian Newton.

Whereas, the Director and Councillors of New Netherland have been informed, that in and concerning the selling of real estate, such as houses and gardens, house-lots, and other lands, there are practised various clandestine abuses and frauds, to the great injury of other creditors :

Therefore, the Director and Councillors of New Netherland, by these presents, do charge their Secretary, and in his absence the first Clerk, not to pass or sign any transport of real estate until at the stated court day it shall have been examined and approved by the Director and Councillors, declaring by these presents all contracts and transports null and void which after this date shall have been passed without their approbation and ratification or signatures.

Thus done and approved in session at Fort Amsterdam this 7th day of February, A.D. 1650. Was undersigned P. Stuyvesant, L. Van Duicklagen, H. Van Dyck, Fiscal, L. Montagne.

The Director-General and the Councillors have granted the request of the bakers, and they have the privilege, for the accommodation of the community, of baking white bread (but no cakes nor crackrels), provided that they shall bake the white bread so as to conform in weight with the order of the Fatherland. Furthermore, the bakers are charged and interdicted that they shall bake the common bread of naught else than of pure wheat and rye flour as it comes from the mill, so that the community may be protected against complaints concerning the poverty and leanness of the common bread.

Dated in session at Fort Amsterdam this 14th day of April, A.D. 1650.

The Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, to all persons who may see these presents, or hear them read, send greeting :

Whereas, with great concern we have observed, both now and for a long time since, the depreciation and the corruption of the loose seawant, among which there are current many that are not perforated and half finished, and also made out of stone, bone, glass, muscle-shells, horns, and even out of wood, and broken ones, whereby occasion is given for repeated complaints from the inhabitants that they cannot go with such seawant to the market, nor yet procure for themselves any commodity, not even a mean white loaf of bread, or a can of beer, at the merchants', the bakers', or the tapsters', for the loose seawant: Wherein, according to our best ability, desirous of making provision in this emergency, we have resolved and determined, for the furtherance of business and the general good, that from this time forth no loose seawant shall be current, nor be a lawful tender, except that the same shall be strung on one string, as the general custom has been heretofore, for the purpose of preventing the introduction and circulation of all clumsy and unperforated seawant, and for the purpose of making a difference betwixt the commercial seawant and the strung seawant; and in order to prevent all misunderstanding for the time to come, the Director-General and Councillors aforesaid do hereby ordain that the commercial seawant shall be current, and be a lawful tender, as formerly, to wit: Six white or three black seawants for one stuyver; on the other hand the base strung seawant shall pass eight white or four black for one stuyver. We ordain by these presents, and charge all persons to regulate themselves according to the tenor of these presents, and in case of refusal to abandon their trade and business. And the Fiscal is ordered by these presents, after the publication of the same, to affix these and to publish them everywhere it may be necessary, and to make use of every means to have the same acted upon and executed. Thus done, resumed, and approved in our session at Fort Amsterdam, this 30th day of May, A.D. 1650, in New Netherland.

Their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland to all persons who may hear, see, or read these presents, send greeting:

Whereas, experience has shown that this fortress, formerly in tolerable state, has been in a great degree trodden down by the hogs and goats and the sheep; And in conformity with the order of their High Mightinesses the Gentlemen Directors, our Lords, our Majores and Patroons, men are now employed in repairing and restoring the same, and it is to be apprehended that as before, it may again become damaged and trodden down by the goats, the sheep, the hogs, or some other cattle:

Therefore, their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors, by these presents, do warn all and every one of the inhabitants of this place, that in conformity with our former proclamations they shall not suffer to run at large without a herdsman or driver, except within their own inclosures, any hogs, sheep, goats, horses, or kine, between this place and the Honorable the Company's farm, to the end of their High Mightinesses' pasture-ground, at present occupied by Thomas Hall, nor between the house of Mr. Isaac Allerton, in the penalty of six guilders for the first offense, for every horse, kine, hog, or sheep that may be found within the aforesaid limits; for the second time, double fine; and for the third time, the whole to be confiscated, to be appropriated at pleasure.

Thus done, approved, and published at New Amsterdam, in New Netherland, this 27th day of June, A.D. 1650.

The Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, to all persons who shall hear, see, or read these presents, send greeting :

Whereas, by the daily complaints of the inhabitants, we are informed that our foregoing order and proclamations, concerning the base strung seawant, issued for the accommodation and pacification of the inhabitants, under the date of the 30th of May, 1650, are not observed and executed according to our good intention and meaning, but that on the contrary such payment has been refused and rejected, even for trifling articles, by shop keepers, brewers, bakers, tapsters, mechanics, and day laborers, to the great confusion and discommoding of the inhabitants in general, there being at present no other specie with which the inhabitants can accommodate one another in the article of their small daily commerce :

Therefore, once more, for the accommodation and pacification of the inhabitants, being desirous of doing whatever is practicable, the Director and the Councillors by these presents do ordain and decree, that in conformity with former proclamations, the base strung seawant shall be current, and shall be received by every one without any distinction or exception, in payment for small and daily necessary commodities in house-keeping. And that on the other hand, the sum of twelve guilders and under shall be paid all in base strung seawant; from twelve to twenty-four guilders half and half, that is to say, half base and half good strung seawant; from twenty-five guilders to fifty guilders, one-third base strung and two-thirds good strung seawant; and in larger sums agreeably to the agreement between the buyer and seller; in the penalty of six guilders for the first time's refusal, and resisting of these presents; for the second time, nine guilders; and for the third time, two pounds Flemish, and a prohibition from his handicraft and business, in conformity with our former proclamations.

Thus done and approved in our session of the Director-General and the Councillors, New Amsterdam in New Netherland, this 14th day of September, A.D. 1650.

The Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland to all persons who shall hear, see, or read these presents, greeting :

Whereas, experience has shown and taught us that on New Year's days, and on May days, from the firing of guns and planting May-poles, and drunken drinking, there have resulted unnecessary waste of powder, much drunkenness, and other insolent practices, together with other lamentable accidents and bruises that generally arise therefrom :

Therefore, in order to prevent which, by the Director-General and the Councillors it is hereby expressly forbidden, That from this time forth, within the province of New Netherlands, on the New Year and May days there shall be no firing, nor May-poles planted; nor shall there be any beating of the drum, nor shall there be on the occasion any wines, brandy-wines, or beers dealt out. And in order to prevent all such injuries, there shall be a fine of twenty guilders for the first offense, twenty-four guilders for the second offense, and arbitrary correction for the third offense; the one-third for the officer, one-third for the poor, and the remaining third for the prosecutor. We do, by these presents, command all the subaltern courts in this province to proclaim these presents in all their public places, and to affix them there, and promptly to execute them.

Done in the Fort Amsterdam in New Netherland, this last day of December, A.D. 1655. Signed by orders. Their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland.

C. V. RUYVEN, Secretary.

Whereas, painful experience has, from time to time, taught us concerning the separated habitations at the outside end (plainly against the order and benevolent intention of the Honorable the Company and their Chief-Magistracy, the Councillors) of the even land, in several hovels and places, there are perpetrated many and various murders, killing of persons and destruction of cattle, and the burning of houses, both now and formerly committed by the Indians or natives of this land, all of which might have been prevented, through the help of God, if the good inhabitants of this province, in their form of towns, neighborhoods, and hamlets, had settled down close to one another, after the manner of our near neighbors of New England, who, in consequence of their combination, and living close to one another, have never been exposed to as manifold and general catastrophes as we have, together with our countrymen; to be ascribed, in the first, to the righteous correction of God for our sins, and then to the Indians, tempted thereto by the separated residences of the outside people, so that it is not practicable for them, from time to time, to come to the help of one another, on account of the distance of their residences. It is impossible for the Director-General and the Councillors to provide each separate outside habitation with a safeguard. Therefore, concerning the foregoing calamities, murders, damages, and the destruction of different persons, farms and plantations, and also the last, the notorious damage and drawback upon this country, and the good inhabitants themselves, it is hereby decreed: And since what has already happened is to be apprehended and expected again, that as the good inhabitants, by their own experience, and that of one another, they may become wiser and more cautious, and conduct themselves agreeably to good order, as they are bound to do, by making close settlements in suitable places, in the form and manner as by the Director-General and the Councillors, or by their appointed agents, shall be pointed out to the inhabitants, until their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors shall be endued with power from God and their High Mightinesses, better to support and protect their subjects. That this may be better practised and executed for the time to come: Therefore, the Director-General and the Councillors do, by these presents, not only give warning to their good subjects, but they do also ordain and command them to settle close to one another, in the form of villages, neighborhoods, and hamlets, by the ensuing spring, so that they may be better protected, supported, and defended against all assaults and rencounters from the savages, both by themselves and the trusty military force of the Director-General and the Councillors. At the same time, warning all the persons who, contrary to these presents, shall, from this time forth, remain on their separated plantations, shall do it at their own risk, without the Director-General and the Councillors coming to their relief; and, in addition thereto, they shall be mulcted, yearly, in the penalty of twenty-five guilders, for the public benefit. The Director-General and the Councillors do furthermore order, for the purpose of preventing all sudden fires, that, from this time forth, no houses shall be covered with straw or flags, nor any chimneys be built of clapboards or wood. Thus done, resolved, resumed and approved, in the Fort Amsterdam, in New Netherland, this 18th day of January, 1656.

The Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, to all persons who shall hear, see, or read these presents, Greeting—Know ye:

Whereas, every day there have been complaints of various kinds referred to them, which are confirmed by experience, both now and formerly, that under the notion and name of the Indians, horned cattle, hogs and other animals on the plains, have been seized, slaughtered and offered for sale by Christians, or at least those who go under the name of Christians; to prevent which, as far as it is practicable, we do, by these presents, peremptorily interdict and forbid, that, from this time forth, neither in this city, nor in any other towns, villages, nor hamlets, nor in the plains belonging to this province, shall any cattle, calves, hogs, goats or sheep be permitted to be slaughtered, not even by the owner himself, unless the owner first, on the same day he intends to slaughter, shall have given in such creature as his own, whether it be kine, hog, goat or sheep, to the magistrate of the respective place to which he belongs, or to such person whom the magistrate shall have appointed in his respective place, for that purpose, and from him have obtained a slaughter certificate. The owner shall be obligated, for the benefit of the public, to pay to the magistrate, or to the existing receiver appointed for that purpose, from one stuyver to a guilder for every creature his own—kine, hog, goat or sheep—according to the established value of the same, in case of any dispute by the magistrate, in his jurisdiction, or by his substitute, which money, in each city, town or hamlet shall be preserved for a time of need, to the support and protection of the common cause and town, to be used and expended, to wit: for soldiers or corps, necessary ammunition, as the occasion shall demand.

The fines for the violation of these presents, shall be appropriated and applied as follows, to wit: one-third to the prosecutor, one-third to the officer, and one-third for the benefit of the common cause, as aforesaid.

Thus done in the Fort of Amsterdam, in New Netherland, this 18th day of January, 1656. Was undersigned P. Stuyvesant, under the ordinances of their High Mightinesses, the Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, and attested by

C. V. RUYVEN, Secretary.

Whereas, the Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, have been credibly informed and advised, that not only here and within this province, there have been held Conventicles and Assemblies, but also, that certain unqualified persons in such assemblies have presumed to exercise the profession and preaching of God's Holy Word, without their having been thereunto called or appointed by ecclesiastical or temporal authority, which is directly contrary to, and militating against the established political and ecclesiastical order of our Fatherland: Since, by this kind of assemblies, many mischiefs, heresies, and schisms are propagated: To prevent which, the Director-General and the Councillors aforesaid, do, by these presents, absolutely and peremptorily forbid all such public or private conventicles or assemblies as are without the wonted (and not only allowed by God's Word) Reformed and appointed Assembly of the Reformed religion, in conformity with the Synod of Dort, here in this land, in our Fatherland, and in other Reformed Churches, observed and followed, in the penalty of One Hundred Pounds Flemish, to be incurred by all those persons as, in such public or private assemblies, without the wonted and authorized assembly, whether on the Sunday, or any other day, being unauthorized, shall presume to exercise the profession of preaching, prelection, or singing; and Twenty-five Pounds, alike Flemish, to be incurred over and above by every male and female, married or single, that may be found in such Assembly: Without the Director-General and the Councillors intending hereby any prejudice to any patent heretofore given by them, any lording over the conscience, or prohibiting the reading of God's Holy Word, the domestic praying and worship of each one in his family; but all public and private conventicles and assemblies, whether in public or private houses, without the aforesaid wonted and established Reformed Divine Worship. And that this may be hereafter better observed and executed, and that no one may plead ignorance thereof, the Director-General and the Councillors do hereby order their Fiscal, together with the subaltern magistrates and Schouts, to proclaim these presents, and to cause them to be proclaimed everywhere; and against the transgressors of these presents, to cause the penalties to be inflicted. The more so, because by such conduct we promote the honor of God, advance the Reformed religion, the tranquillity of our common country, and also its union and prosperity, as it behooves us.

Thus done, resolved and approved in the Fort of Amsterdam, in New Netherland, this 1st day of January, A.D. 1656. This order of their High Mightinesses, the Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, was undersigned by P. Stuyvesant.

Attest, C. V. RUYVEN, Secretary.

The Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, with the advice of the Burgomasters and their High Constable, by these presents do make known and they do give warning, that from this time forth no person shall be permitted, between this and the Fresh Water, to harbor at night any Indian, in the penalty of twenty-five Guilders for each offender, who, without permission from the Director-General or Secretary signed, shall have harbored any Indian in the night.

Thus done, in the Fort Amsterdam, in New Netherland, this 29th day of May, A.D. 1656. This order of their High Mightinesses, the Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, was signed by P. Stuyvesant.

C. V. RUYVEN, Secretary.

The Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, by these presents, do make known to all, that information has been given them by certain Indians, that two, three, or four Indians from Tappan's were harboring some evil design, and had given them to understand that they intended to murder some particular Christians on the flats.

And whereas, the Director-General and the Councillors have not been able to ascertain towards what place, or against whom, their aim is, much less whether this should be the general design of the nation, and particularly since it is of the Tappan nation and other Indians the warning has been given, the Director-General and the Councillors can neither ordain nor apply a remedy any other way than by these presents to revive their former orders and proclamations, to wit: That those persons who are living without, in separate habitations, shall withdraw into the nearest village or hamlet, and to make a combination, in the penalty heretofore established in the premises. In the mean time that they warn each other to be on their guard, and not to frequent the woods or the road, without being armed, and always in company of at least two, three, or four, so as to be able to resist these bush-men. And further to prevent such separate murders and homicides, the Director-General and the Councillors, with the advice of the Burgomasters of this city, cannot now, as they could not formerly, devise any other or better expedient than what has already been repeated, and to interdict and forbid that no Indian, with a gun or any other weapon, shall be admitted into any fortified place, nor into the flat lands, nor into any village or hamlet, nor into any house, in the penalty of forfeiting such weapon, which weapon, on the complaint of the inhabitants, may and shall be taken away by the Schouts, marshals, or in their absence, by any one of the magistrates, to wit, eleven days after the proclamation and affixture of these presents, or after the Indians shall have received the knowledge of this order and warning. And the Director-General and the Councillors do, by these presents, command their subjects to give the Indians the knowledge of these presents, in the Indian tongue, in the most civil and most acceptable manner, as it is the advice of the Director-General and the Councillors and of the Burgomasters aforesaid, with the intent and design of preventing all injury between the Christians and the Indians. Thus done, in the session of their High Mightinesses the Director-General and the Councillors, in the Fort Amsterdam, in New Netherland, this 1st day of July, 1656. Was signed P. Stuyvesant, and attest

C. V. RUYVEN, Secretary.

The Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, to all persons who shall see these presents or hear them read, greeting :

Whereas, now and then the people from without are in the habit of bringing into this city different commodities, such as veal, pork, butter, cheese, turnips, roots, straw, and other products of the land, for the purpose of selling them ; and it frequently happens, particularly here at the Strand, that they are obliged to tarry long, and to lodge to their great damage, for the reason, because the community, or at least the greater part, especially of those who live away from the Strand, are not aware that such commodities have been brought for sale, not alone to the discommoding of the buyers, but also to the notorious injury of the enterprising man from without, who frequently has to lose more in his time than the profit on his commodities will warrant : Therefore, for the purpose of making provision in the premises, the Director-General and the Councillors aforesaid, by these presents do ordain, that from this time forth, here in this city, Saturday shall be the market day, and market shall be held at the Strand, at or around the house of Mr. Hans Kierstede, where, after him, every one shall be permitted to enter that has any thing to buy or to sell. Thus done in the session of their High Mightinesses, the Director-General and the Councillors, held in the Fort Amsterdam, in New Netherland, this 12th day of September, A.D. 1656. Signed by the Director-General and Councillors of New Netherland.

Attest,

C. V. RUYVEN, Secretary.

The Director-General and Councillors of New Netherland, to all persons who shall hear or read these presents, greeting :

Be it known, that by daily and painful experience, they have learned that the orders and proclamations repeatedly issued and repeatedly revived, against the profanation of the Lord's day of rest, the unlawful tapping on that day, in the night, after the placing of the watch or the ringing of the bell, against the dangerous, yes damnable sale, or dealing out of wine, beers, and brandy-waters; against baking and selling of both the coarse and the small white loaves of bread, are not regarded, observed, maintained, nor yet executed according to the benevolent intention of the Director-General and the Councillors, and as necessity imperatively demands, to the dishonoring of God, to the manifest injury and disturbance of the peace and tranquillity of the inhabitants, and also to the great contempt of the authority of the higher and subaltern magistrates of this province: Therefore, the Director-General and the Councillors aforesaid, being desirous to make all necessary provision for said offices and duties, do hereby resolve, revive and amplify the aforesaid issued ordinances and proclamations, interdicting and forbidding:

In the first place: That on the Lord's day of rest, usually called Sunday, no person shall be allowed to do the ordinary and customary labors of his calling, such as sowing, mowing, building, sawing wood, smithing, bleaching, hunting, fishing, or any works allowable on other days, in the penalty of One Pound Flemish for each person so offending; much less any idle or unallowed exercises and sports, such as drinking to excess, frequenting inns or tap-houses, dancing, card-playing, tick-tacking, playing at ball, playing at bowls, playing at nine-pins, nor taking jaunts in boats, wagons or carriages, before, between or during divine service, in the penalty of a double fine (Two Pounds Flemish); and particularly, no innkeeper nor tapster shall be allowed before, nor between, nor during divine service, to follow his customary business, nor undertake to tap, hand out, give or sell any brandywines, beers, or ardent spirits, directly or indirectly, in the penalty of Six Guilders, to be forfeited by every innkeeper or tapster, for each person; and every one of such persons as shall be found drinking at the aforesaid times, shall forfeit also Three Guilders. No innkeepers or tapsters shall be allowed on Sunday, or any other day, to follow his business, nor continue tapping, selling, or handing out any wines, beers, brandywines, or liquors, to any person, after the setting of the watch or the ringing of the bell, in the same penalties; domestic barley laws and public matters authorized by the consent and by the order of the magistrates, alone excepted.

In the second place: Respecting the very dangerous, injurious, and damnable selling, giving out, and dealing out of wines, beers, or ardent spirits to the Indians or natives of this land, whereby almost all the calamities occur, at least are threatened and encouraged, whenever the Indians become intoxicated; the Director-General and Councillors do revive and amplify their former-issued proclamations, and by these presents they do interdict and command, that no person, whatever his rank and profession may be, shall be allowed to sell, exchange, or deal out to any Indians, any wines, brandywines, or strong liquors; nor hand them, nor fetch them, nor cause them to be fetched within or about the house, on the land or on the water, whether in sloops, barks, boats or canoes, or carriages or wagons of whatever name, directly or indirectly, in the penalty of Five Hundred Guilders; and in addition thereto, to arbitrary corporal punishment, and also banishment out of the country. That these things (for the greater increase and maintenance of the public tranquillity and peace of the good inhabitants of this province with the barks) may be better detected, all the high and lower officers, the voluntary or impressed servants of the Company, and the inhabitants of this province, in behalf of their duty and obligations, are admonished, required, and commanded to assist in preventing, detecting, and prosecuting this dangerous and damnable selling out of wines, beers or brandywaters; or in case of their failing in these, to pay one-half of the pecuniary fine, in case it shall be found, after this, that they have had the knowledge of such selling or dealing out of wines, beers, or strong liquors, to any Indians, without giving information of the same.

Furthermore: The Director-General and the Councillors, having been credibly informed and advised, concerning the huckstering and retailing of wines, beers, and spirituous liquors, at and along the river, out of the ascending and descending sloops, boats, barks, vessels and canoes, do not only interdict and forbid by those presents, all such huckstering and retailing, but they do ordain, enact, and command, that no shippers, nor any persons propelling barks, canoes, or boats, nor any other free or slave inhabitants, of whatever name, rank, or vocation they may be, from this time forth, shall be permitted, whether from himself or any other person, in any sloop, boat, canoe, or any other vessel, to embark, lade or take any wines, beers, or ardent spirits, in greater or smaller vessels, or even in cans, jugs, or flask cases, without having given in the same as to the just quantity to the officer of the place, where the wines, beers, and spirituous liquors, in wholesale or retail, shall be embarked, shipped, or laded, and shall have procured from the said officer, a bill or certificate, for delivery, wherein shall be contained the quantity and the quality of the casks, and the other vessels; stating for whom the wines, beers, or the spirituous liquors have been shipped, and to whom they have been consigned, and bringing back a suitable bill or certificate of delivery to the particular persons, from the officer of the place where the same shall have been delivered, and from the receiver himself, signed by them; and all this in the penalty of forfeiting the smuggled wines, beer, or spirituous liquors, and the fine of Five Hundred Guilders for the first time; for the second, the forfeiture of the barque, yacht, boat, or canoe, in addition to the above penalty.

Thirdly: Concerning the baking and the selling of the coarse and the white bread, both, neither at the proper weight, nor yet the established price. The Director-General and the Councillors aforesaid, by these presents, reviving and amplifying their former-issued orders on that, do or-dain and command, that all bakers, and all others, inhabitants, who make it their business to bake or sell bread, whether to Christians or barbarians, shall be obligated (for the accommodation of Christians, as well as for the sake of the profit, and to the same for the Indians), at least once or twice a week to bake both coarse and white loaves of bread, both for Christians and Indians, at the established weight and price, as follows :

The coarse loaf shall weigh :

One double loaf, 8lb.	Price in money, 14 stuyvers each.
One single " 4lb.	" " 7 " "
One half " 2lb.	" " 3½ " "

The white loaf shall weigh :

The double loaf, 2lb.	Price in money, 8 stuyvers each.
The single " 1lb.	" " 4 " "
The half " ½lb.	" " 2 " "

The bread that is lighter, or without the knowledge, order, or consent of the Subaltern Court, lighter in weight, or too dear in price, shall be forfeited, and in addition thereto, there shall be a penalty of Twenty-five Guilders for the first offense ; double that penalty for the second offense ; and for the third offense, Six Hundred Guilders, together with the absolute prohibition from that business.

Furthermore : No bakers, nor any one that follows the business of making coarse or white bread, either to Christians or Indians, shall be permitted to sell any bread, made of sifted bran, whether wholesale or retail, but the bakers of coarse bread may make their coarse bread of the ground grain, as it comes from the mill ; nor shall they make any other sort of bread, whether for Christians or Indians, than as before specified in the penalty as aforesaid ; the choice thereof, resting in the judicature of the respective Courts, each in its own jurisdiction, and such persons who, on account of their better knowledge of bread, shall be pleased to undertake it.

In the fourth place : The Director-General and the Councillors having been further informed and having well considered that as in the subject of tapping, so also in baking, there are practised many frauds ; and consequently there are attempts to cover the same under the pretense of custom, because, up to this time, there has not been any company, or certain number of them acknowledged :

Therefore, for the purpose of preventing these, as far as it is practicable, the Director-General and Councillors do ordain and command, that from this time forth, no person shall follow the business of baking or tapping without first having made application to those of the magistrates in the respective jurisdictions, and having procured from the same, or their authorized agents, a license for that business ; which license shall be renewed by the innkeepers, and the bakers, quarterly ; commencing from the first day of November next ensuing, and every time paying therefor to the behoof of the respective courts, One Pound Flemish, in the penalty of suspension from their business, by notorious and willful neglect.

The foregoing specified fines and penalties to be appropriated, one-third to the officer who shall bring the prosecution, one-third for the church or the poor, and the remaining one-third for the benefit of the public. And that the same may be the better known, practised, and executed; and that no person for the time to come, may pretend ignorance, the Director-General and the Councillors do, by these presents, ordain and command, that in the usual places of publication, these presents shall be published, affixed, and after the publication thereof, shall be observed and executed, without any favor, grace, or reserve, or respect of persons, since we have deemed this necessary to the good of the country in general, and particularly to the welfare of the inhabitants.

Thus done, revived, and amplified, on the session of the Director-General and the Councillors of New Netherland, at Fort Amsterdam, this 26th day of October, 1656. Signed by P. Stuyvesant.

Attest,

C. V. RUYVEN, Secretary.

THE GREAT FIRES OF NEW YORK.

NEW YORK has at various times been visited with disastrous conflagrations, which have destroyed vast amounts of valuable property. In the present article, it is proposed to give a brief account of some of the most destructive of these conflagrations. And the first which we shall mention, is

THE GREAT FIRE OF 1776.

This fire broke out on the 21st of September, 1776, soon after the British had captured the city. Its origin was in a small wooden house on the wharf near Whitehall slip, then occupied by women of ill fame. It began late at night, and at a time when but few of the inhabitants were left in the city, by reason of the presence of the enemy. The raging element is described as terrific and sublime. It burned up Broadway on both sides, until it was arrested on the east side by Mr. Harrison's brick house. But on the west side it destroyed all the buildings as far up as St. Paul's Church. The wind having changed to the south-east, the fire continued its progress towards the North river until it ran out at the water's edge in the vicinity of the present Washington Market. Trinity Church, though standing alone, was fired by the flakes which fell on its roof, which was so steep that no one could stand on it to extinguish the falling embers. But St. Paul's Church, though equally exposed, was saved by allowing citizens to stand on its flatter roof, and wet it as occasion required.

In this great conflagration, four hundred and ninety-three houses were consumed. The origin of the fire was attributed by the British to incendiarism on the part of the "rebels." General Howe, the British commander, in writing to his government concerning it, says, that matches and combustibles had been prepared with great art, and applied by incendiaries in several places. Many, he says, were detected, and some killed on the spot by the soldiers. However this suspicion may or may not be warranted by facts, it is certain that it was previously considered advisable by the American generals. General Washington, in two letters to Congress, of the 3d and 8th of September, 1776, hints as much; and it is certain, that the event was the subject of rejoicing among American patriots.

The burnt district was for some time after occupied by temporary edifices made of the surrounding rubbish and covered with canvas, and thence obtained the name of Canvas Town. Very lewd and dissolute persons were generally the tenants of these edifices, and gave them their notoriety and fame.

THE GREAT FIRE OF 1778.

This fire broke out on the 7th of August, 1778, on Cruger's wharf, and consumed about fifty houses. On this occasion, the military took the exclusive management, not suffering the citizen firemen to control the manner of its extinguishment. It was afterwards ordered by the commander-in-chief that the military should help, but not order, at the suppression of fires.

THE GREAT FIRE OF 1804.

On the night of the 18th December, 1804, about two o'clock, an alarming fire broke out in a grocery store, in Front street, which, being aided by a high wind and cold air, together with the tardy assembling of the citizens and the engines, progressed with unexampled rapidity, until it destroyed many valuable stores and dwellings, with their contents. The whole block, from the west side of Coffee-house slip, in Water street, to the next door to Gouverneur's lane, and including all the buildings in Front street, to the water, was swept away on that side of the slip; and the fire crossed Wall street, and destroyed the buildings on the east side of the slip. Among the buildings destroyed were the old Coffee-house, and several brick stores; but most of the buildings were of wood, and their destruction caused the immediate erection of new and fire-proof edifices of brick. The whole number of stores and dwelling-houses consumed was about forty, viz.: in Wall street, fifteen; Front street, seventeen; Water street, eight. The value of property destroyed was between one and two millions of dollars. The fire was supposed, at the time, to be the work of eleven combined incendiaries, from anonymous letters sent to a merchant, previous to the event. A reward of five hundred dollars was offered by the Mayor for their discovery and apprehension.

THE GREAT FIRE OF 1811.

A great fire broke out in Chatham street, near the northwest corner of Duane street, at about nine o'clock on Sunday morning, May 19, 1811, and raged with great fury for several hours before a brisk wind from the northeast, and, for a time, seemed to baffle all the exertions of the firemen and citizens, sweeping away the buildings on both sides of the street, until between eighty and a hundred buildings were consumed. The steeple of the old Brick Church and the cupola of the jail caught fire, but by the intrepidity of a sailor, and a prisoner on the limits, the fire was extinguished, and the buildings saved. They were liberally rewarded by the Corporation and the trustees of the church.

THE GREAT FIRE OF 1835.

The night of Wednesday, December 16th, 1835, will long be remembered in the annals of the city as the time when a conflagration occurred, which, from the vast amount of property destroyed, is well entitled to be denominated The Great Fire of New York.

The fire broke out in the premises of Messrs. Comstock & Andrews, No. 25 Merchant street, and in a short time raged with such intensity as to defy the exertions of the firemen and others who hastened to the spot for the purpose of staying its ravages. The night was intensely cold; the thermometer being at or below zero, and a fierce wind prevailed. This, it may easily be supposed, greatly paralyzed the exertions of the firemen. The supply of water, too, was, as yet, scanty; and what there was could, owing to the cold, be used only with great difficulty. The inutility of all aid was soon perceptible; and all that could be done was to remove what could in haste be got together, to such places as were deemed beyond the reach of the devouring element. With this impression, an immense quantity of goods was placed for safety in the Merchants' Exchange and the Reformed Dutch Church, where, it was presumed, they would be free from danger; but, in a short time, these splendid buildings, with their contents, were reduced to a heap of ashes. The power of man was fruitlessly employed in attempts to stay the progress of the flames, which every moment increased in the most alarming manner, spreading in all directions, and causing the utmost dismay and consternation throughout the city.

The fire was finally checked by blowing up several buildings. A detachment of marines, under Lieut. Reynolds, and of sailors, under Capt. Mix of the navy, arrived with a quantity of gunpowder, at about two o'clock in the morning, and rendered efficient service.

The morning of the 17th of December, 1835, opened upon New York with a scene of devastation around sufficient to dismay the stoutest heart. The fine range of buildings and splendid stores in Exchange place, Merchant street, and all the adjoining streets down to the river, lay literally levelled to the earth with their contents consumed—the Merchants' Exchange and Post Office entirely destroyed—the whole one heap of smoking ruins.

A tolerably correct idea of the extent of the devastation may be formed from the following account, which appeared the next morning in the Courier and Enquirer :

“South street is burned down from Wall street to Coenties Slip. Front street is burned down from Wall street to Coenties slip. Pearl street is burned down from Wall street to Coenties alley, and was there stopped by blowing up a building. Stone street is burned down from William street to No. 32 on the one side, and No. 39 on the other. Beaver street is burned down half-way to Broad street. Exchange place is burned down from Hanover street to within three doors of Broad street; here the flames were stopped by blowing up a house. William street is burned down from Wall street to South street, both sides of the way. Market House down. Wall street is burned down, on the south side, from William street to South street, with the exception of Nos. 51, 53, 55, 57, 59, and 61, opposite this office. All the streets and alleys within the above limits are destroyed. The following will be found a tolerably accurate statement of the number of houses and stores now levelled with the ground :

26 on Wall street,	79 on Pearl street,
37 on South “	76 on Water “
80 on Front “	16 on Hanover street,
62 on Exchange place,	31 on Exchange “
44 on William street,	33 on Old slip,
16 on Coenties slip,	40 on Stone street,
3 on Hanover square,	23 on Beaver street,
20 on Gouverneur's lane,	10 on Jones lane,
20 on Cuyler's alley,	38 on Mill street.

Total—674.

“ Six hundred and seventy-four tenements. By far the greater part in the occupancy of our largest shipping and wholesale dry-goods merchants, and filled with the richest products of every portion of the globe.”

Other accounts state the number of buildings destroyed to be five hundred and twenty-eight, and the total loss at $17,000,000; being four millions for the value of the buildings and thirteen millions for the value of the goods.

The anecdotes and incidents of the fire are numerous. Such was the violence of the gale, during the prevalence of the fire, that burning embers were carried across the East river to Brooklyn, and set fire to the roof of a house there, which, however, was speedily extinguished. Great prices were offered and given for help in removing goods. One merchant is said to have purchased a horse and cart on the spot for five hundred dollars, with which he succeeded in saving his stock. The grandest and most imposing views of the fire were seen from Brooklyn, Weehawken, and Staten Island. From thence the whole city seemed in an awful sheet of flame, and the sky above inflamed in reflected terror. At one time, turpentine which took fire on the wharf, ran down, all on fire, into the water, and floated off, making a blazing sea of many hundred yards square. The illumination from the fire was said to have been observed at places a hundred miles distant from the city.

THE GREAT FIRE OF 1845.

This, the last great fire which we shall mention, is of such recent date, and so fresh in the recollection of our citizens, as to require but a brief description here. It broke out on the 19th of July, 1845, and destroyed three hundred and forty-five buildings; the value of the buildings and goods destroyed being estimated at about $5,000,000. The portion of the city destroyed was in Broadway, Exchange place, Beaver, Marketfield, Mill, Stone, Whitehall, New, and Broad streets.

Exchange place and Beaver street were completely destroyed on both sides from Broadway to near William street; thus consuming, again, a part of the district burnt over in 1835. Broad street, on both sides, from above Exchange place to Stone street, was completely consumed, as was also the east side of Broadway and Whitehall street, from above Exchange place to near Pearl street. The fire also crossed Broadway, and consumed a number of buildings on the west side. During the progress of the fire, a violent explosion took place in a building in which it was maintained by the owners, there was nothing stored that could possibly explode except a quantity of saltpetre. Hence arose the question, can saltpetre explode? which was for a long time a subject of debate among scientific men.

Among the incidents of the fire, was the destruction of an old bell which hung in the cupola of the old jail during the Revolution. When the jail was remodelled into the present Hall of Records, the bell was taken down and placed on the Bridewell, as a fire-alarm bell. Among our old firemen, it was cherished as an old friend, and during the chieftainship of John Lamb and Tommy Franklin, it was the principal means of giving notice of a fire, on which occasion the citizens might be seen hastening to the fire, each with his fire-bucket on his arm, and then forming in two lines, one to hand along the full buckets and the other to pass them back again to be refilled, and by this means keep the engines supplied. On the destruction of the Bridewell, the old bell was placed in a cupola on the house of Naiad Hose Company, in Beaver street, still devoted to its ancient uses. But the fire of 1845 swept away the building, and the bell and faithful old sentinel sounded its last alarm, and then yielded to the enemy against which it had so long and so successfully warred.

We conclude our sketch of the great fires of New York, with the hopes that with our efficient Fire Department and the beautiful supply of our much-prized Croton, our city may be spared, for the future, from any conflagration as disastrous as those we have enumerated.

TRANSLATION OF AN ORIGINAL CERTIFICATE OF CHARACTER, IN
MAN VAN WAGENEN, SOUTH BERGEN, N. J.

WE, Burgomasters, Schepens, and Councillors of the city of Wagennin, declare, by these presents, that there appeared before us, Hendrick Elissen and Jordis Speiers, citizens of this city, at the request of Gerrit Gerritsen and Anna Hermansse his wife. They have testified and certified, as they do by these presents, that they have good knowledge of the above-named Gerrit Gerritsen, and Anna Hermansse his wife, as to their life and conversation, and that they have always been considered and esteemed as pious and honest people, and that no complaint of any evil or disorderly conduct has ever reached their ears; on the contrary, they have always led quiet, pious, and honest lives, as it becomes pious and honest persons. They especially testify that they govern their family well, and bring up their children in the fear of God, and in all modesty and respectability. As the above-named persons have resolved to remove and proceed to New Netherlands in order to find a greater convenience, they give this attestation, grounded on their knowledge of them, having known them intimately, and having been in continual intercourse with them for many years, living in the same neighborhood.

In testimony of the truth, we, the Burgomasters of the city, have caused the secret seal of the city to be imprinted on this paper.

Done at Wagennin, 27th November, 1660.

By the ordinance of the same.
